SAVE LIVES OF BABES

LONDON—(CP)—Only one baby now dies during the hot summer months for every seven or eight at the end of last century, the health ministry reports. The all-year death-rate of infants has dropped from 156 per 1,000 to 58, in 36 years.

RESCUERS RESCUED

MANCHESTER — (CP). — Four London Girl Guides, displaying great courage when they attempted to rescue two girls caught by tides on high cliffs were also marooned. Coastguards got them all down.

Because its municipal housing project earned a surplus of nearly $125,000 in the last year, Sheffield, England, will allow the 1,800 tenants two weeks rent free.

ALEX L. ELLIOTT NAMED CANDIDATE

never in the bag until it is won. I wish to express my appreciation particularly to those who have driven long distances. From now until October 6th you will be seeing me frequently. I intend to take my coat off and from your enthusiasm I feel sure that you are all with me. The fight is on and the work commences today."

Government Generous

In declining to be a candidate James Hawthorne said that everyone who voted for the Hepburn administration three years ago was proud of its record of things done. "Although this county was not represented in the government we have been very generously dealt with. That is something we should all remember by showing our appreciation of what the government has done in this riding when the time comes to vote."

T. J. Carley said he was strongly tempted to let his name go to the convention when he looked over the big crowd, especially the large number of ladies. He promised to do all in his power to assist in the election of the candidate.

Hon. G. N. Gordon

"I think we have a candidate who is capable of winning with a large majority," Hon. G. N. Gordon declared in referring to "my former law partner."

"I don't think Earl Rowe is going to get to first base with his promises and withdrawals and retractions and his course of conduct in regard to the C.I.O. The Hepburn government has shown itself to be on the side of the people both in the city and country. In the years 1933-34 and '35, the Henry government took from the farmers of this county $23,468 in old age pensions, $31,467 for mothers' allowances and $57,932 for provincial highways. When Mr. Hepburn took over the administration of the province he assumed all these costs and thereby saved the farmers of the county 2½ mills on the dollar."

The government's refund to the municipalities amounting to one mill in the local taxes amounted in Peterborough to $21,439.

"I urge your support of the Hepburn government because it has been a business government. The Henry government failed to collect millions of dollars in succession duties from the estates of wealthy people. You know how Premier Hepburn has been making them pay the millions to which the province and the people were entitled. With your loyal support I feel sure that the candidate you nominate today will be the member of the Legislature on October 6, representing this city and county."

Warden Roy Brown

Warden Brown followed Mr. Gordon in declining to seek the convention's honors. He asserted that every farmer realized what Premier Hepburn had done in the amount of taxes that had been lifted from their shoulders. From 1921 to 1927 Peterborough county had paid $193,382 in mothers allowances, and payments for old age pensions from 1929 to 1937 amounted to $63,388. The Hepburn government had taken over and absorbed these costs of social services. The average levy on the county for provincial highways for five years under the Henry government, and not including the year 1934 when extra expenditure was incurred prior to the provincial elections, was $32,911.66 a year. Mr. Hepburn had promised to relieve the counties of the annual highway bill, and he had carried out his promise. The farmers of Peterborough, and also the city people were not called upon to pay one dollar toward provincial highways under the present government. With the refund of the equivalent of one mill in the taxes this year all this help the government had given the people amounted to a total of six mills in the tax rate of Peterborough county.

Mr. Elliott's Address

In his address prior to the balloting Mr. Elliott said he had decided recently to let his name stand as a nominee for the candidature of the convention because of the many people who had urged him, and especially when he had definitely learned that James Hawthorne would not stand for renomination.

"I also discussed the matter with other prominent Liberals, some of whom have been proposed here today. I am not anxious for the position. I appreciate the undertaking because it means sacrifice and responsibility. However, if I am elected I promise to employ myself in the interest of all classes of the people in all parts of the riding, and also to make a close study of the problems of Ontario in order that I may be able to help our leader."

Mr. Elliott said Premier Hepburn had shown himself to be a man of action. He had fought against the Hydro contracts which had been entered into by Conservative administrations. Mr. Hepburn had declared that an action could not be politically right if it was morally wrong, and had sought to save the great Hydro enterprise and extend its benefits to the people.

For the fiscal year 1933-34 the ordinary expenditure of the province had amounted to $113,000,000 under the Henry government as compared with $81,000,000 for the fiscal year of 1936-37 under Premier Hepburn in spite of the fact that he had assumed old age pensions and the cost of other services. The Hepburn government had balanced the budget of Ontario for the first time in a decade, Mr. Elliott said and had paid $33,000,000 off the provincial debt during the last fiscal year.

"And Mr. Hepburn is even being blamed by some people for 'soaking the rich' because of the large sums that have been collected by his government in succession duties from wealthy estates. He cancelled the amusement tax, and reduced by 25 per cent. the licenses on commercial vehicles, and has promised that a reduction will be available for passenger cars. He also extended mothers allowances to widows with one child, and by an order-in-council provided for pensions for the blind. Ontario is the only province in the Dominion that has taken this step of providing help for those who have lost their sight."

Reeve W. A. Anderson

Reeve Anderson stated that the reductions accomplished by the Hepburn government as mentioned by previous speakers were all matters of record and fact. He recalled that he had been a member of the Legislature a few years after the defeat of the Liberal government that had been in power for a long time, and when it went out left Ontario free of debt. Under successive Conservative government he had seen the debt of the province mount up to $600,000,000, and had wondered how long the people were going to tolerate the administration of their affairs on that basis.

Under Mr. Hepburn a change had been brought about, and the taxpayers realized now that conditions were not so oppressive as they had been. And they will be better than they are, Mr. Anderson said. In 1936 the amount collected in taxes from the municipalities was $20,000,000 more than in 1925. One of the reasons for this increase in the amount collected from the people was to be found in the fact that the government of that time did not collect succession duties from the great estates to the extent that they should have been collected, and it was these sources of wealth that were best able to pay.

Mr. Anderson said in conclusion, "If you mark your ballots for me I shall appreciate it very much."

E. L. Sackville stated that he did not intend to seek nomination at this time, but requested those who might have supported him to vote for Mr. Elliott.

Dr. Munro and Reeve C. S. Tanner also spoke in favor of the nomination of Mr. Elliott.

Annual Meeting

The convention was also the occasion of the annual meeting of the provincial riding association. The officers elected for the coming year were as follows:

Liberals Pack Canadian Legion Hall For Convention

On a hot afternoon Liberal stalwarts from all parts of Peterborough county crowded on Wednesday into the Legion Hall to nominate a candidate. In the above picture Alex L. Elliott, Peterborough barrister and the nominee, is seen addressing the audience after the result of the vote had been announced. The audience can be seen with coats off. On the platform to the left is W. F. Huycke, K.C., Dr. D. Munro, the president, and to the right James Hawthorne, Rork Ferguson, M.P., of Hastings- Peterborough, John McLaughlin, of Lindsay, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, E. L. Sackville and Warden Roy Brown.

Noses of member of a boys' band at Windsor were given a spraying before the lads left for Toronto to compete at the Canadian National Exhibition. Toronto remained chief sufferer from the plague and C.N.E. officials announced cancellation of the baby show which had been an annual feature.

To See Cambral.

Toronto children kept at home are assured of a fine view of the Empire flying ship Cambral when it flies to the Exhibition Friday. Airline officials arranged for the giant ship to circle the city for 20 minutes so the kiddies could enjoy a long look.

London, also hard hit, announced marked improvement since the first of the week, believing about 40 of the 57 cases in hospital were positive ones. Western Ontario is being given another Provincial consultant, to be stationed at either Seaforth or Hanover.

Consultants are also being placed at Sudbury and at Alexandria in Eastern Ontario. Medical conferences with Dr. J. T. Phair, chief medical health officer, were to be held today by officers from Bruce, Grey, Welland, Dufferin, Perth and Huron counties. Conferences will be held at Seaforth and Hanover, completing Dr. Phair's Southwestern Ontario assignment, with the exception of Essex and Kent. He goes from there to Alexandria and Smith's Falls.

MUSKRATS GETTING LAZY

MIDDLE RIVER, Minn., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Some of Minnesota's muskrats are getting lazy.

They aren't building their own houses any more.

Members of a relief camp, 10 miles east of here, cut piles of brush, thinking the muskrats would use the material to build houses. But the animals waited until the water levels had risen, plastered mud over the brush piles and moved in.

FAMOUS HORSE IS DEAD.

SEATTLE, Sept. 2—(AP)—Dynamite, one of the twistingest, buckingest horses to play the Western rodeo circuit, is dead.

He couldn't stand idleness, and he died peacefully in a lush pasture at Tonasket, Wash., to which he was retired after 19 years of bucking in some of the northwest's best stampedes. He was 25 when he died. They say he threw more than 1,000 riders in his career, including some of the game's top hands.

Workers of New Zealand are complaining that living costs are rising faster than wages.

Premier And Bride Arrive Home

W. J. Paterson, Premier of Saskatchewan and former "bachelor", is shown arriving at Regina with his bride, following a honeymoon in the United States. Premier Patterson married his bride at New York to the surprise of many people. Mrs. Patterson, the former Florence Donnelly, had been employed some years ago by the Saskatchewan government, but more recently had been a stenographer in Toronto. The newly weds' arrival at Regina was witnessed only by a few close friends and reporters.

WABASH, Ind.—A swarm of religious bees crowded around the entrance to the North Manchester Methodist Church and threatened to disrupt the service. Town Marshal Paul Hathaway freed the imprisoned parishioners by spraying the bees with gasoline and setting fire to the swarm.

Infantile Paralysis Briefs Two Continents Affected

Brockville Closes Schools, Places Ban on Theatres, But No Cases Reported.

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 2 (CP-Havas).—An unprecedented epidemic of infantile paralysis was sweeping Bavaria today with 454 cases reported, 61 one of them fatal. A total of 305 cases and 38 deaths were reported in Upper Bavaria and 149 cases and 32 deaths in this capital. In an effort to halt the spread of the disease health officials ordered the closing of all schools until Sep.t 14.

BRAMPTON Ont., Sept. 2 (CP).—A plea for leniency because his child was believed an infantile paralysis victim was partially successful for Manley S. Doolittle, Kincardine, here yesterday. Doolittle was convicted of drunken driving and asked a light sentence so he could get home to his child. He was given 10 days, dated back to his arrest Aug. 26.

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (CP).—Nineteen new cases of infantile paralysis were reported by health authorities here today, bringing the number since the epidemic broke out June 10 to 313. Throughout Ontario, about 800 persons have been stricken. There have been 31 deaths, 15 in the Toronto area.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP).—A fresh case of infantile paralysis in Oxford county was reported today from Brownsville.

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Sept. 2.—(CP).—The number of cases under treatment here for infantile paralysis increased to 11 today as the second death from the disease was recorded.

None of the cases are of Medicine Hat residents and the other two are from the surrounding district. John H. Hinck, of Walsh, Alta., died after having been brought to hospital here Tuesday.

BROCKVILLE, Ont. Sept. 2. (CP).—In spite of the freedom of Brockville from infantile paralysis; the Board of Health decided last night that schools and Sunday Schools would remain closed until further notice. All persons under 16 years of age will be excluded from theatres and public gatherings.

It was further decided to close the bathing pavilions at the waterworks pumping station and St. Lawrence Park.

In the neighboring township of Augusta, 13 homes are reported to be quarantined with a fourth case reported yesterday in three year-old James Ball, living three miles south of North Augusta. The other three cases are at Algonquin.

PRESCOTT, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP).—Prescott discovered its first cass of infantile paralysis yesterday in Douglas Brophy, four. He is isolated at his home. The schools here, which opened yesterday closed indefinitely at noon, and the Board of Health has also closed Sunday Schools and swimming pools and placed a ban on public gatherings.

DR. PETER SHIH TO VISIT CITY

Dr. Peter Shih, principal of Nanking Theological College, China, is announced as the speaker at an inter-church Youth Rally to be held at George Street Church on Tuesday evening of next week.

A group of young people from Peterborough were recently given an inspirational treat when they were privileged to hear this young Chinese Christian in a lakeside outdoor service at Geneva Park Y.M. C.A. on Lake Couchiching.

Dr. Shih visited the camp as lecturer in connection with the World Economic Conference at which outstanding world leaders presented lectures. He is the only surviving son of three Chinese families, his brothers and cousins having died in defence of their Christian principles.

Twice has Dr. Shih been in the hands of Chinese Communists on account of his Christian teachings and activity, it is said. Once he was doomed to death at their hands, but was saved only by a miraculous turn of events.

Dr. Shih won a year of fellowship in Union Theological College and has during the year won a further fellowship which takes him to New York City for extra courses of study.

It is stated he has a thrilling message especially for "red-blooded youth." He returns from his Peterborough trip to attend the Student Christian Movement conference at Geneva Park.

LINDSAY-PETERBORO BUS SCHEDULE
Will Be On STANDARD TIME
Effective, Tues., Sept. 7

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up By an Examiner Reporter.

LENGHTY LIST

A lengthy list of cases awaits the first Division Court of the Fall season to be held Friday. Judge Sheldon Smoke will preside.

SPORTS HOUR.

The combined junior and senior sports hour for girl swimmers will be held this Friday evening at eight o'clock at the Y.W.C.A. instead of in the afternoon. All swimmers are invited.

CLOCKS GO BACK

The city will revert to Standard time at midnight on Labor Day. At twelve oclock midnight next Monday clocks will be put back one hour, marking the end of daylight saving time for this year at least.

NO SIGN OF RAIN

An elderly lady in the south end, who could probably qualify as a weather observer, remarked this morning: "I don't think we shall have rain while the grass is wet in the mornings."

BANK CLEARINGS

Total clearings passing through the Peterborough Clearings House in the past week amounted to $591,648 and decrease over the same week a year ago when they amounted to $647,290.

HAD A BIG DAY

Local book stores enjoyed big business turnovers Wednesday and today as school boys and girls crowded through their doors to buy their school supplies. Standing room has been at a premium in the stores during the afternoons.

TENDERS RESIGNATION.

Charles Stapleton, veteran sanitary inspector, absent from his duties on sick leave for some weeks past tendered his resignation to the Board of Health, it was learned. It is presumed the resignation will be considered at the next regular meeting of the Board.

KIWANIS SPEAKER.

The Rev. E. W. Young, who recently came here as pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, is announced as guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting on Friday. He is to give an illustrated lecture on Ireland, and will be introduced by W. A. Richardson.

NO RUSH FOR LICENSES

The season on small game opened yesterday but there was no rush for new gun licenses. A few were sold and gun-toters are sporting the new license buttons on the lapels as required by the new act. The buttons are conspicuous in size and bear individual license numbers corresponding with the serial number on the license forms.

LABOR DAY AT POST OFFICE.

The lobby of the Post Office will be open from 6.30 a.m. to 6.00 p.m. The money order, registration, insured parcel, stamp vendor and general delivery wickets will be open from 8.00 a.m. to 12.00 noon. The reguar morning deliveries will be regular morning deliveries will be rural route couriers will make their regular delivery. All outgoing mails will be closed at the regular hours. The regular night collections will be made from the street letter boxes.

COMMITTEE AT WORK.

Archie Gates and his committee are working full time on the Kiwanis "Made-in-Canada" Carnival and everything is being lined up in a satisfactory manner, the club bulletin reports. The Carnival to be staged in the near future is to raise funds for the furtherance of the club's work among under-privileged children, which activity finds its fullest expression in the Jackson Park Health Camp run by Kiwanians each summer.

STILL EXAMINATION TIME

Many students who have been taking special courses with Queen's University are writing their examinations this week. More than fifty of them have sixty-seven papers to write at the home of Richard Lees, who is in charge of the examinations as representative of his Alma Mater. Some of these students have been taking subjects extramurally, others attended the summer course at Kingston but returned home for two weeks' review prior to the examinations.

DOG CATCHING ENDS

Alderman G. N. Gordon complained this morning to Chas. W. Holland, one of the city's two dog catchers, that from complaints to him as an alderman quite a number of dogs were running at large in the city and were more objectionable than ever. Ald. Gordon then learned that Mr. Holland and his associate, Mr. Blodgett, had recently terminated their work, being notified by Relief Officer Metheral that there was no longer any need for their service although they were engaged in the first place until the end of September. Mr. Gordon immediately wrote to Alderman Hamilton, chairman of the finance committee, protesting against this action, and intimated that he would have something to say about it at the next council meeting.

Protests To China

Following the bombing of the United States liner S. S. President Hoover, strong protests were made to the Chinese foreign office by Nelson T. Johnson (above), United States ambassador to China. Ambassador Johnson, who is stationed at Nanking, seat of the central Chinese government, made the protest in person.

Five Killed And 24 Injured In Bus Crash

When a heavy passenger car ran through a stop intersection five miles north of Goshen, Ind., and crashed into this Chicago-to-New York passenger bus, five persons were killed and twenty-four injured. The bus came to rest on its top after being knocked end over end, and the other car, wrecked and its driver killed, came to rest 200 feet away.

OBITUARY

CHARLES S. HETHERINGTON.

The death of Charles Sidney Hetherington, 191 King street, occured in Nicholls Hospital yesterday following a short illness. He was 65 years of age.

Born in Millbrook, he was son of the late Stephen Hetherington. Employed as a telegraph operator during the greater part of his life, he came to this city 29 years ago from Western Canada.

Surviving are his mother, his wife, three brothers, W P. Hetherington, George and Walter Hetherington; and one sister, Mrs. J. S. Ferguson, of Keene.

The funeral will be held Friday from the residence of W. P. Hetherington, 191 King street, at 2.30 o'clock with interment in Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. M. C. Parr will officiate, assisted by Rev. J. S. Ferguson.

LOUIS-FARR FIGHT REVIEWED BY FAN

Sports Writer. Sept. 1, 1937
The Examiner.
Dear Sir:

I was deeply interested in your commentary on the recent Louis-Farr fight of Monday. Your criticism of Tommy Farr, I thought, a little severe and trust that it made him more friends than enemies, as the contest did. You intimated that any of us street walkers had as much claim to a fight with Joe Louis as Tommy Farr had, and I'll not disagree, in part at least.

Joe Louis is the heavyweight champion of the world by the American fight promoters' federation, but is he the rightful world's champion? And who did he whip above the average street loafer to obtain his title—how did it happen? My authority runs like this: The good men of old Dempsey's and Tunney's and Schmeling's time, the more recent of these, were getting too old for the padded gloves, and Max Schmeling the last champion gave way to Max Baer, who was soon defeated by Braddock. Then the Brown Bomber from Detroit, who defeated Baer previous to Baer's defeat by Braddock, seemed to be coming along nicely with some of the second-raters till Schmeling, after a year or two of rest, was matched with him. And what happened? Schmeling would have finished Louis in the fourth round only one eye bothered him a little. He waited till the 12t to put him away for keeps.

By this victory, Schmeling was the next legitimate aspirant for the title, but American sportsmanship, fearing that Schmeling would defeat Braddock, which he undoubtedly would have done as easily as the man he did defeat, would not match Schmeling and Braddock. They feared it might be some years before they would get the title back from Germany, where ensuing bouts would be held till they were able to dethrone Schmeling. It would thus put a damper on American fight promoters.

The Examiner claimed Farr had no claim for a fight with Louis. What claim had Louis for a fight with Braddock, if the former statement is true? Peterborough has a man still living, but now old, who in his prime might scare either Louis or Braddock, yet he never had his name in print. But I like fair play with either. Let Louis or Farr climb the ladder, not letting a bunch of fellows with a stepladder shoving one in ahead of the man who is climbing step by step. If this system is adhered to, we'll all get wise and write Mike Jacobs asking him which of his roosters we should bet on. For men. Schmeling and Farr and both playing fair and I believe Louis would play fair if let, even if he did foul Schmeling when they met and Schmeling trimmed him well for doing it. So why say more?

Yours for free sportsmanship,
FIGHT FAN.

NO BAN IS PLACED ON CANADIANS AT U. S. BORDER

Responding to inquiries instituted by The Examiner last night, the Department of Immigration at Washington denied reports that a ban has been instituted against admission of Canadian children to the United States as a result of the infantile paralysis plague. Several Peterborough families have postponed holiday trips to the United States because of rumours of the ban, the Chamber of Commerce reports.

Canadian Press reported Washington to have stated no ban has been imposed on admission of parents with children on account of paralysis epidemic. Washington authorities pointed out that state border authorities have the right to institute such a ban but said they had not heard of any such action.

A. B. CUNNINGHAM HAD FAIR NIGHT

A report from Nicholls Hospital this afternoon indicated that the condition of A. B. Cunningham, injured in a traffic accident on George street at noon Wednesday, was not so serious as first news suggested. He rested fairly well during the night, and is suffering from fracture of the right arm and lacerations on the forehead and right arm. There was no concussion of the brain.

General regret is being expressed at Mr. Cunningham's misfortune.

"He has proved himself a very sincere and useful citizen," said Alderman Glover, "and the members of the city council who know of the success he has made of the community gardens since they were organized will all hope for his complete and early recovery. Mr. Cunningham has been untiring in directing this successful enterprise, and the results from this year's gardens are just about as productive as ever. In his own quiet way Mr. Cunningham has done a fine job, but apart from that he will have the sympathy of his many friends, including those citizens whom he has helped in the gardening scheme."

Welders Repair Steam Shovel Arm

The increasing use to which welding is being put in the repair of broken machinery parts that but a few short years ago would have to be replaced new at a considerably increased cost, was demonstrated in a job that went out of Copping Marine Sales welding shops this morning.

While at work on a road construction job up in Haliburton recently the dipper arm of a huge steam shovel broke under the terrific strain. The contractors Curran and Briggs shipped the arm—a 20-foot long hollow steel tube weighing a couple of tons, to the local firm to be welded.

To replace the part new would have cost $2,200 it was estimated, but with advances that continue to take place daily in the welding business it was possible to have the break repair at a fraction of the cost for a new part.

What is more the dipper arm was repaired in a much shorter time than it would have taken to secure a new part and it is presumably again in service up at Haliburton.

COUNTY HOLSTEINS WIN C. N. E. PRIZES

TORONTO, Sept. 2—Two Peterborough county Holstein bulls were prize winners in their class at the Canadian National Exhibition. Archibald Shearer of Birdsall's was awarded second prize in the three-year-old male section with "Much Echo Segias," and Joseph T. Tully of Otonabee won sixth prize with his herd sire "Hays Supreme."

The first prize winner in the three-year-old division was exhibited by Colby C. Lewis of Freetown, P.E.I., owner and breeder of "Paul Olympus Rocharm" to which the Shearer animal placed second. Other first awards went to Hon. George S. Henry of Todmorden and J. M. Fraser and James Henderson of Streetsville.

PRICE OF GOLD.

MONTREAL, Sept. 2 (CP).—Bar gold in London down one cent at $34.76 an ounce in Canadian funds; 140s ½d in British.

AUGUST CUSTOMS SET ALL TIME HIGH OF $234,698.49

Importation of large quantities of oats by the Quaker Oats Company combined with improving business conditions to swell Peterborough Customs returns to a level believed to be an all-time high during the month of August. Collections totalled $234,698.49, almost double those of August last year, $120,783.16.

Principal item in the increase over last year was the import duty collection total. The total this August was $108,916.43, as compared with $28,038.56 last year. Excise tax collections last month were $125,656.06 as compared with $92,630.33. The gain in the excise tax item is considered to reflect almost directly an improvement in local business.

Previous to August, the largest Customs collection total this year was that for June, $164,126.53. July collections were $135,601.10.

Inquiries among local agricultural authorities indicated the unusually large Qaker Oats grain importation is likely the result of the almost total failure of the Ontario oat crop. The humid weather during the late stages of the crop growth was responsible for a product which would be of no use for high standard milling needs, one farmer reported.

Further Canadian oat supplies will not be available until the later western crop comes on the market.

VIOLENT DEATHS MORE NUMEROUS WITH THE MALE SEX

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Sept. 2 (CP)—Violent deaths remove twice as many males as females from the population in the course of a year, Prof. F. A. E. Crew, president of the zoology section, told the British Association for the Advancement of Science today.

The result is a distortion of the sex ratio among certain age groups, the professor said. Prof. Crew presented a surprising picture of the alteration of the ratio of males and females and females in a population over a period of 80 years.

Actually, he said, more baby boys are born alive than girls. For instance, in England and Wales in 1935 the ratio was 105.6 boys to every 100 girl babies born alive.

But by the time a year's crop of children attain the ages from 15 to 19 years the preponderance of males gives way to equality in numbers of boys and girls.

Among the 20 to 24 year olds the females actually begin to outnumber the males.

Women Live Longer

"Thereafter," the professor said, "as age group succeeds age group, this female numerical ascendency progressively increases until, among the 85's and over, there are more than twice as many women as men."

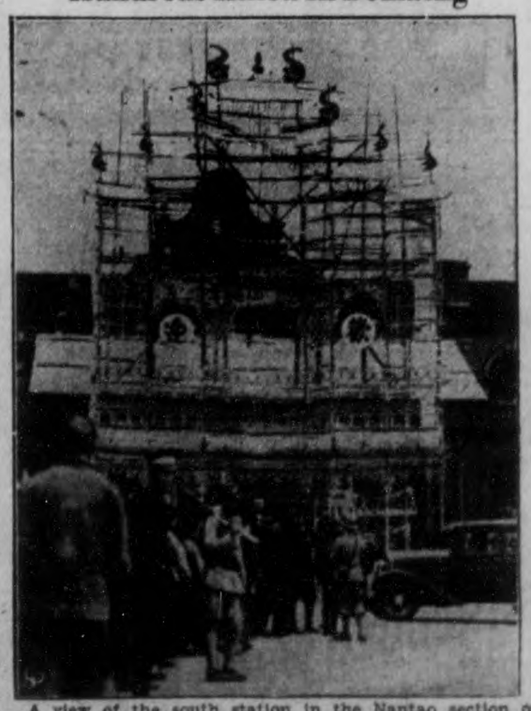
Mortality tables make it clear that all ages relatively more males are removed from the population by death. Among those 75 and over, actually more women than men die, for the simple reason that there are more females who reach those ages.

"It would appear from these figures alone that to be born is a more dangerous adventure for the male than for the female, and that there is a sexually selective mortality which not only operates at all ages after birth to the disadvantage of the male, but which acts possibly equally as strong pre-natally as well," stated Prof. Crew.

In a paper on research in engineering, Sir Alexander Gibb, president of the section, said "In Canada, where I was very recently, I was greatly struck by the action the Dominion government is taking in the promotion of research. The National Research Council, with headquarters at Ottawa, where it has a magnificent new building, is not only carrying out a very wide program of practical research, but is aiming at training a big body of research-minded engineers and scientists."

People of Britain broke banana records last year when they ate 20,672,000 bunches.

Hundreds Killed In Bombing



A view of the south station in the Nantao section of Shanghai, in which hundreds of natives were killed when Japanese aerial bombs scored four direct hits as a throng estimated at 600, milled about inside. The scene of devastation duplicated the "bloody Saturday" of two weeks ago, when Chinese bombs dropped on two of the busiest street intersections in the city.

Request "Cambria" Be Routed Over Peterborough District

J. J. Duffus, M.P., Joins Examiner and Chamber in Request to Officials.

Possibility of the "Cambria" giant Empire flying boat being seen over Peterborough was suggested here today in telegraphed requests that were sent to the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport and to S. E. Hungerford, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines.

J. J. Duffus, M.P., Peterborough West, wired the minister at Ottawa and told him in effect the people of this city were disappointed the "Cambria" was not scheduled to pass over Peterborough on its goodwill tour of Eastern and Southwestern Ontario and suggesting that arrangements might be made for the huge silver flying boat to be routed back this way on its return to Montreal on Sunday next.

In further efforts to give Peterborough and district an opportunity of seeing the flying boat that is making aviation history for the Empire in blazing the trans-Atlantic airway, telegrams were sent by The Examiner and also by James J. Dorris, secretary-manager Peterborough Chamber of Commerce to Mr. Hungerford as president of Trans-Canada Air Lines who has charge of arrangements in connection with the goodwill flight.

Replies were awaited at the time of going to press.

According to present arrangements the eighty-eight foot flying boat is scheduled to fly from Ottawa to Toronto on Friday and to pass over Kingston, Belleville, Trenton, (where she will bank in salute to the R.C.A.F. station), Cobourg, Port and Oshawa. On Saturday morning she will take off from Toronto for Windsor and on her trip will fly over Hamilton, Brantford, Woodstock, Ingersoll, London and Chatham. She will circle over London for fifteen minutes and will also circle over Windsor, and Detroit for a similar period.

Taking off at Windsor Saturday afternoon, she will fly to Niagara Falls and circle there for ten minutes and then head for Toronto passing over St. Catharines enroute. Sunday morning she will fly to Hamilton to hover for fifteen minutes over that city before landing. Sunday afternoon the flying boat will take off for Montreal, passing over Belleville, Kingston, Brockville and Cornwall enroute.

It was believed probable here that in response to the telegraphed suggestion arrangements might be altered to permit the flying ship to go off her course slightly to give citizens of Peterborough an opportunity of glimpsing the huge ship manned by Captain Griffis J. Powell and his crew.

CECIL MERCER NOMINATED BY DURHAM GRITS

PORT HOPE, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP).—Cecil G. Mercer of Elizabethville, Reeve of Hope Township, was the unanimous choice of Durham County Liberals yesterday to contest Durham riding at the forthcoming Ontario election.

W. J. Bragg, M.H.L. for Durham for the past 19 years, announced his retirement from political life. Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Ontario Minister of Health, and W. Frank Rickard, M.P., were principal speakers.

Mr. Bragg, who is 79, was the oldest member of the last Legislature, although W. J. Black, Addington, has served longer, having first been elected in 1911. Mr. Bragg entered eight years later.

Mr. Mercer has been president of the Durham Liberal Association for several years. He is one of the most prominent members of the council of the United Counties. On several occasions he has been a candidate for the wardenship, but his hopes in that direction were blocked by a Conservative majority. His municipal work has taken him to all parts of Durham, and this experience paved the way for his progress in the Liberal party of the riding. His task is to retain the riding which Mr. Bragg represented so long.

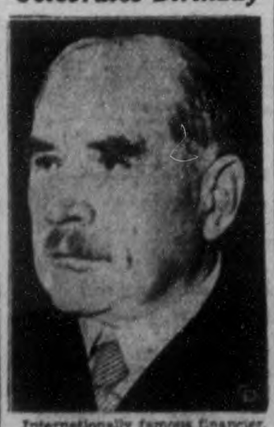
The Conservative candidate is Milton J. Elliott of Bowmanville, a former warden of the united counties; and local political history is repeating itself in the present contest between two candidates who have risen up from the counties council after attaining the reeveship in their respective municipalities.

KINGSTON DUKES IN SECOND ROUND

Men's softball playoffs return to Peterborough tomorrow (Friday) evening at six o'clock in Riverside Park when Kingston Dukes tangle with the Westelox in the first of their O.A.B.A. intermediate playdown series. The return joust will be played in the Limestone City early, next week and third contest, if necessary, probably on neutral grounds. The Dukes ousted Cornwall in playdowns and Westelox put out Belleville. This is the second playdown round for both teams and the winner may be sent into the Ontario semi-finals within two weeks. A big crowd of fans is expected to see tomorrow night's game and it should be a sizzling scrap all the way.

Manager Harry Baptie has three hurlers, Lefty Sturgeon, Ted Naish and Tommy Parsons. Since Naish pitched twice against Belleville, it will be either Parsons or Sturgeon, probably in the game tomorrow, with the southpaw the more likely choice as starting pitcher. The team will be at full strength, including two members of the Petes, Bill Calladine and Chuck Kearns. Not a great deal is known yet of the Limestone City outfit but it is thought to be a classy squad and one that will hustle the smart Clockmakers every minute.

Celebrates Birthday



Internationally famous financier, John Pierpont Morgan (ABOVE) will celebrate his 70th birthday on Sept. 7. Mr. Morgan's last appearance in the news followed his talking issue with President Roosevelt on the question of income tax evasion. Mr. Morgan, at that time claimed taxation was purely a legal and not a moral issue.

DISASTROUS FIRE FOLLOWS TYPHOON

HONG KONG, Sept. 2 (AP). — Fire, caused by a disastrous typhoon, raged through Hong Kong today after a 125-mile-an-hour wind had taken hundreds of lives ashore and at sea. The death toll, steadily rising, was believed to have passed 500. Officials expressed fear it would mount into thousands.

A wide area of this British Crown colony was devastated and waist-deep in water.

Large and small ships were piled up on the sea wall and strewn in the submerged waterfront streets.

Distress calls from foundering ships poured in from all sides.

Shipping suffered particularly heavy in the gale, one of the worst in Hong Kong's history, because the harbor is thronged with refugee-laden ships from the Shanghai war zone and steamships that have taken haven from the Japanese coastal blockade.

Biggs' Herd Wins In Ayrshire Class

TORONTO, Sept. 2—(CP).—F. C. Biggs and Sons, of Dundas, exhibited the best two-year-old Ayrshire bull, Auchenbrain Bahram, in the Canadian National Exhibition Livestock Show, according to early judging records to-day. Bennie and Ness of Quebec scored second on Burnside Barr Top Grade.

Lieutenant-Governor H. A. Bruce won the three-year-old bull class on holehouse True Form from his Annadale farm at Todmorden.

John Bompas and Sons, Bell's Corners, won the senior yearling bull section on Pineview Top Gallants Elegance. Bompas also captured second and third in the junior yearling bulls on View Silver Footprint and Pine View Ideal Footprint. Dr. Bruce was first in this class with Annandale Sunset, and F. C. Biggs, fourth on Glen Campbell Footstep.

ICE SKATING IN KITCHENER.

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP). —Maybe the torrid weather is responsible but ice-skating is in full swing at the Granite Club here this week. The club is said to derive enough revenue from early skating to offset much of the maintenance cost for curling during the winter.

SIX-HOUR DAY DEFINITE HELP TO EFFICIENCY

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—(AP).—A test lasting three years in which a six-hour day raised efficiency of workers 15 to 30 per cent above an eight hour day was reported to the American Association of Applied and Professional Psychology here today by Dr. Vernon P. Scheidt of Baltimore.

The workers made more money and the company more dividends, he said. The workers were 17 women setting type by machine and 52 men hand compositors, all working for the Waverly Press of Baltimore. Medical books and science publications of this company require unusual typesetting skill.

Unusual Effects

Dr. Scheidt's report brought out some unusual human reactions. It showed that on a short trial the six hour day would certainly have been a failure.

"The immediate effect of a shorter work period," he said, "was marked by reduced production. The effect of the change in hours on correction was astounding. The errors were practically doubled.

"While it cannot be definitely ascertained that the cause of this condition was the direct result of the change in work period, at least we can see that the entire group was disoriented for a time.

Three Year Test

"Adjustment, of course, eventually occurred and after three years of the shorter period the whole group is wholeheartedly for it."

But the surprises have not stopped. Now Dr. Scheidt said, whenever the workers do an eight hour day, with the added two hours paid at overtime rates, their efficiency goes down.

Errors of all workers were further reduced by enforced rest periods in the six hour day.

"While the data presented today comes only from two departments of printing," Dr. Scheidt said, "the same conclusions hold good for other departments such as pressroom activities and bindery work."

But they do not, he added, hold good for executives. It was tried and executives were less efficient on a six-hour day.

NOVEL CONTESTS AT SEYMOUR FAIR

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 2.—A number of new attractions have been planned for the Seymour Agricultural Society Fall Fair which is to be held on Sept. 26 and 29. Among the features planned for this year's fair are a tug-of-war, bicycle races, old time fiddlers' contest, potato race on horse back and step dancing contest. The prize list, which has already been prepared shows a large number of fine prizes which it is felt should excite keen competition in the various events.

Members of the Seymour West, Rylstone, and Seymour East Women's Institutes are eligible to enter under a new section of the prize list known as the Women's Institute Section. The only qualification to come under this list is that the exhibitor must be a member of the Agricultural Society, except those exhibiting for special prizes and those under sixteen years of age. Prize awards will be given for the following items: Girls' section (12 to 16 years)—Simple print apron, hand made; six plain cookies. Junior institute Section (16 to 26 years) serviceable house dress, silk slip hand trimmed, cotton pyjamas; Wool Sofa cushion; pillow slips, embroidered; light layer cake, iced; six jam tarts; collection home made candy. Women's section—Pieced print quilt; wool afghan; hooked wool rug; pillow slip; cross-stitch, colored; house dress, practical; buffet set, 3-piece; loaf white bread; one-half dozen plain buns; berry pie; half dozen macaroons; 2 pint jars marmalade (2 varieties); 1 pint salad dressing, recipe attached; collection relishes, 6 varieties; pint home made soup mixture, recipe attached; dark layer cake, iced.

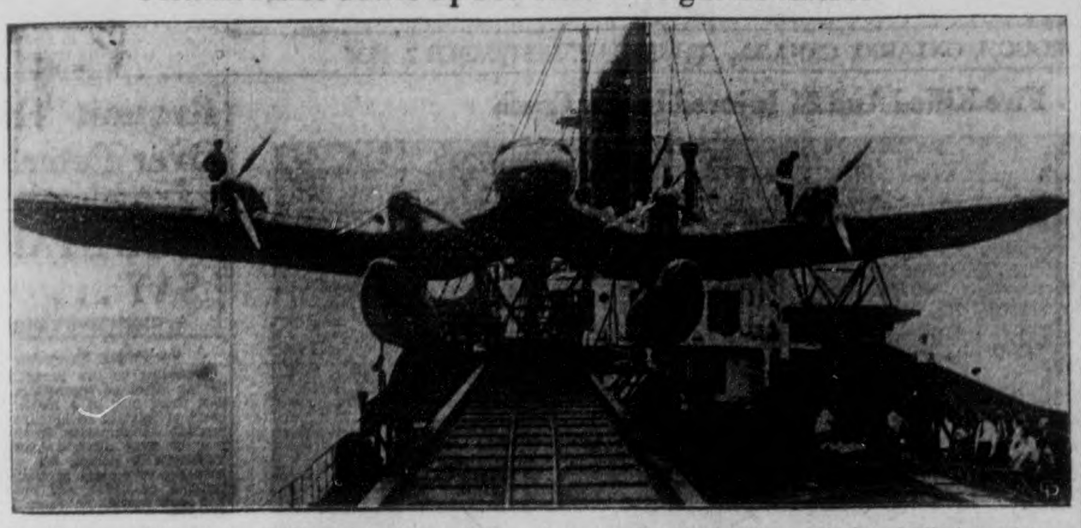
Specials—(1) Institute Thrift Exhibit (open to Rylestone, Seymour West and and Seymour East Institutes. (2) Institute scoring most points.

Information regarding the fair and prize lists may be obtained from the Secretary, G. C. Stephens, R. R. 4, Campbellford

MARMORA

Delore Hall was the scene of a large party on Tuesday evening when residents and relatives honored Mr. and Mrs. John Halloway (nee Bernice McInroy) with a substantial purse of money. The presentation was made by Mr. F. A. Hagaty, who in an apt speech tendered best wishes from all assembled. The evening was gaily spent in round and square dancing and during an intermission, a delicious lunch was served.

German Plane Tunes Up For Return Flight To Azores



Mechanics carefully check over the giant engines of the German seaplane, Nordmeer, at New York, as the time neared for its take-off on a return flight across the Atlantic to the Azores. The Nordmeer and its sister-ship, Nordwind, are being used in a series of survey flights across the ocean in preparation for a German bid in establishing a trans-atlantic passenger and air mail service. The Nordmeer was catapulted from the mother-ship Schwabenland shortly after this photograph was taken on its return flight.

College Professors Tend To Think Like Laborers

Attempt Made to Learn Whether There is "Class" Differences in United States.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2—(AP).—The American Psychological Association opened its annual meeting here to-day with an attempt to learn whether "class" differences are starting in the United States. Arthur W. Kornhauser, of the University of Chicago, told how opinions are pointing among different groups of people around Chicago. There the college professors tend to think like the manual workers, he said.

People with low incomes and the "middle income" class he found are likely to share similar points of view on social isues. But he also reported numerous backfires, cases where opinion was not controlled by "class."

The study was made by individual interviews with 600 adults. They were chosen as "samples" of four groups, low income, middle income, upper income and "especially well-to-do."

On Government ownership there was a tendency to think in "class" terms. It was favored by 30 per cent of the poorest, 15 per cent middle class, eight per cent upper class and one in the "tops" group.

Too Much Influence.

Contrasted to this, even "tops" said yes to the idea that "wealthy people have too much influence in running the country." The affirmatives of the four groups, starting at the bottom, were 75 per cent; 61; 34 and 7.

There was very general agreement of all classes that working people do not get fair treatment and fair play. There was said Dr. Kornhauserwn a tendency for the low and the middle income classes to stand together on questions about present distribution of wealth and influence.

"It is worth noting," he reported, "how frequently the percentages for both engineers and lawyers parallel those for business executives, contrary to the hopes of certain intellectuals who like to view the professional men as social minded and independent of business bias.

"Unlike engineers and lawyers, college professors, chosen from several Chicago institutions, give responses more similar to those of the manual worker groups."

It was surprising to find, he said, that those stressing desire for greater personal freedom are more than twice as frequently for government ownership as are the others.

DELAY OPENING STIRLING SCHOOL

STIRLING, Sept. 2—Stirling Board of Health, at a special meeting Tuesday night, asked the co-operation of several bodies of the community in postponing the opening of school until Sept. 13, to close the public swimming pool, cancel Sunday Schools and forbid anyone under 20 years of age entering theatres.

The board also sent a request to Sydney Township Council asking closing of the swimming beach at Oak Lake.

In the absence of Dr. H. H. Alger, M.O.H., Dr. E. A. Carelton was appointed health officer, pro tem, because of one case of suspected paralysis. There have been no cases of infantile paralysis reported in the district to date, but the board felt that precautionary measures were imperative.

Reeve Mercer Is Nominated

ORONO, Sept. 2.—Reeve C. G. Mercer of Hope township was the unanimous selection for candidate in the coming Ontario election at a largely attended meeting of the Liberal Association for Durham county held here on Wednesday. W. J. Bragg, M.P.P. of Bowmanville who was also nominated would not allow his name to stand.

Hon. J. A. Falkner, Minister of Health and Frank Rickard, M.P., were the principal speakers.

TALLULAH WEDS FOR LOVE ONLY

JASPER, Ala., Sept. 2—(AP).—Newlywed Tallulah Bankhead was honeymoon bound today with actor John Emery, her husband of a day.

"I married for love," said the glamorous star of stage and screen, adding she never had been married before and "never would again."

Their marriage took place last night in the home of the bride's father, William B. Bankhead, speaker of the United States House of Representatives.

Although their romance began a year ago, they surprised Broadway friends when they hurried here by chartered plane and auto yesterday for the ceremony. Miss Bankhead said she was 34, her husband 32.

They met in Hollywood while Emery, son of Edward Emery, veteran stage player, was appearing with Katharine Cornell in "Saint John" and Tallulah was starring in "Reflected Glory."

The newlyweds planned to fly back to New York today and then go to Norwalk, Conn., for a quiet honeymoon on Long Island Sound. Two weeks later they will return to Broadway to begin rehearsals in "Antony and Cleopatra," in which they will play together.

The bride will play the siren of the Nile; Emery is cast in the role of Octavius Caesar.

The speaker, who gave his daughter in marriage, said "I'm of course, very happy my daughter chose to be married in my home and Mrs. Bankhead and I are greatly pleased with our son-in-law. I give them my blessing."

Doukhobor Leader Released From Jail

NELSON, B.C., Sept. 2 (CP).—Peter Verigin, Doukhobor leader, was released last night after serving three months' imprisonment on a vagrancy conviction.

The bearded Russian was taken from the jail here to nearby Brilliant, headquarters of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood of which he is spiritual leader. Verigin was convicted after Mr. and Mrs. A. Erickson of Rossland testified he molested them on the Trail-Rossland highway.

PRACTICAL SCHOOL COURSES ADOPTED IN TWO PROVINCES

TORONTO, Sept. 2. — (CP). — The new British Columbia High School course, shifting the major emphasis from the academic to the practical which goes into effect this fall is patterned along the lines as the course being introduced in Ontario high schools, according to Dr. Duncan McArthur, Deputy Minister of education.

"The principle is the same as our new Grade Nine course, in the first year of high school," Dr. McArthur said.

The plan of the Ontario Department of Education was to introduce one new year's work along the same lines each year, he explained. As the class of students entering high school this Fall moves forward each year, the new course for that year will be inaugurated. The whole course has already been laid out in detail by department heads.

The new courses in both provinces are designed to meet the needs of the great number who will never go to university, although not neglecting the interests of future university students.

Under the British Columbia scheme general science courses replace specialized courses in physics, chemistry and biology. The general course will be adapted to local conditions, mining, farming, lumbering. Mathematics will be made more practical more directly applicable to business use.

HOLLOWAY LOSES PRISON ASPECTS

LONDON, Sept. 2—(CP). — The grey old wals of Holloway Prison for Women have lost a lot of their grimness. Recent appointment of a woman as prison commissioner and another woman as deputy-governor had a lot to do with it.

One-time prison quarters of leading suffragettes are brightened. First of all a coat of white paint with a deep yellow dado and an apple green band has been put on the walls to replace the dull grey-green of former years.

For the prisoners perhaps the highlight of the improvement program is the abolishment of the peculiar white caps, check aprons and shapeless blue surge dresses. Instead the women now wear bluegrey zephyr coat-frocks, with neat box pleats, turn-down collars and colored ties.

Gardening has been encouraged to such an extent that every table in the dining-room, cell blocks and even in the laundry bears fresh supplies of cut flowers each day. Window boxes hide iron bars. Chintz curtains, photographs and in a few cases pets, have removed many aspects of prison life.

Instead of the old plank bed against the wall, each prisoner now has a wire spring, a good mattress and a comfortable chair in many cases bearing embroidery she has learned to make. A system of education in crafts and domestic science has been instituted and a piano gives equipment for concerts.

CHICAGO LOCKS SCHOOLS UNTIL EPIDEMIC ENDS

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(AP).—Chicago health authorities, faced with the largest number of August infantile paralysis cases in history, postponed reopening school for 619,000 children to-day "until the peak of this disease has been reached and the sickness is definitely on the wane."

Public and Parochial schools were scheduled to re-open next week. Postponement was ordered after the Board of Health found 109 cases of the disease were reported last month. The previous peak was 99 cases in August, 1916.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Board president, said the disease rapidly was "approaching an epidemic stage" and the majority of cases reported were from school age group.

"Infantile paralysis is decidedly misnamed," Dr. Bundesen said. 'Only one of 121 cases reported since July 1 this year has been that of a child under one year of age."

In the last four days, he said, 26 new cases were reported. Eight yesterday. The doctor said if this pace was maitnained the count would reach 56 cases a week.

The death rate of this year's wave was 10 per cent, he stated.

"I have never known the time when so many cases were reported during August.

"Hundreds of boys have gone to sumer camps. They went to camps where paralysis was prevalent, were exposed to it, then sent home after the disease broke out.

"This disease takes about two weeks to develop and this would mean during the opening weeks of the school year."

Dr. Bundesen called attention to an article in the Illinois Health Messenger which said that up to Aug. 16 infantile paralysis was more prevalent in Illinois than during the corresponding period in any previous year since 1916.

LUMBER SCALER HURT AT LINDSAY

LINDSAY, Sept. 2.—James Duignan, of Peterborough, who is employed as a scaler at the Kawartha Lumber Mills, met with a painful accident on Tuesday. While climbing up a pile of lumber he slipped and fell, breaking his ankle. He was removed to the Ross Hospita, for treatment.

Michael Tercki, who was employed as a farm hand by John Murphy, of Ops township, some time ago, was arrested by Toronto police and appeared in the local court Wednesday on the charge of theft. The man had been hanging around Lindsay, and one night during Mr. and Mrs. Murphy's absence he entered their home and carried off a quantity of silverware, fox fur, etc. Officer Sylvester, of Peterborough, brought the accused from Toronto to Lindsay. He was remanded for a few days.

Bob Austin, of Hindon Valley, Haliburton, was brought to Ross Hospital suffering from what is feared is infantile paralysis.

Lindsay Central Fair Board has decided to cut the price of admission for autos to this year's Fair in two. It was formely fifty cents.

J. G. Staples has assumed the principalship of the Central and South ward schools. E. Dettman will be principal of the North Ward school and J. F. Woods principal of the East Ward school.

Chief of Police Lawler is the recipient of a heavy silver coronation medal from his Majesty King George VI.

Kenneth Gordon, aged 24, of Beaverton, was killed at Sudbury a few days ago when a C.N.R. train was derailed. He was on his way back home from Quebec where he was employed.

John Mitchell, a well known local cattle buyer, died here on Tuesday. The deceased was born in Cavan, but had resided here for the past thirty years. He is survived by two brothers and two sisters.

HASTINGS

The Hastings Foundry and Machine Shops are operating at top speed and wil continue for the next two weeks due to a rush order for saw mills and tannery equipment. They have been working nights in an effort to cope with the onrush of business. C. B. Plant, owner and manager, said the mills will be shipped on completion to Northern Ontario for use this winter.

Reeve Fairman reported that the village council have disposed of, to a Peterborough firm, two steam boilers which were once the property of the old Radiator which was torn down some time ago. The price was $22.

Miss Helen Nelson was hostess to the Ladies' Bridge Club at her home. High score went to Miss Isobel Nelson and Mrs. Fred Nelson was low score.

Discount Rate Is Lowered In France

PARIS, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Bank of France lowered its discount rate today from four to 3½ per cent.

The easing of credit from the previous rate, fixed August 3, was accepted in financial quarters to mean the government was returned to a policy of easy money and no longer felt obliged to impose high interest to prevent speculation and the flight of capital from the country.

The rate on 30-day loans was also lowered from four to 3½ per cent, and interest on loans made to stock security dropped from five to 4½ per cent.

The reductions, relieving business of higher interest charges, followed by a day the completion of Finance Minister Georges Bonnet's financial reconstruction program under dictatorial decree powers.

LEVIES ARE RAISED BY GENERAL SYNOD ANGLICAN CHURCH

HALIFAX, Sept. 2.—(CP)—In its most intensive business session to date, the joint-session of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada on Wednesday gave approval, in principle to an agreement with the English Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and passed apportionments raising the contribution of practically every diocese to the missionary fund.

Two of the most important matters, from a financial standpoint, before the Synod so far, were passed, together with other minor parts of the report of the Missionary Society General Secretary in a four-hour afternoon session.

Right Rev. Philip Lindel Tsen, Bishop of Honan, China, and Right Rev. P. S. Sasaki, Bishop of mid-Japan, were heard during the section of the report dealing with foreign missions.

Apportionments Increased.

By passing the apportionments suggested by General Secretary of Missions, Rev. Canon S. Gould of Toronto, Synod members increased the triennium levies for mission work for the twenty-seven dioceses from $246,540 for 1935-36-37 to $289,489 for 1938-39-40.

An amendment, moving that the rate of apportionment in force during the last triennium be continued for the next three years so that no additional burdens be placed on the dioceses, was defeated by a large majority of both houses, after considerable debate.

The Synod spent the greater part of the morning session debating the proposed agreement between the S.P.G. and the M.S.C.C., whereby, during the next fifteen years, a trust fund of £100,000 be raised, of which the S.P.G. would contribute £60,000, and that present grants of the S.P.G. would be reduced during the period. The plan was adopted in priciple early in the afternoon.

Grants Replaced

The agreement provides that beginning in 1938, the Canadian Church would have its allowance reduced 5 per cent, for three years and 10 per cent. for the remainder of the period of fifteen years, at which time the grants from the S.P.G. would be replaced by interest derived from the trust fund set up in the interim.

Western delegates, those most affected by the agreement, were for the most part in favor of the plan.

Six months' leave of absence, with stipend, was today granted General Secretary of Missions Canon S. Gould of Toronto, after the Synod was told by Primate of all Canada Right Rev. D. T. Owen, Toronto, that Canon Gold's physician had suggested such a step.

In expressing appreciation of the work of Canon Gould, delegates also passed a motion providing for the appointment of a field secretary to help him in his work on his return from the leave of absence.

TWO GIRLS TAKE BICYCLE JAUNT

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2.—(CP)—Lillian Langtry of Stonewall and Jean Comba of Winnipeg are back home from holidays—a 1,000-mile bicycle jaunt through the western part of Manitoba. They were on the road over a month.

The idea of taking a holiday and seeing Manitoba at the same time led the two girls to pack 60 pounds of camp equipment on the bicycles and start out.

They ate their meals along the road and stayed overnight with friends or at boarding houses, hit a peak of 106 miles for one day's travelling and managed to spend $30 between them. They never had tire trouble until they passed the 900-mile mark.

Child Is Killed In Own Backyard

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 2.—(CP)—Tied to a clothesline in the back yard of her home, so that she would not run into the road, two-year-old Texas Fody was killed by a motor truck yesterday. The truck driver, John Miller, who lives in the child's home, back his vehicle into the yard and ran over the little girl, police said.

Prison Bars Did Not Stop This Wedding

Prison bars came between Helen Fox, 28-year-old San Francisco model, and Francis Lee, 35, but it could not block their romance. They were married by Judge Thomas M. Foley (RIGHT), a few minutes before Lee was taken to Folsom prison, San Francisco, Calif., to begin serving a term of from 10 years to life for robbery. At best, Helen must wait eight years, when her husband may apply for parole.

U. S. TRIES OUT RANGY BOMBER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2—(CP)—A huge "bomber" flying boat, with three gun turrets and wireless equipment comparable to that of a destroyer, is undergoing trials prior to delivery to the United States' navy. A statement, issued by the navy as the plane was put through preliminary paces at Bridgeport, Conn., described it as "one of the most powerful bombing planes in the United States, having a military load carrying capacity comparable with that of any known existing airplane."

The bomber is an all-metal, high-wing Sikorsky monoplane. Its four engines develop 1,050 horse power each and are equipped with constant speed propellers. Its armament consists of bow, rear and centre gun turrets. To permit long-range operation, extensive accommodation has been provided for the crew, including mechanics' workshop, galley with electric stove, water distiller and dry ice refrigerator.

An innovation in flying boat equipment is a complete 110-volt electrical system to furnish power for the electrical parts of the ship. A telephone system makes possible communication between all points of the plane.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rev. T. H. Floyd will resume his pulpit on Sunday next, having returned with Mrs. Floyd and daughter, Ruth, from a four weeks' holiday with friends and relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. J. A. Irwin, Front Street, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Gracon, and Mr. Gracon, in Toronto.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold B. Neale and family returned this week from their holidays.

Mrs. P. H. MacMillan and son, Hector, have returned to town after spending the past two weeks at Cedardale Camp.

Misses Mary Murphy and Dorothy Bullen have returned to town after spending the past two weeks with friends in Hornell, N.Y.

A number of young people from town held a party on the west bank of the river on Monday evening, in honor of Miss Gwendolyn Smith, of Detroit, who has been spending the past few weeks as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Redden, Kent Street. The party took the form of a marshmallow and corn roast and with the singing of camp fire songs the evening was a most enjoyable one. Among those present were Misses Elizabeth Free, Lorna Davis, Pat Cryderman, Mildred Wilde, and Messrs. Bob Morrison, R. Linton, Douglas Southern, Harry Richardson and Lloyd Richardson.

ROSENEATH OUTFIT DROPS THIRD GAME

(Examiner Correspondence)

ROSENEATH, Sept. 2.—Although Roseneath won the second game in the semi-final play-off at Grafton on Saturday by a score of 5-3, they were eliminated by Grafton in the third game played at Roseneath Wednesday, by a score of 13-7.

Apparently the warm weather affected the players, for many errors were made, some of which were quite costly. The leader in the scoring column was Cochrane for Grafton team, with 4 runs followed by Immel with 3 runs. Phillips of Grafton and Loukes and McMillan of Roseneath each a 3 base hit. McMahon had 8 strikeouts to his credit, while Smoke had 5. The teams:

Grafton—Beatty, cf; Brown, 3b; Smith, ss; Cochrane, c; Immel, rf; Sabins, 2b; Phillips lf; Lawless 1b; McMahon, p.

Roseneath—Marsden, 1b; Loukes, 3b; Thackeray, c, rf; Morin, rf; Simpson, lf, c; McMillan, cf; Brown, 2b; Bigwin ss; Smoke, p.

Score by innings:

Grafton	303 212 101—13
Roseneath	100 211 101— 7

Umpire—McMahon.

300 ARE KILLED HONG KONG LASHED BY BAD TYPHOON

HONG KONG, Sept. 2 (AP).—More than 300 persons were believed today to have perished as the most devastating typhoon in 10 years lashed this British crown colony. At least 20 vessels were sunk by the fury of the wind.

Ship after ship was torn from its storm mooring in the crowded harbor and sent careening helplesly. The business section of Hong Kong was a veritable shambles. Scores of buildings were uprooted and their fronts smashed in as if they were tinder. The streets were littered with wrecked motor cars.

Countless scores of small craft were tossed like chips against the seawall and those who made them their home were drowned.

Fifty Chinese were reported to have been killed when a block of buildings collapsed at Tai Po.

Along the coast of Macao serious damage was done, particularly to the picturesque colony of boat dwellers.

18 Ships Ashore

A survey showed 18 ships were driven ashore both inside and outside Hong Kong harbor, in addition to those sunk. The largest was the 18,760-ton Italian liner Conte Verde. Most of the ships, it was thought, could be refloated.

It was feared, however, the Dutch liner Van Heutz, ashore on Green Island at the western entrance to the harbor, was a total loss. There was anxiety for the 200 passengers and members of her crew until they were all taken off safely.

The steamship Anlee, tossed by the waves, collided with the British cruiser Suffolk and the destroyers Duchess and Diamond before crashing on the Praya roadway.

A half dozen Chinese vessels were reported aground, along with four British vessels and one each of Japanese, Dutch, Norwegian, Danish and Italian registry.

The Danish liner India sent a call for assistance but her position was undetermined.

The government tug Kausing, reported earlier to have been swamped by the seething waters, was found to have weathered the storm but its Chinese crew had been taken off, leaving the captain and two officers aboard.

The storm added horror to the city's battle against a cholera epidemic in which 219 persons died last week out of 374 reported cases. Communications with Shanghai were cut off.

Numerous houses collapsed under the fierce wind, burying their occupants. Observatory instrments ceased to function after registering a 125-miles-an-hour velocity for the typhoon. The storm spread havoc in the harbor and boiling seas swept the distance of a block into the city, carrying with them the 2,000-ton coastal steamer Anlee.

The ship was picked up like a piece of driftwood and deposited stern first on Praya roadway, with the prow submerged. The British three-funnel ship Tilawa and the Japanese liner Asama Maru were driven aground.

Summer tourist trade has become so heavy in Panama that most merchants depend upon it as an important annual factor in business.

Japan is reported to be investigating the possibilities of securing iron ore from the northeast coast of Queensland, in Australia.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AND so tonight, if it doesn't come down cats and dogs, a ball game will be played in Riverside Park. It is booked for 5.30 between the GM-men of Oshawa and the Petes of Peter's borough, and is a C.O.B.L. semi-final number. These teams are due to meet in two out of three in this serial, and the first fixture—in Oshawa on Tuesday—wound up in a 5-5 draw, being called in the 10th heat. All of which sounds most promising for tonight's tilt and every ball fan in town and his gal friend is likely to ankle over the bridge coming on twilight to get a load of the fray. It ought to be a scrumptious scrap with plenty at stake.

* * * * * *

CHANCES are that Joe Jakaiby and Lefty Biddle will be the rival gunners, though this is not official. Both are ready and much will depend on their soup-bones. Pitching means plenty in a short serial, and also some timely bingling. The Petes are rarin' to go and have a hunch they can oust Oshawa and go in against the Ponies. The locals are playing heads-up ball now, running bases and fighting every minute. They should give the Motor Citizens an anxious hour or two this gloaming. And mayhap cop the duke. It is now money time for the ballsters and money players will cash in.

* * * * * *

YEAH, when it's playoff and payoff time in the diamond sport, some of the players rise to heights—they come through in the clutches. And others flop like a flapjack. With so much depending on 'em, some of the boys get a funny feeling, like their stomachs are looping the loop. Something like when you drop fast in an elevator in a skyscraper. The nerves are jumpy and they will swing at a bad ball when a hit is badly needed, or they will boot a soft roller to let the winning run romp home. Generally the veterans go best—they have learned to relax in a tight spot and figure it as just another ball game. They do not figure the world will end if they go hitless or boot a couple. They just keep in there fighting. So we will see who are the money players on the Petes' team tonight.

* * * * * *

AND now, we hope by gosh the blinking game isn't rained out—though perhaps the home moguls would prefer a Saturday struggle here. But when we have written all this as a buildup for tonight's tussle, we do not want to see it wasted. When you write stuff in advance, you never know how the weather will behave. And if your stuff seems screwy in the light of later events, it is not a nice feeling. Somewhat like giving a doll a big hello and having her husky hubby suddenly step out from a doorway nearby. Kind of embarrassing, you know.

* * * * * *

YE key-pounder at Oshawa sounds off this warning: "The GM-men will have to be on their toes and get more hits or these much-improved Petes will take the series. Hits when needed were decidely lacking as Russ Kitchen did a nice job of holding Oshawa in check Tuesday. The Petes are playing much better ball now. They are fielding brilliantly, are getting excellent pitching apparently, and are certainly hitting better. The GM-men had better give the Petes the serious consideration they deserve or else they'll not be meeting Kingston in the finals." The Limestone City scribe has little to say of the locals' fine tussle in Oshawa, but fears the series will drag out so long that Joe Daley will have to arrange for snowshoes and skates for the final games in the O.B.A.A. It must be that Joe and his Ponies expect to view the final O.B.A.A. tilts.

* * * * * *

DOWN in Ottawa yesterday, the Westclox gals dropped a P.W.S.U. decision, 7 to 2, to the Morrisburg Sailors of that district. Next game or games will be here Saturday, Barb Blade pitched good ball but for a terrible eighth canto when the homesters got all their runs on a walk two errors, three singles and a homer. Westclox got a tally each in the first and sixth. The home hurler held the Delahaye damsels to three hits and had good backing. But the teams are pretty well matched, at that, and if Marg Snowden pitches her usual good game, the Clockmakers ought to even the serial in the first fray here this weekend. It is either that or elimination for the locals. This is the Eastern Ontario finals in gals' softball.

* * * * * *

M. HAWTHORNE led the locals at bat with a single and double in four times up. M. Allison and D. Merrett looked good in the field for 'em. J. Grenon topped the winners with a homer and single, while running grabs by L. Denofrio and E. Thompson were fielding features. The Ottawa slab artist struckout eight and walked two, with Barb Blade fanning one and issuing one free ticket. Toss out that one big frame for the Capital City femmes and it would have been a lovely scrap—but we doubt if the Ottawa girls would agree to having that stanza tossed out. Ah, well, life is like that—it is sometimes spelled with a capital "H", don't you think?

THERE is a letter in elsewhere tonight about the Louis-Farr fight. We'd just as soon forget it, but the script contains some sound matter. Yeah, we under-rated Farr and over-rated Louis, but still think the former is a powder-puff puncher. Had he the wallop, he would probably have been champion now. Louis on the other mitt has the dynamite in his fists but is a dumb Negro inasmuch as he cannot change his style to meet a scrapper who won't stand still. Farr was too fast for him, and of course Tommy displayed the courage of an English bulldog—and he can certainly absorb punishment and come back for more! A credit to the ring, but he will never be a Tunney or Dempsey, since he lacks the kayo sting in his gloves. We agree that Max Schmeling is being given the well-known runaround—they're letting him get a year or two older before given another crack at the crown. Don't forget, though, that Max once was given the title from Sharkey on a decidedly doubtful foul. And he promptly tried to put it in cold storage. He also got a doubtful technical knockout over Stribling before losing his "crown" later to Sharkey.

NAPANEE TIES SERIES.

NAPANEE, Sept. 2.—Napanee defeated Cannifton here yesterday afternoon 10 to 5, to even the first round O.B.A.A. Intermediate championships playoffs. The third and deciding game will be played here Saturday afternoon. Harold Switzer, the winners' young righthand pitcher, threw good ball. Juby replaced Simpson to start the seventh and retired the side in order, but he was found for two more runs in the eighth. Bert McCutcheon, hefty Napanee first-sacker, led all the hitters with two doubles and a single in five tries. Switzer had seven strikeouts, Simpson seven and Juby two.

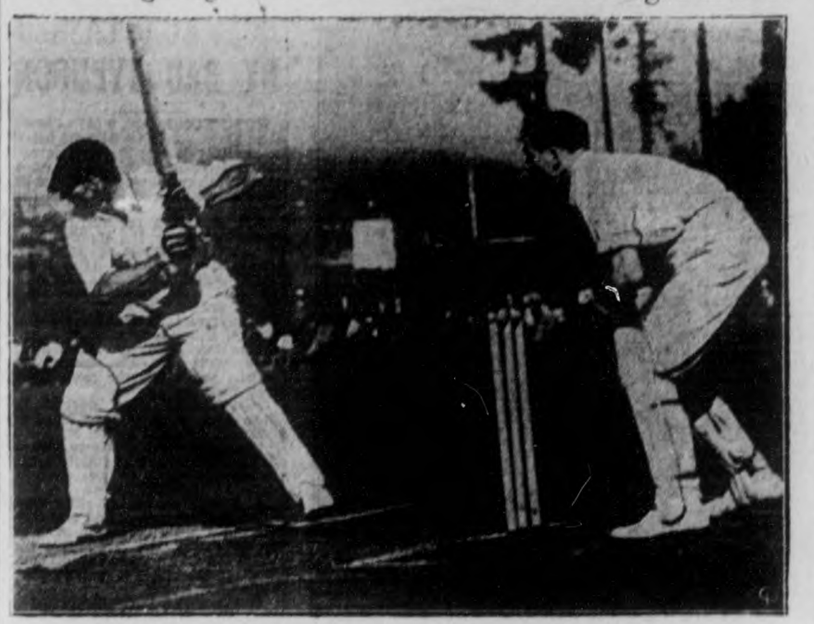
Touring English Cricket Team Shows Strength In B.C.



The Marylebone Cricket Club, of England, which has been touring Canada, stopped off in Vancouver, B.C., for a few exhibition matches. The visiting team's batsmen showed their strength in matches against Vancouver teams, winning both contests on the coast with several wickets to spare. In their match against the British Columbia Colts, a group of promising young players, the tourists batted out 195 for seven wickets and dismissed the Vancouver side with a total of 162 runs. K. A. Sellar, seen in action here, led the English team's attack with 70 runs.

BRITONS REVEL IN FREAK BETS

LONDON, Sept. 2 (CP).—I. H. Perkins bet a friend he could play eight rounds of golf in a day with an average score of less than 100 strokes a round—and lost. Perkins completed the eight rounds in 17 hours and 26 minutes with an average of 101.5 strokes. This golfing stunt was reported in the London Evening Standard along with freak bets of former years.

Captain Barclay was an athlete who backed his prowess with hard cash. He bet 1,000 guineas he could walk or run 1,000 miles in 1,000 successive hours at the rate of a mile an hour. Barclay won his wager but reduced his weight from 196 to 154 pounds.

An unusual bet was made by Charles James Fox, prominent parliamentary figure 130 years ago. Fox challenged a political rival to roll down Primrose Hill. His opponent became so sick from the rolling he was unable to complete the course but Fox finished to win the wager.

A Briton who backed himself in any event was Lord John Kennedy, who bet Sir Andrew Leith Hay he could get to Inverness from Blackball on foot before him. They set off one night about nine o'clock in evening dress with silk stockings and thin slippers.

Sir Andrew followed the coach road but Lord Kennedy took off across the Grampians and walked two nights and a day in heavy rain. He reached Inverness at 6 a.m. the second day, covering about 100 miles in 35 hours. Sir Andrew, on the easier but longer route, came in four hours later.

CLERKS ADVANCE HASTINGS FINALS

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 2.—The Clerks eliminated the Tanners from the local softball play-offs and earned the right to meet the winners between the Outlaws and Elgin. They defeated the Tanners 8 to 4 last night (Wednesday) in a five-inning game.

The Clerks got away to a good start when three runs crossed the plate in the first innings on a single, a walk and two errors. They scored another in the second on a single, Tape's double and an error. Two more Clerks scored in the fourth on a single, a walk and two errors. They scored their final two in the fifth on three hits and three errors.

The Tanners scored all their four runs in the fifth on Brinklow's triple, two walks and three errors.

The pitching of G. Gibson was a standout of the game as he let the Tanners down with six hits, struck out five and walked four. Hahn, on the mound for the Tanners allowed seven hits, struck out one and walked two.

Fast Base Running

Some excitement was caused in the fifth innings when it appeared that Freddy Crate was circling the bases so fast that his trousers caught fire. He discovered very shortly after that he had put a lighted pipe in his pocket. The teams:

Tanners—C. Scriver, 3b; Thompson, ss; Hahn, p; G. Scriver, c; Kelley, cf; M. Scriver, 1b; Turner, lf; Brinklow, 2b; Blackburn, rf, and Lemoire, rf.

Clerks—L. Gibson, lf; J. Gibson, c; Stevenson, rf; Crate, 2b; Calbery, cf; G. Gibson, p; Whitred, 3b; Tape, ss; Wilson, 1b.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

Tanners	0 0 0 0 4—4	6	5
Clerks	3 1 0 2 2—8	7	4

Umpires—Wellman, plate; "Dit" Clapper and Dr. Hess, bases.

Golf Notes

PETERBOROUGH GOLF CLUB

C.L.G.U. Day again saw a large field of ladies compete for the spoons in spite of the heat; the spoon for best net went to Mrs. D. J. Lawrie for her first spoon of the year, her net score of 73 was too good for the others. Mrs. J. R. Marshall, for the second successive week won the spoon for the least number of putts on the 3-5-7 holes, her total being four.

On Friday, September 3, a ladies' field day will be held, entry fee 50 cents, including tea; several prizes for various events.

Tuesday next will be the first of ladies' fall luncheon days, players will be drawn against each other; the draw will be posted on the notice board at the first tee.

Seven Ton Racing Automobile To Joust With Malcolm Campbell's Speed Record

NEW YORK, September 2. — Something new in racing automobiles, and there have been a lot of novel touches since Barney Oldfield's day, is on its way across the ocean to help Captain George Eyston joust with Sir Malcolm Campbell's world record of 301.1292 miles per hour.

Captain Eyston arrived in New York yesterday en route to Bonneville, Utah. There he will take a crack at the Campbell record in his new machine, a monster vehicle weighing seven tons, two more than Campbell's Bluebird, and developing 3,250 horse power.

The structure is the monster's outstanding feature. The two Rolls-Royce engines which develop the horse power are in back of Eyston who sits out in front surrounded by machinery, with two clutches and four front wheels to keep his hands and mind busy.

The four front wheels, a departure from accepted construction, are placed tandem fashion attached to separate axles. There are also four rear wheels set side by side. In addition to the regular breaking the monster has wind brakes.

Ottawa Girls Get Game Lead In Westclox Playoff Series

Homesters Get All Their Runs in Eighth Inning For 7-2 Victory.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—(CP).— Ottawa Morrisburg Sailors were favorites to-day to win the Eastern Ontario Ladies' Softball Title after handing Peterborough Westclox a 7-2 setback here Wednesday night in the first game of the best-in-three series for the championship.

Blanked for seven innings by Barb Blade, the visitors' twirler, the Sailors suddenly came to life in the 8th inning to score all their runs and wipe out a 2-0 lead the visitors enjoyed.

The contest developed into a pitchers' battle from the start. Westclox scored a run in the opening frame and another in the sixth while Miss Blade's fine mound work prevented any Ottawa scoring until her collapse in the fateful eighth.

Lois Hudson, Sailors' pitcher, gave up only three hits and helped on the attack with two singles. Irene Grenon topped the seven-run rally with a home run with two mates on the paths.

The Peterborough girls made two of their hits in the first inning and another in the sixth when they got their second tally. The Sailors got 12 safe blows off Miss Blade's deliveries, seven of them in the eighth frame.

The second game of the series will be played in Peterborough Sept. 4, and if a third game is necessary, it will be played immediately after.

WARKWORTH RINK GETS TOP PRIZE

HASTINGS, Sept. 2.—Eight visiting and four Hastings rinks took part in a very successful men's elimination bowling tournament held on the village greens on Wednesday afternoon. The tournament began at 12.30 p.m. and the last end was played shortly after midnight with Chief George Gimblett's rink of Peterborough and H. Dodds' of Hastings contesting for first and second prizes in the consolation.

The visiting rinks were skiped by Chief G. Gimblett, Peterborough; W. Hooper, Cobourg; A. Matherson, Havelock; A. J. Myers, Campbellford; S. Hunt and A. Wier, Norwood; C. Chuchly and O. Phillips, Warkworth; and four Hastings rinks: J. Doherty, J. Fleming, H. Dood and H. O. Fairman.

First prize in the primary, a silver glas bake casserole to each player, went to the rink of O. Phillips, skip, Dr. Allan, J. Donahue and A. Futon, of Warkworth. The winners of second prize, primary, were H. Fairman, skip, F. Runnels, H. Stephenson and S. Stevenson of Hastings, who received each a woollen blanket. Consolation prizes were won by: First Chief G. Gimblett's rink of Peterborough, each receiving a sandwich grill; 2nd by H. Dodds' rinks of Hastings, each receiving footstools, and the hard luck prize was won by H. Matheson's rink of Havelock, who each received measuring tapes.

About ten o'clock in the evening some of the lady members of the local club served sandwiches and lemonade to the men. The prizes were presented by the secretary, J. L. Doherty.

London Pacer Clips Belleville Record

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 2 (CP)—The track record of 2:07¾, held by Lou Ganot and established ten years ago, was broken twice yesterday by Tom Grattan, fast pacer owned by the Pine Ridge Stables of London and driven by Louie James.

He paced the first two miles in 2.07 flat and appeared as if he could have travelled at least a second faster. The London pacer easily won the 2.14 class in three straight with Simcoe Harvester supplying the chief opposition. In the 2.28 class Scottie Grattan, teamed by Clifford Chapman, was easily the best of a five-horse field.

In the quarter finals, men's singles, of the city tennis tournament last evening, Bill McPherson took two sets from Rolly Hull, 6-3 and 6-0. TENNIS TOURNEY IN SEMI-FINALS

Tonight (Thursday) at 5.30 at Kawartha Club in a semi-final match, Max Cotton, the defending champion, meets Bill McPherson to decide who will meet Roy Tranter in the final tomorrow (Friday) night at the Kawartha Club. Both these matches should produce brilliant tennis, and it is very unlikely any of the three remaining players will have an easy time.

Also at Kawartha Club at 5.30 tonight, Miss Vi Davidson opposes Isabel Kingston in the ladies' finals. Vi is the defending champion and will have a tough battle on her hands to defeat her sister, who was runner-up last year as well. Mrs. Kingston gained the finals by winning a close match from Mrs. Wasson last evening, the score being 6-3, 7-5.

John Donaldson and Cyril Crowe reached the finals in the men's doubles in defeating Rolly Hull and Roy Tranter 6-2, 6-4, 8-6, and will play the team of Jack Cowling and Bill McPherson on Saturday in the finals.

In the only other match played Wednesday, darkness intervened when Helen Cole and Andy Rutter, after a poor start, were making things difficult for Vi Davidson and Max Cotton. The latter team won the first set 6-0, but dropped the second 6-4 chiefly because Helen Cole was playing brilliantly. This match will be completed early next week.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

WITH TWENTY-ONE rinks entered from Cobourg, Oshawa, Lindsay, Norwood, Havelock and Peterborough, the ladies of our club staged their first 'Irish' trebles tournament. Just why it should be called 'Irish' we don't know and we are sure there were more than daughters of Ol' Erin there. Probably the best exhibition of bowling for the entire competition was seen during the four-end play-off between Mrs. J. Watson of Cobourg and Mrs. A. Williams of Lindsay for 4th prize. To those who stayed right through to the finish they were well repaid. The bowling of these two teams was the classic of the day.

TO MRS. J. KINGSBURY goes the honor of the only rink members of the club to get into the money. We understand she skiped a last minute pick-up rink playing two seconds and a lead.... Mrs. W. Zeihr's rink, who came first, had the grand high total of 58 points. While Mrs. R. Brennan of Havelock and Mrs. J. Renaud of Norwood, did not win a game, they made their opponents humble all the time.... The day was hot, the playing was hot, the arguments were hot and in fact it was hot all around.

TO-MORROW afternoon (Friday) at 2 p.m. our ladies are holding a 'complimentary' tournament. This invitation is open to all lady bowlers of the city. The draw will be made from the board and we understand prizes will be given to the winners. We are looking forward to a big entry.

THE WINERS:

First—Peterborough.
Mrs. L. Riley, Mrs. H. McIlmoyle, Mrs. W. Zeihr, sk. (leather purses).
Second—Peterborough.
Mrs. D. Cameron, Mrs. N. Killingbeck, Mrs. Arnold, sk. (blankets).
Third—Cobourg.
Mrs. T. Welbourne, Mrs. J. McKinnon, Mrs. J. Harrison, sk. (pillow cases).
Fourth—Cobourg.
Mrs. C. Keith, Mrs. C. Johnston, Mrs. J. Watson, sk. (sherbet glasses).
Fifth—Peterborough.
Mrs. C. Brown, Mrs. P. Moore, Mrs. J. Kingsbury, sk. (towels).

PHILADELPHIAN ADDS TO HONORS

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (CP)—Joe Burke of Philadelphia today held the Joe Wright Sr. challenge trophy as well as the Canadian and United States singles sculling championships. Using the unorthodox, but effective, choppy style for which he is famed, the blond Philadelphian won the feature mile event at the Canadian National Exhibition regatta yesterday.

Burke started his rowing career pulling himself back and forth across a river to school. Whether that was where he attained his peculiar stroking, it was more than good enough to drive his shell to victory three lengths ahead of Herb Miller, bespectacled Torontonian, and make him the first Wright trophy holder.

Burke's shallow, smooth stroking of 45 to the minute carried him over the mile in five minutes, 57 seconds. Jim Russell of Toronto was third and A. Carrol of Buffalo, fourth. B. Hutchison of St. Catharines, Ont., was fifth.

Buffalo Westsides covered the mile in the 140-pound junior eights in five minutes, 14 seconds, with St. Catharines' Canadian junior champions, second and Toronto Argonauts third.

YANKS POWERLESS AGAINST INDIANS WHO WIN 4 TO 2

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Julius Solters' home run with a mate on base in the fourth inning gave the Cleveland Indians a lead they never relinquished in beating the New York Yankees, 4-2, in an American League game. Denny Galehouse went the route for the tribe, doling out seven hits. Trosky with three singles in four trips, paced the Indians' 10-hit attack off Kemp Wicker.

The second-place Detroit Tigers also lost, 8-2, to the Washington Senators. Wes Ferrell held the Tigers to five hits, while the Senators blasted McLaughlin, Wade and Russell for 15.

Boston blanked Chicago 2-0 in a game postponed after six innings of play because of rain. The second game of the scheduled twin-bill was called off. Lefty Grove gave up five hits in winning; Bill Dietrich four in losing. Luke Appling's error on a slow roller accounted for the Red Sox first, and winning, tally in the third.

Philadelphia beat St. Louis, 5-2. Almon Williams scattering 10 hits to the Brownies. The A's got to Hildebrand and Trotter for nine, one of them a homer by Wally Moses in the seventh—when Philadelphia clinched the game with a three-run burst.

Terry Highest Paid In New Contract

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP).—Win or lose in his current bid to pilot New York Giants to their third National League pennant in five seasons, Memphis Bill Terry will be baseball's highest-paid manager, in 1938.

He will be, that is, unless his neighboring rival, Joe McCarthy of the world champion Yankees, gets his stipend substantially increased as a reward for present and pending accomplishments.

McCarthy now is getting $35,000 a year to Terry's $27,500, but under the terms of a new five-year contract, effective next season, the pilot of the Giants will, it is believed, be paid $40,000 annually.

The only managerial salaries believed to have topped this amount were those paid to Connie Mack of the Athletics and Terry's predecessor, John J. McGraw, at the height of boom times. Tops for a player was Babe Ruth's $80,000.

Central Playoffs Here This Evening

The C.O.B.L. semi-final playoffs officially commence here this evening (Thursday) at 5.30 o'clock in Riverside Park, weather permitting. While the first of this series was played in Oshawa on Tuesday, it resulted in a 5-5 tie, so the Petes and GM-men will be opening the series in reality this evening. Return joust will be in Oshawa on Saturday and a replay of the draw decision, if necessary, will be in the Motor City the first of the week. The winner goes in against Kingston in the loop finals. A huge crowd of local and district rooters is expected tonight to see these clubs clash in such an important fixture. The winner will have a big edge on the short series.

Manager Fred Collins expects to start Joe Jukaffy on the home mound. The chunky righthander has been hurling fine ball in his last three starts, and should hold the hard-hitting GM-men in check. The team will be at full strength, and Whitehill and Kitchen will be held in reserve. Oshawa is almost sure to shoot Lefty Biddle back at the locals, the lean southpaw being used in the first game as a relief chucker when Turner was batted out in the sixth. It promises to be a memorable melee all the way through.

WOMEN EMERGE TO PLAY WELL

LONDON, Sept. 2 (CP).—In the worlds of golf and tennis a female star can glitter as brightly as a male; but on the cricket field the ladies' activities are almost as secret as a Sabbath of witches, says The Times under the heading, "Cricketresses."

Unregarded, they play on, summer after summer, The Times adds.

"If at the dinner-table we observe their weather-beaten features to mantle with indignation, we may be reasonably certain that someone has asked them whether they use a soft ball. This state of affairs must be admitted to have ended.

"Those who read accounts of the third Test Match at the Oval between the ladies of England and the ladies of Australia can no longer assume that women's cricket is nothing more than a standby for comic artists and choreographers. The contest was an epic one. Henceforth none will dare to sneer at, or even ignore, female cricket-players."

FEW BIG FIGHTS HAVE GONE LIMIT IN PAST YEARS

Comparatively few heavyweight championship fights have gone the limit, with both pugilists still on their feet. When the big fellows get swinging for keeps, there is generally a knockout. Tommy Farr a few nights ago in New York stayed with Champion Joe Louis for 15 rounds and was easily holding his own at the final gong. While not extraordinary, this feat has not been done too often in the annals of the prize ring since the days of John L. Sullivan.

Corbett kayoed Sullivan in 21 rounds, while he in turn hit the resin against Fitzsimmons in 14. Fitz was knocked stiff by Jeffries in the 11th and the latter was put away by Johnson in the 15th. Burns claimed the title for a time, but Johnson beat him so badly that police stopped it in the 14th stanza. Willard got a kayo over Johnson in 26 rounds, while big Jess was annihilated by Dempsey in three heats.

Then came two decision bouts, both 10-rounders, with Dempsey losing his title on points and then losing again to Tunney in a return go. Tunney retired and Sharkey outpointed Stribling in 10 rounds to gain the title in an elimination affair. Schmeling was awarded the duke over the Boston gob in four rounds on a foul. Later Sharkey outpointed Schmeling in 15 rounds, but Carnera hung a kayo on Sharkey in four sessions. Max Baer tucked Carnera to sleep in the 11th chukker, and Braddock got the title from Baer on points in 15 rounds. But Louis knocked Braddock stiff in short order, and is still the champion—though Farr gave him a hard fight.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.)

Mel Ott and Hal Schumacher, Giants—— Former's homer with two on clinched 7-3 defeat of Cardinals; latter blanked Cards in seven of nine innings; gave nine hits.

Lefty Grove, Red Sox—Fanned four in six innings while pitching five-hit, 2-0 shutout against White Sox.

Wally Moses, Athletics—Homer with two on brought A's out of cellar with a 5-2 victory over Browns.

Earl Grace, Phillies— Eighth-inning four-bagger with man on broke up tie and stopped Pirates 5-3.

The couple are pictured with a piece of their wedding cake. After the nuptials they sailed for a Bermuda honeymoon.

GIANTS AHEAD IN TIGHT RACE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The torrid National League race got white hot yesterday as the Chicago Cubs were hammered back down to second place and the New York Giants took the lead by .002 percentage points.

It was the fourth swap of the two top places in as many days by the two clubs. The Cubs held it Sunday, the Giants took it Monday, the Cubs grabbed it back Wednesday, and the Giants went into the lead again yesterday.

The Cubs took it on the chin 6 to 4 from the Brooklyn Dodgers, who put on a two-run rally in the eighth to break a 4 to 4 deadlock. Henshaw and Butcher worked for Brooklyn, scattering eleven hits, one more than the Dodgers managed to get off Davis and Shoun. With one out in the eighth, Lavagetto singled and took second on Phelps' fly. Brack grounded to Frey who let the ball go through him, Lavagetto scoring and Brack going to second. English scratched a hit past Jurges to score Brack.

Hal Schumacher distributed nine safeties in pitching the Giants to a 7 to 3 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals. New York got to Lon Warneke for three runs in the third to overcome a two-run St. Louis lead, then knocked the ex-Cub star from the mound in the fourth when they tallied three more. Ripple bounced a hit off Warneke's left knee, forcing him to retire. Rybka, his relief man, was greeted by Mel Ott's twenty-ninth homer of the season with two mates aboard. Dick Bartell, with a double and three singles, paced the Giants' fourteen-hit attack.

OUTLAWS GAIN ONE GAME LEAD

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 2.—The Outlaws swamped Elgin 16 to 3 last night (Tuesday) in the first game of their play-offs for the right to meet the winners of the Clerks-Tanners series for local softball honors. The game was featured by the smart pitching performance of Andy McKee for the Outlaws. He struck out 14 Elgin batters and had good control passing only 1 man.

The Outlaws scored 3 in the third innings on a hit, a walk and an error. In the fifth innings Stickles got a real hit when he clouted a long homer to centre field. In the sixth four more of "Dit" Clapper's gang crossed the plate on 2 singles, a double by "Dit" Clapper, and McCoy's homer to right centre. Six more Outlaws scored in the seventh on 3 singles, "Mort" Scriver's triple and 3 errors. They completed their scoring in the eighth when 2 more crossed the plate on a hit and 3 errors.

Elgin's only runs were scored in the seventh when 3 men scored on 2 hits, 2 errors and a walk.

McKee on the mound for the Outlaws allowed 4 Elgin hits. He struck out 14 and walked 1. The Elgin pitcher, J. Richardson struck out 2 and walked 1. George Bonds of the Outlaws led the batters with 3 hits in 3 times to bat. The playing of E. Preston at second base for Elgin stole the fielding honors.

Elgin—J. Preston, c; J. Richardson, p; M. Scott, 1b; E. Preston, 2b; G. Richardson, 3b; R. Richardson, ss; Fleming, lf; Stinson, cf; Metcalfe, rf; Grady, rf.

Outlaws—Radford, cf; Stickles, 3b; J. Bondo, c; McKee, p; Clapper, 1b; McCoy, lf; Lemoire, 2b; Scriver, rf; Puffer, ss; G. Bonds, 2b.

Score by innings: R H E
Elgin . . . . . 000 000 300— 3 4 7
Outlaws . . . . . 003 014 62x—16 13 4

Umpires—Wellman, plate; Herrington, bases.

Remember When—

Sylvanus Apps, 23-year-old McMaster University student and the pick of Ontario's hockey amateurs, signed a two-year contract with Toronto Maple Leafs one year ago today. Point winner for Canada in the 1936 Olympics, Apps was a consistent scorer for the National Hockey League team and was voted the circuit's best rookie.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Max Schmeling is convinced the crowd controlling Joe Louis is freezing him out of a return match because they are afraid he'll lick Joe again and romp off with the title, thus knocking them out of a lot of gravy... Max will return home any day now with his own ideas of American sportsmanship and fair play...

Baron Gottfried von Cramm not only will add a lot of tone to the national singles tennis championships at Forest Hills, but he's liable to win the singles...If not, why is Don Budge no better than an even money choice?

Too bad they overlooked John Henry Lewis, the light heavyweight king (and a real champ), when presenting the champions at the Yankee Stadium Monday night... Bill Terry's new Giant contract puts him ahead of Mickey Cochrane in the managerial salary race...Tommy Farr begins his theatrical "career" with a routine on the steel pier at Atlantic City Saturday night...

Lou Gehrig has hit 20 homers with the bags loaded—five this season...Can't always go by a name, gents...A hoss named Saparoo won his second in a row at Detroit yesterday and paid $14.80...Somebody asked Tommy Farr what he thought of Joe Louis' punches..."If I'd seen 'em coming," replied the Welshman, "I wouldn't have got in the way of 'em you bet."

Returning to the screen in the finest role of her career, Bette Davis appears at the Regent Theatre in a Midnite showing Sunday, September 5, at 12.05, daylight saving time. Also on Monday and Tuesday. Regular prices prevail for all performances. Don't fail to see the side of life you've never known with Bette Davis in "Marked Woman."

MONTREAL GOLFER AMONG FAVORITES

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2—(CP).—Sixteen linkswomen entered the second round of the Canadian women's open golf tournament today with Beatrice Barrett, Minneapolis, and Montreal's Nora Hankin favored to meet in the 36-hole final Saturday.

The Minnesota state champion and the 22-year-old Montreal girl led the way through the first round Tuesday over the beautiful St. Charles Country Club course bordering the Assiniboine River west of Winnipeg.

Miss Hankin fired a one-over-par 39 to the turn and ended her 18-hole-match with Mrs. Theo. Kipp, Winnipeg, on the 11th green. Miss Barrett also won 8 and 7, negotiating the first nine in 40 and shooting the next two holes in par to eliminate Mrs. Charles Wilson, Victoria.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Barrett, ambitious to become a dress designer, has established herself in Paris through a partnership with Countess Anetka that was made possible by Mark Sutherland, and American playboy she met on shipboard. Mary likes Mark but misses Tony Castle, owner of a smart New York shop who gave her her start. She left the Castle shop suddenly nearly three years previously after an altercation with Tony's head buyer. More and more she realizes she is in love with Tony. Her success in Paris has been phenomenal and, thanks to Mari Barat, the name she has assumed, Anetka's shop is growing famous. Mark Sutherland, in Paris again, tells Mary he has big plans for her. Mark introduces Mary to a prominent American fashion editor, Claire Todd. Mary writes to Tony but destroys the letter next morning. Claire Todd decides to "discover" Mari Barat for American fashion readers. Claire urges Mark to ask Mary to marry him. Anetka surprises Mary by having "Mari Barat" lettered on the shop window.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY).

CHAPTER 24.

At 10 minutes of 9 the subway at Times square poured its occupants out in the thousands. From the lower East Side, the upper West Side, Brooklyn, Carnarsie and other adjacent points, the goddess-like girls who were models, the rabbit-like tailors, cutters designers and seamstresses hurried to another day at their places in the garment centers on Seventh avenue, New York.

Promptly at 9 o'clock, the moguls sat at their desks, bit the ends off fat cigars and picked up the day's copy of WOMEN'S WEAR, the newspaper that was their daily Bible lesson.

And in 10 minutes, on the twelfth, fifteenth and eighteenth floors of as many buildings in that center, 14 replicas of Mr. Morris Goldstein, millionaire manufacturer of dresses to retail from $89.95 to $175, pounded fat hands on their copies of the newspapers and demanded in voices that startled the organization from cutting room to showroom to see their expensive foreign buyers.

"And why, Miss Dinwoodie, didn't you bring back anything from the Barat opening?"

Miss Dinwoodie, Miss Jaeckel, Miss Hermann and 11 other buyers opened their perfectly rouged lips to say they had never heard of it. As well they might.

Never heard of Mari Barat?

Files of the week's newspapers were demanded and brought to the head office. Pages were spread out.

Never heard about the designer who started the rage for the thin wool coat?

This new Schiaparelli! This new Vionnet! Never heard of her?

Look at this. A double spread in the Sunday Chronicle. Roxanne Rohde, the Viennese star, imported by the big movie company, buys her entire wardrobe for her American debut from Mari Barat. Look at these dresses! Look at these lines! What have the others got that she hasn't?

Look here. Claire Todd, the most widely read syndicate writer, says: "Mari Barat, is a newcomer to the fashion world, destined to streak across the sky with a wake of stars. This young creator has fresh, revolutionary ideas ideally adaptable for American trade. She has no peer in the better known houses in her gift for creating clothes that are dramatic without being theatrical. It is predicted...."

"Find out who her representative is in America!"

"No, sir....there is no one registered at this hotel as a representative...."

"Sorry, Mr. Goldstein, we hadn't heard of her either, but Mr. Rosenblum has cabled our buyer who is in Paris...."

"We cannot give out that information....yes, sir, this is the fashion department of the paper...."

"Somebody must know how to reach her...."

"Listen, Sam, you can get a fast boat and be in Paris in four days. Don't waste no time. Get right to this Barat. Buy up as many models as you can and find out where she buys her felt...."

"Miss Dinwoodie, one more mistake like this will cost you your job...."

"Get these clippings off to Barat on the Ile de France—she's sailing tonight. Tell her the Apex Clipping Bureau will make her a special price on international clippings. Usual rate for U. S. stuff...."

"My dear, I was in Paris for four months and I never heard of her. When I think of all the things I bought at Lanvin and Mainboucher and missed that one completely...."

"But you know how cagey they are! She was probably keeping everything dark until the openings. I've heard that when the designers are getting their collections ready, they won't let their people go home for weeks on end. They lock all the doors, and pull the shades. It's too fascinating! I must get something when I go over from Barat...."

"I hear she's an Italian..... Oh, no, darling, she's French! The wife of a marquis or something.... Wasn't she a musical comedy star? ...No, she's an American debutante, who changed her name...."

"Have you seen the last copy of MODE? I've simply got to have that black suit with the little felt jacket! And that chiffon dress with a girdle made of bronze plaques that were found in the Aztec country...."

"No, but I told Herman, if I don't find a copy of that silver lace with chinchilla, that I'll simply die...."

"Say, this girl's a comer. Her stuff is easy to copy, too. Let's send a cable to our buyer in Paris. We might experiment with one number...."

"Miss Kissel, ask Mr. Humbert if he'd like to run an interview with Mari Barat for our next number. We could throw out that cruise story....oh, he has cabled already? ... Good! Perhaps we could sign her up for a series of articles...."

"Get Humphries on the job at once! Don't let any other syndicate get to her! Top whatever offers they make and make it snappy!"

That was on Feb. 1. Maribarat! Maribarat! Maribarat! Her name was on countless tongues. Cables, wires, articles, questions, telephone calls were spreading her name wherever it counted.

But Tony Castle, washing his brushes, going without his lunch, to paint while the light was right, was far from that world. He did not trouble himself with newspapers.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Oh, no, Madame, I would subordinate the green. Green is so difficult, it is the color of nature but without the subtle shading of nature, the sunlight and shadows, it becomes lifeless. Now I should make the white satin sheath open over a green foundation." Mari Barat looked up as the troubled face of Gabrielle appeared between the curtains. She waved her away and turned to her client. "With a belt of chocolate ceremac, I think we'd get a more dramatic effect, don't you?"

Madame thought they would. Mary, harassed and anxious for news of Anetka who had been rushed to the American hospital for an appendectomy, took her client to the door with forced grace. She hurried back to the workroom to confront Gabrielle whose face was tragic study.

The bronze organdie had been hopelessly burned and it would take another day to replace the fabric!

Mary collapsed on a bench. "Oh dear! And today is the fifteenth! We promised Mademoiselle she could have her dress today! Is there anything else important that can happen today?"

There was.

In an office of an imposing banking house on the rue Richelieu, there was a meeting of 10 gentlemen —representatives of the manufacturing background of the dressmaking trade, credit men from the textile houses, the fur and lace companies.

They were meeting to discuss a mutual project.

There was a new star rising in their limited world. Would they appoint a representative to offer Mari Barat the backing and the means toward a greater house?

Mary Barrett, her arms filled with flowers hastened toward a hospital room, knowing nothing of the forces beginning to move for her.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S GIANT.

"Unkie Wig," called the little orphan rabbit as she was seeing how many times she could wham the paddle ball, using the toy Buster gave her after he was cured in the hospital tent.

"Yes, Baby Bunty, what is it?" asked Mr. Longears. "What is it?"

"Are there any such things as giants?" Bunty asked.

"Well," answered Uncle Wiggily and he pinkied his twink nose upside down for a change, "it depends on what you meant by a giant."

"Oh, it's a very big creature I guess," said Bunty. "I was reading about one in my story book. It was about a rabbit as tall as a tree."

"There aren't really any fairy book giants," said Uncle Wiggily. "Sometimes there may be rabbits which are much larger than you and I. And I have seen circus poster pictures of big men who are much bigger than other men. They call them circus giants. But as for a rabbit as tall as a tree, unless it is a very tiny tree, there are no such creatures as giant rabbits."

It Depends.

"I suppose," went on Bunty as she looked at herself reflected as she was, as in a looking glass, from the surface of the spring near Uncle Wiggily's camping tent, "I suppose we little rabbits look like giants to a tiny red bug crawling in the grass."

"Yes, that is true," said Uncle Wiggily. "A red bug might say we small rabbits were giants for we are a hundred times as large as he is. But tell me, Bunty, do you see a red bug?"

"Yes, Unkie Wig, I do, in the grass."

"Has it red spots, Bunty?"

"Yes, Unkie Wig, it has," said

Bunty looking again to make sure. "But why?"

"Because if it's a red spotted bug it's a Squiggler and a great friend of mine. Let me look."

When Uncle Wiggily had looked in the grass he gave a joyful shout and said:

"Hello, Squiggler! How are you?"

"Just fine and dandy," buzzed the Squiggle Bug. How are you?"

"I never felt better," said Mr. Longears. "I'm only sorry it will soon be time to take down my camping tent and go back to my hollow stump bungalow. The season is nearly over."

"Yes, I'll soon be flying South," said the Squiggle Bug, "I can't stand the cold Winters you have up here. Excuse me," buzzed the tiny little chap to Bunty, "but would you mind counting my spots for me?"

Careful Chap.

"I shall be glad to," said Bunty. "But why count them?"

"I want to make sure I haven't lost any," said the bug. So Bunty counted his spots and said he had ten and a half.

"There's one very little spot," said the orphan rabbit, "so I counted that as a half one."

"That's right," buzzed the Squiggler laughing. "It will soon grow into a large spot. Thank you, little giant."

"Do I really seem like a giant to you?" asked Baby Bunty.

"Indeed you do," said the Squiggler. "When I'm down in the grass and I look up at you towering over me like a church steeple, I think what a giant you are."

"Unkie Wig was telling me," said Bunty, "that giants are only that way because they seem so. He says —but where did Unkie Wig go?" asked Bunty suddenly as she missed the rabbit gentleman.

"I don't know," answered the Squiggler, "but I do know this. A real giant rabbit is coming this way. Look!"

Bunty saw a great, towering rabbit coming toward her. He seemed as tall as a church steeple. Bunty wondered who it was.

And if you do, also, you may learn by reading the next story. It will be about Uncle Wiggily and big Bunty. And if the June Bug will stop reading the fly paper and let the hop toad have it, I think it would be polite.

Fall Wheat Should Be Sown Before Middle Of September

Seven Years' Tests Show Yields Drop Rapidly if Planting Delayed.

DR. G. L. McROSTIE
(Field Husbandry Department, Ontario Agricultural College).

As the time for planting fall wheat is rapidly approaching, it might be opportune to consider some practices that have been found profitable in the years of testing this crop at the Ontario Agricultural College. First, with regard to the most satisfactory place in the crop rotation, it has been found that next to bare fallow, the best results were obtained when winter wheat followed clover sod, either red clover, alfalfa, sweet clover or even field peas. Much poorer crops resulted by planting after buckwheat or a grass sod.

The most satisfactory time to seed is always a debatable question. Here it is a question of balancing probable losses and gains that may result from seeding at any given time. Seven years' tests of seeding at weekly intervals beginning August 26 and ending November 5 gave no significant difference in the average yields secured by seeding at any time between August 26 and September 16.

After this date, however, the yields rapidly decreased with each succeeding date of planting. For example, six bushels lower yield resulted from the September 23 seeding than from the planting made on September 16. Hessian fly damage was considerably in evidence during the current year in sections where rust was present. The earlier planted material was much freer from rust damage than that which was seeded at a later date.

Decided Advantage

On the whole there seems to be a decided advantage to the earlier planting. Only under exceptionally favorable conditions does the late seeded crop become thoroughly established before winter sets in.

In considering the rate of seeding, a great deal depends on the kind of seed used and the condition of the seed bed. Under favorable seeding conditions at the Ontario Agricultural College, nine year's results indicate that the most satisfactory yields are secured from seeding at the rate of one and three-quarters to two bushels per acre. On a thoroughly prepared seed bed, one and three-quarters bushels was quite satisfactory, while under less favorable conditions two bushels was not too heavy.

At whatever rate or time seed is planted it should be as free as possible from preventable disease. Loose smut annually takes a rather heavy toll in the winter wheat areas of Ontario. This disease is preventable but the seed treatment necessary in this connection is rather difficult to carry out. Probably the most satisfactory way is to secure seed free from smut and increase a small acreage to supply the general seed requirements of the farm.

The stinking smut can be controlled quite readily by treatment with formalin, copper carbonate or one of the new mercurial dusts. These later types of dusts are effective in controlling a number of root rotting organisms as well as the stinking smut.

A large number of varieties of fall wheat have been tested at the Ontario Agricultural College during recent years. The results of these tests indicate that among the varieties available in Ontario, the Dawson's Golden Chaff (O.A.C. No. 61) is still one of the highest producers. The O.A.C. No. 104 and the Junior No. 6, one of the softest wheats, are both quite satisfactory in some districts. Fifteen years' yield tests at the Ontario Agricultural College indicate the Dawson's to be the highest yielder with O.A.C. No. 104 second and Junior No. 6 just a few bushels behind. The highest yielding red winter wheat was the Red Rock with the Imperial Amber coming second.

Wisconsin Rye

Five years' tests have been completed with a number of the more promising newer varieties of winter rye. A comparison of two of the best of these with better known sorts will indicate their yielding ability. Common rye yielded 54.7 bushels and Rosen rye 59.2, in comparison with 63.2 bushels for Dakold and 69.9 bushels for Wisconson No. 6. The Wisconsin selection in particular seems to be a significantly higher yielder than any of the varieties with which it was tested.

A continuous selection for hardiness in winter barley has been carried on for many years at the Ontario Agricultural College. In spite of this fact the product as now grown still lacks the hardiness of winter wheat or winter rye. However, a complete failure was recorded only once in the past years of test, with a partial failure in another year. The average yield of the Tennessee variety over a 28-year period was almost 47 bushels per acre.

Hairy vetch appears to be better adapted to the lighter soil areas of southwestern Ontario. Where seed is desired the crop is frequently grown mixed with winter rye, which crop tends to prevent the vetch from lying flat on the ground. During the 12 years in which hairy vetch has been grown at the Ontario Agricultural College, the average yield of seed has been a little over 10 bushels per acre.

Marrying In Haste Is Now Forbidden

ALBANY, N.Y., Sept. 2—(AP)—New York State's women received today the right to sit on a jury but, at the same time, were denied the privilege of marrying in haste.

One of two state laws effective last midnight, permits selection of women for jury duty; the other forces couples desiring to marry to wait 72 hours after receiving the license.

The so-called "cocktail" marriage law is designed to curb quick-blooming romances likely to be repented at leisure.

Both laws were passed by the 1937 Legislature.

THYROID TESTS INVOLVE WHALE OF HUDSON BAY

CHURCHILL, Man., Sept. 2 (CP)—A robin that fishes is intriguing to scientists studying bird and insect life in this district. They claim it is the first time on record that a robin has been found muscling in on waterfowl. However, in this north country food isn't always plentiful and the birds cannot be too ethical.

Water drips from Churchill's reservoir, forming a pool which runs into a nearby creek. Small fish from the creek work their way up to the pool where the robin stands by the hour at the edge of the water and from time to time grabs with its bill the minnows that venture too close to it.

Churchill has proven an interesting rendezvous for scientists this summer. The most important party is that headed by Dr. George E. Crile, famous surgeon of Cleveland, Ohio, who has with him Dr. D. P. Quiring of Western Reserve University and Arthur O. Fuller, manager of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History. Their study is being made in connection with a thyroid gland investigation. They have examined great numbers of fish and land animals including six white whale. Many specimens have been sent to Cleveland.

"It is too early to arrive at any definite conclusions in our comparisons of animals living in cold climates and the same species we have previously examined living in warm climates," Dr. Crile stated. "But the tests here have been highly satisfactory."

Dr. Crile and his party went to Chesterfield Inlet on the Steamer Nascopie and plan to remain there some time. While there, they hope to perform metabolism tests on native Eskimos.

Scientists studying insect life have included R. H. Daggy and D. G. Denning of the division of entomology, University Farm, Minn.; W. J. Brown, entomologist from department of agriculture, Ottawa and Frank Farley, Camrose, Alta. N. Rollin, an ornithologist from England, was also here.

A. D. Bagkov, a Russian, is looking into the possibilities of commercial fishing in Hudson Bay. Contrary to a government report which held out scant hopes, Dr. Bagkov insists there can be successful cod fishing and many other types of edible fish.

Conditions Similar

"The conditions in Hudson Bay are almost exactly the same as in the White Sea and Kara Sea in northern Russia where there is much fishing," Dr. Bagkov said. "I am sure there will be successful fishing of cod in Hudson Bay. However in the summer the cod are feeding on capelin. As soon as we find out when they gather in schools in the bottom of the bay we will be able to fish successfully for them. They are being caught occasionally now but will be in abundance when we know their habits better.

"Other wish which will be caught in commercial quantities in the vicinity of Churchill will be whitefish, siscoe and Arctic char (a type of salmon). The oils from white whales make them profitable. There are plenty of sturgeon in the Churchill River above the estuary but there are no facilities for getting them to a market."

Entomologists find insect growth in the sub-Arctic exceedingly rapid. Grasshoppers for example develop twice as rapidly as in southern Manitoba. Hatched fully four weeks later, they reach maturity about the same time as their southern brothers. With the short summer in this district they would not be able otherwise to reproduce.

BRITAIN RUSHES WARSHIPS TO MEDITERRANEAN

OPEN TRAINING CAMPS FOR 350 ONTARIO BOYS

TORONTO, Sept. 3 (CP) — The national youth training program, jointly undertaken by Dominion and provincial governments, went into operation in Ontario today with 350 youths ranging from 18 to 26 years of age moving into training camps scattered across Northern Ontario. Approximately 10 youths will be accommodated in each of 31 camps established by the Department of Lands and Forests.

Instruction, designed to fit the boys for permanent places in local industry, will vary according to local conditions. They will be taught use of the compass, timber cruising and scaling, telephone line construction and maintenance, activities connected with the pulp and paper industry.

In mining districts a maximum of 50 young men will be given a technical course sufficient to qualify as assistants to mine surveyors, assayors, mineralogists. Those selected must have matriculation and pass medical and x-ray examinations, and all will be selected from employment service registrations.

Class will be held by the Department of Education in the mining area with a course lasting about six months, longer for those in some other lines. A $10 weekly living allowance and transportation will be given each student.

The provincial department of mines expects to have positions available for these young men when fully trained.

Those engaged under the forestry plan will be paid one dollar a day plus camp board.

In other parts of Ontario, departmental representatives will canvass industrial key-men for openings for apprentices and learners of both sexes. Courses will be made available to Ontario citizens 18 to 30 years of age to need of specific trades. Instruction will be given for not more than 13 weeks, with $10 weekly living allowance and one-way transportation.

MYSTERY FLARES ARE EXPLAINED

ABOARD S.S. NASCOPIE, Prince Regent Inlet, Sept. 3 (AP)—By Wireless)—Mysterious flares seen from this ship anchored in Bellot Strait Wednesday were explained today with the arrival of the Hudson's Bay Company agent, L. D. Learmonth.

He said he had been ice-bound when travelling across Boothia Peninsula to meet the Nascopie here and had set off flares Wednesday night to indicate he was approaching. He arrived here by canoe.

When the flares were first seen, all hands aboard this vessel conducting the eastern Arctic patrol, speculated on the possibility that they might be signals from the six missing Russian Polar flyers.

Typhoon Toll Is Estimated At 500

HONG KONG, Sept. 3 (AP)—Typhoon-battered Hong Kong today was a city strewn with wreckage, with bodies washed up along the waterfront and great ships pitched crazily inland.

The storm's havoc accentuated the misery in this city, packed with war refugees and fighting a cholera epidemic in which two-thirds of the cases have been fatal.

The death toll was estimated at 500 or more. The only foreigners reported to have perished were two Portuguese.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND 6

TORONTO—The unclad body of a middle-aged woman was found today on the shore of Lake Ontario at the foot of Fallingbrook road, in East Toronto.

Coroner C. D. Farquharson said death was due to drowning and foul play was not indicated, but bruises on the woman's face prompted police to start an investigation.

Australia shipped 263,805 bales of wool to the United States in the last year.

Six Red Lake Mining Settlements Burned

Gold Mining Camps Wiped Out In Fire That Raged 3 Days

Fifteen Square Miles of Forest and Muskeg Are Destroyed.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 3.—(CP)—Reports of damage mounting into thousands of dollars reached Winnipeg to-day from the Red Lake mining area of North-western Ontario, 175 miles north-east of here, where forest fires hit six settlements before being checked by rain.

Full extent of damage by the fires that raged five days over 15 square miles until rain checked them Monday has not been determined. Reports said no lives were lost although many persons were homeless. About 30 log-type buildings were reported burned. Communication with the area is difficult.

Points affected were the Cole gold mines, the village of Cole, Ont., the May-Spiers mine, the Middle Bay mine and two other smaller settlements. Scattered fires are still burning.

The May-Spiers mine, closed down for the fall, the Middle Bay gold mine and camp buildings of the Cole gold mines were burned, said James Sandwell, of Red Lake, in a message here

Swept Into Village.

"The main fire started late last week some distance from the Cole gold mine and within 24 hours swept over fire guards into the village," he said.

The fire raged through muskeg and timberlands over 300-foot Cole mountain and wiped out the home of Y. Cole, manager of the mine bearing his name, just one day after its construction had been completed.

The fire spread toward the May-Spiers property, burning homes and the May-Spiers mine. On the northerly side of Pipestone Bay, a sudden change of wind prevented destruction of the post office and general store owned by Gordon Shearan, Dr. Daniel G. Revell's home and Wings, Ltd., radio station.

Mr. Sandell said residents quit the fire zone and moved what belongings they could on to scows. It could not be learned whether the homeless went to Red Lake, 25 miles east of Cole, or whether they found shelter closer at hand.

The village of Cole was established in 1925 by John Y. Cole, whose father was one of the first mining prospectors to go into the Rossland, B.C., area many years ago.

Manager Is Fined Operating Lottery

TORONTO, Sept. 3 — (C.P.). — Gordon Blackford, manager of the Travel Club, to-day was fined $100 and costs or one month in jail when he appeared in court here on chages laid under an amendment to Section 236 of the Criminal Code. Notice of appeal was filed.

Magistrate R. J. Browne said the club, which through payment of dues by members into a revolving fund claimed to make vacation trips possible to participants "has all the elements of a lottery." The club members are said to receive varying amounts up to $540 each.

Pending hearing of his appeal, Blackford agreed the club offices would be closed.

The high duty charged here on liquor imports makes the sale of poor quality beverages impracticable.

CHINESE LAUNCH SURPRISE ATTACK JAPS DRIVEN BACK

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3. —(AP)—Chinese troops surprised the Japanese tonight with a counter-offensive which shifted fighting back to Shanghai proper and placed in new jeopardy the lives of foreigners.

The Chinese attack stalled Japan's long-promised "big push" and forced a revision of Japanese strategy.

Chinese artillery and machine-gun nests sprayed shells and bullets on Japanese warships and troops transports. Eight Japanese transports fled downstream.

Shells crashed into the International Settlement and the French concession. Shrapnel burst over the foreign communities. One heavy artillery shell burst at the junction of Peking road and the Bund in the International Settlement.

Danger loomed also for foreign warships. A Japanese naval spokesman announced Japanese ships would fire across the foreign naval contingent lying in the Whangpoo in punitive bombardment of Chinese artillery positions.

Chinese gunners showed surprising improvement in marksmanship. They scored three direct hits on the Japanese consulate, seriously wounding three Japanese consular police and one Japanese newspaper. Many Japanese bluejackets on shore and on ship board were killed or wounded.

REINDEER GIVEN BACK TO ESKIMOS

JUNEAU, Alaska, Sept. 3 (AP)—Coppery Indian braves and bland, round-faced Eskimos grunted satisfaction today and unlimbered their long-idle hunting rifles. The rein deer were theirs again.

By a stroke of his pen yesterday President Roosevelt returned to "the Eskimos and natives of Alaska" the 600,000 reindeer that roam Alaska's ranges.

The bill he signed authorized a $2,000,000 appropriation to buy up interests of the Lomen Commercial Company, which for years has virtually controlled the reindeer industry.

Alaskan officials rejoiced with the Indians and Eskimos at the prospect of many years of plenty, with meat for all.

The bill also provides that ranges, slaughter houses and equipment be turned over to the natives.

The Lomen family, meanwhile, announced it would retire from the industry.

CANADA MAKES REVENUE GAINS DURING AUGUST

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—(CP)—Continued gains in Dominion Government revenues from al sources were reported by the Department of National Revenue for August to-day.

Customs—Excise collections during August amounted to $29,538,004 compared with $23,691,206 collected during August, 1936, an increase of $5,846,798. Gains were made at all points. Customs duties totalled $8,108,733, increase $1,965,903; excise taxes $16,427,337, increase $3,080,696; excise duties $4,937,303, increase $781,202; sundry collections $64,631-increase $18,996.

Customs—Excise collections April 1 to Aug. 31,1937, totalled $131,936,596, compared with $105,283,841 during the corresponding months last year.

Receipts in detail were: Customs duties $39,260,285, increase $6,694,496; excise taxes $60,523,324, increase $16,742,485; xecise duties $22,829,978, increase $3,179,468; sundry collections $328,009, increase $35,305.

Net collections of income tax for the five months period, April 1 to Aug. 31, 1937, totalled $90,702,767, as against $76,559,259 collected in the same period last year, an increase of $14,144,508.

A statement of collections by districts shows Toronto well in the lead with an income tax revenue for the five months period of $31,782,489, a net gain of $5,720,873, while collections from the Montreal district stepped up to $24,460,515, an increase of $3,676,053.

Net collections for the month of August totalled $4,248,379 compared with $4,076,085 collected in August last year, a net gain of $172,294.

300,000 PEOPLE TO BE ON RELIEF IN SASKATCHEWAN

HALIFAX, Sept. 3 (CP)—Drought conditions in the West, particularly in Saskatchewan, were mentioned today by delegates to the general Synod of the Church of England in Canada as the Synod became a committee of the whole to discuss the report of the council for social service.

"Conditions this year are the worst in the history of the Diocese of Qu'Appelle—but we are sticking to our job," said Rev. W. H. Adcock of Regina. It is expected 300,000 people will be on relief in Saskatchewan this winter."

The question came up during discussion of the section of the C.S.S. reperot dealing with the carloads of provisions and clothing sent into drought areas last year. The report was presented by General C.S.S. secretary W. W. Judd of Hamilton, Ont., and discussion will continue throughout the day.

Always 'Next Year'

"I appeal to the generosity of the people in the East and the Far West," said Mr. Adcock. 'Maybe by this time next year, we shall be in a better condition—for it is always 'next year' in Saskatchewan."

Canon H. A. Alderwood, Saskatoon told the Synod the drought area had extended northward to the Saskatoon district and beyond this year. He thanked members for their support in the past and asked that it be continued "for this year at least."

Delegates from all over the Dominion followed in rapid succession pledging the support of their districts to the stricken areas. Rt. Rev. D. T. Owen, Primate of all Canada, suggested the subject be left over until Monday night when the general question of the drough; area will be discussed.

Communism, the subject which held up progress through the report of the General Board of Religious Education yesterday, again was mentioned, and a committee named to draft a resolution covering the subject which will be discussed later in the session.

Trucker Is Killed Kingston Street

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 3 (CP).—James Hill, driver for Anderson Brothers, grocers, was killed here today when struck by a car driven by Thomas Slowinski, Kingston. Slowinski was taken in charge by the police and is being held pending further investigation.

Hill was standing at the rear of a truck, preparing to take some goods into a corner grocery store at Victoria and Princess Streets. Slowinski was driving east when he apparently lost control of the car. The car swerved to the side and crashed into Hill.

Japan Threatens to Bring Foreign Warships Into Line of Fire.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3 (CP).—The Japanese navy threatened today to open a heavy punitive bombardment from positions directly in front of British and other foreign warships bringing them squarely in the line of fire.

A naval spokesman said the Japanese fleet, rather than continue to take the heavy pounding from Chinese land batteries, would shift into positions where it could reply adequately regardless of the danger to which it exposed foreign men-of-war.

The spokesman charged Chinese with using mortars and field artillery to bombard Japanese-occupied Hongkew without warning, killing many Japanese civilians and wounding two consular officials. This, he said demanded definite Japanese retribution.

Chinese asserted their severe shelling of the Japanese was in retaliation for the destruction of the rich Pootung industrial area.

As evening fell, the effect of the Chinese fire was intensified and the harrassed Japanese hurried three warships up the Whangpoo from Woosung. They took up positions just off the garden bridge at the foot of the Bund. An anti-torpedo net was thrown out around a 26,000-ton Japanese transport, principal Chinese target.

Havas News Agency dispatches said Sino-Japanese fighting broke out today at Amoy, southern port of Fukien Province.

Japanese invasion of Fukien from the neighboring island of Formosa, which had long been anticipated, would mean the beginning of a Japanese drive in South China, the dispatches said.

14 NEW CASES.

TORONTO, Sept. 3 — (C.P.). — Fourteen new cases of infantile paralysis were reported by the Department of Health here to-day. A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held next Thursday, it was announced, to decide whether further postponement of reopening of the schools was necessary. The schools are scheduled to reopen September 13.

Ontario Redeems $7,500,000 In Bonds

Toronto, Sept. 3.

PROVINCE of Ontario bonds amounting to $7,500,000 have been redeemed at maturity, it was learned at Queen's Park yesterday. The bonds were bought in out of current revenues.

"We had the money in the bank, so we used it to wipe out this indebtedness," explained a Treasury official. "It is nothing unusual."

Quebec's Surplus Is $3,968,565

QUEBEC, Sept. 3 (CP).—A surplus of $3,968,565 was reported today by provincial treasurer Martin B. Fisher in the financial statement of the Quebec government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1937.

Mr. Fisher, in presenting the first financial report of the Union Nationale Government, reported ordinary revenue for the year of $46,289,610, highest in the history of the province. Expenditures were $42,311,454.

"We are elated in declaring a betterment in the finances of the province," Mr. Fisher said. "This result has been obtained without the burden of additional taxation."

Guerilla War Waged By Submarines Of An Unknown Nation

Soviet Freighter is Sunk in Northern Aegean Sea—Wireless Operator Killed.

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP) — Four destroyers of His Majesty's home fleet furrowed a swift path toward the western Mediterranean today to help track down guerilla submarines that have terrorized international shipping with torpedo attacks.

The admiralty announced the Fury and Foresiter, sailing from Portsmouth, and the Fortune and Firedrake from Chatham, would join five other destroyers on Spain's east coast.

These ships will patrol a wide area of the Mediterranean near where only two days ago the British destroyer Havock and the British tanker Woodford were torpedo targets. The Havock escaped; the Woodford was sunk.

12th Division On Duty

The four destroyers comprise the 11th division of the sixth home fleet flotilla. The 12th division, the remainder of the sixth flotilla, is already on duty off the Spanish coast—the flotilla leader Keith and the destroyers Pearless, Foxhound, Fame and Foresight.

Naval experts said the 11th Division could reach its destination in three days at forced draft or five days at cruising speed. The admiralty's orders in that respect were not disclosed.

This action was but one point of the government's plans to curb the maritime outrage. The other avenue was through negotion toward unified action by the affected powers.

France was expected to propose a method of collective action at a conference of Mediterranean powers next week at Geneva.

France, deeply concerned over the threat to Mediterranean shipping and her own colonial communications, also had ships on patrol duty. The sloops D'Iberville and Iphicenie and the destroyer Verdun arrived today at Algiers.

The situation was aggravated anew by reports last night the Soviet freighter Blagoev had been sunk in the Northern Aegean Sea and its wireless operator killed.

Captain Denis Kamelieke of the Blagoev said the attacking submarine flew the Spanish insurgent flag. He had 36 members of the crew and three women were picked up from their drifting lifeboats by a Greek fishing boat.

Kamelieke said he saw the undersea craft halt and search an unidentified tanker before permitting it to continue.

The attack on the Blagoev was much the same as the others—except that the attacker displayed a flag. Two torpedoes knifed through the waves, one as a warning shot and the other into the side of the ship. The crew scarcely had time to escape.

The crew said they were taking

OSHAWA MAYOR WANTS TO DEBATE WITH HEPBURN

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 3. (CP)—Mayor Alex Hall of Oshawa today waited a reply to his challenge to Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario to debate with him on the labor issue, the C.I.O. and last spring's General Motors Oshawa strike. The mayor will repeat his offer if it is not accepted.

At the Windsor-Sandwich riding Conservative convention here last night, Mayor Hall criticized the present government and Premier Hepburn's labor stand.

"Mr. Hepburn made some unkind and, I say, libelous statements about me during the Oshawa strike," Mayor Hall charged. "At that time I said I regretted that the laws of Canada were such that I was unable to give him a good licking.

"Now I challenge him to meet me any place in Ontario, at any time and under any circumstances, to debate the Oshawa strike, the C.I.O. and the labor question."

Signed With the C.I.O.

Mr. Hepburn cannot keep the C.I.O. or any other union out of Canada, Mayor Hall said. He said the Premier had signed agreements with the C.I.O. in the recent Peterborough and Cornwall strikes and was "signing up with them every day."

"I ask Mr. Hepburn if he's going to license his labor unions. I challenge him to say how he's going to keep the C.I.O. out of this country," Mayor Hall continued.

Although strikers and management of the Oshawa General Motors plant had reached a satisfactory agreement two days after the walkout, "it was 18 days before Mr. Hepburn let them go back to work, because he insisted the agreement should be signed in his office by people of whom he approved," contended the speaker.

"Men were kept from work so that Hepburn could push his C.I.O. stand and cover up the record he had piled up in the past," continued the mayor.

"I asked Mr. Hepburn to come to Oshawa during the strike and see the situation for himself," said Mayor Hall. "He didn't do me the courtesy of replying. Hepburn wouldn't come within 35 miles of Oshawa, yet he knew all about it."

Although taxes are now higher than during any other provincial administration, the gross debt of Ontario has increased $100,000,000 in the last three years, contended Mayor Hall. Increase in succession tax collections could readily be accounted for by the passing of the world depression, he continued. He added there should be an investigation into income taxes "paid by certain people in this province."

The convention chose Oscar Fleming, Jr., Windsor barrister, as the Conservative candidate in the Ontario election, Oct. 6. Mr. Fleming will oppose Major James Clark, K.C., present Liberal member.

REGINA FACTORY TO BE RE-OPENED

OSHAWA, Ont., Sept. 3 (CP) — Plans for re-opening General Motors' Regina factory were announced today by H. J. Carmichael, general manager of General Motors of Canada, Ltd. The plant, idle since 1930, will resume operations Nov. 15, employing about 400 men on a daily schedule of 125 cars and trucks.

In the meantime $700,000 will be spent on a modernization program, Mr Carmichael said the Oshawa plant could take care of Canadian requirements for 1938 but termed the Regina re-opening "a contribution as a critical time to the welfare of Western Canada. It was hoped the number of men employed at Oshawa would not be decreased.

Workmen will be recruited from Western Canada "except in the case of a few supervisory men from the home plant at Oshawa." Bodies will be built complete and paint welding and trim departments will be similar to those at Oshawa.

Kingston Man Admits Beating Robbing Aged Grandmother

Napanee Woman Tells of Violent Entrance Forced Into Her Home.

NAPANEE, Sept. 3 (CP)—Admitting in police court here Thursday he plotted and assisted in a robbery from his 79-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Emily Leary of Napanee, Vincent Deshane, Kingston, pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with violence and was remanded one week for sentence by Magistrate E. J. Butler.

Thomas Murray, Kingston, who entered the woman's home in company with Deshane and who had entered a plea of guilty at a previous hearing, will also be sentenced at the later date.

Robert J. Harpell and Russell Northmore, with both accused on the night of the robbery, Aug. 18, pleaded not guilty to the same charge and judgment in their case was laid over for one week.

Mrs. Emily Leary testified the robbery took place shortly after she had gone to bed. She had locked the door as usual and it was forced open and two men came in. They entered her room and shouted: "We want your money, do you want us to shoot you? We will," she said.

She handed over her pocketbook

Bee Is So Busy Court Is Forced To Adjourn

Hamilton, Sept. 3

A BUSY BEE that stung Traffic Officer Wm. Wood as he drove along Highway 20 this afternoon not only caused the officer much suffering, but delayed court proceedings and inconvenienced several motorists. Constable Wood was headed for the court to give information against drivers summoned to appear for traffic violations. The honey producer stung him on the upper lip, and so severe was the swelling that he had to have medical attention when he arrived. The traffic guardian found it impossible to proceed with his prosecutions, and all cases were adjourned.

American Counterfeit Banknotes Again Appearing In Peterborough

Counterfeit American, $10 and $20 banknotes are again appearing in Peterborough to worry storekeepers and bank tellers. Several counterfeits have been detected in the last couple of weeks.

The bills have been copies of various United States issues and, in several instances, have been such excellent counterfeits that they have not been recognized until shipped back over the border by the local banks. It is believed they made their way into this district through the hands of unsuspecting tourists rather than through any organized efforts of counterfeiters agents in this locality.

Appearance of counterfeit Canadian fifty-cent pieces in unusual numbers has been reported by local store operators during recent weeks.

Palms Of Hands Detect Lies Through Electric Impulses

Small Electrical Currents in Hands Connected With Sweat Glands.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 3 (AP) — The palms of the hands detect lies.

The evidence of this and workings of an electrical apparatus, the "lie detector," which catches the hand currents that flow with lies, was described to the American Psychological Association here today by Professor Christian A. Ruckmick, of the University of Iowa.

The "detector" is a couple of bits of metal which fasten to the palm. Fine wires conduct currents that flow from the palms to a galvanometer.

These currents, known as the galvanic skin response, have been known for years. Perfection in reading them and demonstration that they are unfailing in lines and all emotions is a recent step of science.

The currents are known to be connected with the sweat glands. But why they flow, Prof. Ruckmick said, is still only theory. Apparently the emotions cause increased activity of the sweat glands.

It is believed, he said, that this slight, extra flow causes the glands to act like electrical condensers. For a few seconds, usually above seven seconds after an emotion, the glands apparently collect and store up the natural currents of the skin, the same as condensers.

Then they discharge their electricity. The result is an extra current. It shows on a galvanometer needle and it faithfully depicts emotions. That is, the stronger the emotion, the more the current. Fear and anger cause larger deflections than any other emotions. That, said Dr. Ruckmick, may be because these two are the most primitive of emotions.

AUTO LICENSES TO BE REDUCED HEPBURN SAYS

STRATFORD, Ont., Sept. 3 (CP).—Premier Hepburn will announce "sweeping reductions" in passenger automobile licenses tonight. He told a Liberal gathering here last night such reductions for Ontario motorists were made possible through sound business administration. He is scheduled to speak tonight at Dundas, near Hamilton.

When Liberals took office in 1934 the Provincial debt was increasing at such a rate it took 42 cents of every dollar to pay carrying charges, the Premier said. His administration had set about to overhaul the financial policy of the Province and set up new social standards.

"Wilful Deception."

A recent newspaper advertisement of the Conservative Party showed "wilful deception," Mr. Hepburn declared. It failed to say the quoted Provincial debt of $614,000,000 in 1934 included contractual expenditures of the preceding Conservative Government from the first of the fiscal year, until the Liberals took office, a period of eight and a half months.

"The Liberal Government did not contract these bills, but had to pay them," he said. "From the time the present government voted its own supply in March, 1986, until the present there has been a reduction in the debt." He was not apologizing for increased revenues, said Mr. Hepburn, as all had been passed back to the people.

Given Friends of Government.

"When the government took office poverty and misery reigned in Northern Ontario," continued the Premier, "because, he charged, much timber lands in the north had been handed over to friends of the Conservative government.

"For the two years prior to 1934 there was a deficit in the department. One of those principally mixed up in the debacle was Mr. D. M. Hogwarth of Port Arthur, the same man who is now financing Mr. Rowe's campaign. (Conservative Leader Earl Rowe).

"The present government won support for its timber reallocation bill despite bitter opposition from the Conservatives and set about re-establishing the north country. Much of the land has been recovered for the Crown, and now the cutting rights on some 6,400,000 acres have been leased, all to Ontario companies."

MANITOBA SWEEPS BUTTER EXHIBITS

TORONTO, Sept. 3.— Honors in the butter classes at the C.N.E. went to Western Canada again this year. Sweepstakes award for the highest score in creamery butter was taken by the Gladstone Creamery, Gladstone, Man., with their June-made box, which scored a total of 97.4 points, with 42.4 points for flavor. They also won the silver medal for the highest scoring box of creamery one-pound prints. Elkhorn Creamery, Elkhorn, Man., took the medal in the section for 14-pound boxes.

Although the number of sections in the butter classes was cut by one this year, there was a heavier entry than ever, and the judges, John H. Scott and O. H. J. White of Toronto, found the quality uniformly high, and the basis of their decisions very close. By far the greater number of the exhibits were from Western Canada, though Ontario and Quebec were represented by a few exhibits which were placed in the prize groups. Silverwood's Dairy, Toronto, was the only Ontario exhibito that placed in a first prize group. Their box of one-pound prints scored a total of 96.8 points, with 42 points for flavor.

Mrs. Emily Drakes Will Be Sent Back

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—(CP).—The Immigration Department will pay the fare of Mrs. Emily K. Drakes back to England, it was announced to-day by departmental officials. She was freed yesterday in Toronto on a charge of passing a forged cheque.

Mrs. Drakes was brought to Canada last March to answer to the criminal charge in Oshawa, Ont. In the routine procedure, immigration officers rejected her at the border and now that she has been freed of the court charge she can be sent back to England without deportation formalities.

Kitchener Boys Win Band Cotest

TORONTO, C.N.E., Sept 3.—(CP).—Kitchener Boys' Band won the juvenile brass band class at the Canadian National Exhibition Thursday, scoring 92¼ out of a possible 100 points. Windsor Kiwanis Band was second and the Capital City Boys' Band from Ottawa took third position.

Brockville Rifles carried off top honors among Senior B contenders with 91 points. Port Colborne was second and Chesley third.

Returning Nickel Is Cause Of Capture

New York, Sept. 3.

MURRAY WISHY, 30, a clerk, was held up by three men in Brooklyn today. When they took $1.30, Murray pleaded: "I don't mind giving you that, but how about a nickel to get me home?"

He got the nickel walked to a subway station, entered, called the police. Detectives, responded to the call, found the men a few blocks away. Murray identified them.

TORY LEADER IS FORCED TO THUMB WAY TO ARNPRIOR

ARNPRIOR, Ont., Sept. 3.—(CP).—Earl Rowe, Provincial Conservative leader, after three automobile tire blow-outs en route to Arnprior from Toronto, found campaign material last night in his misfortunes. The "Hepburn highways" were not what the Provincial Premier made them out to be, he indicated at a Conservative rally. If he were returned to power Oct. 6 he would institute a policy of constructing roads for real service, he said, and not for political expediency.

Pressure of the political campaign delayed him an hour in starting. A sleepy newspaperman who has accompanied him on his trips delayed him further by being late.

Swinging north out of Kingston, en route to Arnprior, a right rear tire blew out. Thirty miles further on another tire blew out. His car stranded on the highway, Mr. Rowe engaged one from a nearby garage. It was of ancient vintage, its tires rotting on their rims. The Conservative Leader and the newspaperman piled in and limped for twenty miles at about fifteen miles an hour when a huge strip of heavy rubber ripped off one tire. The

BOTH SIDES CLAIM ARAGON VICTORY

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Sept. 3—(AP).—The Spanish Government and its insurgent foes laid claim to victory to-day in an important engagement for domination of the Aragon front.

Together the contradictory reports filled in a graphic picture combat centered on a circular battlefield in a region of dried lakes about 12 miles south of Zaragoza, or midway between that insurgent stronghold and government-beleaguered Belchite.

Insurgent reports reaching the French border said a co-ordinated counter-offensive had smashed government lines in the Belchite sector and that the Madrid-Valencia forces had been put to disordered flight.

Government reports from Valencia asserted, on the other hand, that the siege ring at Belchite had held fast yesterday and that government shock troops were already dynamiting their way into the centre of the town.

Tourists Impressed With Cricket Teams

MONTREAL, Sept. 3—(CP).—Returning to Quebec after a brief visit to Ottawa, the touring English cricketers were scheduled to oppose a team of Montreal juniors at Westmount Athletic Ground today. Throughout the tour the M.C.C. players have been impressed by the ability of Canadian youngsters and were given a good battle by 15 Vancouver juniors.

An Ottawa valley eleven had the distinction of holding the touring players to the sixth draw of the tour at Rideau Hall yesterday. Rolling up 199 for six wickets, declared, the Canadians left the visiting eleven two hours to knock off the runs. They had compiled 141 for the loss of three wickets when stumps were drawn.

Mexicans Wounded As Factions Clash

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 3—(AP).—Five men were wounded with gunfire and knives last night when a gang broke up a meeting of the Mexican National Vanguard, an anti-semitic, anti-Communistic organization.

Scores of persons, including several women, had gathered at the headquarters of the newly-created Vanguard to hear orations against Communism and Jews when a group of the Vanguard opponents opened pistol fire and swung knives.

TOBACCO CROP IS GOOD

LEAMINGTON. — Harvesting of Essex County's Burley tobacco is in full stride and shortage in the crop will not be as great as was feared. Much irreparable damage was done by early season moisture, but recent fine weather has fully ripened the remainder of the leaf and quality is said to equal that of last year.

BETTER GRADES CATTLE BRING STEADY PRICE

TORONTO, Sept. 3 (CP)—Better grades of killing cattle were steady as were all grades of store cattle on the Toronto livestock market this week, the Dominion livestock branch reported.

Prices eased off slightly on common killers with few hundred not sold at the close. Calves dropped 50 cents after a steady opening. Hogs regained an early 25 cent loss and closed firm. Lambs and sheep were unchanged for the week.

The cattle run included 3,100 westerns, of which 1,000 arrived on Thursday. Common to medium quality weighty steers sold at $6.50 to $8.50 with a top load of choice going at $10.25. Good butcher steers and heifers brought $7.25 and $7.50 with top light steers reaching $8.

Common butchers sold downward to $4 and some boners went at $3.26 to $3.75. Butcher cows sold mostly between $3 and $4.50, with canners and cutters going at $2.25 to $2.75. Good butcher bulls fetched $4 to $4.50 and bolognas ranged from $3.25 to $3.75. Fed calves of choice quality went at $10.50 to $11.50 with mediums downward to $8.

Store cattle of better quality sold readily at firm prices. Good stockers brought $5 to $6.75 and feeders ranged upward to $6.25. Common to medium stockers sold slowly at $3.50 to $4.75. Milkers and springer were steady at $65 to $70 for tested tops.

Veal Calves Lower

Calf supplies included 1,000 heavy Westerners. Veal calf prices opened steady at $10 for tops but dropped at the close to between $9 and $9.50. Common vealers sold downward to $5 and grassers went mostly at $3.50 to $4.50. Good Western calves sold at $6 to $6.50 with common selling downward to $4.25. Some good stocker calves reached $6 cwt.

Hog receipts included 700 Western feeders. Bacon hogs opened 25 cents lower at $9.75 off trucks, but regained the $10 mark on Tuesday, holding firm to the close. Outside buyers obtained several hundred hogs at the Toronto market. Sows were quoted at $6.50 to $7 cwt. Good feeders weighing 65 to 100 pounds sold at $ 9to $9.40 cwt., with some culls downward at $3.50 each.

Sheep and lamb prices were steady for the week. Good lambs sold generally at $9 cwt. with small lots going at $9.25. Bucks were at a discount of $1 cwt., with culls from $7 to $8. Sheep were also steady at $4 to $4.50 cwt. for good light ewes. Culls ranged downward to $2.

FIELD DAY HELD AT JANETVILLE

JANETVILLE, Sept. 3. — A most successful field day was held at the Community Park on Wednesday, Aug. 24, under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 64.

The first game of baseball was played between Garden Hill and Elizabethville. The former winning in a socer of 10-8.

Reeve Chris Cummisky of Fleetwood was umpire for the day and Mr. Clairmont Morgan of Springville was base umpire.

A couple of games of softball from the church league proved most interesting, the final playoff being between the local Presbyterian and United churches, the United church were the winners by a small margin, 10-8.

United Church—C. L. Crawford, c; Bury; Guy McGill, p; C. Howe, 1b; M. Bury, 2b; L. Hall, 3b; C. Armstrong, sf; B. Poho, lf; P. Hamilton, cf; I. Crawford, ss.

Presbyterian.—J. McNeil, c; J. Jacket, p; G. McGill, ss; J. Walker, 1b; N. McNeil, 2b; R. Walker, 3b; J. McNeil, rf; F. McNeil, lf; J. McNeil, cf.

Supper was served by the wives of the L.O.L. members and a refreshment booth on the grounds did a thriving business throughout the day and in the evening was removed to the Forster's Hall where a concert followed by several hours of dancing was enjoyed.

The concert consisted of vocal solos, trios, quartettes and guitar selections, etc., very ably presented with delightful harmony by the Omemee songsters.

Splendid music for round and square dancing was supplied my P. Hamilton's orchestra comprised of the following: Mrs. David Wilson, A.T.C.M., piano; Miss Bessie Howe, banjo; Herman Wilson, violin, and P. Hamilton, traps.

Bill Rutherford of Kendall was the very efficient dance manager and "caller" for the square dancing.

The proceeds amounted to over $135.00.

WILLIAM BROWN LANDS TUNA FISH DESCRIBES CATCH

Big fish are the 30 and 35-pound lunge which anglers have been pulling out of the Kawartha waters this season, but they seem small when the tale is told of the catch one local man made this summer. William Brown, employe of the C.G.E. Test here, had the thrill of landing a tuna fish which tipped the scales at 825 pounds while vacationing at his home on Cape Sable Island, Nova Scotia, during August.

Of a size which approaches the record class for tuna fish, the tuna put up a three-hour battle before being towed to shore. Mr. Brown relates. It was hooked in the Atlantic waters near his home, Clark's Harbor, on a three-eighth inch six-thread line equipped with a double pronged hook about four inches in length. A herring was the bait.

Interesting is the contrast of methods used in landing a big tuna to those used here in handling a lunge. The contrast is one principally of scale, Mr. Brown relates.

As soon as the fish was hooked, Mr. Brown secured the end of the relatively frail line to a keg and threw the keg overboard. The initial plunge of the tuna to the depths of the sea would otherwise have endangered the 35-foot craft from which the angler was operating. As it was, the keg disappeard below the surface for long intervals.

The end of the line was retrieved when the big creature showed signs of tiring and the big job of hauling the fish to close quarters was begun. Only after a lengthy battle was it brought within range of the hand-thrown harpoon.

A successful harpoon throw by no means meant the end of the battle for the tuna, aroused by the pain of the harpoon's barbs, went on a frash series of plunges. Further careful handling was required as the angler awaited the tuna's death. The giant was sold for $25 when brought ashore, Mr. Brown said.

Tuna fishing is a favorite sport of Mr. Brown's. The waters off his home afford some of the finest tuna runs in the world. The tuna he caught last month is not his first but his biggest. A tuna weighing 825 pounds is well above the average.

CHAMPION AYRSHIRE BULL.

TORONTO, Sept. 3—(CP).—Polehouse True Form from Lieutenant-Governor Dr. H. A. Bruce's Annandale farm at Todmorden was judged senior and grand champion Ayrshire bull in the Canadian National Exhibition livestock show today. The bull repeated his last year win in the show.

BANCROFT FAIR SEPTEMBER 9-10

(Examiner Correspondence)

BANCROFT, Sept. 3.—Bancroft Fair will be held on September 9 and 10. The main attraction will be the midway with thrilling rides and games for young and old. Many exhibits are expected in all sections of the exhibition hall. Many special prizes have been kindly donated as well as the regular prizes.

A dance will be held in the Community Hall in Friday evening, September 10th, under the auspices of the Agricultural Society.

Miss Lauretta Fitzgerald has returned to resume her work in the Dorothy Fisher Ladies' Wear shop here, after spending three weeks in another branch of that company in Bobcaygeon.

Mr. Thomas McAlpine motored to Toronto on Wednesday accompanied by his sister-in-law, Miss Gladys Kennedy. Miss Callista McAlpine will return with them after spending two weeks at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bates of Toronto.

Mrs. M. J. McAlpine is spending a few days in Belleville.

Mr. Donald Hatchard has returned to his home after spending a week with friends in Trenton and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Morton, Frank and Margaret, spent the week-end in Belleville.

Miss Mamye O'Shaughnessy spent last week with friends in Whitney.

Miss Rae Davy has gone to Oshawa to attend school.

Mrs. M. Tessel returned to her home in Trenton on Tuesday after spending a week with friends in Bancroft.

Mr. Jim McCaw, who spent the last two months in the employ of Mr. Erland Colling, near Hamilton, spent the week-end in Bancroft before going to Belleville, where the family took residence during Jim's absence.

Mr. Francis McCaw, who spent the summer months with his uncle, Mr. George Colling, also near Hamilton, returned to his home here on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watson of Sudbury are visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Reid of Bancroft and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fell of Detroit have gone on a holiday to the Eastern Coast.

Friends of Miss Betty McKeon of Erinsville, who for the past 3 years has taught room 1 in Bancroft Public school, obtained a similar position at Porcupine in Northern Ontario. Her place in this school is being filled by Miss Hazel Liddle of L'Amable.

Daniel Neiman of Maple Leaf had the misfortune of having his right thumb cut off and a deep cut in the palm of his hand while working with the saw in the saw-mill at his own home on Saturday.

ABOUT TRUSSES

This Truss represents one of twenty-one types we make and is the result of over 60 years of experience in making and fitting trusses. It is built on good, sound, legitimate commonsense principles and, when made specially to your measure, and fitted, securely closes the opening and allows Nature to thicken the parts so that the bowel cannot escape. With regular use, the Truss will soon permanently relieve the condition.

CHURCHMEN FAIL REACH AGREEMENT ON RED MENACE

HALIFAX, Sept. 3—(CP).—What started out as a discussion of evangelism in the Church led off by the remarks of Rt. Rev. C. C. Bardsley, Lord Bishop of Leicester, changed to a discussion of the Church's attitude toward communism which ended only by a motion for adjournment as the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada made slow progress through ordinary business yesterday.

Just before adjournment, Judge G. W. M. Morley of Owen Sound, Ont., and Chancellor E. S. Wigle, Mayor of Windsor, Ont., agreed to withdraw their motion respecting communism on the assurance of Rt. Rev. D. T. Owen, of Toronto, Primate of All Canada, that a committee would be appointed to draft a new resolution and present it to the joint session at a later date.

Huron Resolution

The Synod was making fast progress through the section by section adoption of clauses of the report of the General Board of Religious Education, when mention was made of a resolution concerning communism passed by the Synod of the Diocese of Huron in May. Judge Morley moved, seconded by Chancellor Wigle, the resolution be endorsed by the General Synod.

The resolution read in part: "Whereas the menace of Communism was brought to the attention of the Provincial Synod of Ontario at its last session in September, 1935, and whereas it was thought advisable that the best method of attacking communism was by persistent teaching of the Christian religion . . . be it resolved that all dioceses of the Church of England . . . unite in recommending that the provisions of the Public Schools Act be taken full advantage of with a view to give religious instruction for a certain period each week to children of their particular religious body."

Education Urged

In moving adoption of the resolution, Judge Morley claimed "the only way of combating Communism and all the other 'isms' is by the teaching system in our public schools." Chancellor Wigle told of what he called the "inroads of communism" in the City of Windsor, and asked for a strong pronouncement in order that it be attacked.

Rev. R. K. Naylor, Montreal, spoke against the motion on the grounds there was "no reason to single out one 'ism' and place all the blame for world conditions on it. We should fight the things that produce communism, and not the thing itself. The resolution has no place in this Synod."

Rev. H. A. Sims, North Bay, Ont., supported Mr. Naylor, saying that the Church of England in Canada "should not encourage communism by pronouncing definitely against it."

Right Rev. A. R. Beverley, Suffragan Bishop of Toronto, felt it is "a misfortune the subject has come up at this time and has been confused with the general subject of religious education."

R. J. Westgate, Regina, suggested the matter be dropped as "unfortunate," and that the press be asked not to mention it, to which Principal R. B. McElheran of Wycliffe College replied such a move would be most unwise "because this is one of the greatest questions before the whole Church to-day."

He suggested that the resolution be re-worded and presented to the Synod later, because "this is not quite the way in which a resolution on this important subject should be framed."

Canon W. H. Davidson, Montreal, suggested the word communism be left out of the resolution altogether, and the word "secularism" be substituted as including more things that had to be fought against than merely communism.

Right Rev. D. T. Owen asked for a motion of adjournment in order that members would be on time for the service of witness in the evening, and assured the Synod that the subject would be re-introduced at a later date.

TURTLE CAPTURED

REGINA—(CP).—An oddity here was a two-pound green turtle, found in a potato patch by three boys who were pulling weeds out of the garden. The turtle, nine inches long, five inches wide and about 12 inches in circumference, was searching for bugs at the time of its discovery.

Professors Demand Their Pay Arrears

Montreal, Sept. 3.

FACULTY MEMBERS of the French-Canadian University of Montreal today advised the Administration Committee they would refuse to accept student registrations unless they received assurance form the committee that their back salaries would be paid up and that they receive full pay during the coming academic year. General registration is scheduled to start Sept. 16.

SEE SHORT CATCH IN ARCTIC TRAPS AS WINTER COMES

AKLAVIK, N.W.T., Sept. 3—(CP) This winter will be a poor one for western Arctic trappers, says Trapper Andy Hay. His reason is that "the rabbit crop is poor." There are few lemmings and Arctic hare to be seen and foxes move away when the food supply is low.

Andy made this observation on his summer shopping trip of one week at Aklavik during which he bought enough supplies to last him till next summer. He loaded it all aboard Art Rankin's airplane and was flown home with his six dogs as fellow passengers.

At 40 the lanky former cowpuncher from Great Falls, Montana, still enjoys the trapper's life he has led since 1922. He is glad the airplane has come to the north country for his trap lines are 200 miles east on Anderson river. By trail or boat he would have to move his supplies 500 miles, taking weeks. By plane he can take them to his camp in a couple of hours.

This was the first year Andy has gone home by plane instead of schooner. "It gives me a chance to put up dog feed," he said, 'and if I went in by boat I wouldn't have time."

Dogs Get Airsick

The dogs gave the trapper and his pilot considerable trouble. They have to be starved for two days before flying or they get airsick. Starving makes them cranky and they fight if they get close to each other; so they are chained apart.

This was part of the cargo that went to Anderson River: 400 pounds of flour, two cases of canned fruit, two of canned vegetables, 100 pounds of fresh potatoes, 60 pounds of onions, a case and a half of preserved eggs, 15 pounds each of tea and coffee, a bale of dry goods including 24 pair of socks, three suits of underwear, six shirts, two parkas, two pairs of mukluks.

Andy also took a knapsack of toilet articles, three tents, a toboggan, three pairs of snowshoes, stovepipes, three guns, extra tubes and batteries for his all-wave radio set and "100 pounds of reading."

The "reading" consisted chiefly of old magazines his friends had given him. He left Aklavik the day before Lord Tweedsmuir and his party presented a number of books to All-Saints Anglican hospital. That presentation rid the party of the last of the 20-cent paper-covered books his Excellency bought in Winnipeg. Most of the others went to missionaries on the way down the Mackenzie.

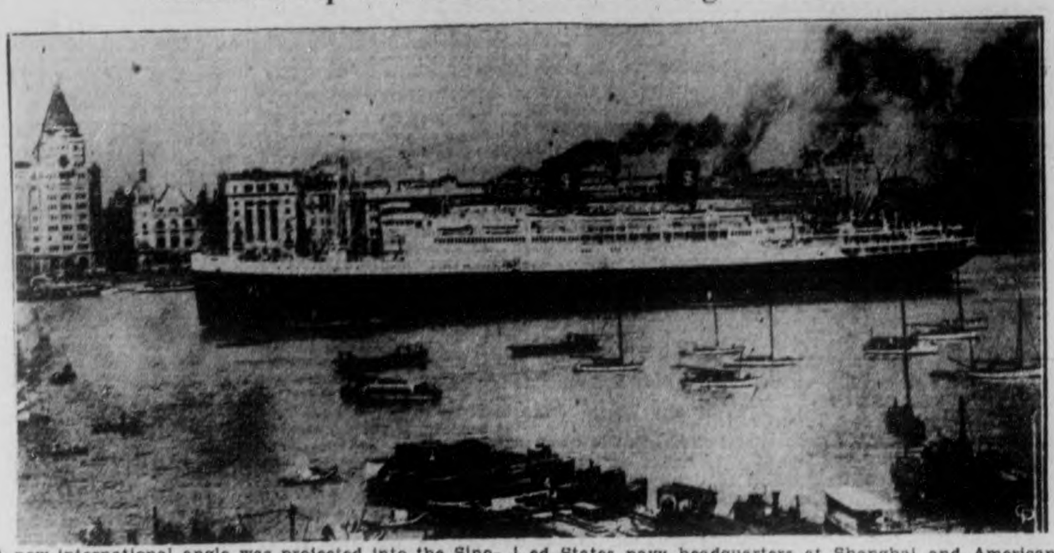
Andy and four others trap on the Anderson river. Andy chiefly for marten and colored fox. He has 900 traps and covers his area by dog-team. His most expensive dog cost $75, the cheapest $35, but his favorite is Old Joe who cost $50 and is 10 years old. Andy favors dogs from the eastern Arctic because they need less food and are tougher than those from the western part of the northland. Points against eastern dogs, he says, are that they don't pull as hard as those from the west and they are less affectionate.

APPLE TREE GROWS

REGINA—(CP).—A branch of an apple tree laden with crab apples, was brought here recently by Miss D. Greensmith from Govan, Sask. She picked it in the middle of a bluff when it had been planted many years ago. Grasshoppers and windstorms had passed it by.

Lion taming is better than golf for slimming, declares Dr. R. H. Hunter, curator of the municipal zoo of Belfast, Northern Ireland.

Chinese Aeroplanes Bombard And Damage U.S. Liner



A new international angle was projected into the Sino-Japanese crisis when the S.S. President Hoover, American refugee liner, was bombed and badly damaged by four Chinese aeroplanes, while on the high seas off Woosung lightship. Seven members of the crew were wounded while three passengers suffered from shell shock. The President Hoover was carrying 257 passengers and 320 of a crew when it was bombed. Gaping holes were torn in the ship at several points above the water line, but was not reported in serious danger. The ship immediately finished a report to the United States navy headquarters at Shanghai and American destroyers made ready to sail to the liner's aid. Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander-in-chief of the United States navy in the Shanghai area immediately cancelled all shore leave for the navy. The admiral also intimated he would advise all American merchantile ships not to enter the "hostile" waters off the Woosung and Yangtze lightships. The American liner is shown ABOVE on the Shanghai waterfront with the famous "bund" in the background. The buildings shown are some of those which have been damaged during the present crisis.

ZENDA VILLAGERS VISIT NIGHT CLUB ON TIMES SQUARE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (CP) — Vernon Fewster, reeve of the Ontario municipality of North Norwich in which the hamlet of Zenda is situated, was an envied man today among the male members of a party brought from the little Oxford County settlement to witness the world premiere of the motion picture, Prisoner of Zenda.

The good natured reeve, one of 12 persons brought here by airplane to see the picture based on a novel after which the picturesque little community near Woodstock is named, was backstage at one of Broadway's swankiest night clubs (French Casino) surrounded by some of the glamorous ladies of the chorus he had his picture taken.

For the seven men and five women from Zenda that visit to a hot spot wound up a thrilling day. They had been to the movies after a sightseeing tour in Manhattan's stifling heat, and then went to the night club on Times Square.

"It was lovely," said Reeve Fewster of the airplane trip to New York. They had circled Niagara Falls two or three times and on arriving over the metropolis the plane went to the lower tip of Manhattan while they saw the Statue of Liberty.

Some of the men saw a ball game yesterday. Others went to a show. But the ladies were more interested in shopping. For the reeve, however, it was more or less a day of agony. He had to enter the stifling studio of a newspaper office and pose for a photographer under hot lights.

The Zendaites will see more of New York today, and leave for home tomorrow. Andrew Fewster, brother of the reeve, hopes to be home in time to open his general store for the usual Saturday night's business.

TO LET NAME STAND.

WINDSOR.—Dr. Paul Poisson, member of the last Provincial Conservative Cabinet, who recently announced his withdrawal from the campaign for candidature in Essex North riding, had acceded to party wishes and will allow his name to stand at the riding convention, September 10, he said today.

Two Opponents Stumped Together

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Sept. 3. — (CP).—Political wisecares are getting some amusement these days by recalling that the Liberal and Conservative candidates in the current Provincial election campaign once campaigned together for a Federal Progressive candidate. It's not so many years since Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn and his present opponent, Norman Martin, Conservative, successfully "stumped" East Elgin riding for Bid McDermand, Progressive.

Attacking a cattle cart in Schweinfurt, Bavaria, a swarm of bees stung two horses to death and seriously injured four men.

RECALLS INDIANS FOUGHT ESKIMOS

AKLAVIK, N.W.T., Sept. 3—(CP) —Two little pieces of iron pyrites from Baffin Island are the pride of All Saints Church and Archibald the Arctic who tells a long story about them.

Rt. Rev. A. L. Fleming, only bishop of the Arctic by act of parliament and Archibald the Arctic to his friends, got them in 1911 from a pagan Eskimo at Frobisher Bay, Baffin Island. Now they are inlaid in the bishop's crozier which will belong to the new All Saints Church where Lord Tweedsmuir this summer hammered a nail in the chancel steps.

In the crozier also are a piece of copper from Coppermine on the shores of Coronation Gulf near Bloody Falls, scene of a battle in 1749 in which a band of Indians massacred the inhabitants of an Eskimo encampment, and a piece of silver from Northern Ontario.

Iron pyrites is fools' gold but those two inlays mean more than that to the bishop. In 1578 Sir Martin Frobisher made land on White Man's Island in the bay that was to be named after him. It was his third voyage in search of the northwest passage to the Orient and the one on which he loaded his ships with fools' gold and sailed home only to find all he had was ballast.

Frobisher arrived with three ships which had become separated in a storm so wild that the captain never expected to see each other again. The captain of the good ship Anne Frances was so relieved he approved the suggestion of Master Wolfall, the chaplain, that a communion service be held ashore. The record says Wolfall "preached a goodly sermon" but does not add what he said.

That, says the bishop, was the first religious service ever conducted on Canadian soil. Wolfall was a Church of England parson and the bishop is particularly happy to have in his crozier the two little pieces of fools' gold from the island on which Wolfall preached his goodly sermon.

Ecuadors building boom is growing.

Make LABOUR Day
COURTESY DAY
On Every Street and Highway

THE last long week-end of the summer season is at hand. It will be an occasion upon which Ontario's great army of sun-tanned children will enjoy their last big holiday. It is the responsibility of every motorist to see that the children go to and from their holiday safely and unhurt.

The easy way to do this is to Try Courtesy every inch of the way and make "Labour Day" "Courtesy Day".

Here are a few of the motoring practices observed by motorists who are courteous at heart and which all are urged to follow.

Drive with extreme caution where children and cyclists are present or where they may be expected on streets, highways, playgrounds or parks. Drive in your own traffic lane and do not "cut in and out". Warn others of your intention to slow down, turn or stop. Drive with due consideration for the other fellow and do not jockey with him. Dip or dim your headlights when you meet another motorist at night. When you intend to overtake those ahead of you, warn them with your horn in ample time of your coming. When you do overtake them, swing past at a safe distance but never pass at or near the brow of a hill, or on a curve or where there is not a clear view ahead. In these and many other ways you can show that you are courteous at heart and that you are out to make "Labour Day" "Courtesy Day" by Trying Courtesy every inch of the way.

A Committee Of Doctors

The Examiner believes the Medical Association of this city should name a committee to deal with any and all cases of infantile paralysis which may be reported. Such procedure need not in any way conflict with the relationship between a family and that family's physician, but the family physician should welcome the opportunity of consultation with the central committee.

Such a committee with its combined knowledge should be able not only to aid the difficult work of primary diagnosis, but also make recommendations for treatment as quickly as possible in order that disability may be lessened. The nature and timing of such treatment is as important as the diagnosis itself. And it must be remembered that diagnosis in the case of paralysis is not easy. It is extremely difficult because the actual stiffening is the one and final proof of the presence of paralysis.

There have been some interesting revelations made. It has been established that the temperature in a paralyzed limb is from four to five degrees less than normal body temperature. The surgeon now has his own method of dealing with such a condition. It is done by severing the sympathetic nerve which serves the affected limb at a point alongside the spine. The result is increased circulation in the paralyzed limb by which means the temperature becomes normal. The increased circulation encourages the development and growth of bone and muscle, and yet it does not interfere with the nervous system of the affected section.

It is worth noting also that paralysis is not a progressive disease. When an attack comes it is either mild or severe and it remains in that class. It does not begin in a mild form and become more aggravated as time progresses. The Examiner believes the medical fraternity of the city would be performing a useful and necessary service to the community were they to at once name a central committee of consultation to deal with all cases reported in future.

They Do Tell The Truth

Japan has made the claim that many of the news reports coming from Shanghai are not fair, and do not tell what has actually taken place. Seldom has there been a war where that same thing was not stated.

The men who get sent to the scene of a war are not amateurs. Most of them have had years of training. They received their early lessons by having the city desk or some intelligent copy reader cutting out anything that looked doubtful. Trained by being called over and having to answer the question "Where did you get that information?" Humbled by having a pet an vivid story tossed into the basket and ignored. When such men attain their majority in training they are not going to be far wrong when they get assigned to cover a section of a war zone. They tell the truth.

A fleet of Japanese planes dropped bombs on the Shanghai South Station in Nantao, a native section where hundreds of Chinese were waiting departure of a delayed train for Hangchow. About 400 Chinese were killed and the majority of them were women and children. Among the bodies which could be recovered and pieced together were fifteen infants ranging from four months to two years in age. Of the entire number killed in that raid there was none wearing the uniform of a soldier. They were women and children, old men and miserably scared coolies trying to get away from the scene of death.

That of course does not make nice reading matter from the standpoint of Japan. There is nothing brave or chivalrous about blowing babies to pieces and murdering defenceless women and old men, nor is there anything in it which could be used to feed the war flames at home. So it probably becomes a matter of convenience to have it announced that foreign and unfriendly correspondents are not telling the truth. They are telling the truth and it is pretty damnable stuff.

Have A Good Candidate

Alex. L. Elliott is Liberal candidate for Peterborough riding in the provincial contest, and it is well that a man of the standing and outlook and character of Alex. Elliott is willing to come forward and offer himself for public service. As long as political parties are able to bring out candidates of similar calibre we have little to fear in the matter of government.

According to the Representation Act of 1933 there is little trouble in defining the size and scope of this riding. The exact wording says it consists "of the County of Peterborough and the City of Peterborough." In the contest of 1934 the results was:

T. P. Lancaster, Conservative	8,334
J. Hawthorne, Liberal	9,509
J. A. Sutherland, C. C. F.	2,268

There is no way of telling accurately where the C. C. F. vote might have gone had there been no candidate in the field in 1934, as such organizations probably draw from one party about the same as from another. As the situation stands at the moment Peterborough riding looks to be in the class described as good fighting ground for either Liberal or Conservative.

With Alex. Elliott in the field there is guarantee that his campaign methods and addresses will be fair. We do not believe he would tolerate anything else in his appeal to the people. The Liberals made a happy and well-considered choice when they named their candidate.

Should This Lad "Squeal?"

Into the juvenile court at Hamilton came a lad charged with having been in a rowdy gang the members of which broke slides and did other damage to one of the pleasure parks. Other members of the gang had been more successful in getting away or keeping under cover when police started looking for the guilty parties. The lad in court was the only one who had been brought in.

The lad was asked to give to the magistrate the names of the others with whom he had been associating, but the boy refused to furnish the names and was sent to the detention room of the Children's Shelter to think it over. It was ordered that he be kept there until he was ready to talk.

So the lone member of the gang is on the well-known "spot." And it would be difficult enough to give to that lad proper advice regarding the course he should follow. We quite well realize that in the full course of even justice it would be much better if all the members of the gang were brought in and made to take their medicine in equal doses. Better for the community and probably better for the boys themselves. But having considered that, one has to consider the disposition and will of the boy who is not going to "squeal," and thus spread his own misfortune to others. It may be if there is medicine to be taken he prefers to take the whole dose himself. The case of a boy like that requires careful handling. He apparently has something of determination in him, and if that trait is turned to proper channels he might go far.

It's Cold In Canada

Senor M. A. DesAngles of Havana, Cuba, is in Toronto, and before arriving in the Ontario city had been visiting in New York. There he was informed he should prepare for cold weather in Canada, so he secured woollen underwear. He was told the nights were cold so he became possessed of a winter overcoat.

Thus prepared the Senor came to Toronto. Along with him came members of his family, and it is recorded that preparations to keep out the cold Canadian climate were spread over all those in the DesAngles household.

The head of the family mopped his brow and declared the heat in Toronto was worse than he ever felt in Havana. He said it was awful or something like that.

So Senor DesAngles has had to spend a bit of money and undergo a degree of self-inflicted torture in order to find out about our Canadian weather. He could have read in any New York paper the weather reports of U. S. cities along the Canadian border, and he would have found there was exceedingly warm weather. He could have known it would be the same a few miles distant in any Canadian territory.

Likewise the gentleman from Cuba should have known he could purchase better woollen underwear in Canada than he can in New York, and a merchant in this country could also give him a better deal if he needed an overcoat. We hope the visitor from Cuba is now thoroughly satisfied that we can have warm weather in Ontario.

May Find Something Better

At the meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association there are representatives of 114 Ontario communities, and again the chief topic of conversation is taxation especially as it is related to growing social services.

We doubt if any one of the delegates from 114 municipalities will be able to say anything on that question which has not already been said many times. The municipalities all depend on the taxation of real estate for their revenue. They may receive a little from licenses and fines, but real estate is the bulwark of municipal finance.

There has never been a plan brought out yet which will reconcile the tax demands of the city with the paying ability of the population. When a man becomes the owner of a house it is known he has become a permanent contributor in the form of taxation. He may come upon a year or several of them when his ability to earn money may be very low, but the tax expectation of the city remains at a given point. Nor can that be changed unless we alter the whole system. The municipality on its part builds up a service upon the basis of known costs, and it represents a fixed total. It does not become less when the ability of the property holders to pay taxes decreases. During such a period it may even grow greater.

The suggestion has frequently been made that all taxation should be levied on the basis of income, and there is a degree of fairness in the suggestion which cannot be ignored. But we do not see how such a plan could possibly give stability to municipal income. If a couple of hundred property holders were able to earn nothing for six months of the year, or if their earnings were just one-half of what they had been in the previous year, then it would cause quite a sag in municipal revenue if their taxes were based on their earnings, nor is there anything to guarantee that others in the community would be earning more to offset the decrease. We hope men with long experience in municipal affairs keep on gathering together until they come upon something better than the plan on which we have been working. There is something short of full justice in the plan which says that because a man desires to own a home he should therefore become the main part of the backbone of municipal financing.

Using The Word "We"

During the hearing of cases in court growing out of the trouble during the textile strike J. L. Cohen objected to D. G. H. Melton, manager of the Bonner Worth plant, using the word "we." Mr. Melton explained he included in the phrase Mr. Leybourne of the Auburn plant, the Chief Constable and himself.

Mr. Cohen's contention was that the use of the word "we" was a royal prerogative only in the giving of evidence.

We hope Mr. Cohen does not press his contention farther and try to make it apply to the great field of newspapers where editors now and then and at times frequently make use of the editorial WE. Some may wonder why it is done, but the explanation is very simple. When an editor makes a statement and uses the word WE he does so in order to impress his readers with the belief there are a great many or him rather than one lone individual. There is also the hope that an individual who differs with the editor and might be moved to come to grips with him will hold back, restrained by the feeling it is more difficult to go in and thrash WE than one lone man.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A thing is still rotten even if a famous person says it or does it.

It is not disloyalty to quit a leader who quits being what he was when you signed up.

People cannot have it both ways as there is probably not room in the head for a big tongue and a large brain.

The heat returns each day as though it were as welcome as the visit of a rich and generous uncle.

It can be taken for granted that the people of Ontario want an administration which would print it this way: Liquor CONTROL Board.

Remember the days when there used to be frost on the inside hinges of the kitchen door? And when you shoved the rag mat against the bottom of the door to keep the cold out?

The Medical Officer of Health says the nasal spray must be regarded as an unproved method of combatting paralysis. Quite so, and so must everything else which is being tried for the first time.

Control of newspapers is being hinted at in Alberta. We beg to suggest that those who seek to control them agree to become responsible for finding the money for the weekly pay sheet.

A number of English school cadets have been visiting in Canada, and probably they have wondered how it was ever referred to as the "Lady of the Snows."

HUMIDITY

(By A. B. K.)

¶ The learned weatherman I sought, to ask him why I felt so hot, I'd find out why and how; for there was moisture through my clothes, and there was some upon my nose, and more upon my brow.

¶ Degrees of heat were not so great, that I should chant a hymn of hate, or falter in my track; nor should my collar wilt by noon, no more than what it should in June, of vim I felt a lack.

¶ The weather man explained just how, there came the moisture on my brow, it was humidity; I listened to his faith and creed, and saw where it might plant the seed, of my humility.

¶ I told him that my brain went flat, and I was talking through my hat, he blamed humidity; so that explains just why my brain, in humid days won't work the same, it is stupidity.

¶ I told him I was puzzled too, to find just when this thing is through, no more humidity; but he agreed he did not know, and so from there I seem to grow, some more perplexity.

¶ I asked him in the kindest way if he could point a coming day, with no humidity; I said that I was feeling glum, and wondered if a day might come—with some frigidity.

Every Fifth Man In World A Chinaman

Here Are Facts About This Great Country; Taxes collected As Much As 50 Years In Advance.

CHUNG-HUA MIN-KUO means Republic of China, the oldest remaining civilization with a documented history back to 2205 B.C., and a legendary one much older.

✧ ✧ ✧

TERRITORY of China proper is 2,903,475 sq.mi. divided into 24 provinces. Outer China (Manchukuo, Mongolia, and Tibet) comprises 1,577,517 sq. mi. Grand total, 4,480,992. As a comparison the area of the U. S. is 3,026,789 sq.mi.

✧ ✧ ✧

POPULATION figures range all the way from 400,000,000 to 480,000,000, depending upon the estimator. China is so vast that the difference in estimates is roughly the entire population of the German Reich. About 80% are farmers or dependent upon the land. Only 6% live in cities of over 50,000 inhabitants. Another 6% inhabit towns of 10,000 to 50,000 inhabitants. The remaining 88% live in settlements of less than 10,000. There are said to be 100,000 farm villages where 1,000,000 Chinese live, and 1,000,000 hamlets that house another 200,000,000. In some districts the density of population rises as high as 7,000 to the square mile (densest U. S. state—Rhode Island, 644 per sq.mi.) but there is still room for colonization in some of the Southwestern provinces.

✧ ✧ ✧

GEOLOGICAL conditions largely determine Chinese population distribution. The highest concentration is along the great alluvial plains of the Hwang Ho (Yellow) and Yangtze rivers, their tributaries, and other smaller river flood plains draining almost four-fifths of the country. The North Central provinces of Shansi, Shensi, Kansu, and Chinghai are on a great loess plateau which is fertile. Uplands in Southern and Western China are sparsely populated.

✧ ✧ ✧

CLIMATE, as is usual in such large territories, varies from a moist tropical one in the extreme Southeast to a dry northern one with cold winter and short hot summer. The coastal region, and some of the interior, is climatically governed by monsoons.

✧ ✧ ✧

GOVERNMENT is quite decentralized, with no constitution, accounting for some of China's difficulties with strongly centralized Japan. Nominal governing body is a group of committees appointed by and responsible to the Kuomintang (National People's Party).

✧ ✧ ✧

PRESIDENT is Lin Shen, Chairman of the national Government Council, which has 5 "Yuan" or subordinate committees.

✧ ✧ ✧

ACTUAL HEAD of the government is General Chiang Kai-Shek, Chairman of the Executive Yuan of the National Government Council. Other Yuan are Legislative, Judicial, Examination, Supervisory.

✧ ✧ ✧

MINISTERS, members of the Executive Yuan, administer departments of Finance, Foreign Affairs, War, Navy, Industry, Education, Interior, Railways, and Communications.

✧ ✧ ✧

HOPEI AND CHAHAR provinces are administered separately by the Hopei-Chahar Political Council set up in January, 1936, as a compromise with Japanese demands. It is this set-up that permits the Nanking government to avoid war if it wants to.

✧ ✧ ✧

A DEMILITARIZD ZONE in the northeast of Hopei province is administered by the East Hopei Autonomous Council, a body professedly independent from any other government. Actually its relations with Japan seem to be a good deal like those of Manchukuo.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE PROVINCES are very loosely controlled by the Central Government in Nanking. Each has its own set of arrangements. Most are in complete chaos.

✧ ✧ ✧

LOCAL GOVERNMENT begins with the 2,000 or so hsiens or counties. Each of these has from 3 to 10 districts, with appropriate officials, village heads, and assistants. The hsien, ch'u (district) and village governments are the only ones that mean anything to the every Chinese. Nanking can forbid the sale of opium, but local officials go on selling it, so the peasant sees no crime in continuing to smoke it. Nanking sets maximum land rent at 37 1-2% of the crop value, but local officials wink at 50% or more, and shoot complaining tenants as "drug addicts."

✧ ✧ ✧

PUTTING IN ORDER comes before warring with Japan, according to Chiang Kai-Shek. He has done it in Szechwan, one of the fertile provinces with 70,000,000 inhabitants. This province and its capital Chengtu (500,000), used to be divided and redivided by lords. There combined "bodyguards" total 100,000. In 24 years there were 477 battles within the province. Taxes were "collected" over 50 years in advance.

The Experts Also Took It On the Chin

Sports Writers Sure They Can Pick Winners; Last Fight Made Them Look Very Foolish.

Ottawa Journal

THE FIGHT experts, so-called, are the fellows who took the real beating at the Yankee Stadium in New York on Monday evening. With one exception, and he an English writer, the oracles of the British and American sport pages predicted victory for Louis by knockout, most of them going out on the limb by naming the round beyond which Farr couldn't possibly survive—the second, the fourth, the seventh, one or two the twelfth. Farr was a set-up, a push-over; Louis the man-eating tiger from the wilds of Alabama. It was, as they said, in the bag.

The trouble is that the experts have built up the negro champion as a man-killer with so much skill and success that they have ended by convincing themselves he is a superman in the ring. One would have thought the negro's defeat by Schemling a year ago would have jolted their confidence. On that occasion the experts took with Louis a memorable licking. But it taught them nothing. They still think they can pick 'em, and they picked Louis all but unanimously.

Whereupon the gallant Welshman comes along, is on his feet fighting furiously at the end of the fifteenth round, all but takes the title, and the experts have another job of explaining to do. Louis delivered his man-killing punches, and the challenger refused to go down. When he was supposed to be on the verge of a knockout he took the offensive and at times had the bewildered negro on the run. The fact seems to be that Louis isn't the formidable fighter of his early reputation. Schemling knocked him out. Braddock gave him a hard battle. Farr a harder one. He is a powerful, methodical fellow, but a slow thinker and easily disconcerted by a style as puzzling as Farr's. He can be hit and he can be hurt.

Farr comes out of the fray with his prestige enormously enhanced, and even the experts henceforth will realise that he has a place in the heavyweight picture.

When A Man Shaves In the Morning

Two Continents Engaged In Discussion; Can't Agree On Just How Long It Takes.

Detroit Free Press

A DR. EMLYN STEVENS, making a not weather talk to a convention at Cardiff, estimated that the average British workman spends seven and a half months of his life scraping hair from his face.

The Manchester Guardian, assuming that a worker practices daily shaving for 50 years, figures that this means 20 minutes a day before the looking glass.

Which the Guardian says is all nonsense. It says the average shaving time for a son of Britain is near five minutes, and the life time period about two months.

Maybe so. Maybe the boys in the Tight Little Isle are extraordinarily deft with their safety razors.

But if they are what does it amount to?

The Guardian murmurs something about going bearded, saving time, and "living longer."

Nonsense! The morning shave is one of the most valuable privileges of the day for the man facing diurnal fray.

As the blade slips smoothly over his face he receives a moral tonic. Fresh, unharrassed and unwearied, then is when he gets his chance to marshal, clarify and scheme; he may even commune with himself, a rare privilege in these hectic days.

The man who shaves himself courts three valuable blessings. He gets physical exercise. He beautifies his countenance to court the approval of a critical world. He goes into the silence and organizes his forces against the wiles of the enemy.

His advantage over the man who merely agitates himself by combing a few knots out of a beard is, to speak in the movie manner, little less than colossal. He really lives.

THE MAYOR'S JOB

(Winnipeg Tribune)

A RECENT mayor of Philadelphia found that during his first two years of office he attended an average of 540 dinners and banquets a year, not including less formal luncheons. No busy man could stand that strain indefinitely. In self-defence the mayor of Philadelphia adopted the practice of refusing to eat at banquets. He merely attended for sufficient time to extend the official glad hand and do the usual honors expected of him. In cases where his official presence might favor he expected, this would seem to have been a reasonable compromise.

SOMETHING TO HIDE

(St. Paul Despatch)

DR. ILSEY BOONE, executive secretary of the American Sunbathers Association, predicts that nudism will soon become nearly as popular in the United States as in Sweden and Germany. He believes that the taboo against the human body in America is being broken down. Some of the arguments for nudism are certainly sound particularly this point about having a healthy realistic attitude toward one's own and one's neighbors bodies.

Good reasons there are, however, why it is likely to be a long time before nakedness is adopted as the common costume in the United States. Americans as a whole have a reputation for being a handsome people, but most of them have something to hide. These defects are camouflaged to some extent by modern dress. Cleverly covered, lankiness can be broadened and dumpiness heightened, but unclothed the human face, taken by and large, is nothing to be put on display.

PIGEONS FOR NEWS

(Brantford Expositor)

THE TRIBUNE, published at Hornell, N. J., a place of some 20,000 people, has introduced a system of trained pigeons to bring news to its office from correspondents in surrounding communities.

Long years ago, when lacrosse was at its height in this city, the Expositor instituted a carrier pigeon service from the fields in which outside matches were played and the birds, with their messages, used to return to a local loft. Later, it was found to be quicker and much more satisfactory to establish either telephone or telegraph instruments at the scenes of the contests.

TOMB OF ANCIENT BRITON

(London Times)

A TOMB containing the remains of an ancient Briton and a flint knife has been discovered by workmen in a sandpit at Blaydon-on-Tyne.

After the men had removed a quantity of sand they found the tomb, which dates, it is thought, to 1500 B. C. The top slab had been broken to pieces, and the interior of the cist was filled with sand. The tomb was 3 feet, eight inches in length, two feet, three inches wide, and about two feet deep. A skull and bones were discovered, but there was no beaker. The flint knife was about 2 inches long.

TELLING THE WORLD

(London Tit-Bits)

A TRAVELLER seeking advertisements for a local paper called at the village grocers. Upon presenting his card, he was surprised when the gray-headed proprietor said "nothing doing. Been established here 30 years, and never advertised."

Turning to leave, the traveller said, "Excuse me, sir but what is that building on the hill?"

"The village church," said the grocer.

"Been there long?" asked the traveller.

"About 300 years."

"Well," replied the traveller, "they still ring the bell."

SPEAKING OF WAR.

"IF NATIONS could overcome the mutual fear and distrust whose sombre shadow is now thrown over the world, and could meet with confidence and good-will to settle their possible differences, they would easily be able to establish a lasting peace." Fridjof Nansen.

✧ ✧ ✧

"It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth, and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established." Mary Baker Eddy.

✧ ✧ ✧

"War is an instrument entirely inefficient toward redressing wrong; and multiplies, instead of indemnifying losses." Jefferson.

✧ ✧ ✧

Ben Krohn, 12, St. Louis, went to sleep on a parking lot. A truck hit him and when he reached the hospital an ear was missing. The ambulance driver found it quickly and it was successfully fastened in place.

Business Is Slow On Toronto Market

TORONTO, Sept. 3 (CP) — The Toronto share market made a better showing today from a price angle but business was too slow to impart any significance to any movement. The turnover was the smallest of the year for a full session at fewer than a quarter-million shares. Gold shares registered mild advances and industrials and miscellaneous mines were off slightly at the close.

BROCKVILLE DRUGGIST DEAD.

BROCKVILLLE—Alonzo L. Robinson, 62, retail druggist and proprietor of Medical Hall here, died to-day in hospital. A native of Brockville, he was educated here and later spent 33 years in the retail drug trade in New York city, returning to Brockville ten years ago. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. H. M. Robinson, Brockville.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Sept. 3—(CP). — Wheat futures hesitated around the previous close on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day as cross-currents of the bearish crop report from Australia and the bullish sentiment from unsettled European politics led to a quiet session. Final values were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. October $1.24⅛, November, $1.24⅝, December $1.20⅞ and May $1.23⅝.

Export buying of around 250,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and other seaboard buying lifted wheat from fractional losses earlier to minor gains.

A private report from Australia suggesting a crop this year of 175,000,000 bushels, nearly 35,000,000 more than was harvested in 1936, was reported to have caused some bearishness here.

Nevertheless hedging pressure was light, despite deliveries of 2,006,000 bushels from Western Canadian farms yesterday.

GUERILLA WAR WAGED BY SUBS

the ship to France with a cargo of asphalt.

Another incident—this one attributed directly to the Spanish insurgents—was reported from Bone, Algeria. A band of insurgents said to have come from Algiers seized the Spanish government freighter Marnegro while it lay at anchor and escaped with the vessel.

The Marnegro was loaded with tanks and planes, consigned to Valencia from Odessa, and was lying in the French colonial port awaiting orders to proceed toward Spain. Most of the crew were ashore and the "pirates" had little difficulty in overpowering the others.

One report said the captain of the freighter co-operated with the insurgents.

The British press has suspected Italian submarines, aiding the Spanish insurgent cause, as responsible for at least some of the attacks and molestations from one end of the Mediterranean to another in recent weeks.

Tories Planned 2,500 Meetings

OTTAWA, Sept. 3 (CP).—Strife within Ottawa Conservative ranks was revealed today as supporters of Arthur Ellis, former Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature for Ottawa South stood pitted against officers of the party organization within the riding.

The situation reached a head yesterday when it became known T. J. O'Neill and Edward Bond, backers of Mr. Ellis had obtained an injunction order restraining the association from issuing voting certificates to adherents attending the party convention slated for Sept. 9.

The injunction effect is that persons possessing tickets of membership in the association may attend and vote and will not be required to show new convention certificates, issued by the association's president and secretary, Joseph Pritchard and J. M. Porter.

O'Neill and Bond contended the issuing of new certificates ordered by a sub-committee for entitlement to vote was contrary to the Association's constitution. The action followed rumors of dissension in the riding.

SEVEN AIRPLANES ENTERED IN RACE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—(AP). — Seven fliers bid speed, courage and skill for a share in the $28,000 Bendix prize to-day as they streaked east across the continent with Jacqueline Cochrane, only woman entrant, as pace setter.

One crash marked the staggered start. R. E. Perlink, Glendale, Calif., emerged unscathed from his ground-looping biplane at Union Air Terminal here.

Miss Cochran soared away at 4:04 a.m. E.D.T., the first to leave. Earl Ortman, his 1,200 horsepower Keith-Rider special far faster than Miss Cochran's Beechcraft, was the last to take off at 9.01 a.m. E.D.T.

Starting times of the others were: F. C. Sundorph, Cleveland, 4:20 a.m.; Milo Burcham, Los Angeles, 5:44 a.m.; Frank Sinclair, Farmingdale, N.Y., 7:36 a.m.; Frank Fuller, San Francisco, 7:55 a.m., and Lieutenant Joseph Mackey, Findlay, Ohio, 8:16 a.m. (all E.D.T.)

Col. Roscoe Turner gave up hope of repairing his Brown B-2 special in time to compete. The craft was damaged by an explosion of gasoline vapor while the fuel tank was being welded last night.

The immediate end of the skyway trial for the fliers was Cleveland, where $20,000 will be distributed, but another $8,000 could be won by continuing on to Bendix, N.J.

COE HILL.

Young Peoples' Day Held At Tabernacle

COE HILL, Sept. 3.—The Gospel Tabernacle of Coe Hill held its Young Peoples' Day services on Sunday. Many young people from the surrounding district attended.

An open air meeting was held at Snow Lake at 2 p.m., followed by a baptismal service at three o'clock. At the evening service the hymns were accompanied with the violins and guitars and there were two special speakers, Bob Jenkins of Hybla and Mr. Gillings of Hamilton.

The Rev. F. Wicks, the regular pastor, brought the meeting to a close with a short message.

Those from outside the village: Mr. and Mrs. Cairns and family, of Hybla; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Thompson of Turriff; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thuillard of Bancroft; Miss Verda Smith of Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins, of Hybla, and many French settlers from Hybla, Turriff and Bancroft.

Picks His Wife

Apparently realizing after many years of married life that his wife was a shrewd woman, Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama, has announced he will appoint his wife, Mrs. Dixie Graves, to the Senate seat vacated by Senator Black. Senator Black has been named a supreme court justice by President Roosevelt. Mrs. Graves, the senator-to-be, is shown ABOVE with her husband, Governor Graves.

Unconcerned Over Fate

Showing little concern for his possible fate on a murder charge following the death of Sergeant Fred Davidson of the Sudbury police force, Tom Pornomarenko, alias Harry Shoke, is shown as he was returned to jail after appearing in court at Sudbury to face a preliminary hearing. Shoke was captured, and a companion killed, when they were ambushed in a rock-cut near Spanish River, Ont. With Shoke are Provincial Constable Jack Brown (LEFT) and Sergeant Stan Wilson of the Sudbury police force.

CENTENARY.

SONG PRESENTED IN INDIAN TONGUE

(Examiner Correspondence)

ROSENEATH, Sept. 1. — Something new by way of entertainment was furnished the audience at Centenary United Church on Friday evening, when the annual supper and concert was held by the Women's Association of that church.

The unusual feature of the program, which was furnished by local talent, was the contribution made by Albert Crowe and his sisters, Mrs. Mary Ann Black and Miss Charlotte Crowe of Alderville, while Miss Crowe presided at the organ and sang the alto part. Mrs. Black and Mr. Crowe, playing violins, sang "O for a thousand tongues to sing," in their native Indian tongue, afterward singing the same number in English. Other vocal and instrumental numbers were contributed by this trio, with the same orchestral arrangement. When one considers the age of the two ladies, that neither of them wear glasses, and that Mrs. Black played the violin and sang in a full tone of voice at the same time, the performance was truly remarkable.

Other enjoyable numbers on the program were: Vocal solos, sung by Miss Luella Timlin and Elmer Harper; each play their own guitar accompaniment; "The Old Rugged Cross," sung by Bhella Burrison; a duet, "Old-Fashioned Days," sung by Misses Hilda Arthur and Luella Timlin; recitations by Velma Elder and a reading, "Sophie's Sermon," read by Rev. L. W. Scott, who presided over the program.

Earlier in the evening the gathering sat down to a sumptuous supper, at tables on the lawn beside the church.

The proceeds amounted to $30.

HASTINGS

A family reunion was held at Crow River Bridge before many who were present who were on vacation to the village, left for their homes. A very pleasant time was enjoyed, and a most delightful picnic dinner served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fairman, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. German, Misses Katharine and Florence German, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fairman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stevenson and son Paul, Mr. George Stevenson and Mr. James Stevenson, all of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fairman of Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Mitchell and son Jack of Winnipeg, Mr. Gordon Fairman of Whitby, Mr. Everett Fairman of Belleville, Miss Kay Heard of Whitby and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fairman and family of Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harper, who have been visiting the latter's brother, Mr. Alex. Wilson, and sister, Mrs. Annie Fleming, left on Saturday for their home at Edmonton, Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Mitchell and son, Jack, who were guests of Misses F. and K. German, left during the week for their home in Winnipeg.

Friends of Mrs. Joseph Gorman will be pleased to hear she is progressing favorably after her recent operation in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fleming and son Stewart, of Red Deer, Alberta, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fleming.

Miss Jemima Jackson of Toronto called during the week at the home of her cousin, Mrs. A. M. Brooks.

Mr. Claude Hartford left on Monday morning for Gravenhurst for treatment.

ONLY MINOR INJURIES.

TILBURY.—Overnight examination of Arthur Mailloux, 42, Tilbury North Township, tossed from a wagon he was driving when the vehicle was struck by a truck, showed he suffered minor injuries. It was first feared he had been seriously hurt. One of the two horses he was driving was killed by the truck.

Chinese Dictator

From he executive council of the Chinese Republic at Nanking, came this most recent portrait of General Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the executive Yuan, of China, and beloved leader of the New United Republic. It is his leadership that resulted in a united front on the part of all China in fighting the current Japanese invasion. A modern leader in an ancient land his army is said to be as well equipped with modern offensive weapons as are the troops of Nippon.

SUPER-HIGHWAYS TO BE URGED IN U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Representative Snyder (D-Pa.) advocate of greater national defence, said today he will urge the next congress to finance nine super-highways over which armed forces of the United States could move speedily to repel an invasion at any point.

Three routes would be from coast to coast and six from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. Each would be 200 feet wide and there would be a huge airport at each of the 18 intersections.

Snyder, chairman of a subcommittee of the House of Representatives handling the military appropriation bill, estimated the cost at $8,000,000,000.

"Looking at this proposal from the standpoint of defence and economy for 100 years or more," he said, "it appears less fantastic. In peacetime they could be used for commercial purposes."

Airplanes based in the heart of the United States could fly the routes to either coast in 12 hours, he said, while army equipment could be moved across the continent in 72 hours.

The Pennsylvanian said he also would urge that congress provide funds next year to let the army obtain more than 600 airplanes and additional anti-aircraft guns and begin building a giant defensive air base in Alaska.

TOUR CUT SHORT BY ILL HEALTH

HALIFAX, Sept. 3—(CP). — His Canada-wide speaking tour cut short by ill-health, Rt. Rev. A. W. F. Blunt, Bishop of Bradford, leaves today for Quebec, where he and Mrs. Blunt will board a steamship for England. His only public appearance in Canada was in suburban Dartmouth last night.

Wars between individuals or between nations were nothing but manifestations of the perpetual war always going on in humanity between good and evil, he said. Man had no choice but to be a battleground for good and evil, but too often evil won out.

Comparing mankind to a football team, Bishop Bradford said men were placed on earth as God's team, with the intention that they should do their best and play together at all times. Because man did not play the game at times, sin became a fact.

Instead of playing together for the good of humanity in general, every member was playing for the good of himself or for the good of one section of the world," he said, and this lack of teamwork made sin possible.

RAILWAY FOREMAN IS FATALLY HURT

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 3—(CP) — William G. Robins, 44-year-old railway foreman, was injured fatally today when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car driven by Russell C. Norton, 27-year-old dairyman of R.R. 4, London.

Norton was arrested on a reckless driving charge and taken into toil. He was not asked to plead and the case was adjourned until September 10. He was released on $1,000 bail.

Inquest into the fatality will be held with Dr. P. J. Sweeney as coroner. The preliminary probe is set for tonight. It is then to be adjourned until next Wednesday night.

Trousseau Tea Given by Miss Rose Blodgett

A bride of next week, Miss Rose Blodgett, held a most enjoyable trousseau tea at her home attended by about 35 for her friends.

The house was most beautifully decorated for the occasion with pink and white crepe paper streamers. Bouquets of gladioli in shades of red and white were arranged effectively in the rooms. Miss Julia Blodgett, sister of the bride-to-be, opened the door to the guests, who were then received by the hostess, Mrs. E. Clarke, cousin of Miss Blodgett, showed the gifts and trousseau. Miss Margaret Whatman assisted in serving the guests.

✧ ✧ ✧

Miss Mary Winn Entertained by Friends

A delightful shower was held at the home of Miss Florence Murphy in honor of Miss Mary Winn, whose marriage to Michael Mahoney takes place on Saturday.

The rooms were decorated prettily with pink and white streamers. The basket of useful gifts was drawn in by little Marilyn Lawington and presented to the bride-elect. After an evening of games, refreshments were served.

Among those present were: Mesdames F. Driscoll, N. Routly, E. Lyons, E. Hardle, B. Lewington, G. Scott, R. Winn, R. Watman, J. Murphy, F. Pullyblank, Scully, W. Delaire, S. McClennan, J. Mrs. W. J. Boddison Entertains for Miss Morrison

A miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Beatrice Morrison, whose wedding is to take place in Knox United Church on September 6, was given this week by Mrs. W. J. Boddison of 546 Wolfe street.

Thirty friends and neighbors were present, the popular guest of honor receiving many attractive gifts, for which she very suitably expressed her thanks. The gifts were presented to her from a large decorated basket, brought in by Peggy Boddison.

An evening of games, contests and music was enjoyed followed by refreshments served by the hostess. Tea was poured by Mrs. G. Hitchins and assistants were Patricia Watson, Eeme Hitchins and Muriel Hall. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, lovely bouquets of gladioli being arranged in the rooms.

Tea and Games At Kawartha Club

The Kawartha Golf and Tennis Clubs held their weekly competition games with a good attendance of members on Thursday afternoon. In the golf section the games were in charge of Mrs. M. D. King and Mrs. D. L. Davis, the prizes going to Mrs. Charles Shaw for obtaining low net score on nine holes and Mrs. Lionel Browne for low score on any three given holes. In the tennis section the prize was won by Mrs. F. O. A. Tarr.

Lowering clouds and sounds of distant thunder caused the members to hold their weekly tea indoors, where a nice breeze coming through the north windows of the solarium made everything most pleasant. An arrangement of zinnias, phlox and nasturtiums in a silver bowl with tall clear glass vases of asters on either side centred the lace-covered table. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. C. McCreery and Mrs. H. A. Cranfield. They were assisted by Mrs. C. A. Salmonsen, Mrs. R. E. Knox, Mrs. W. Jackson, Mrs F. Riley and Miss Alicia Langley.

Humphries—Waters

NORWOOD, Sept. 3 — About eighty guests assembled at the home of M. and Mrs. A. Waters, Seymour, on Wednesday, September 1st at noon, on the occasion of the marriage of their daughter Dorothy to Learl Humphries, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. George Humphries of Norwood.

The marriage ceremony was performed under a beautiful arch of white and pink streamers entwined through evergreens placed in front of a bank of summer flowers, with Rev. Gordon Gardner of Brecklin who is a cousin of the groom officiating.

The bride who was given away by her father entered the living room to the strains of the wedding march played by Mr. Wesley Wildman who also played following the ceremony.

The bride looked charming in her white dress of satin and wearing the customary bridal veil, her bouquet was made up of red roses. Her attendant as bridesmaid, Miss Helen MacKay of Norwood was beautifully attired in pink sheer carrying yellow roses.

Little Miss Inez Coons, cousin of the bride, who was dressed in pink net acted as flowe girl and the ring bearer was Lorne Sexsmith of Trenton a cousin of the groom. The groom was supported by Mr. Everett Waters, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony the bride led the way to the dining room where a delicious wedding dinner was served. Later in the afternoon the happy couple left on a motor trip to Timmins, in Northern Ontario. The bride chose as her travelling costume a suit of navy blue crepe with matching accessories.

On the return from their trip Mr. and Mrs. Humphries will take up residence in Trenton.

Perrie—Hamilton

CHESTERVILLE, Sept. 3—Trinity United Church was the scene of a wedding August 25 when Miss Helen Marian Hamilton, B.A., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hamilton, became the bride of Rev. David Knechtel Perrie, B.A., of Hastings, son of the late Rev. Dr. David and Mrs. Perrie of Wingham. Pink and white blossoms decorated the church and Rev. R. C. Tait, pastor, officiated. He was assisted by Rev. A. G. Rintoul, minister of St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church, Montreal, the brother-in-law of the bridegroom. P. G. Hewitt played the wedding music and Mrs. Allison Graham sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess model of ivory satin, with full upper bodice and shoulders. The skirt fell in a long train and her veil of silk illusion was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley. Mrs. W. C. Powell, Vancouver, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a jacket gown of Venice blue crepe with slight train and picture hat in blending shades of pink. She carried Ophelia roses. Jean Hamilton, niece of the bride, was flower girl, in a blue taffeta dress and wreath of pink rosebuds in her hair; a bouquet of Ophelia roses. T. H. Mills, Ottawa, was best man and the ushers were Allison Graham and Hubert Dixon, Chesterville, Master Robert and Master Graham Phillips, Brockville, nephews of the bride.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Harold Hamilton, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Jean Fulton poured tea at a table gay with pink rosebuds and glowing pink tapers. Rev. and Mrs. Perrie left on an extended motor trip, the bride travelling in a navy suit. They will reside at Hastings, where the bridegroom is pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Rintoul, Montreal; Mrs. T. H. Mills, Mrs. Thomas Hamilton and Miss Audrey Dervin, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Everett and Miss Laura Everett, Iroquois; Lloyd Phillips, Brockville; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Powell and Hudson Campbell, Elgin.

AN ODIOUS COMPARISON

SYDNEY, N.S.W., (CP).—"Kissing a typist is not as serious an offence as assaulting a policeman," said the judge, reducing the fine levied on A. J. Romer from $100 to $50. Romer denied kissing his employee.

Preserving Time

If a slightly sharper relish is preferred, the following will be found delicious.

Tomato and Celery Relish

2½ cups fresh or canned tomatoes
1 large head celery
1 large green pepper
1 onion
(all finely chopped)
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 allspice berries
3-3 cup vinegar.

Mix ingredients, heat gradually to boiling point, and cook slowly 1½ hours. A dash of cayenne, or 1 teaspoon mustard may be added if desired.

Dressmaker Trimmings Are Used To Enhance The Coats For Fall

(By Central Press)

COATS SHOW the effect of the more feminine styles, and have dressmaker touches heretofore confined to dresses. There are gathers, embroidered accents, bands, panels and pockets in color.

The straighter silhouette is the newer styling. It is sometimes fitted in front, with looser back, and is used for many coats.

Occasionally a coat has marked fullness at the back. Schiaparelli does it with a back pleat; Vionnet and Creed with fullness from the yoke seam, and Piquet with gathers from a yoke.

In furs, the short fur coat returns in a number of novelty furs. Ida Lupino, screen actress, is wearing one in our illustration. She has chosen a brown squirrel coat with widened sleeves and a shallow roll collar. This sort of coat looks especially smart worn over a black street dress such as Miss Lupino is wearing, especially wearable for the business girl.

For the younger girls there are also many trim and even luxurious models in both fur and cloth, fur trimmed. One long coat used Persian lamb in bands to give a silhouette that was decidedly fetching for the small girl; while dyed skunk was used for bunchy sleeves and an ample collar for another coat.

Fashion Service

This youthful "Ballerina" dress betrays its Spanish origin in bricked novelty rayon crepe. The graceful whirling skirt is interesting for its long line and slender hips. The tight bodice may button or zip right up the front. This gay dress is also lovely in satin crepe, velvet, thin wool, velveteen, etc. You can sew it at a low price and in in a surprisingly short time with the diagrammed sewing chart included.

Style No. 2799 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch material and ⅝ yard 39inch contrasting.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

THE man who waits for some seventh wave to toss him on dry land, will find that the seventh wave is a long time coming. You can commit no greater folly than to sit by the roadside until someone comes along and invites you to ride with him to wealth or influence.

Dear Friends:

I have been hearing a lot about hitch-hikers, one way or another. Some were for it, and some were against it, and I came out flat-footed and said I would never pick hikers up at all. After all, we do not ask every Tom, Dick or Harry, to enter our home, and our car is more or less our home while we are in it, and those who ask for free rides are worse than those who ask for free meals.

There is really an audacity about asking free rides from anyone, an impudence and a presumption, a lowering of self-respect, and an impertinent anger when their thumbing is ignored.

And there is the same thing when anyone wants to thumb a ride through life. They want the results of your efforts, they want to reach their goal on your shoulders, without any labor to themselves.

Why should they expect to be carried where the rest of us have to work hard to get any place? Why should we work to get somewhere, then have to carry a double load? And as a rule, these same sort of people would be the first to raise a big howl, if anyone asked them to do any carrying.

There is no easy way to get on in the world. It exasperates me past speaking to hear someone tell me, "on oh, but you are gifted." Where would any of us be with whatever gifts we may have, if we did not use them? No matter how clever a person may be, they have to work and work hard to sometimes even get a bare living.

Some will not even do their own thinking for themselves, but are forever wanting someone else to do that for them. It is too much of an effort for them, it wakes them up too much, and what can anyone do without real constructive thinking?

There are even those who are still whining about this depression not even realizing it has been over long ago, and never needed to be for thousands, but was used merely as an excuse so they would not have to beatir themselves. Any thinking person knows that what I say is true.

Laziness is inherent in the brainy as well as the brainless. Any one has to throw it off, has to apply themselves and think things out, then act on what these thoughts have shown them is the best thing to do. But the ones who are trying to hitch-hike their way in life are a nuisance and a hindrance.

You might say, "how about the thoughts of others in newspapers like our own Examiner or in various books, or in our education?" And I'll grant you we do need these things. But, if you only read and never use, or copy someone else's work in school, without really learning, what good is it all to you?

If you stand and watch someone who is trying to teach you something, yet take no interest in it so that your thoughts are far away, how can you ever hope to succeed? It cannot be done. What did you get your brain for if not to use it? Yet some only use their heads to put a hat on, or show their hair-do.

Most of the tragedies and most of the wasted lives could be traced to, "I didn't think," or in waiting for a seventh wave like a sweepstake ticket to carry them to fame and fortune, or in wishing for someone with "pull" to help them hitch-hike into a good position.

Who are you that thinks the way must be made soft for you? How are you any better than the rest of us that must get up early and stay up late to get what we want from life? No, I have no use for those who can only use their thumb either in life or on the road. They are only bums of a different kind, for a hobo will at least use his feet to get places. Only in dire extremity should one expect free riding.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Found Life Gay In Far Aklavik

By GUY E. RHOADES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

AKLAVIK, N. W. T., August 26—(CP) — Longing for adventure brought two pretty girls this summer to Aklavik, 2,900 miles from their Edmonton home, to work in a hotel at this western Artic metropolis.

What Edmonton's domestic service lost Mrs. Vincent Kost gained when the Audience girls, Annie, small and 27, and Pauline, big and 29, decided to leave cities behind them and travel down the Mackenzie waterway.

On a 50-foot scow powered with a 1927 model automobile engine, Annie and Pauline spent 27 days travelling from Fort McMurray to Aklavik with Mrs. Kost who runs the hotel. They were lucky with the weather, escaping violent storms on the passage across Athabasca and Great Slave Lakes, but they suffered considerably from flies. "Our people thought we were crazy when we told them we were coming down here," Annie says, "but we had made up our minds to see the north and here we are."

Aklavik was lively on June 18 when they came. It was near the arrival time of the Steamship Distributor on her first trip down of the year. Hundreds of Indians and Eskimo were camped along the water's edge on the outskirts of the little town, in with their furs to trade.

It was different from the old days when they paddled to town. The modern Indian's canoe is powered with an outboard motor. The modern Eskimo sails a schooner. The wife of the Eskimo or Indian who once laboriously madke clothing with sinew as thread now uses a sewing machine.

Life was gay and busy for Annie and Pauline in those days but as the short Artic summer with its continuous daylight drew toward its close they admitted they were beginning to wonder how lonely they might be in the ing, dark winter.

"We are going to stay this winter, anyway," Pauline said, "and I think we'll be alright. We were brought up on a lonely farm and we don't like cities. Then there will be work to do and people will be coming in every once in a while.

Aklavik loses its gayety as fall approaches. The trappers who have come out for supplies go back to the remote rivers and lakes. The last boat leaves in September and soon afterwards the in-between season before freeze-up grounds the airplanes.

Then come the cold and the lengthening nights till there is nothing brighter at noon than twilight. Annie and Pauline say they are not afraid of that, impressed perhaps by their popularity among the young men of the town which assures them company. "It's two against the Artic," says Pauline, "and I think we are going to like it."

Plaids for Sports

FOR sports or travel in town or country this type of fall costume, worn by Gail Patrick, is suitable. Miss Patrick matches her accessories to the navy blue of her woven wool skirt. The jacket and bands on the skirt are of navy, white and gray plaid.

✧ ✧ ✧

A very smart shoe for early fall wear is the five-eyelet oxford in black suede, with cutout lattice workings in moccasin outline on the vamp, and black calf toes.

KEEP SUET IN GLASS.

All housewives know that suet, exposed to the air, becomes unfit for use within a short time, even though in an icebox. The next time you buy suet, melt it in the oven; then pour it into sterilized glass jars. When cold, it is more easily shredded and will keep much longer. Moreover, you will be able to see at a glance through the transparent walls of the handy jar just how much suet you have on hand.

Girl Who Proposes Is Being Unfair

By VIRGINIA LEE.

THE GIRLS who go around telling men they love them, unasked, you understand, always "get me." Of course, there are occasions where a brave girl will take her courage into both hands and announce to the boy friend that she loves him and intends to marry him. But those are exceptional cases. They occur in stories one reads in magazines, and occasionally in real life.

But these girls who believe they will lose the boy friend if they do not announce that they love them very much and can't live without them, it seems to me, defeat their own ends. They take an unfair advantage of the man who likes them but may not be so gone that he wishes to become engaged, for it seems to be an unwritten law that a man can't turn a loving girl down. By confessing her love the girl gets a hold on him, which it would be ungallant to break. That is really why the girls do it, whether they know and acknowledge it or not.

No that isn't being sporting. If you cannot possibly keep your love to yourself, and simply must tell the adored youth how much you love him, be enough of a sport to "take it" if he says, sorry, but I don't care for you that way. If you usurp a mans privilege, be a man about the answer. If he were the one who loved too well and you couldnt care for him like that, you would feel perfectly free to say so and expect him to be tragic about it, maybe, but not to insist that you marry him anyhow.

Clothes In Canada Cost Less Hence Girls Are Better Dressed

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 23—(CP)—Take it from a group of 16 English and Scottish girls visiting London to-day—Canadian life is "perfectly exciting."

The girls arrived here Friday guests of London girls who toured the British Isles a year ago. They will remain in London five days. A party of 58 are visiting Canada.

While some played tennis and others golfed, the remainder just "loafed around" and took "things easy."

Canadian girls dressed better they admitted, "but why shouldnt they? Clothes here are one half the price they are in England."

The country, they said, was clean and the buildings clean, but Canadian trains came in for criticism. "They're slow, dreadfully slow. They are dirty, too, compared to our trains."

DRESS SMUGGLERS FINED

FOLKESTONE, England—(CP)—Four women with London West-end addresses were fined a total of $750 for attempting to evade payment of duty on dresses coats and other articles of clothing from France.

SHE RETALIATED

STEYNING, Sussex—(CP). — A motorist complained in court that after he ran over a dog belonging to Miss Patricia Mathers, she punched him on the nose, jumped on his back and tried to throttle him. She was fined $10.

China Cabinets Popular

Closed-door china cabinets stress mirrored-glass back panels and glass shelves, to permit the housewife to show to advantage the beautiful glassware and china she treasures. Corner cabinets are increasingly popular—adapting themselves both to china and bric-a-brac, according to dispatches from recent furniture showings.

Autumn Hats Fashionable And Becoming

By LISBETH

Lest you are led to think that the new autumn hats are pretty much on the extreme or "freaky" order, let me present two that are extremely wearable and also decidely fashionable.

The first fall hat may be of laced silk ribbon, as shown at the left. Louisesanders designed this tailored hat in fedora type with telescoped crown, and made of wine red silk lace ribbons. It is soft and crushable, adjusting itself to the wearer's head, and is definitely flattering with its modest brim. Chartreuse ribbon is used as a quill.

Then there is the black velvet toque—always a favorite in fall and also most becoming to almost any face. The one pictured right is black velvet with a face veil and rhinestone clips caught at each side. This also is a design by Louisesanders.

For evening halo hats are being shown in velvet—some in white velvet. Many high cone-shaped hats are also being made in velvet, and a novelty of the season is the double hat, one hat worn over a tight fitting cap, which is often of velvet.

Peaks Liked

Little peaked hats of felt and whatnot are a fashion for young girls and they are simply cute. I saw one, a folded-over peaked crown toque in tucked black felt, which had a "cigaret" ornament at the back.

Other more extreme modes are the high shako, and some of the bonnet types. They are fashioned sometimes of suede or of Persian broadtail, and are undeniably clever. Period and national influences seem at play with our millinery styles, and the results are very intriguing. One designer shows hats that have a Louis IV savor. She also plays up the bowknot theme in various ways, and uses draped jersey crowns finishing in a braid at the back and caught with a velvet bow—like the perukes worn by 18th century gallants. Her brims turn up in front, and her supple velvet crowns are posed on the head and fall down the neck.

Dramatic brimmed shapes are a feature of another famous designer. His models are said to be inspired by portraits by Boldini, famous in the 1900's. Then there is the shallow breton, also favored by this designer, turned up at one side with the brim laced with jet sequins, and with curled ostrich curving over brims of hats that accompany dinner gowns. Bohemian and Greek influences are also noted, so you see, all in all, it is a gala season in hats, mesdames. But don't worry, we ordinary mortals will all find models to suit us—and they will not be too extreme, and will have style.

An ideal underwear wardrobe for the college girl has been compiled by one foresighted manufacturer, from information received through a questionnaire, which includes: Six snuggies or briefs; three brassieres (uplift type); six slips, as follows, three knit rayon or silk; two tailored satin slips and once lace trimmed slip; three girdles or pantie girdles; two sleeping pyjamas (satin striped); three lumberjack pyjamas (for cold nights); lounging pyjamas, a bathrobe or housecoat and three pairs of panties.

✧ ✧ ✧

Flower headdresses are destined for great popularity this coming season. For these small flowers are preferred—tiny roses, forget-me-nots, and edelweiss appear, usually in garlands set onto curved bands covering from around the ear across the top of the head. With these are worn flower brooches and flower bouquets.

✧ ✧ ✧

Height in hats has been stressed so much this season, it is welcome news to hear that a certain amount of width is creeping into the new hat silhouettes, whether turban or brim.

✧ ✧ ✧

Gilt initial clips are a new attraction on the midsummer black crepe dress. They are used as closings for the front of the bodice. The dress is of simple style with shirtwait type bodice, white tailored collar and moderately flared skirt.

Black silk velvet toque with face veil and two rhinestone clips.

Prepare Your Child's Eyes for School

36,000,000 children will return to school this fall, and of this number, more than 6,000,000—or one in every five—has defective vision—vision that can in most cases be corrected by the proper fitting of glasses. If your child is one of these, you probably won't know it without an examination. Headaches, dislike of school, poor marks, squinting and a cross disposition are symptoms, but only by a complete and scientific examination can you be sure that his eyes are at their best. Bring your child in now—before school starts.

TORY LEADER IS FORCED TO THUMB WAY TO ARNPRIOR

driver stopped and repaired it and the party jogged along another mile. Another tire blew out.

Already two hours late, the party lined up on the highway. A reporter held up his thumb at the first car. It whizzed by. Mr. Rowe flagged down a car going the opposite way and its driver, a Mr. Harry Smith of Smiths Falls, stopped and drove the party into Smiths Falls, where a taxi was hired to complete the trip. It was Mr. Rowe's first experience in hitch-hiking.

The convention nominated John H. Findlay, Carleton Place, Conservative candidate for South Renfrew; and on his behalf Mr. Rowe delivered an address.

Farmers Neglected

Neglect of the farmers' interests was laid to Hepburn government by the Conservative chieftin. At a time when rural workers were needing assistance, the premier, he said, had cut out farm relief and had abolished the provincial farm board. He had also abandoned the policy of bonusing better livestock.

Mr. Rowe deplored that "immense areas" of timber had been rented in Northern Ontario to United States financial interests. At the same time, he said, Canadian lumbermen and farmers had to pay about $1 a cord in excess of the price paid by the U.S. operators.

He undertook to stimulate Ontario's $100,000,000 annual tourist industry by building better highways, and by conserving the natural resources of forest and stream. Mr. Rowe charged Premier Hepburn had split the province into religious and racial factions by high school tax allotment policy, and asserted the government's $9,000,000 surplus had been accumulated at the expense of necessary social services.

FIFTEEN OF CREW STILL MISSING

PANAMA CITY, Fla., Sept. 3. — (AP)—The story of a heroic 25-hour swim through choppy seas with the word of a steamship wreck was unfolded today while coast guardsmen pursued, with deadening hope, a search for 13 missing members of the crew of the freighter Tarpon. All the missing were negroes.

The hunt unleased by the exploit of Ashley Baker, 25-year-old Mobile, Ala., oiler, resulted in the rescue of nine survivors of the crew of 29. Two negroes drifted ashore on floating wreckage. The rescuers recovered two bodies, including that of Captain W. G. Barrow, veteran skipper, who was making his 1,735th trip with the Tarpon when it foundered Wednesday, 20 miles off East Pass in the Gulf of Mexico.

"I'd swim until I couldn't lift my arms," said Baker from a hospital bed in recounting how he covered the 25 miles to shore in quest of help. "then I'd float for a while and swim some more."

Grandma Keeps Tab On Children

Winnipeg, Aug. 3 (CP).

A methodical Quebec grandmother faced with the problem of keeping check on her two grandchildren travelling from Quebec to Los Angeles alone found a worry proof answer.

Before they took the train she devised a method of knowing how the children are faring almost daily. She wrote herself a number of stamped letters, with three blank spaces to be filled in by the Travellers' Aid at each city.

The children passed through Winnipeg returning to their Los Angeles home.

MRS. RUSSEL GARDNER

NORWOOD, Sept. 3.—Late on Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Cummings' Hospital, Havelock, the sudden death occurred of Mrs. Russel Gardner of Norwood, in her thirtieth year, following a raw cays' illness. The sad news came as a great shock to the citizens of the village and vicinity. The late Mrs. Gardner, prior to her marriage about three years ago, was Dorothy Helen Barton of Bowmanville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Barton, Bowmanville.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Peterborough street. Interment in the Norwood cemetery.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WILLIAM LISCUM

COE HILL, Sept. 3.—The funeral of William Liscum, who died early Sunday morning in his 76th year at the Red Cross Hospital here, took place from his son's home, Theodore Liscum, on Monday afternoon.

Mr. Liscum was widely known in the district and will be greatly missed. He was a member of the Anglican church at Owenbrook.

Floral tributes were many and beautiful. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, four sons, Theodore and Ivan married, Robert and Jessie at home and three daughters, Mrs. Wm. Thompson of Otter Creek, Mrs. Wilbert Winter of Glen Alda and Marjorie at home.

The funeral was conducted by the new Anglican minister of Apsley and interment took place in the Sunnyside cemetery, Owenbrook.

BERNARD GILLIECE

DOWNEYVILLE, Sept. 3—The funeral of the late Bernard Gilliece was held from the home of his brother-in-law Friday morning to St. Luke's church, Downeyville, where Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. Father Corkery of Lindsay, and was largely attended by friends and relatives of the deceased. The pallbearers were Thomas Breen and Joseph Gilliece of Buffalo, N.Y., George Gilliece of Kincardine, Ont., T. J. Morrisey, John Perdue and William C. Herlihey of Downeyville.

The death of the late "Barny" Gilliece came as a great shock to his relatives and friends here, under such sad circumstances; he was accidently drowned in the Allegheney river at Bewickley, Penn.

Bernard Gilliece was the eldest son of the late Patrick Gilliece and Jane Breen. He was in his 46th year and was born and raised in Emily and lived here until about twenty years ago when he moved to the United States.

He was highly esteemed and loved by everyone, was possessed with a pleasing personality, and his music ability made him a welcome guest everywhere. He is survived by four sisters, Mrs. T. J. Morrisey (Mollie) of Downeyville, Mrs. Bernard Murray (Madge) and Mrs. Paul Genander (Gladys) of Buffalo, N.Y. and Mrs. Dr. Herbert Farrell (Ruth) of New York city, and three brothers, John of Monireal, Que., Joseph of Buffalo, N.Y., and George of Kincardine, Ont. After the Mass the remains were conveyed to St. Luke's cemetery, where the services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Father Corkery of Lindsay.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mr. Thomas Breen, Mrs. Joseph Gilloley, Mrs. William Bibby and Miss Lucille Gilloley, Mrs. Joseph Meehan of Rochester, N.Y. and Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy of Lindsay. The sympathy of the community is extended to the relatives in their hour of sorrow.

THOMAS GEORGE HARKNESS

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Sept. 3.—The funeral of Thomas George Harkness, whose death occurred with startling suddenness on Sunday evening following a very brief illness, took place on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., under I.O.O.F. auspices, and was one of the largest ever seen in this community. Deceased was in his sixty-ninth year.

A private service at the family residence, Union street, preceded the public gathering at St. John's church, Ida, which was filled to capacity with many unable to obtain entrance. The Rev. C. R. Spence, M.A., of Bowmanville, formely of Millbrook, conducted the services in the absence of the Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A., who is attending the sessions of the General Synod at Halifax.

Deceased was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Harkness, and was born and brought up on the family homestead, Tenth Concession of Cavan, his entire life being spent in Millbrook and vicinity. Only three members of a family of nine children, three sons and six daughters, now survive, Mr. Teasdale Harkness, and Mrs. John Bradburn, of Cavan, and Mrs. Hannah Sisson, of Peterborough.

Mr. Harkness was a widely known and highly respected citizen, and had followed the calling of a drover during practically the entire period of his business career, though a few years were spent in farming and for a time he was proprietor of the Millbrook garage in conjunction with the J. J. Duffus Company, of Peterborough.

The marriage of Mr. Harkness and Caroline Kinyon, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Kinyoun, who survives her husband, took place forty-four years ago, on December 25, 1893, their whole married life having been spent in Cavan and Millbrook. In religion deceased was an Anglican, and on Sunday evening had attended St. Thomas' church and assisted in the taking up of the offertory; the illness which resulted fatality occurred suddenly a little more than an hour after he had returned from the service.

In politics Mr. Harkness was a well-known Liberal, and held the position of chairman of the local Liberal Association. In fraternal circles he was a charter member of Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 308, and the last survivor of the origina. seven who made application for the charter when the Lodge was organized. At the time of his death he filled the office of Noble Grand, and for the two previous years had been Vice Grand, his connection with Oddfellowship, which began when he joined the Lodge at Peterborough on May 1, 1894, covering a period of forty-three years. He had also for some years been actively connected wit the Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, and with Millbrook L.O.L. No. 79, marching with the Order when the celebration of July Twelth was held at Millbrook this year.

Besides those already mentioned, the immediate surviving relatives include three sons, Walter, of Toronto, Alex and George of Millbrook; and one daughter, Mrs. J. W. Bryett (Gertrude), of Peterborough; six grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews.

The Oddfellows' ritual for the funeral service was in charge of Brother P. I. Bentley, P.G., and Brother (Rev.) P. C. Howard, of Bobcaygeon, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Ontario. The pall bearers were all brother Oddfellows and included Marlon Sisson, of Toronto, W. G. Rowland, J. H. Isbister, O. E. Burnham, W. E. Ball, and H. J. Armstrong. Included among the floral tributes which were many and beautiful, besides those from the immediate family and friends, were the three links from Peterborough District I.O.O.F.; and wreaths from Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 308; Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge; the J. J. Duffus Company, Peterborough; the ex-Service Men of Millbrook; Bee and Duggan, Toronto, with whom Mr. Walter Harkness is employed; the Wallace Point Canoe Club; and Dunn and Levack of the Union Stock Yards, Toronto, with whom Mr. Harkness had done business over an extended period of year. The flower-bearers were all nephews; George Sisson, Peterborough; Charles Sisson, Toronto; Tom and Frank Harkness, Ida; Richard Stewart, Otonabee; Tom and Harry Bradshwaite, and William Bowger, Cavan.

Among the many from outside points who attended the funeral were: Mr. J. J. Duffus, Peterborough, Messrs. Lowe and Chapman, of Dunn and Levack, Toronto; Mr. Hood and Mr. J. Juby, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. A. Larmer, Messrs. Earl and Cassell Larmer, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sisson, Toronto; besides others from Plainville, Garden Hill, Elizabethville, Otonabee, Smith township, and several other points.

Plan Intensive Programme Of Missionary Promotion

Representatives of United Church Conferences Gather in Whitby.

WHITBY, Sept. 3. — Plans were formulated for an intensive program of missionary promotion in the United Church this autumn by the delegates attending the joint conference of Hamilton, London, Toronto, Baye of Quinte and Montreal-Ottawa conferences of the United Church in session at the Ontario Ladies' College here.

One feature of the autumnal plans will be the holding of a huge mass meeting in Toronto with similar simultaneous meetings in other centres in the Province. The Toronto meeting, which will be addressed by outstanding lay and clerical leaders of the Church, will be broadcast and hooked up to the other meetings. The meeting is scheduled for November.

Plan Aid for West

The Conference expressed itself as being in deep sympathy with the brethren in the dried-out areas in Saskatchewan and committed itself to the shipping of 500 carloads of fruits and vegetables, used clothing and other supplies to the afflicted districts, as well as the raising of $40,000 extra for the ministers and their families in those districts. The sum of $200,000 extra will be needed for the Church as a whole, it was decided.

Ten-Point Program

At the forthcoming Presbyteries in the Province, missionaries and secretaries will address them. A ten-point program was agreed upon by the delegates to be undertaken by the Presbyteries in Ontario.

1—To organize all Presbyteries on the group system;

2—To perfect local organizations in congregation by having a Missionary and Maintenance Committee in every congregation that is representative of all organizations in the church;

3—To see that a definite financial objective is accomplished by every charge on the basis of an average over the past five years, plus 5 per cent to 10 per cent;

4—To arrange for missionary itineraries during the fall in all Presbyteries;

5—To plan missionary field days wherever possible in Presbyteries;

6—To have a roll call made to discover how much money is raised for the missionary and maintenance fund and forwarded to the Treasurer;

7—To develop wherever possible teams of lay speakers for missionary educational work;

8—To encourage youth to read Dr. J. A. Arnup's study book, "A New Church Faces a New World";

9—To plan a circulation campaign for placing the United Church Record in every home;

10—To do everything possible to have missionary campaigns early enough in the year so as to secure the desired amount by January 31.

The Conference heartily endorsed the Laymen's conferences to be held at Alma College, St. Thomas, September 4 and 5; Albert College, Belleville; Wasaga Beach, and the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, all on September 11 and 12.

Oldest Fiddler Wins In C.N.E. Contest

Toronto, Sept. 3.

OLDEST contestant in the old time fiddlers contest, Andrew Cameron, Toronto, 82, won first prize in the class open to men 75 years or older, Neil Bell Stayner, was second and Jacob Crow Smithville, third.

In the competition for fiddlers, 65 to 75 years old, J. A. Markle, Hamilton, shared first place with D. A. McCracken, Toronto. Second position went to W. Morrison, Mimico, and third to Hartford McPherson, St. Annes.

G. Norris, Toronto, captured first ranking in the class for men over 50 years. C. E. McMillan, Erin, took second position and John Nickall, Limehouse, was third.

BODY OF MAN FOUND.

MANOTICK, Ont., Sept. 3 (CP)—The body of John W. Arnott, 40, of Westboro, Ont., was found in the Rideau River near here today.

Prominent in municipal and fraternal circles, he had been missing since Tuesday. Engaged in the laundry business, he was past president of the Ontario Laundrymen's Association. Manotick is 14 miles south of Ottawa.

Japan Will Require 600 Millions For War

TOKYO, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Japanese cabinet today approved an emergency war budget of more than $600,000,000 to finance Japan's campaign in China. The appropriation is more than Japan spent on the last Sino-Japanese war and the Russo-Japanese war together.

Of the supplementary budget approved today, 2,000,000,000 yen ($600,000,000) goes to the army and navy out of a total figure of 2,042,400,000 yen. A 20,000 yen ($6,000) grant to the Impeial University biological research was the only item not directly or indirectly connected with operations in China.

OMEMEE

Mr. A. H. Faulkner of Peterboro, is spending his vacation with his father, Mr. S. H. Faulkner.

Special speaker at Trinity United church Sunday evening, was Mr. John Star Kim of Korea. Despite the warm evening there was a large congregation. Mr. Kim played a violin solo, "Nearer My God to Thee." He also sang "Sun of My Soul" in Korean.

The guest soloist was Arthur Marshall of Peterboro, who sang "He Is Mine."

Mr. Kim's subject was "God's Harmony." He described the habits and customs of the people of the East, showing the difference between them and those of the west.

The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. G. MacTavish. Rev. Mr. Bury of Janetville, pronounced the Benediction.

Mr. Ameron Faulkner, Irene and Mary visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halligan, Bewdley, recently.

11 Wounded By Shell

A police check showed 11 persons were wounded by the shell, which struck the foreign business district just a block south of the Garden Bridge across Soochow Creek. Two of the wounded were dying. Shrapnel fell over a wide area including that adjacent to the British consulate and near the United States cruiser Augusta.

Settlement authorities closed the Bund and waterfront to traffic and cleared the streets leading to the famous thoroughfare along the river.

Pootung Point, which juts out into the bend of the Whangpoo opposite the Garden Bridge, was enveloped in flames.

Fires were sweeping other areas and spreading rapidly. They were claiming many lives and causing enormous property damage.

Fighting continued without interruption along the Woosung and Lotien sectors north of the city. According to a Japanese spokesman less than a score of a Japanese company survived an effort to relieve a village near Lotient surrounded by 5,000 Chinese.

The Japanese forded Woosung Creek breast deep in water only to be met by withering fire. In rapid succession the Japanese company commander, Lieutenant and Sergeant Major were killed as each in turn attempted to lead an advance. Command finally devolved on a corporal who led a successful defence of the Japanese position.

Hastings Liberals Chose F. E. Brown

TWEED, Sept. 3.—F. E. Brown, well known Tweed farmer, was the unanimous choice of the Liberals of East Hastings to carry the banner in the approaching campaign. This is Mr. Brown's initial appearance in the political field, although he has been a strong supporter of Mitchell F. Hepburn, since the Government of the latter swept into power in 1934. Others mentioned were: Peter McLaren, defeated in 1934; Dr. H. A. Boyced defeated in the East Hastings by-election; Robert Bristol, Madoc; A. B. Collins, K.C., Belleville; Arthur Goff, Foxboro, and George Jordan, Deputy Reeve of Hungerford Township. All withdrew in favor of Mr. Brown.

NORWOOD

Misses Florence Scott and Margaret Burgess, nurses-in-training at Nicholl's Hospital, Peterborough, are spending their vacation at their respective homes.

Mr. Elton Burgess returned to Belleville on Tuesday to resume his duties as teacher in the Belleville Collegiate.

Misses Frances Thompson and Ruth Packenham entered the September nurses' class of Nicholl's Hospital on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. McConnell and Miss Ina McConnell are attending the Toronto Exhibition.

Boy Saves Sister

CRESTWYND, Sask.—(CP)—Six-year-old Albert Atkinson saved his two-year-old sister when he dashed a pail of water on her after she had set fire to a grain sack in the kitchen of their home. Albert then raced out to the barn and called his mother and the fire was extinguished.

which she said contained about $2 and they demanded her watch. She said her jaws and face were still sore from the beating she suffered.

Medical testimony was that the woman was bleeding profusely when aid arrived, one eye was swollen shut and there was a deep gash on the throat.

Evidence disclosed the quartet had gone in Harpell's car to Mrs. Leary's directed by Deahane. There Murray and Deahane got out of the car while Harpell and Northmore went up the road to turn around and stop a short distance west of the woman's cottage. Harpell driving the car, denied any knowledge of what had taken place but Deahane, recalled, said Harpell had warned him a few days later to keep quiet about the matter.

When all four reached a hotel in Napanee after the robbery there was blood on Murray's shoulders and Northmore gave him his windbreaker to war, testimony showed. In evidence, Dershane described Murray throwing the purse to Harpell, the latter removing the contents and tearing the purse up. This action was denied by both Harpell and Murray.

Provincial and local police made the arrests about five days after the assault.

No Wonder Was Not Able To Sleep

SPOKANE, Wash.—Bert Thompson, 46-year-old laborer, didn't feel well. He told emergency hospital attendants he couldn't sleep and couldn't eat. They said he should have an x-ray. The trouble—he swallowed his teeth, the whole lower denture.

Bureau Asked To Find Him A Wife

LONDON—A Huron County man yesterday asked the employment bureau here to find him a wife. He told Superintendent Harry Wray he wanted someone to look after his home. Mr. Wray decided the best thing he could do was refer the whole matter to the Ontario head office.

Peterborough Not Included In "Cambria's" Itinerary

President Trans-Canada Air Lines Says "Not Possible on Present Flight."

Hopes that arrangements in connection with the goodwill flight of the Imperial Airways flying boat "Cambria" might be altered slightly to give Peterborough a chance of seeing the history-making craft when she returns to Montreal on Monday, were given a setback in replies received by The Examiner and Chamber of Commerce from S. J. Hungerford.

Mr. Hungerford, president of Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines, in his reply to a suggestion that the boat might be re-routed to include this city in its itinerary, stated he had discussed the matter with Captain Griffith J. Powell, commander of the "Cambria," but regretted that on the present flight it would not be possible to have the aircraft fly over Peterborough.

In his regrets that it would not be possible for the aircraft to pass over here on its "present flight," Mr. Hungerford would seem to suggest the possibility of the flying boat coming here at some later date.

Coupled with the request, telegraphed to Mr. Hungerford, a wire was sent to the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport at Ottawa relative to the possibility of having the flying ship re-routed over Peterborough.

J. Duffus, M.P., Peterborough West, who telegraphed the Minister, had not received a reply, but he was still hopeful something might be done to give the people of this city and district an opportunity to see the giant Empire flying boat.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up By an Examiner Reporter.

CHARGE IS DISMISSED

In handing down a reserved judgment this morning Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., dismissed a charge against Albert E. Taylor, Toronto contractor who was accused of the theft of a blue print plan off a verandah on complaint of B. V. Ketcheson. The accused was represented by A. L. Elliott.

HARRY WHITE RESIGNS.

The resignation of Charles B. Stapleton as sanitary inspector on Thursday followed a similar notification from Harry W. White, who had been temporarily appointed to the position during Mr. Stapleton's illness. Dr. G. Murray Fraser informed The Examiner today that he and Relief Officer Metheral were filling the breach until a new inspector is appointed.

REDUCTION NOTED

Peterborough consumers of Hydro power in commercial power and commercial light categories noted the first benefits of the recently-announced rate reductions in September bills received this week. The reductions in domestic lighting rates will be put into effect when the first September domestic billings go out in the next few days.

ROAD VERY ROUGH

Motorists proceeding eastward out of Peterborough on Highway 7 are finding it rough going. Concrete has been laid on one half of the highway and is now curing under tarpaulins. Traffic must keep to the narrow strip on the other half of the highway where deep ruts and pot-holes make progress very slow and difficult.

WOMEN OPEN CAMPAIGN.

The Women's Liberal Association of the city opened Alex. Elliott's campaign with a well-attended meeting in the Duffus Building. The candidate and T. J. Carley gave short addresses that conceded many minutes to the weather. Mrs. C. J. Banks presided, and it was arranged to hold an afternoon tea this month as one of the women's contributions to the Liberal party's effort in this riding.

MAY IMPORT BARGE.

The big 44-ton shovel recently bought by the Johnston Construction Company is reported still on the Lakefield wharf, with the likelihood that a barge will have to be brought up from Trenton for the transportation of the mammoth machine by water. Although scows were once comparatively numerous in the local water craft, apparently they have all disappeared from active service.

BOOK EXCHANGE

A busy center of business is the book exchange at the Collegiate. Large numbers of students are availing themselves of the opportunity to obtain text books for their new course at a fraction of the new cost at the student bureau which is operating in full swing this year after successful experiments of past years. The exchange is also doing a service to those wishing to realize on their used books.

NO MORE OUTBREAKS.

Dr. G. Murray Fraser, medical officer of health, stated this morning there were no further outbreaks of infantile paralysis in the city to increase the four cases previously listed by his department. He believed that the four patients, all children, were making satisfactory progress towards recovery. The disease struck them in its milder form, but notwithstanding, regulations were stringently enforced and serum was administered.

BOTH BLONDES AND BRUNETTES.

Infantile paralysis in Peterborough strikes impartially children of blonde and brunette complexions, local medical authorities said today commenting on the report from the Stratford medical officer of health that all victims there are blondes. Dr. J. A. Morgan, township medical officer, said cases within his experience in this district have been both blonde and brunette. M.O.H. Dr. G. Murray Fraser said he had observed no complexion distinction among the victims.

ENDS ACTIVE SERVICE.

Appointment of a substitute for William A. Richardson of Norwood on the executive of the Peterborough County Liberal Association Wednesday afternoon marked the end of his active service in the cause of his party. For years Mr. Richardson was the secretary-treasurer of the East Peterborough Liberal Association during the time when John Bexsmith and Jim Thomoson dominated the constituency. When the east and west ridings were amalgamated he was one of the officers who was appointed to the executive of the new provincial Liberal Association. Illness prevented him from attending the convention.

A TEACHER WHO HITCH-HIKES

A Peterborough motorist on the way from Toronto on Thursday found a young man at the fork in the road just outside Port Hope. He took him in and dropped him at a point where he could look for another car going on No. 7 to Marmora. The hitch-hiker was a school teacher from Toronto who had been spending his summer in a cottage near Marmora. He had gone back to the city but found the schools had not opened, so he decided to return. His own car was at the cottage near Marmora, so instead of waiting five hours for a train he decided to try the hitching method. He had no trouble in getting a ride from the Danforth in Toronto to Welcome, but had to walk from Welcome to the fork in the road coming to Peterborough and had just arrived when he secured a ride to this city. "I don't know exactly the best way to get at it," he explained, "but I did the best I could and find it not difficult at all."

The Government of New Zealand will contribute to the wages of workers taken off sustenance and employed on new municipal public works.

CAMPBELLFORD.

MATTER CLEARED REGARDS DRIVING TOWN FIRE TRUCK

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 3.—Arthur Redden is unable to execute his duties in the care of the fire truck, Mayor F. F. Long reported to the Council at its meeting held on Tuesday. Due to a resolution passed at a previous meeting of the council forbidding anyone but an authorized member of the department to drive the fire-truck, Mr. Redden, who is in charge of the fire hall and pumping station was left with the impression that he could under no circumstances take out the truck either for gasoline or other service. "Isn't that what he's getting paid for?" asked Councillor Macmillan. After calling on the clerk to read the resolution, the council decided that its meaning clearly indicated that the reference to the truck was clearly indicated to mean in the case of fire only.

Sidewalks Cleared

Deputy-reeve C. H. Calver stated that a recent complaint had resulted in Constable George Hardy ordering the removal of all merchandise displays from the sidewalk. Acting under a by-law which had been passed about 32 years ago, the constable had ordered the removal of all displays from the street.

"This is a serious handicap to some of these merchants," said the Deputy-reeve and I would like to make a motion that the merchants be allowed up to 24 inches on the sidewalk."

"Who would be responsible if someone falls on the street due to this merchandise," inquired Councillor Dorie. The town solicitor, who was asked for a ruling on the matter, replied that the town would be responsible and, after considerable discussion Calver withdrew his motion and Councillors MacMillan and Dorie moved that the matter be left in the hands of the Legal committee and report at the next meeting.

A request for a sidewalk to be placed on the north side of Church street was made to the council by L. C. Garrison, and on motion, the Road and Bridge committee were authorized to look over the proposed site for the walk with power to act. From the Department of Public Works at Ottawa, it was learned that the sidewalk to be placed on the east side of the post office, was to receive early consideration.

License Refused

The application for a municipal license to operate a wrecking service in town was refused Chas. Petherick, on the grounds that neighboring properties in the residential district would be depreciated in value.

The total amount of tax arrears at the present time were $14,670.30, and the taxes collected during the month of August were $2,124.93, while the total amount collected for the year amounted to $49,336.23, Mr. J. C. Birmingham, tax collector told the council.

After the passing of the pay sheet the council adjourned.

Toronto Squirrel Attacks Children

TORONTO, Sept. 3 (CP).—Maybe it was the heat. Anyway police yesterday had a busy, but unsuccessful, 40 minutes looking for a gray squirrel which ran amok in a park. A man, two women and two children were bitten by the animal which escaped before a police detachment arrived to destroy it. None was seriously hurt.

RIGHT ARM AMPUTATED

BRANTFORD — Robert Muir was in fair condition in hospital here today, suffering injuries received when struck by a freight train. Muir's right arm was amputated. Albert Mitchell, conductor, said Muir was lying on the tracks when hit.

The Whole Town Of Zenda "Goes To Town"

Almost the entire population of the "smallest city in the world", Zenda Ont., is shown as they arrived at New York aboard a special skyliner to attend the premier of the motion picture "The Prisoner of Zenda." The 11 persons, six men and five women, were taken to New York as a publicity stunt because their town, in the heart of Ontario's richest farming district, was named after the book "The Prisoner of Zenda" from which the motion picture was made. The home town consists of one store, a dairy and a small cluster of homes. The group was officially welcomed by Mayor La Guardia.

SUNDAY SCHOOL IS CLOSED IN SMITH BY HEALTH BOARD

Taking drastic action in the hope of restricting infantile paralysis in Smith township to the one case reported there this week, the township Board of Health decreed yesterday that Hall's School remain closed until September 13, that the Fairview Sunday school be discontinued until two weeks after the appearance of the last case in its neighborhood and that a picnic of Selwyn, Bridgenorth and Fairview Sunday school children scheduled for September 6 be postponed until approved by Medical Officer Dr. J. A. Morgan.

The Board adopted a resolution strongly urging parents in the township to keep their children within the bounds of their own school sections and to discourage visitors from outside points. President at the meeting were Reeve George E. Mullen, Deputy-reeve Fred Armstrong, Dr. J. A. Morgan and Secretary Percy Udy.

Dr. Morgan stated he will make his annual visit of inspection to the schools in the near future. Annual free toxoid treatments will be given at a date to be announced, later, it was said.

FACING CHARGE RECKLESS DRIVING

Norman Manley, 35, of 44 George street was this morning arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. on a charge of reckless driving and also on a charge of failing to return to the scene of an accident. He pleaded not guilty to both counts and on the request of his counsel Reginald Chandler, obtained an adjournment until Wednesday of next week.

It is alleged that the accused when driving a motor car owned by R. J. Byers of the same address on Keene road Thursday afternoon ran into some cattle maiming three of the animals so badly they had to be destroyed by Inspector James F. Reid of the city police department. The loss suffered by David Andrews owner of the cattle who farms the old Duffus homestead, was estimated at around $100.

Costa Rica has a shortage of farm labor.

Receives Threat

CAROL ANN BEERY

Police in Beverly Hills, Cal., placed a heavy guard around screen actor Wallace Beery's home following a note, intercepted by postal authorities, threatening Beery's adopted daughter, Carol Ann, with kidnapping unless the actor paid $10,000. Carol Ann is six.

The Rambling REPORTERS

AN INTREPID MALE

Marking a startling departure in men's summer attire, an intrepid male was wandering about on George street this morning clad in the shortest of short shorts. It was a sight that could not fail to arrest the attention of his more conservatively-minded brothers as they went about with their legs encased in a more conventional style. The shorts which exposed a huge expanse of naked underpinning, were fashioned in canary yellow with contrasting black trimmings on the seams—or what there was of seams. Presumably a tourist, the stylist was shopping in the company of a lady and appeared to be supremely unconscious of the interest his appearance was creating.—R.

BOTH HEAT AND HUMIDITY

Frequently heard on the street these days is the comment, "It's not the heat—it's the humidity." Yesterday in Peterborough it was both heat and humidity which caused the citizenry to swelter despairingly. No official record of humidity is kept here but it is believed the day produced the highest heat-humidity combination of the season with the heat maximum reaching 93 degrees and humidity ranging close to 8% percent.

What is humidity? Several subscribers have asked. Humidity is the measure of the amount moisture in the atmosphere in relation to the capacity of the atmosphere to absorb moisture at any given time. Thus, the amount of moisture in the air one day might be the same as the next yet the humidity the next day be quite low, depending on the varying saturation point of the atmosphere. The old saying could be: "It's not the heat—it's the ratio of moisture content to saturation."—C.P.K.

ANGLICAN SYNOD NAMES OFFICERS

Members of the executive council of the Synod of the Church of England in Canada, in addition to members of the Upper House and officers of the Lower House, as elected by the Lower House at the Synod Conference in Halifax, were in part as follows: Diocese of Toronto: Rev. Canon H. F. D. Woodcock, Rev. Canon T. S. Boyle, Rev. Canon R. B. Canon T. S. Boyle, Rev. Canon R. B. McElheran, R. W. Allin, Sir Henry Drayton, and J. Nicholson, all of Judge E. H. McLean, Picton. Toronto, Diocese of Ontario: Venerable J. H. H. Coleman, Kingston.

TORIES ARE SPLIT IN OTTAWA SOUTH

TORONTO, Sept. 3 (CP).—Election campaign plans of the Conservative party in Ontario are practically complete, John R. McNicol, member of Parliament for Toronto-Davenport, said today.

Approximately 2,900 meetings will be held in support of Conservative candidates in the 90 ridings. They will be addressed by about 600 speakers listed with the party's speakers' bureau, which Mr. McNicol heads.

To date 46 Conservative candidates have been placed in the field. Within 10 days candidates will have been named in every riding, Cecil Frost provincial organiser, said.

London's fire department answers an average of 100 fire calls a week.

Soviet Russia expects to produce about 246,000 tons of tobacco this year.

FARMERS ARE NOT WANTING HELP AT PRESENT TIME

The demand for farm help in the Peterborough district has fallen sharply during the past two weeks with the completion of harvest work, Employment Bureau officials said today. Many farm workers are now returning to the city in search of other work.

Extensive road building operations underway in the district at various points have served to absorb a large number of workers during the summer, and the list of applicants for work at the Employment Bureau here is well below the total of this time last year. As compared with a total registration of around 900, swelled last year by requirements that all relief recipients make applications, the total today stood at 640.

It is expected the commencement of Fall plowing will result in a renewed demand for farm help in this district during the next few weeks.

Blood Donors May Be Sought Again

Further blood donations from persons who have suffered infantile paralysis in the past may be sought here next week, Dr. C. B. Waite of the Provincial Health Office said today. The province bought blood from 25 Peterborough donors last week at the rate of about $20 for 7-ounce lots.

Supplies of serum are going out almost daily from the Peterborough office to points throughout Central Ontario as the paralysis epidemic continues. The serum is not prepared here. Blood from local donors is shipped to Toronto and there the serum is separated and purified for distribution through the province.

In other provincial health centers in Ontario the search for the blood of former paralysis victims is continuing.

PRICE OF GOLD.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3 (CP).—Bar gold in London up one cent at $34.77 an ounce in Canadian funds; 140s 3d in British. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to the same in Canadian.

Leads Chinese

Another evidence that Chinese leaders have laid aside all personal internal differences to unite in the common cause against Japanese invasion is the fact that General Pai Chung-Hsi (ABOVE), most brilliant military strategist of China has been placed in command of 300,000 Chinese troops defending the Shanghai area. The order for the change came from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek himself, despite the fact that the two men were once bitter enemies.

BEEN NO EVIDENCE OF ANY PARALYSIS IN LOCAL CASES

No evidence of paralysis has appeared in the four local cases.

This is probably the most cheering news Peterborough mothers may read today, and it comes with the authority of Dr. J. Murray Fraser, Medical Officer of Health.

"We are not using the nasal spray of zinc sulphate," Dr. Fraser said. "Several mothers have telephoned me about it, but it is only an experiment, and I am happy to say there is no epidemic here. I am not suggesting that the health department can claim any credit for that condition. Perhaps we are just lucky. From the information I received several days ago paralysis was not reported in the progress of the four children who were listed with us as infantile paralysis cases."

KIWANIANS HEAR REV. E. W. YOUNG

The Rev. E. W. Young, pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, gave members of the Kiwanis Club a delightful insight into his native Ireland in an illustrated lecture at the club luncheon to-day.

A native of County Sligo and graduate of King's College, Belfast, the reverend speaker declared the scenery around Peterborough was more typical of Irish scenery than any he had seen during his ten years in Canada.

His series of lantern slides made by a Mr. Welch of Belfast, started to be a recognized authority on Irish history dealt with antiquities of the Emerald Isle; its natural life and beauty spots; and some outstanding public buildings.

In showing pictures of cathedrals and churches and ruined monastries, the Rev. Mr. Young asserted, "One of the distinctive things about the Irish people is their deep religious quality."

He described one of the pleasant features of Irish country life as the smell of peat smoke, and was sad to note that the jaunting car, comparable to the buggy of North America, was rapidly being displaced by the motor car.

The lecturer compared Belfast to Toronto in the mushroom growth that city had experienced, and he called attention to shipbuilding as being one of the big industries in the capital of Northern Ireland. One of his slides depicted the laying of the keel of the R.M.S. Olympic which was extensively used as a troop ship during the Great War and has now been doomed to the scrap heap.

W. A. Richardson introduced the speaker, while Dr. C. W. Waite expressed the thank of the club at the close of the lecture.

Guest soloist was Miss Gwyn Prize who was accompanied at the piano by Leslie F. Unitt.

Archie B. Gates, chairman of the Kiwanis Carnival Committee, announced that plans were progressing very well for the "Made-in-Peterborough" Fair, to be held at the Armouries on the 16th and 17th of the present month. He said that a number of manufacturers are co-operating by putting in moving exhibits with operators.

HEPBURN CLAIMS BUCKLEY BIASED

TORONTO, Sept. 3. (CP).—J. W. Buckley, secretary of the Toronto and district Trades and Labor Council, was "extremely biased politically," Premier Hepburn said in a letter here last night.

to the Council read at a meeting Mr. Buckley had made "discourteous utterances" in a letter to the Premier in which the council protested what it said was the "inefficiency and inactivity" of the Labor Advisory Board, Mr. Hepburn said in reply. He added he would not undertake to defend the personnel of the board.

In reply to the Premier, Mr. Buckley charged Mr. Hepburn with filling government positions "with partisans of the Liberal party," and added: "If I am biased politically it is as a result of reasoned convictions and not, as you would imply, from a politically partisan motive."

HASTINGS CARS DAMAGED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 3.—In a collision at the main intersection in the village about five o'clock on Thursday afternoon, a vehicle driven by Dr. J. A. MacDonald was run into by a car driven by Arthur Fleming, also of Hastings, resulting in a damaged fender and bumper to Dr. MacDonald's car. Settlement was made between both drivers.

Durham Candidate

CECIL G. MERCER

Reeve of Hope township and President of the Durham Liberal Association, Mr. Mercer was the unanimous choice of the party convention Wednesday at Orono, succeeding W. J. Bragg. Reeve Mercer as Liberal standard bearer is opposed by Milton J. Elliott, nominee of the Conservative party, former reeve of Bowmanville and warden of the united counties.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, September 4.

THE ASTRAL forces governing the affairs of this day may be read as conflicting, since there are signs of much important activity both in the business and private lives. But there are certain omens of defeat and anxiety, with loss of funds and standing, unless discretion and good acumen be brought to bear on dubious situations. The chief menace may be attributed to turbulent conduct.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which their individual cleverness, restraint and good management will overcome some anxious and doubtful situations. While there are factors for success and advancement, yet a turbulent, erratic or petulant course would be hazardous to encouraging opportunities. Self-restraint and sagacity should win.

A child born on this day may have a good disposition and win preferment and favors from those in power, but it should be trained and disciplined against sudden outbreaks of temperament or eccentricities. It may be clever and likable.

DANIEL HOLLAND IS LAID TO REST

Civic officials joined with relatives and friends in paying a tribute to the late Daniel J. Holland, six years an alderman in the Peterborough Council, as funeral services were held this morning. A profusion of floral and spiritual tributes were in evidence.

The funeral was conducted from the home, 174 Douro street, to the Immaculate Conception Church, where Dean O'Sullivan conducted the service at 9 o'clock. The departed life-long resident was eulogized for his civic service and as a family man and a church member. Mass was sung by the children's choir of the Immaculate Conception school.

Present in the sanctuary were Rev. P. J. Kelly of St. Peter's Cathedral, and Rev. C. J. Moloney and Rev. J. J. O'Brien of the Sacred Heart Church. Rev. Father Begley officiated at the graveside in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mayor George Macdonald attended as official representative of the city.

Pall-bearers were James Walsh of Douro, William Holland of Enniskmore, and Stanley Curtis, John Sullivan, Martin Roche and James Holland of Peterborough.

DINNER IS GIVEN TO BERT DOLAN BY OLD FRIENDS

Memories of ball games in the old P.A.A.A. grounds, the old athletic field in Ashburnham that disappeared years ago in a residential development, were recalled at a dinner party at the Empress Hotel Thursday evening, at which Chris G. Graham was host to Bert Dolan of New York and a little group of his old Peterborough friends. Dan McCabe, Bill Grady, Reg. Turner, Alderman Glover, George Lynch and Dr. D. C. King rolled back the years for an hour or more to the days, twenty-five or thirty years ago, with recollections of notable victories and some reverses.

Bert Dolan was a member of the team that was featured by probably the greatest battery in this city's history, Dan McCabe on the mound and Chris Graham behind the bat. The fans of those days and especially the youngsters who used to climb the fence back of Lapsett's Hotel have a warm place in their hearts for that team, and especially the McCabe-Graham battery.

Bert Dolan was a son of the late James Dolan, and worked for some years in the drygoods store of that name at Percy Bond's George Street corner. He left Peterborough twenty-four years ago, and is back in the old town on a vacation after a long absence. Others who met him last night were Pete Lang, Herb Stinson and Frank Hughes.

Mr. Dolan motored to Kingston this morning to visit his sister. He was accompanied by Mr. Graham.

ROEBUCK RUNNING IN TORONTO RIDING

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—(CP).—Arthur W. Roebuck, former Ontario Attorney-General, was nominated last night as Liberal candidate in Bellwoods constituency for the Oct. 6 election.

In his address of acceptance, Mr. Roebuck reviewed the events that led up to his resignation from the Cabinet of Premier Hepburn during the Oshawa General Motors strike last spring. Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Roebuck did not agree as to the Government's labor policy and the latter's resignation was requested.

Mr. Roebuck accepted the nomination as an "official" Liberal candidate and pledged himself to "Liberalism," but said that when he entered the Legislature again he would be a "free voice which will be heard and must be reckoned with." He added: "I will wear no man's collar."

He said the Ontario Liberal Association "which has held no meeting since 1931 should be reconvened, should be revived, should be reborn and rebuilt, and the authority of the caucus of elected members and of the cabinet should be re-established."

Deep Pocket Lacrosse Sticks Making The Game Too Rough

Owen Sound Grocer Blames Changes in Game on Alterations in Sticks.

OWEN SOUND.—"Those were the days," observed W. J. Ward, well-known Owen Sound grocer, "before they spoiled the game."

The sight of a photograph of an old lacrosse team had brought back the memories of sport events of 30 and 40 years ago. The photograph was of the Owen Sound Lacrosse Club of 1902, when Mr. Ward himself was active on the executive. Many of the members of the club are dead and of the living only two, Mr. Ward himself and Charles W. Fox, treasurer of the club, still reside in Owen Sound.

"They don't wear many pads, do they?" we remarked, looking at shoulders which while broad were obviously unladen with the felt which makes the modern lacrosse player's shoulders bulge out like buttresses.

That brought forth Mr. Ward's remark about the good old days. When the picture was taken Mr. Ward stated, the use of clock-cord in lacrosse sticks had just started. Before that time lacrosse sticks were flat, almost like a tennis racket. This meant that players had to practice for years before they became proficient in catching and throwing the ball, but once they acquired the art they could make passes over a distance never attempted by modern players with the deep-pocket sticks now in use. In the old days speed of foot was the big essential. There was no need for any wild stick-swinging. A comparatively light tap would cause a player to drop the ball from the flat stick, while a body-check always meant a loose ball. Shortly before the time the picture was taken the shape of lacrosse sticks began to change gradually. The use of clock-cord led to deeper pockets, making it easier to hold the ball. This meant that the game became rougher, but in 1902 the players had no yet donned the heavy pads used today.

Low scores were the rule. The game, which sometimes lasted all afternoon without a decision, was ended as soon as one team scored three goals.

Box lacrosse, Mr. Ward remarked, is the logical result of the deeper stick. This new stick made long passes hard to throw and the short-passing game was developed, gradually resulting in the modern indoor game. Mr. Ward himself has no use for modern lacrosse. But he recount many incidents to indicate the interest taken in the game here in the old days. Once, he recalled, there were two boat excursions out of Owen Sound on the same day, one going to Collingwood and the other to Midland. There was a lacrosse game at Collingwood and after the Midland excursion left the passengers got up a petition asking the captain to call at Collingwood instead. So unanimous was the demand that he agreed to the request. Owen Sound, Mr. Ward remarked, was always a lacrosse town, with baseball never being able to compete with Canada's national game in the old days here.

The team in 1902, Mr. Ward remarked, was composed partly of amateurs and partly of professionals.

"Some of the players got paid and some didn't, just like our hockey teams today," Mr. Ward remarked, thereby showing that he still keeps in touch with sporting developments today although unable to don the mask of hypocrisy which makes all our hockey teams "amateur." In the old days they were frank about this subject. If all the players were paid the team was professional; if none were paid it was an amateur team; if some players were paid and some were not it was known as a semi-professional team. The 1902 team was a semi-professional team and played with Mount Forest and Shelburne. Mr. Ward is not quite certain just what the fortunes of war were, but believes the Owen Sounders won the title.

Gazing at the picture, Mr. Ward was able to give considerable information concerning the players and members of the executive. Mr. James Skinner, the president of the 1902 club, to whom the picture belonged, has just retired as C.P.R. agent at Peterborough. Mr. George Ferguson is a barrister, practicing in Regina. Mr. Arthur E. Rankin is with the Canada Steamship Lines, being stationed at Hamilton. Mr. Duncan Morrison is with the Bank of Montreal at Montreal. Mr. Whit Hammond is the proprietor of a large drug store at Collingwood. Many of the others, including Messrs. Harry Thompson, John Ramsay, Larry Hay (a professional), J. Dowkes, H. Cameron and Robert Lennox, are dead.

Dizzing Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

TONIGHT at six in Riverside Park, weather permitting, the Kingston Dukes and Westclox men softballers clash in the first game of their intermediate O.A.S.A. serial. Return joust will be in the Limestone City about Tuesday, and third if necessary likely on neutral grounds. The Kingstons rubbed out Cornwall in the first playdown round and Westclox did ditto to Belleville. So the winner of this series is liable to go right into Ontario semi-finals. Should be a swelegant scrap tonight—don't forget, it's at six bells—between two classy squads. Dunno who will hurl for the Bapbie bunch, probably Sturgeon or Parsons. A big crowd ought to assbay around and see a real display of men's softball.

* * * * * *

WESTCLOX GALS tangle tomorrow aft at 2.30 in Riverside with the Morrisburg Sailors of Ottawa. The latter gang won the first fray of the P.W.S.U. playdown series with a 7-2 score at home, but Ab Delahaye's crew expect to even it up in the first tussle here tomorrow. If they do, the third and deciding fixture will take place the same day at 5.15 on the same grounds. Marg Snowden will twirl for the Clockmakers and Lois Hudson most likely for the Ottawa outfit. Should be a nice series and rates a big crowd of customers.

* * * * * *

AUBURNS are champing at the bit these days awaiting for that long drawn-out semi-final series between Oshawa and No to wind up. It should finish tonight in Norwood with a win for Local 222 squad as the Motor Citizens had a big lead from the first game. The C.O.L.A. finals will then start next week, being home-and-home games—we understand—with goals counting on the round. The winner will ankle into O.A.L.A. intermediate playdowns. Auburns sort of expect to win out but they anticipate a hectic serial with the scrappy Oshawa outfit. Their home game will pack in the fans and fannaties of the city and district like sardines.

* * * * * *

LOOKING over some of the sports' dope of Jack Maunder—former Lindsay scribe—in the Sudbury Star, we see some ball averages compiled. Archie Deyell, ex-Petes' pitcher, has only one win in five starts for Sudbury in the Nickel Belt loop, though he hit .300 and fielded .939. Ed McIvor, classy southpaw with Frood—he saw service with Belleville in the C.O.B.L. last season—is pitching good ball now and hit .437 in the five games he played. He is expected to pitch today, in the deciding game of the playoffs between Coniston and Frood. By the way, Red Geddes, who played hockey here, is going good in softball with the Frood gang.

* * * * * *

THE PETES are playing tomorrow in Oshawa and, if they win, the teams will tangle back there on Labor Day after lunch. It is a two-in-three semi-final series of the C.O.B.L., and the first game did not count, being a 5-5 tie. As Oshawa finished higher in the schedule then the locals, the Motor Citizens get two of the three games on home terrain. They are one up on us now after their 5-3 win here before a big crowd of fans. It was a nifty battle, with plenty of exciting moments and the crowd did plenty of chattering and second-guessing afterward. Good and bad ball with just about everything thrown in. A typical playoff tussle which saw both sides fighting hard to get the edge. The Petes will have to hustle plenty tomorrow to even it up, but they still have a fair chance. Biddie may go for the homesters with either Kitchen or Whitehill for the Collins' crew.

* * * * * *

YEAH, this was a contest that did the nerves no good at all. Oshawa got two in the first and things looked bad. We got one back right away and prospects brightened. Then we cop a 3-2 lead and all seemed rosy. But the doggone GM-men tied it up in the sixth and went on to win out in the ninth. Both sides had gents on second and third often, sometimes with but one out, but they perished for lack of a timely blow. Some dandy fielding at times to aid the wobbly pitchers, and some mental lapses defensively, also. Plenty to yodel about all the way through.

* * * * * *

JOE JAKAPBY and Jack Turner twirled on very even terms. Both gave up 10 hits, a couple of 'em doubles. Turner fanned none and walked one while Joe struck out one but walked four. And Joe had four wild pitches that figured in some of the runs. He was shaky in spots, whereas Turner was touched up for four hits in the fourth and was on the verge of being yanked. Good fielding kept 'em both in there. The visitors' hurler helped his cause by fine fielding on the mound and Joe did his bit with a hit and a run batted in. Rowden got three hits for three, though one was what the pros call "a bleeder"—a scratchy hit. Foley went fine and had two hits, as did Mathews and May. For us, Kearns, Calladine and Hollingsworth had two each, with Kingdon clouting a double.

* * * * * *

SHOWING the way the rival players were scrapping, they stole no less than nine sacks—five by the locals! They were taking chances and Rowden paid for it by being nipped off third, as was Hurst later, and Calladine was picked off second when he rounded it too far on a sacrifice. Also we left third uncovered once on a bunt and an opponent romped there from second gleefully. But there was a lot of good defensive ball, too, including three fast double-plays. Kearns is hitting in the playoffs, and Len Hollingsworth is fitting in oke. Bill Calladine despite his lapse at second—is coming through fine, getting two hits yesterday and having seven perfect chances. Mowry started catching when Starr was late arriving and Kingdon was used at second instead of Whatley. Rowden is again proving a money playoff player for Oshawa and Foley is clicking in playoffs this season. The series is not over yet and our gang may even it up tomorrow and knock 'em off Monday. If they keep in there fighting.

Cadi Given Lesson In Shooting Craps

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 2

"HOW is the game played?" asked Magistrate A. Elliott when six youths were brought before him charged with obstructing traffic by shooting dice on a sidewalk. Borrowing a pair of dice which police had seized elsewhere, Albert Curtiss undertook to demonstrate by rolling a pair of fours on the desk of Court Clerk Turner.

"If you roll another set of numbers to total eight before shooting a seven, you take the money," he explained.

"That's just a gambling game," the Magistrate said and fined the youths $5 and costs each.

AMERICAN LEADS IN WOMEN'S SWIM

TORONTO, Sept. 3.— (CP) — A new record was inscribed in the Canadian National Exhibition swim books to-day, placed there by 124-pound Leonore Kight Wingard, of Homestead, Pa. The former amateur mark-smasher splashed to victory in the three - mile women's professional swim last night, in 1:21:24, almost two minutes faster than the record set by Susan Robertson, Seabright, N.J., last year.

May Looney, of Warren, O. who finished second was clocked in 1:23:14 22 seconds faster than Miss Robertson who came third. The husky Miss Looney, stroking 74 to the minute, passed Miss Robertson in the last of the six half-mile lans inside the C.N.E. breakwater, after the 1936 winner held second place for two and a half miles.

Mrs. Wingard and Miss Robertson broke away from the other 12 starters early in the race and the winner established a never-challenged margin by the quarter-mile mark. The blond Susan faded in the home stretch to lose position to flying May Looney.

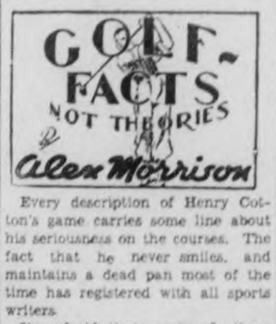
HASTINGS BOWLING

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 3.—There was one game played in the ladies' league on Thursday night. Results were as follows:

Mrs. C. Ball		Miss C. Doxsee
Skip	13	Skip	8



Every description of Henry Cotton's game carries some line about his seriousness on the courses. The fact that he never smiles, and maintains a dead pan most of the time has registered with all sports writers.

I'm afraid that most of these writers don't understand Cotton's seriousness. They have blamed it on almost everything but the right thing. From what I've seen of him the Englishman is not very demonstrative on any side until it comes to letting off steam after a bad shot. Most of his seriousness on the course is a matter of concentration. He has learned the value of concentration on the job at hand and has become a master in keeping his which will make him the winner.

Many pros could learn much from him. Apparently they have not taken Bob Jones' advice about concentration seriously, but Cotton's use of it may awaken them to its advantages. The scores in every tournament prove that at least six players could win easily if they would concentrate for 72 holes.

Most of them don't. I think it is wrong to say that they can't, for I don't believe they have made a real effort to do so. When the value of concentration is recognized generally we can then judge a player's ability to use it.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

ALONG ABOUT this time of the year, the interested bowlers are beginning to look at the standing of the different groups. No. 1 group was decided Thursday night when G. Gimblett came from away behind to nose out E. Wall by one shot, thereby winning the group. This game meant a lot, for if Wall had won, it would have created a three-corner tie with Wall, Cairns and Gimblett. On the night's play as teamwork, Wall's rink should have won, on individual playing Geo. Gimblett himself deserved the win.

With all due respect to Gimblett's rink they gave him no support for three quarters of the game. It was the Chief playing "Lone Wolf" that won the game. At one stage Ernie was leading nine shots, enough to win any man's game. Going into the last end with Wall three up Gimblett's drew shot close to the kitty, Wall's lead shot on both bowls. Gimblett's second shot on both bowls. Wall's second play crowded the kitty but the Chief's vice drew in for two shots. When Gimblett went to play his first bowl, Wall was laying second shot. Gimblett played to carry the kitty into the ditch, which he did, giving him three shots and tieing up the game. Wall missed on first bowl and out of count, Gimblett stil; three. George makes a beautiful wide draw to count fair. Wall with his last bowl played narrow and lost the game and group by one shot.

We expect a number of ladies and gents down tonight (Friday) from Lakefield to take part in our mixed tournament commencing at 7.30 p.m. On Monday, the mixed tournament will commence at 2 p.m. and will be wide open. Draw from the board.

The citizens will be flown to New York where, according to press agents, they will be quartered at a "sumptuous" hotel. Reason for the publicity stunt is because the town was named from Anthony Hope's novel, "The Prisoner of Zenda."

Oshawa Beats Petes In Semi-Final Tilt

GM-men Get Two in Ninth for 5-3 Nod in Exciting Contest Here.

A two-run rally in the ninth inning gave Oshawa GM-men a 5-3 win over the Petes here last night before a big crowd of fans in the second game of the C.O.B.L. semi-finals. The first contest in Oshawa ended in a 5-5 deadlock, and the next fixture will be in the Motor City on Saturday afternoon.

It was an exciting ball game all the way with both sides getting runners on frequently but finding them hard to score. Good and bad baseball was mixed up in this classy scrap with the lead see-sawing back and forth. Oshawa got two runs in the first and the Petes one. The homesters got two in the fourth to hold a 3-2 lead for a few frames, but it was tied up in the sixth. Both crews battled hard for the winning marker, and the visitors finally shoved across two in the ninth. A double-play in the locals' half of the ninth killed off their chances.

Joe Jakafby and Jack Turner pitched fair ball and on about even terms. The Petes bunched hits more off Turner in one frame, but the home hurler was wilder. He issued four free bases and threw four wild pitches, while allowing 10 hits and fanning one. Turner, too, was touched for 10 safe blows, while walking one and fanning none. Their support was about even, also.

There were nine stolen bases in this game, the losers pilfering five. The winners pulled out two double-plays and the Petes one. Doc Rowden led the hitters with a perfect showing, getting three for three. Foley and Mathews each hit a double and single and May got two singles. For the Petes, Kearns, Calladine and Hollingsworth had two hits apiece, and Kingdon clouted a double. Besides the two-ply killings, a nice stop by Turner and a good catch by Kearns were defensive features.

Foley led off with a double, stealing third and scoring on a two-bagger by Mathews. The latter tallied on Rowden's single. In the Petes' half, Kingdon doubled, took third on an out and romped home on a hit by Calladine. Both sides went back in order next frame. Foley singled in the third, moved up on a wild pitch, got to third on an out but died there. Kearns hit, stole and took third as Kingdon was safe on a miscue, but after Burton walked, Calladine hit into a double-play to end the inning.

Doc Picked Off

Rowden beat out a hit in the fourth and took second on a wild pitch. He went ahead on a hit by May, but was picked off third by Starr and the next two went out. With one down in the locals' half, Clark singled and stole, going to third on Bennett's bad throw. He scored on a hit by Hollingsworth. The latter stole and scored on Jakafby's bingle. Kearns got a hit, too, but there was no more tallying. A double-play in the fifth killed off the visitors' hopes after Turner strolled, and Starr's single and steal were wasted.

Oshawa got one in the sixth to sew it up when Mathews was safe on an error, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Rowden's hit. The Petes went back in order in this and the seventh and Oshawa went down one-two-three in their seventh. Mathews singled in the eighth and got to third on two outs but remained there. Calladine singled in the eighth but was picked off second after Starr sacrificed him. Bill rounding the base too far and a snap throw beating him. In the ninth, Wallace walked and was sacrificed. Foley walked, and both stole. Hurst's hit scored Wallace, and Foley took third, scoring later on an error. Hurst also stole but was trapped off third and run down. In the homesters' half, Long filed out but Hollingsworth singled, Whatley, as a pinch-hitter, hit into a double-play.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

Sir Malcolm Campbell, famous British racing driver, set a new world's speed record at Wendover, Utah, two years ago today. Piloting his powerful racer over the hard salt course, Sir Malcolm hit 301.13 miles an hour — the first and last man to hit the 300-mile-an-hour-mark on land.

Westclox Girls Need Win On Saturday

The Morrisburg Sailors of Ottawa play the Westclox girls tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon in Riverside Park at 2.30 o'clock. It is the second game of the Provincial Women's Softball Union playdowns, the Ottawa squad winning the first at home by a 7-2 score on Wednesday. The third tilt, if necessary, will be played here tomorrow, too, right after the first fray. Fans will see one game and possibly, two. The locals are likely to win the first one, at least, as the Ottawa girls will not be too lively after their long trip and they will not be used to the slants of Marg Snowden — since Barb Blade pitched the first game. They will probably throw back their ace hurler, Louise Hudson.

This should be a fine display of girls' softball. The Sailors cleaned up in the Ottawa Valley, while Westclox won the Lakeshore League and then eliminated Oshawa to win Central Ontario honors. The present P.W.S.U. playdown series is for the championship of Eastern Ontario, and the winner will likely go into Provincial semi-finals. Both these teams play smart softball for girls' squads and a big crowd of fans is expected to be on hand tomorrow afternoon.

Cleveland's Bobby Feller Turns Back The Yankee Bats

Giants Widen Lead Margin Over Pursuing Cubs in National Race.

Social note: Lady Luck is that way about Bill Terry again.

The romance that waxed warm just about this time last season, and then cooled off for much of the early part of the current campaign, is once more in bloom and everything is breaking right for the colonel from Memphis and his New York Giants.

His pitchers have started to click, his attack is timely, and his nearest rivals for the National Baseball League pennant are falling apart.

The weaker weapon in this offence, young Johnny McCarthy, is beginning to find the range, and his perennial feudists, the flatbush frolics from Brooklyn, are doing their level best to kick the Giants upstairs.

Full Game Ahead.

What with this and that, the Terry Terriers were a full game in front in the National League pennant parade today. Their 5-4 win over the Cardinals yesterday, coupled with the Dodgers' 4-3 decision over the second place Cubs, left the championship chase in this form:

	Won	Lost	Pct.	To Play
Giants	73	47	.608	34
Cubs	73	49	.598	32

Only a few days ago, the experts were referring to McCarthy as the "minor league" member of the Giants' cast. He was given a chance at first base earlier in the year, and was benched in favor of the ailing but heavier-hitting Sambo Leslie, but had to be called several days ago, when Leslie returned to the hospital list. Johnny was the No. 1 walloper yesterday in the 10-inning win over the Cards. He whacked two homers and kept the Giants in the game long enough for Mel Ott's 30th round-tripper and a trio of assorted blows in the extra frame to pull the Giants in.

At the same time, the Cubs continued beating themselves as they went down for the second straight day before the Dodgers.

Feller Takes Measure.

Meantime, the Yankees and their slump ran into young Bob Feller and the alleged Murderers' Row took a kicking around. Young Bob, looking a lot like a pitcher, fanned a dozen and allowed five hits as he hurled the Tribe to a 4-2 win, despite Joe DiMaggio's 30th homer.

Hank Greenberg poked two homers and the Tigers topped the Senators 9-8 in 10 innings to cut the Yanks' lead to 10 games. The White Sox socked the Red Sox twice, 4-2 and 10-8, and the Athletics trimmed the Browns 5-3 on Bill Werber's double with the bases loaded. The Pirates' five-run rally in the ninth beat the Phillies 11-8. The Bees and Reds were idle.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press)

Bill Werber, Athletics — His double with bases loaded drove in three runs to whip Browns 5-3.

Max Butcher, Dodgers—Singled in 11th to send winning run across for a 4-3 win over Cubs, after pitching hitless ball in last inning relief trick.

Hank Greenberg, Tigers — Hit two homers, one in 10th to beat Senators 9-8; drove in four runs.

Woody Jensen, Pirates — Hit five-for-five, including two doubles and a triple, and drove in two runs in 11-8 win over Phillies.

Bob Feller, Indians—Fanned 12 and beat Yankees 4-2 with five hits.

Johnny McCarthy, Giants —Hit two homers and single, driving in three runs, in 5-4 win over Cardinals.

Softball Tournament At Douro On Monday

The annual softball tournament at Douro will be staged on Labor Day, and at least a dozen teams are expected to compete. It is open to men's teams of the city and district, with certain rules drawn up for entries. Each team is allowed 10 men, and each entry may use three senior city league players, provided these players are not used as pitchers or catchers.

Entry fee will be a dollar a team, to be paid on the grounds before competing. Clubs must be on the picnic grounds by one o'clock, standard time, Monday afternoon. A fowl supper will be supplied to the members of the winning team and the runners-up. Two prizes are offered, value being $10.00 for the first, and $5.00 for the second. Entries need not be sent in in advance.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 26

Anetka was in a hospital and Mary Barrett ought to have felt subdued as she entered the structure. Instead, she felt an absurd desire to break into a dance step she had learned in her nursery days as she followed the bobbing Breton cap of the nursing sister leading her to Anetka's hospital room. Instead she managed the most decorous of steps as her high heels clicked on the marble floor of the corridors.

In the wake of the sister, she skirted a figure being wheeled on a stretcher table and felt a double twinge of sympathy for the patient; she was twice sympathetic because the wrapped figure was malade, and because she had nothing so great in her bosom, bursting for expression, as Mari Barat had.

The girl rolled her name with the Latin inflection around her tongue, the better to assure herself that it was she and not the exuberant Mary Barrett of her early youth who was, this day, bringing tidings of their fame to her partner in a hospital in Paris.

They arrived at the door to Anetka's room, bowed to each other. The sister looked at her watch meaningly and opened the door for the visitor.

Anetka's wan face, eager and expectant, turned to Mary.

Mary closed the door and, with her eyes widening said:

"Darling, it is safe to tell you exciting news, or will you burst your stitches?"

"I have no stitches," Anetka said proudly. "The doctaire took them away this morning." She closed her eyes. "Let me guess—Madame Lajeune is going to take the brown ensemble!"

"Of course, she is!" Mary answered. "She'd take anything—today!"

"It is something more than that?" Madame had been displeased with the ensemble and was the current problem when Anetka had been taken ill.

"It's so much more than that, that I must warn you, Anetka, to take it easy when you hear about it." Mary had slipped off her coat and come around to the side of Anetka's bed.

In her arms was the large black pasteboard portfolio which once had been the agent in the most important day of her life. It was the portfolio she had carried—and nearly lost—the night she had met Tony Castle. Now she unfastened the tapes with great care and opened it.

Therein lay many imposing pages on which newspaper clippings had been neatly pasted that very morning.

Mary's color fad edfrom her face in her intensity. Her voice was properly impressive:

"Anetka, we're famous!"

Anetka closed her eyes and waited.

"These are clippings from America!"

Anetka opened her eyes.

"They came this morning, sent from a clipping service in New York. And all the time we thought we were being neglected by Claire Todd!" There had been a short note from Claire Todd after her return to America, saying that she was sorry she hadn't been able to see Mari before she left, that she would be heard from later.

An then, before Anetka's incredulous eyes, Mary turned the pages slowly.

Anetka was pleased, excited to see the columns of news copy, the sketches—for there were not photograpge—the extravagant praise and predictions. But Anetka didn't realize what it meant. Or that it was the name of Mari Barat and not her own to whom all credit went.

Embarrassed, Mary protested about that, said that she would correct it.

Gently, Anetka stopped the flow of Mary's protests. "It is as it should be, Mari. For me, I do not care for fame. You have made me rich in many ways and should be the — what do you say? — the means to help you. I do not want to be famous. Before long before, in another life in Russia, I have had those things. I want now to be quiet, secure. I ask nothing more. I am afraid of those things now, my little one. I have not the strength for them. You are young. You have no past defeats to mar your faith. You have the courage to face them."

Anetka had never talked that way before to Mary. The younger woman listened without interrupting.

"I do not envy you anything except your youth. You are not yet 30. The full years are for you and you are ready for them because you have ambition, courage and a blind faith in yourself. You do not know that whatever wealth you have has its price. To get to the top is hard, to stay there is harder, Mari. I do not mean that in business you will be any the less"—Anetka faltered, aware that in the translation of words to French from Russian she was perhaps not making herself clear—"successful. I mean that success, being among the greatest in your career, makes demands on you as a person. Those are demands that are hardest to meet."

"How do you mean?" Mary asked.

"Your life will change. Nothing is simple when you are successful. The problems you have today will be as nothing. There are things that will be inside of you. These will be the problems of the woman, not the business-woman."

"I think I understand," Mary answered softly. "But do not fear for me, Anetka. I have had problems before and solved them."

Anetka smiled sadly, knowing that Mary had not understood. Then Mary said:

"And now you are tired. I must go back at once. We're very busy, Anetka. Suddenly, we have many new clients. I have engaged four more seamstresses and I think, perhaps, next year we must have a little more room."

The sister came in, bowed and murmured that it was time for Madame to go.

Mary said she would return the next day.

Twenty-four hours later Mary deposited her box of flowers on the dresser beside Anetka's bed, waited until the sister had once more closed the door, and said:

"Anetka, will you pinch me, please?" Anetka obliged and asked for an explanation.

"I'm not sure I haven't a fever. I'm not sure I'm not delirious. I think I'm seeing things. Anetka Illovitch, by 11 o'clock this morning there wasn't room enough to turn around in our place! Heaven only knows where the people came from. We haven't a thing left unsold and we simply can't fill the orders unless we send out our work. And how I'm ever going to meet the demands for designs I don't know!"

Anetka's blue eyes looked like corn flowers—and as uncomprehending.

"The most peculiar people came in and out—all of them ordering things and most of them looking like spies. You don't suppose that the government is suspicious of us, do you? Not that I mind if we can sell all their agents as well as we've been doing today."

"I—do—not—know," Anetka said very slowly. Great shadows came into her eyes. "It was so long ago . ."

"Oh, Anetka! You...you don't mean...Russia, do you?"

Slowly Anetka nodded her head.

"But that was 20 years ago and things like that couldn't happen!" Mary patted Anetka's frail hand comfortingly but she felt as though she had stepped into some plot out of a paper-covered novel. It was not a pleasant sensation.

CAR OVERTURNS TWICE.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 3—(CP)—Valerie Kasurak, 20, Windsor, escaped with cuts about the legs and Steve Sawchinski, 23, Windsor, driver of the automobile in which she was a passenger, was unhurt to-day when the car struck a tree here and turned over twice.

Sawchenski said he was forced out of his course by another auto to the side of the road, his car striking the tree before he was able to bring it under control again.

UNCLE WIGGLY AND BIG BUNTY

(By Howard R. Garis)

"Oh, dear me! Oh, my!" cried Baby Bunty. "Such a giant!"

"Really, is it a giant?" asked the Squiggle Bug, who was trying to get a squint at his back to make sure he had lost none of his red spots which made him very beautiful.

"Of course it's a giant!" said Bunty. "What else could it be? It's a rabbit almost as tall as the church steeple and if that isn't a giant I would like to know what is?"

"I think you are right, Baby Bunty," whispered the Squiggler, who was down in the grass at Bunty's paws. "I can't look much higher than your head so, of course, I can't see what's above you. But does this giant seem to be a dangerous one?"

"I can't see his face," spoke Bunty, as he is so high up his head is among the tree branches. But I can see his trousers and they are a bright red color like those Uncle Wiggily wears, very jolly and cheerful."

He's Jolly

"Depend upon it, then," spoke the Squiggler Bug as if he knew everything, which he didn't, "this is a good jolly giant. So have no fears."

"All right," said Bunty, laughing. "I'll have no fears." She she didn't and she watched the giant rabbit coming nearer and nearer with big long steps, just the kind of steps a giant man would take if ever there are giant men outside of a circus tent.

All of a sudden Baby Bunty and Squiggler heard laughter.

"How do I look, Bunty?" asked a voice.

The voice came from the air over Baby Bunty's head and when the orphan rabbit looked up she saw Uncle Wiggily looking down at her and laughing. But it was the tallest Uncle Wiggily Bunty had ever seen. He towered high above her, his head among the tree branches and his legs and feet lost to sight amid the tall weeds.

"Whatever did you do to yourself, Unkie Wig?" asked Baby Bunty. "Did you fall into the pool of tears like Alice in Wonderland or did you drink out of the tall bottle that made you into a giant?"

"I did neither one," answered Mr. Longears.

"You must have done something to grow so big," said Bunty.

"Indeed he must have," agreed the Squiggle Bug down in the grass. "I can't see Uncle Wiggily's head but I know his voice and it sounds far, far away like a radio that's only turned partly on."

His Trick

"I'm Uncle Wiggily all right," went on the voice of the rabbit gentleman. "But I didn't fall into any pool of tears nor did I drink from a magic tall bottle. I just went away and made myself a pair of stilts, Bunty, while you and the Squiggler were talking about giants."

"Stilts!" exclaimed Bunty.

"Yes," said Mr. Longears. "Stilts, you know, are long sticks of wood with cleats for your paws to rest on. When you walk on stilts you are almost as tall as a circus giant."

Uncle Wiggily stepped out into a clear place. Then Bunty saw he was walking on stilts.

"Oh, I wish I had a pair," called out the orphan rabbit.

"You shall have a pair," promised Mr. Longears. So he made Bunty some stilts, smaller than his, and then Bunty became very tall and big and she had a wonderful adventure. I'll tell you about it in the next story.

It will be about Uncle Wiggily and Bunty's stilts. But please don't let the water pistol get a drink of milk or it may shoot pot cheese at the pretzel's little boy.

SEVEN ARRESTED IN LIQUOR RAIDS

(Examiner Correspondence)

TWEED, Sept. 3.—Chief Constable Clair Hayes along with a detachment of the R.C.M.P., made several raids in this immediate vicinity during the week, and as a result six men and one woman will appear in police court charged with a breach of the Excise Act and Liquor Control Act. The police stated that large quantities of liquor were seized.

On Sunday, Chief Hayes with Corporal McFee of the R.C.M.P. took possession of a still operated by a resident of the township of Elzevir. The owner was arrested and appeared before Magistrate Lloyd and was fined $100 with the alternative of three months in jail. The fine was paid.

Twenty young men, a group placed in the field under the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Project have been placed in the Trent Forest District under the direct supervision of H. W. Crosbie, District Forester.

The men, most of whom come from Belleville, Deseronto and other parts of South Hastings, have been sent to Gilmour, Wennley and Vennachar, where they will be engaged in the construction of improvements, suppression of fires when necessary, and other work in connection with forestry. In addition, they will receive weekly instructions in forestry work, such as maintenance of equipment, buildings, etc., in operation of pumps, scaling, timber cruising.

VETERANS SEEK HOMES IN GARDENING PROJECT

CAMBRIA BROKE WING PONTOON C. N. E. LANDING

TORONTO, Sept. 4.— Cambria, giant Empire flying boat and thrice conqueror of the Atlantic in faultless voyages, free of misadventure, narrowly escaped a crash yesterday when the big aircraft smashed a wing-pontoon in the first landing in Lake Ontario of an transoceanic plane.

In the full view of thousands of Exhibition visitors—and of Mayor W. D. Robbins and a welcoming party—the flying boat glided to the lake's surface after touring over the city for several minutes, landed in a smother of spray on the mildly rough water, and then came to rest, obviously in trouble.

In a matter of seconds, members of the five-man crew could be seen emerging from the cabin and clambering to the right wing tip, as the craft slowly bobbed to a stop, badly listing to port. The left wing-tip rested in the water, although all four engines continued to turn over slowly.

Skilful Handling.

Only skilful navigation by Captain Griffiths J. Powell, after the wing dropped below the water's surface and the water-filled float dragged by its strut wires, prevented the craft from more serious injury. He brought the ship to a stop without it once swinging from its course, although it had hit the water travelling at better than sixty miles an hour and the drag on the wing and pontoon exerted a tremendous side-pull as it taxied to rest.

Cross-winds were blamed by local pilots who were in the official stand and watched the big craft land, although an official statement handed out by A. E. Gorton, assistant publicity man for Imperial Airways, blamed the collapse of the float on "a floating log or other object." Speaking or Captain Powell, Gorton said: "Obviously, we must have struck something to have such an accident after a perfect landing."

West Tour Postponed.

It was immediately announced that the western Ontario tour of the big ship, scheduled for to-morrow, would have to be postponed. W. R. C. Calder, aircraft engineer of DeHavilland Aircraft of Canada, accompanied Phillip C. Garratt, General Manager of the company, to the plane and after a swift summary of the damage, stated it would take two to four days to repair the pontoon.

LICENSES ARE CUT $5.00 IN ONTARIO

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 4 (CP).—Ontario motorists will pay $5 less for their 1938 license plates, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced at Dundas last night. A straight reduction of that amount will be made in the fees charged for all passenger car vehicles.

The government was moving towards a nominal fee for motor licenses and would depend chiefly on the gasoline tax for revenues to provide for highways, Mr. Hepburn told the Hamilton-Wentworth Liberal convention as it renominated Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways.

The Premier recalled that when in his budget address he announced a reduction in commercial vehicle license fees, he forecast a reduction in passenger car levies. The reduction now was therefore not a bid for votes, he said.

(Present license fees for passenger cars are: Four cylinder, $7; sixes up to and including 28 horsepower, $12; over 28, $15; eights up to and including 35 horsepower, $15; over 36, $20; twelves, $30; sixteens, $40.)

Reign of Terror?

Mr. Hepburn saw a possibility of "a repetition here of the reign of terror which has disgusted all fair-minded people of the country to the south of us," if Hon. Earl Rowe and the Conservative Party should win the October 6 general election.

C. H. Millard, Dominion representative of the Committee for Industrial Organization, had said his work would be along "quiet, peaceful and orderly lines." Such peace and orderliness might disappear if the government which had so strenuously opposed the C.I.O. was to be defeated, Mr. Hepburn said.

The Premier said it had never been the policy of his government to continue indefinitely the policy of permitting export of Northern Ontario pulpwood to the United States. First concern was to get U.S. newsprint mills to look to Ontario rather than the southern states for pulp.

As long as the physical assets of the companies getting timber limits were in Ontario and taxable by the province, he cared little where the capital came from, said Mr. Hepburn.

Chickens In Demand On Farmers' Market

Chickens were available in larger volume at lower prices on the Farmers Market today. The fowl were in brisk demand at 20 to 25 cents a pound. Butter sold at 27 to 30 cents and eggs 25 to 30 cents.

Again the volume of tomatoes and general garden produce was the feature of the outdoor market. Tomatoes were at a standard price of 25 cents for the 11-quart basket. Corn was still available at two dozen for 25 cents. Cucumbers were 30 cents for the large basket. Gherkins in six-quart baskets brought 50 cents.

Apples were plentiful at 25 to 30 cents a peck. Potatoes brought 90 cents to $1 a bag.

Partners In Land Settlement Project For Ex-Service Men

Members of the Soldiers' Aid Commission of Ontario and two of the men who with their families are engaged in a market gardening experiment on land purchased last spring on the Camp Borden Road two miles from Barrie. In the upper picture is Stephen Thomas Gapp and his wife and family of one daughter and three sons. Mrs. Gapp is at the right in the front row. The picture was taken some weeks ago on the occasion of a visit by three of the members of the Commission shown at the left, Lieut. Colonel John A. Dewart of Peterborough, front row, Lieut. Colonel Thomas J. Rutherford of Owen Sound, centre, Colonel W. R. Rhoades, Toronto, director, top wearing hat. In the lower group is Alfred Hawkins and his wife and family who moved from Orpington Road in North Monaghan to the property purchased in Simcoe county by the Commission. Mr. Hawkins enlisted in Peterborough for war service and on his return worked with the C.G.E. Company and for the city. All members of the Commission except one or two who give its project full time attention receive no remuneration for their duties.

Takes His Strolls On Ocean's Floor

New York, Sept. 4.

DR. WILLIAM BEEBE of the New York Zoological Society is back from Bermuda and a bit of casual strolling on the ocean floor.

Dr. Beebe's idea was to study marine life so he donned bathing trunks and a diving helmet, went into the water at New Nonsuch Island and hiked across the bottom of the ocean to Longbird Island, a quarter mile away.

The depth, he said, was about 24 feet and the light comparable to bright moonlight. He obtained much new data about the "abundant" undersea life, he said.

LEWIS REBUKES U. S. PRESIDENT ISSUES WARNING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, rebuking Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States as a fair weather friend of labor, served notice on the Roosevelt administration today his Committee for Industrial Organization is prepared to look elsewhere for its political allies.

Lewis, reporting last night in a speech of bristling tone that the C.I.O. has enrolled 3,718,000 workers, left up to the new deal high command the question of deciding whether the Democratic party and the C.I.O. shall trod separate paths.

The C.I.O. chief castigated "those who profess to be the keepers of the public conscience" for failure to criticize the "murder of unarmed men" in the recent steel strikes.

Adds A Warning

He added as a warning:

"Labor next year cannot avoid the necessity of a political assay of the work and deeds of its so-called friends in the arena of politics as elsewhere."

He let fly this barb at President Roosevelt:

"It ill behooves one who has supped at labor's table and who has been sheltered in labor's house to curse with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries when they become locked in deadly embrace."

Washington observers regarded this as obviously a reply to the "plague on both your houses" which President Roosevelt bespoke for extremists on each side in the "little Steel" strike.

A Strong Statement.

They interpreted it further as a strong statement of Lewis belief the administration "supped at Labor's table" by virtue of a $500,000 election campaign contribution last year, the largest received by the Democratic National Committee.

The shelter in "labor's house" they translated as a reference to the widespread support given the president last November when millions of unionists cast their ballots for Roosevelt.

As for the speech as a whole, John P. Frey, president of the Metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor called it "rather flat and colorless."

TRUCK DRIVER ARRESTED

SUDBURY.—Roger Langevin 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Langevin, struck by a truck yesterday, died in hospital today. Albert Laframboise, driver of the truck, was arrested on a charge of criminal negligence.

Undeclared Mediterranean War is Feared Over Submarine Attacks.

MOSNOW, Sept. 4 (AP)—Soviet anger over the sinking of a Russian motorship flared today in thousands of workers' protest meeting as the official press made direct accusations Italy was responsible for the grave incident.

The workers adopted resolutions demanding that the government "silence the Fascist dogs" for torpedoing the motorship Timiryazev off the Algiers coast Monday and proposed that Soviet naval vessels convoy Russian freighters in the Mediterranean.

"The government will make the Fascist bandits pay dearly," said Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, accusing Italy of "piracy in the Mediterranean."

Officials Are Quiet

Despite the violence of the attack by the controlled press, officials did not disclose whether any direct action would be taken because of the incident.

The official government organ, Izvestia, called Mussolini "the leader of a band of Fascist cut-throats who is glorifying mediaeval banditry."

"There is not a doubt but the Italians plotted since Aug. 1 the entire plan for acts of piracy and that they warned their friends, particularly the Japanese, to keep away from Italian submarines," the newspaper said.

Britain Moves

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP).—Government today drew up plans to drive piratical submarines from the Mediterranean.

Important proposals will be made, the government announced, when the Mediterranean powers gather next week in Geneva to discuss the situation created by submarine attacks on international shipping.

As Europe's chancelleries pored over plans for the hurriedly summoned meeting, these developments added new elements to the situation:

1. Official Russian newspapers accused Italy of "piracy on the mediterranean" and said the Soviets would make "Fascist bandits pay dearly" for the sinking of a Russian vessel off Algiers Monday.

2. Diplomats reported the Spanish government, as well as the insurgents, would be excluded from the conference.

3. Italy's price for co-operation was reported to be British recognition of insurgent belligerent rights.

4. Spanish insurgents denied responsibility for submarine attacks on foreign shipping.

As four destroyers sped from England to the western Mediterranean, with orders to sink or capture the pirate submarines, one report said Great Britain contemplated proposing registration and strict surveillance of all submarines of powers bordering the Mediterranean.

Undersea craft found outside their own water would be sunk on sight in a move to prevent repetition of incidents such as the sinking of the British tanker Woodford and the attempt to torpedo the destroyer Havock.

Secrecy surrounded the plans, but it was understood they would be based on a joint action with France to meet the problem, since France faces a need similar to Great Britain's of keeping open maritime communications.

Paris diplomatic circles reported Italy had informed Great Britain the price of Italian participation in the conference would be British re-

Poor Man Is Punished While Criminal Goes Free

Nova Scotia Magistrate Resigns and Issues Severe Denunciation of Canadian Justice.

BRIDGETOWN, N.S., Sept. 4.—(CP)—Stipendiary Magistrate R. J. Messenger tendered his resignation to the Bridgetown town council last night. He said he no longer cared to live and work in an atmosphere where "the poor man is punished while the criminal with money and influence goes free."

The council held a special session and held the matter over for a month. Mayor H. B. Hicks requested the stipendiary to reconsider his decision to resign.

Stipendary magistrate for a year, he said "in almost every decision the justice gains the ill will of the most vindictive class of society. Trvial legal technicalities are constantly employed to aid criminals to escape justice."

"In almost every trial the oath is insulted,' the stipediary declared. "Political, social and financial considerations cripple the administration of justice."

Away Fourteen years, Finds Wife Remarried

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 4.

AN Enoch Arden turned up here after fourteen years to find his wife remarried and many of his close friends dead.

Frank Johnson, a railroad shop machinist, said today his brother Isaac, 50, who was believed dead, re-appeared Tuesday and left two hours later after learning his wife, who waited six years for his return, had divorced him and remarried.

"Isaac never said why he left in 1923," his brother related.

LAUGHTON IS NAMED.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 4 (CP).—Fred M. Laughton, Parkhill, returned to politics last night when he was chosen Conservative candidate for Middlesex North in the Provincial election of October 6.

The former member of the Legislature criticised Premier Hepburn and his administration and promised the Conservatives, if victorious, would restore the policies of Sir Adam Beck to Hydro.

Attempts to Change Constitution By "A Defiance of Law" Condemned By Hon. R. B. Bennett.

EDMONTON, Sept. 4 (CP).—Attempts to change the constitution by "a defiance of law" were condemned by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, in an address here yesterday in which he defended the authority of the Dominion Government to disallow Provincial legislation.

Addressing a joint gathering of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Club, Mr. Bennett said the British North America Act, which lays down definite powers for the Dominion, provinces and the courts, must be regarded as the Canadian constitution.

"Alberta cannot change our constitution by stating 'it is the will of God'," said Mr. Bennett, although he made no direct reference to Federal disallowance of three Alberta statutes directed at licensing of bankers and preventing of court actions without consent of the Provincial Government.

The Federal power, Mr. Bennett said, was not concerned with the "quality" of Provincial legislation. The Federal duty was to interfere if the laws infringed on Federal rights which, he said, must be maintained as "essential to our democracy."

Any change made in the constitution, said Mr Bennett, had to be made by methods approved by the constitution itself. "You cannot change the constitution of the Dominion by a majority in one province saying the 'will of the people must prevail'," he said.

Democracy was worthy of the best efforts of Canadians to preserve it and if democracy were to be maintained "we must maintain the supremacy of our courts," said Mr. Bennett.

Father Took His Son For Prowler, Shot Him

Chicago, Sept. 4.

JACOB DUDA, 63, kept a nightly vigil in his tavern after it was burglarized, and grabbed his pistol early today when he spied a prowler at a window. He fired one shot as the intruder fled. Several hours later the body of his son, Alexander, 29, was found in a near-by field, a bullet from Jacob's gun in his chest.

GIRL IS DROWNED PORT HOPE BEACH

PORT HOPE, Sept. 4—Port Hope's first beach fatality occurred early Friday evening when Frances Whitehead, 15, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Whitehead, of Detroit, was drawn beyond her depth by the undertow while swimming on the second sand bar at the west beach and drowned. The victim had been in the water only ten minutes when the accident happened.

She was accompanied to the beach by her sister, Opal Whitehead. Both mother and daughter had been visiting here for the past two weeks. Mrs. Whitehead was visiting in Millbrook, 18 miles north of here, last evening when the drowning occurred and both were to return to Detroit this morning.

The body was recovered at 8 p.m. but all efforts to revive the victim failed.

EX-RULERS BATHE TOGETHER.

NORTSCH, Austria, Sept. 3 (AP).—The Duke of Windsor and former King Alfonso of Spain swam, sunbathed and chatted today at Castle Wallersteinburg. Alfonso arrived yesterday for a short visit. The Duke and Duchess plan to leave for Hungary about the middle of the month.

TEN "IRON LUNGS" ARE BEING MADE FOR ONTARDIO USE

TORONTO, Sept. 4 (CP) — Ten new "iron lungs" were being made in the medical research department of the University of Toronto today to aid in the fight against infantile paralysis. The artificial respirators were invented by a 22-year-old research worker in the Banting Institute at Toronto.

Bernard Liebel, inventor of the respirator who once suffered from the disease that since early June has stricken 1,100 persons, said the machine worked on a hitherto unknown principle in science. The "iron lungs" enclose all but the victims' heads and through air pressure force the lungs to inhale and exhale when infantile paralysis has so weakened the muscles that they cannot perform this function.

Most of the cases remained centred in Toronto, followed by London, but almost every section of Ontario had cases on record. Northern Ontario was almost free of the disease with Western Ontario affected more severely than the eastern portion of the province.

14 New Cases In Toronto

Fourteen new cases reported at Toronto yesterday, brought the total to 334 with 11 dead from effects of infantile paralysis. London had the next highest number of cases on record when four new cases last night brought the total to 50.

First cases in the epidemic were reported from Aylmer and Guelph and measures were at once taken to stop spread of the infection. At Stratford, where there are seven cases under treatment, children under 16 were banned from all public places, including Sunday Schools.

A baby show was called off at Cornwall when the fifth case was reported. At Kingston a sufferer brought from Lindsay made the total five. Schools were closed indefinitely to combat the disease.

Most of the cases were of children in stages of adolescence but at Aylmer where the first case was reported the victim was a man in his thirties.

The Ontario Department of Health reported serum had been distributed to 1,100 cases to stem the tide of infection. Throughout the province clinics were held where children had their nasal passages sprayed with a solution that, it is hoped, will ward off infection.

Three new cases suspected of being poliomyelitis were admitted to hospital at Hamilton where a 26-year-old Milton girl who has been in an "iron lung" four days was reported in unchanged condition.

Public Gatherings Banned In Town Of Brockville

Many Functions Slated For the Week-end Holiday Are Abandoned.

BROCKVILLE, Ont. Sept. 4 (CP).—Effective immediately, Dr. R. E. Smart, Medical Officer of Health has banned all public gatherings of any description in consequence of a case of poliomyelitis here. Many functions slated for the holiday week-end have had to be abandoned.

These include the final Canam League ball game with Roma tomorrow and the military ceremony which was to be performed on Sunday by the Governor General's Footguards of Ottawa.

Commanded by Major W. G. Wurtele, M.C., the regiment was proceeding to Brockville on the invitation of its Hon. Lieut. Colonel, Senator A. C. Hardy. On Sunday, in commemoration of the successful assault on Pozieres Ridge by the 2nd Canadian Battalion, 21 years ago, the regiment intended to troop the color. The G.G.F.G. perpetuates the 2nd Battalion in the non-permanent active militia.

Efforts by Lieut. Col. N. L. McDowell, Brockville Rifles, to have the ban lifted for that occasion were unsuccessful.

Mayor Counsook said the ban applies to all outdoor and indoor gatherings, including church services, public meetings, dances and movies.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND 6

TORONTO—The unclad body of a middle-aged woman was found today on the shore of Lake Ontario at the foot of Fallingbrook road, in East Toronto.

Coroner C. D. Farquharson said death was due to drowning and foul play was not indicated, but bruises on the woman's face prompted police to start an investigation.

"My Arm's Broke" Boy Greets Mother

Goderich, Sept. 4.

"MY arm's broke, mummy," were the words with which 5-year-old Donald Pennington greeted his mother, Mrs. Charles Pennington, when he returned from play on Friday. Mrs. Pennington was skeptical, owing to the child's matter-of-fact tone, but examination revealed that the boy's right arm was broken in two places.

The lad said he was playing with his chums when "Bobby pushed me off the veranda," a five- foot drop. His little friend was quite contrite, and the injury was viewed as an accident. Donald, without so much as a tear or a whimper, walked one-half mile home nursing his broken arm.

ROWE PROMISES TO FINISH ROADS IF HE IS RETURNED

PERTH, Ont., Sept. 4—(CP)—On the eve of a provincial general election Premier Hepburn was only now starting public works which he had promised to undertake in his last election campaign, Conservative Leader Earl Rowe told a political gathering here last night.

"Roads promised before he attained office are only just begun," said Mr. Rowe. "But what Mr. Hepburn is starting my party will complete."

Tourist Department

Ontario must have a sound and constructive road policy, said the Conservative leader, adding it was his intention to establish a department for tourist development, "with a good man at its head."

One of Mr. Hepburn's campaign undertakings in 1934 had been that he would apply all monies from gasoline tax and motor license fees to highways, Mr. Rowe said. Last year $26,000,000 was collected, and of this amount only $4,500,000, subsidized by a like amount from the Dominion, had been spent on roads.

In the three months previous to the election Premier Hepburn contemplated spending $3,500,000 on five hospitals, he declared.

Mental Hospital

"Every cabinet minister is getting a mental institution in his own district," Mr. Rowe said.

The Conservative leader reiterated that Ontario was confronted with a power shortage. In this connection he said the "dishonest repudiation" of crown contracts with another province was "the blackest blot in the history of Ontario."

Mr. Rowe told his audience that Mr. Hepburn had now come round to his (Mr. Rowe's) position on Labor matters. The people need have no apprehension about the Conservation party preserving law and order. It had done so in the past and would so so in the future, nor would he need the aid of "The Hepburn Hussars."

Mr. Rowe criticized the government's educational policy, and asserted that, with the public and high schools now re-opening after the summer vacation, parents found the cost of text-books had risen in some cases more than 200 per cent.

Alf Hawkins and Family on New Land in Barrie District.

(By Staff Reporter)

Along the Camp Borden Road two miles from Barrie a little group of men who fought the Germans is engaged in a new struggle toward the bright and constant horizon of land ownership and independence in a settlement scheme planned and sympathetically directed by the Soldiers' Aid Commission. The Soldiers' Aid Commission is maintained by the Government of Ontario in the interests of the ex-service men and dependents, residents of the province.

Peterborough has several little ties of interest attaching to this enterprize in the fact that Lt.-Col. John A. Dewart is a member of the Commission, and Alfred Hawkins and his family recently of Orpington Road, near Crawford's Grove in North Monaghan, are one of the domestic units upon whom the success or failure of this experiment may depend.

Alf Hawkins was born in London, England, forty-six years ago, but if you ask him and his wife and children where home is they will almost of certainty tell you,—Peterborough. Mrs. Hawkins was frankly lonesome for her friends and neighbors down Orpington Road way when an Examiner reporter recently visited them on the land which they have set out to work for and eventually to win and own. And there was a nostalgic note in Alf Hawkins' tribute to the Canadian community of his adoption, "Peterborough, the best city in Canada." And if you had heard him the other day you would have believed he meant every note and inflection of that accolade, not just because of the influence of separation, but as a sincere appreciation of the old home that wasn't exactly home to him.

"That was just it," Mr. Hawkins remarked to the Examiner, "you see I'm getting on in years, 46, and the children are growing up, and this looked like a chance to provide some sort of future for them; something a bit substantial where we can all make a go of it, and possibly spread out a bit if things turn out as we hope."

Mr. Hawkins took his punt along with him when he moved up to Barrie. You see it just inside a row of stringy pines fronting his lot on the road to Camp Borden. Soldiers in khaki whizzed by on motorcycles, about fifteen of them, toward Allandale and the broad bay where Alf Hawkins will hardly find time for boating this year. You know he used to go paddling or rowing on the Otonabee River, down below Crawford's Grove, and only a short walk

FINLAYSON NAMED IN SIMCOE EAST

ORILLIA, Sept. 4.—(CP).—Conservatives of Simcoe East in convention here to-day nominated William A. Finlayson, Midland barrister, as their candidate to run against Dr. O. E. Tanner, Midland, Liberal candidate, in the Oct. 6 Provincial elections.

Mr. Finlayson Minister of Lands and Forests in the last Conservative Government, and who was the local representative from 1923 to 1934, was elected on the only ballot taken.

The convention unanimously passed a resolution of "being unalterably opposed to any legislation that will impose upon the rights of the public schools of Ontario."

Dr. James McQuibban, Conservative candidate in Wellington North, said Premier Hepburn's followers acted like sheep on the occasion of the passing of the amendment to the Assessment Act which gave a share of corporation taxes to separate schools, and again when it was repudiated. It was "the greatest political somersault of all time," he said.

Prisoner's Death Said Accidental

TORONTO, Sept. 4 (CP).—Neil Darnley's death in Don jail from a fractured skull, after being diagnosed merely as a "drunk" at St. Michael's Hospital was termed accidental by a coroner's jury last night. Darnley had fallen down a flight of steps at a public lavatory.

If a complete report of the accident had been made to the hospital when Darnley was admitted, much subsequent misunderstandings might have been avoided, the jury decided. Evidence showed, however, his injuries were such his death could not have been prevented.

First Settlers Of Douro Came Before Robinson Immigration

Alexander Stewart and Robert Reid Given 3,200 Acres in Western Part.

During the year of 1822 two brothers-in-law, Alexander Stewart and Robert Reid, sailed from Ireland to Canada. Before leaving they were given letters of introduction to the lieutenant-governor, who gave Mr. Stewart 1,200 acres and Mr. Reid 2,000 acres of land in the western part of Douro township near Peterborough. They were to receive it subject to actual settlement and performance of actual settlement duties.

They were also given the balance of Douro township for five years that they might hold it for their friends, whom they might induce to come over from Ireland and settle thereon. This right, they cheerfully relinquished on the arrival of Peter Robinson with his immigration of settlers in the year of 1825.

Hunger In Ireland

In the year of 1823 there was distress and poverty in Ireland. The potato crop had been a failure for two years in succession, which coupled with lack of employment made things very serious. Hon. Peter Robinson was requested to supervise the immigration of men, women and children to Canada. Each immigrant had to provide a certificate of character, health and industry. In three months over 60,000 applications were received but only 2,024 were allowed to come to Canada. Nine ships were provided by the Royal Navy in April and were to sail the following month. The following ships set sail:

May 6, Transport "Fortitude" with 62 men, 36 women and 287 children; May 5, Bark "Resolution" with 46 men, 36 women and 227 children; May 5, Ship "Brunswick" with 63 men, 36 women and 343 children; May 5, Ship "Albion" with 37 men, 31 women and 191 children; May 10, Ship "Star" with 35 men, 31 women and 214 children; May 13, Transport "Regulus" with 29 men, 26 women and 157 children; May 13, Transport "Amity" with 27 men, 24 women and 147 children; May 16, Transport "Elizabeth" with 48 men, 36 women and 210 children; May 21, Transport "John Berry" with 48 men, 38 women and 288 children.

After many anxious days and dreary nights they arrived in August at the spot where now is located the thriving city of Peterborough. Of those settlers were sent to the neighboring townships as follows:

Douro, 60 heads of families; Smith, 84 heads of families; Otonabee, 51 heads of families; Emily, 142 heads of families; Ennismore, 67 heads of families.

Among those who settled in Douro were: Widow Sullivan, aged 50, with 10 children; William Torpey, aged 54, wife and 8 children; James Cotter, aged 45, wife and 8 children; Edmond Allen, aged 39, wife and 7 children; John Moloney, aged 50, wife and 7 children; James Casey, with wife and 7 children.

70 Acres to Each Man

The land was distributed 70 acres to each man between the age of 18 and 45 years from a plain drafted by Richard Birdsall, who had surveyed the township two years previous. The women and children were left in a rude building, which had been prepared for them, while the husbands and boys set out to locate the land of promise, which proved to be a wilderness inhabited only by wild birds and animals. They cleared a small space, then built a small log shanty thatched with wild grass and boughs of balsam trees.

Inside the shanty they drove stakes and covered them with some rudely made planks to serve as a bed. They then covered this with a mattress made of cedar boughs and wild grasses. Then they built a rude fireplace. Next they sent for the women and children.

The women, as well as the men, worked to clear the forest and in short time they had a small clearing around their home. Many of the men were known to have carried a grist on their backs to Port Hope and back. In the year 1839 Miss Emma Kennedy walked from Port Hope to a point fourteen miles east of Peterborough carrying fourteen pounds of potatoes and fourteen pounds of wheat for her father to sow in his small clearance. From 1825 to 1832, ague was very prevalent. While many of the settlers were very ill no deaths occurred in Douro. The nearest doctor at that time was Doctor Hutchison at Cavan.

Carried Pail of Butter on Head

Many other instances are recorded. Mrs. Catherine Sheehan walked to Peterborough carrying a pail of butter on her head with a basket of butter in one hand and a basket of eggs in the other, and returned over the same trail with them filled with provisions which she had taken in exchange for her produce. The settlers cut their crops with reaping hooks, but in 1850 John Crowley introduced a cradle into the community from the United States. Settlers came from many miles around to see the new invention work.

In those days the younger women wore print bonnets and the older ones wore black bonnets with white borders. Many brides were married in homespun flannel suits with small shawls over their heads. The settlers were very sociable which accounts for their overcoming many difficulties.

Douro became a township in the year of 1850. The first council consisted of George Clark, Sam Strickland, David Porter, James Moher and Denis Leahy, grandfather of the present reeve of Douro. As the council elected their own reeve, Mr. Clark received the majority of votes and took the chair. The first council meeting was attended by many local visitors including Harry Sheehan, Adam King, Patsy Horan, Peter Dalton, Loughlin Nolan, Chris Couch, Tom Richardson, Thos. Buckley, and Roger Fahey, who sat leisurely smoking clay pipes, listening to funny yarns told by Mathew Killcouly.

Daniel Sullivan was appointed first clerk of Douro.

The struggle of the settlers were great, in fact it would be impossible for the present generation to comprehend just how great.

Carried Bag of Flour

Mrs. Danny McCarthy, whose maiden name was Mary Delaney, and her husband were carrying a hundred of flour in turn from Peterborough. When nearing a creek which runs through Lot 6, Con. 2, Douro, Mr. McCarthy slipped and sprained his ankle. The only way to cross the creek was on a log which was flattened on the top. Last her husband should fall in the creek, Mrs. McCarthy, who was a very strong woman, took him under one arm and the bag of flour under the other, and landed them safely on the other side.

The North Douro post office, now Lakefield, was opened January 1, 1856. The South Douro post office, now Douro, was opened September 1, in the same year. Daniel Sullivan, an old school teacher, was the first post-master of Douro.

Robert Reid, first settled of Douro, died March, 1856, at the age of 84 years.

The nomination for the year of 1857, James Moher, who had served as councillor since 1850, resigned and John Allen took his place. The nomination took place in the house of Peter Fitzpatrick. Many congratulations were extended to the new council. Mr. Tom Torpey sang "Our Bonnie Old Trainor," followed by "The Black Waterside," by Dick Dwyer. John Quinlan entertained the gathering by some choice selections on the violin for one hour. In response to the music Mathew Killcoully and Denis Carney gave an exhibition of step-dancing.

Up to this time the council met alternately at the house of Peter Fitzpatrick and Pat Costello. During the year of 1856 it was decided to build a town hall, which was a great advantage to the township, but was destroyed by fire in 1858.

While the early settlers were industrious and worked hard to make a home for themselves and their families, they esteemed sociability more than prosperity. Many social evenings were spent among the settlers' homes. Among the musicians who helped make the evenings cheerful were Thomas Whibbs (known to the settlers as Tom Whibbs, the ploer), grandfather of Augustine Whibbs of Indian River; rendered splendid strains on the Irish bagpipes. Michael Sullivan (Big Mick), grandfather of Mr. Lewis Sullivan, furnished music on the violin. While Denis Sullivan and Ned Riordin made many pleasant evenings with their flutes. The principal dances in those days were Eight Hand Reel, French Four, and Pat and Nellie.

About this time John Torpey, Jr., who had been visiting in United States came home and introduced calling in the square dances. Some of the outstanding step-dancers of the day were Richard Cavanagh, Martin Guerin, Edward Hanrahan, Thomas Whibbs and Denis Sullivan.

Women Helped

In those days the farmers cut their crops with sickles or cradles. Very often the good housewife carried her baby to the field, made a hammock of the blanket, placed the baby in it and hung it on a tree, while she tied the crop after her husband.

During the year of 1858 Mr. Gillcrest built many camps through the township and engaged in lumbering and taking out square timber. This proved quite a boom to the settlement as any man with a team of horses or a yoke of oxen could get steady employment, wages being one dollar per day.

The first Douro Church was built in 1845 and the Rev. Hugh Fitzpatrick was the parish priest. The same social spirit which was prevalent in Douro in the early days exists to-day and on Monday, September 6 (Labor Day) the annual field day and social will be held.

CRIPPLE GETS CHAIR

EDMONTON—(CP)—Crippled for the last 15 years as result of a mine accident, John Saulak, 51, realized a long-cherished hope when he became the owner of a wheel chair. The chair was made by men at No. 2 Fire Hall here.

Britain's post offices are handling 5,000,000 more letters and packages a week than at this time last year.

Pet Fish Requires Feed Of Meat Daily

Gananoque, Sept 4.

CITIZENS of Gananoque are taking a great deal of interest in a pet fish which is making its home in the waters close to the town bridge. A couple of weeks ago the fish, which is a black bass and weighs about three and one-half pounds, put in its first appearance. "Chummy" Stevens, employed by the Thousand Island Boat Line as a solicitor, started to feed the bass with the result that it is now so tame that it comes to the surface of the water and gets food which Mr. Stevens throws to it. At first the fish enjoyed flies, but once it got a taste of meat it forsesook the flies, and now eats about one-quarter pound of meat daily. Citizens take a great deal of pleasure watching the fish take its meals four times a day.

Such a proposal, French sources said, received a reply that such matters had nothing to do with the submarine situation and should be handled by individual negotiation.

Exclusion of the Madrid-Valencia Government from the conference table was predicted by French sources as a British gesture to gain Italy's co-operation.

Though anxious not to offend France, informed quarters believed the Soviets might also be excluded as a further concession to Premier Mussolini on the bases that Russia does not border the Mediterranean, even if it is an important sea route for her.

France was known, however, strongly to desire the presence of both Spanish government and Soviet representatives since the two nations accuse Italy of perpetrating the submarine attacks.

Authoritative Italian sources indicated Mussolini, on the basis of present plans, would not send an envoy to the meeting, an apparent reversal of previous indications that Italy would attend. Any knowledge of the submarine incidents has been denied unequivocably by Italy.

LILY LAKE

Miss Dorothy Rowland, teacher of Hawaiian music, entertained her pupils, together with a large number of friends numbering almost one hundred, at an enjoyable corn roast held at Lily Lake school on Wednesday evening.

Games were played while the corn boiled in a large iron kettle over a cheerful fire and later the pupils showed their careful training in playing a number of instrumentals for their listeners, seated around the fire.

When everyone had finished corn, the hostess passed around marshmallows which many desired to "toast" over the coals.

MORE IMMIGRANTS OF BRITISH ORIGIN NEED OF CANADA

HALIFAX, Sept. 4—(CP)—Vigilance should be exercised "to see that the proper proportion of immigrants coming into Canada are British, the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada decided on Friday as discussion on the report of the Council for Social Service was completed.

"We in Western Canada should have handled our unemployment problem ourselves if it had not been for the excessive immigration in the 1920's," said H. C. Farthing of Calgary as the resolution urging vigilance was passed. "When we ask help, remember that it was the people of Canada as a whole who allowed thousands of foreigners to be brought in against the wishes of the people of the West."

Decision on Communism

The section-by-section discussion of the C.S.S. report, presented by Rev. W. W. Judd of Toronto, took up the major part of the day's discussion. Last night delegates attended an historical meeting to commemorate consecration of Charles Inglis as first Bishop of Nova Scotia 150 years ago.

The Church's attitude toward communism, which held up progress through regular business Thursday, was dismissed in a short time yesterday with the passing of a resolution to replace the one withdrawn after two hours of discussion Thursday. The new resolution referred to "forms of political organization" rather than to any specific political creed.

With all sections of the C.S.S. report passed during the day, the Synod will resume discussion of the report of the Board of Religious Education to-day. Half the report was passed Thursday.

The Social Service report covered work done during the last three years in the fields of Western relief, port chaplaincy, prison welfare work, immigration, unemployment camp work, establishment of travelling libraries, educational and sociological contributions, summer schools and theological colleges.

Financial Report

Financial statement of the C.S.S., as read by Honorary Treasurer G. H. Hunt, Toronto, showed $11,963 had been spent during 1936, and asked for funds totalling $19,308 for 1938. Actual budget of the C.S.S. called for expenditure of $13,410 during the year, but apportionments of the different dioceses had been placed higher "because in the past they have never been more than 75 per cent. fulfilled," explained the Treasurer.

Delegates pledged support of their diocese to the drought-affected sections of the West, after they had been told by Rev. W. H. Adock, Regina, that "conditions this year are the worst in the history of the Diocese of Qu'Appelle."

Extra Traffic Cops To Patrol Rural Beats

Transferred here from Paris district, Provincial Motorcycle Patrol Constable Gordon E. Broughton arrived in the city on Friday evening. He is to assist Provincial Motorcycle Patrol Constable Lloyd E. McClure in the enforcement of the Highway Traffic Act in this district, and will take over sections of highway that have not formerly been patrolled. His beat, it was announced, will extend from Peterborough to Burleigh Falls, Fowler's Corners and Norwood. Constable Broughton's appointment to this division is interpreted as an indigation that the Ontario Department of Highways intends to back up its campaign of "horror pictures" now appearing in the press of the province, with definite action that is designed to rid the highways of careless or indifferent motorists.

15% MORE HEAT WITH THIS Findlay STERLING MOISTAIR FURNACE

Fifteen per cent. more comfort—fifteen per cent. less money for fuel

Put it either way—and you win. In other words—with same fuel consumption the Sterling Moistair will provide heat enough for one room more than any other furnace of its size.

Forcing your fire will not give you heat beyond the ability of your furnace to deliver it. You may have learned this to your sorrow and disgust. If you have, now is the time to replace the old heating plant with a Findlay Sterling.

THESE 4 FEATURES ALONE MAKE A STERLING MOISTAIR A BETTER FURNACE

1. The heat shield hung about 2 inches inside the galvanized iron casing and the heat retaining apron, circling the firepot, give you two supreme advantages—a cool basement; a fuel saving of at least 15 per cent. No lost heat.
2. Clean, sanitary evaporation—freedom from rust and corrosion. These are the big health-building features of the new Findlay porcelain-enamel water-pan.
3. Scientific humidifcating is vital to healthful home heating. With an automatic Humidifier on the Sterling, humidification is always constant, always certain.
4. An increase of 15% to 20% in capacity enables the Sterling Moistair to heat, with the same fuel, one more large room than any other furnace of the same size. If this extra capacity is not required, you have the surplus for extreme weather and for reducing fuel consumption.

Ask us for special folder descriptive of this furnace — or a Findlay Furnace suited to your requirements.

Ask your dealer or your banker how you can obtain the necessary funds for financing this improvement—or write direct to Findlays Limited, Carleton Place, Ont., about our easy payment plan.

St. Andrew's Prepares To Welcome New Minister

Rev. E. W. Young Will Be Inducted on Friday, September 10.

The induction service for Rev. E. W. Young, M.A., B.D., as minister of St. Andrew's Church has been arranged by the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church of Canada for Friday, September 10 at 8 p.m.

Rev. E. M. Cook of Fraserville, chairman of the Presbytery will preside, and induct the new minister, Rev. S. J. Ferguson, B.A., of Keene will preach the sermon, and Rev. E. W. Rowland of Mark St. Church, Peterborough, will address the minister and congregation. A social hour will be held in the school room at the close of the induction service when the program will be in charge of the members of the congregation. Rev. J. W. Gordon, M.A., B.D., a former minister of the church, will take part in this informal gathering.

St. Andrew's Church celebrated its centenary in the year 1933, and is thus one of the oldest churches in the city. The congregation was organized by Rev. J. Morrice Roger, M.A. in 1833. The first place of worship was in a hired building situated on the north side of King street, west of Aylmer. The first session was established on 12th October, 1834. In 1836 the original church building was erected.

The church has been well served by a noble succession of ministers during the course of its history. The following is a list of the ministers and their periods of service: Rev. John M. Roger, M.A., 1833-57; Rev. James M. Douglas, 1857-64; Rev. D. J. McDonnell, M.A., B.D., 1866-70; Rev. Kenneth McLennan, 1871-77; Rev. Alexander Bell, B.A., 1877-90; Rev. Alex. MacWilliams, M.A., 1891-96; Rev. James G. Potter, B.A., B.D., 1896-1910; Rev. James Rollins, B.A., 1910-24; Rev. James W. Gordon, M.A., B.D., 1924-28; Rev. Chas. V. McLean, M.A., B.D., Ph.D., 1928-37.

Outstanding epochs in the church's history were the ministry of Rev. D. J. McDonnell who afterwards became a famous figure in the Presbyterian Church in Canada, whilst minister of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto. His biography has been written by Prof. J. F. McCurdy, Ph.D., L.L.D., and reveals a personality of striking force, integrity and love of truth.

The present handsome church was built in 1886, and a new organ was installed at the same time. The congregation showed remarkable vision in erecting such a fine structrue at that early period.

Miss Elizabeth Bell, daughter of Rev. Alexander Bell has left a permanent influence in the organization known as the Elizabeth Bell Auxiliary which has accomplished great things during its history.

Rev. James Rollins rendered splendid service in the Great War, first as captain with the 93rd Battalion, and later as chaplain of the 27th Battalion in France and Belgium. The collection plates now in use in St. Andrew's were made from a plank of the William the Conqueror Oak which grew just outside the walls of Windsod Castle in England. The plates were presented to the church by Mr. Rollins. The present organ was installed during his ministry and the pulpit placed behind the choir seats.

In 1924 the Sunday school building was extended at a cost of $36,000 and is now one of the most complete in the city.

During the ministry of Rev J. W. Gordon the congregation voted to enter the United Church of Canada, and since 1925 has been one of the most loyal congregations of that church. The Bay of Quinte Conference met in St. Andrew's in 1935 and was given a hearty welcome by the leaders of the church.

The manse has been re-modelled during the past year, a new heating system installed, and the building completely furnished throughout in the most modern fashion. Hence it will be seen that this historic congregation is alive and active, and has vision for the future.

The new minister, Rev. E. W. Young, has come from Dundas St. Centre Church in London, Ontario, after a successful pastorate of nine years in that congregation to which he was called from Carlisle Memorial Church, Belfast, in the year 1928. Past members of the church are invited to join with the congregation in the induction service on Friday, September 10.

A National Message

By the late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

In the eleventh century B.C. the Kingdom of God was reorganized with an earthly king, who was, and was to be the representative of the Lord, the King of Israel. So the house of David was established forever.

The throne of David was also established forever, ruling for twenty reigns over Judah, and since that time over Israel. There was the Irish period, the Scottish period, and the English period, so that Ireland, Scotland, and England share in the house of David past and present.

The House and throne were dedicated to the administration of the Kingdom of God forever.

With the organization of the Kingdom went the promulgation of the commandments, statues and judgments of the Lord. These form the constitution of Israel. This is the basis of the common law of Britain.

Parasell with the constitution ran the ordinances of worship. The ordinances were arranged to be observed in two periods. First the Moasic period, which was taken up with foreshadowing the coming and mission of Jesus Christ our Lord. Thus in type and figure, by sacrifices and ritual, the future coming of the Christ, and the future work of the Christ, were foreshown.

Then Jesus came and performed his sacrificial ministry and the offering of Himself.

Then came the change of ordinances, from the foreshadowing to the commemorating of the Christ, who has come, and who has offered Himself, once for all, for the sins of the world.

So the ordinances were changed.

But the commandments, statutes, and judgments stand ratified by the Lord Jesus Christ as to every jot and tittle, and form the constitution of the Kingdom of God, in the New Testament era, as it had been in the Old Testament era.

It was incumbent on Israel to keep the commandments, statutes and judgments in the old time. It is still incumbent on Israel and all other nations who would obey God in the New Testament time.

But while the law stands as it has ever stood since God gave it at Sinai, and since Jesus ratified it in the Sermon on the Mount, we have changed our observance of it, and our obedience to it, and have substituted our own law, and our own authority.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

All the fulminations of the so-called fundamentalists against such things as evolution are really based upon an ignorance of spiritual truth. The scientist deals only with an evolution of outer physical form; the mystic adds to this a concept of an evolution of consciousness rising from the material to the spiritual, while the fundamentalist adhering doggedly to a literal rendering of the statement that man is made in "the image and likeness of God", drags God down to a physical basis and shuts his eyes to aught else. It is gloriously true that man is the image of God, but what man? Isn't the animal man, the psychic man or the Christ in man? Clearly it cannot be man as we see him today, lying and cheating and inflicting suffering and evil upon his fellows. Nor is it the psychic man for that is also in a state of growth. Obviously then it must be the spiritual man, and so in this sense and this sense only is the statement true, further, if God is a spirit then also must His likeness be spiritual. So that the doctrine of evolution applying to the outer form has nothing in it contrary to any religion and the fundamentalist is wasting his sound and fury upon nothing that really matters.

It is curious to note how the champions of literal belief have unconsciously done their utmost to discredit religion. Time and time again have the leaders of religions thought persecuted the pioneers of science, denounced their findings as deretical, contrary to scripture, and invariably have the churches been forced to modify and withdraw their dicta. Reverence the scriptures as we may, they do not claim to be more than a guide to seekers after spiritual truth. They are not text books on cosmology, entology or science in general and the ultra-orthodox do their cause a dis-service in claiming other wise. We repeat, there is no religion higher than the truth, and while all truth in this finite state of being is but relative, yet he who seeks truth whether it be spiritual or scientific is in reality a seeker of God who is all truth. People get into mental ruts refusing to admit any light which may seem to run counter to their own ideas, but a closed and petrified mind is a dead mind; it has ceased to grow. A little reflection will show that truths whether religion, scientific or what not, cannot conflict one with the other. They must harmonize. If they do not, then either they are not true at all or else the interpretation is faulty. There is much that is fed as essential belief which has no real bearing either upon man's origin or his destiny, and while today there is a quickening of thought, yet there remains a multitude who waste time and effort upon matters devoid of all bearing upon the real issue. The question is how best can man regain his lost estate and complete his journey back to his Father's house? To read or memorize all the guidebooks in existence, while a help, will not suffice, for every man must make the journey for himself, no one can do it for him. He himself must cease to be what he now is and become what he once was.

THE HUMAN SIDE OF LIFE

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

John Henry Lewis, Negro light-heavyweight champion, finds in the Good Book abundant approval of fighting. He fights to earn money to become a preacher. And now he offers to put up $35,000 for a fight with ex-champion Jim Braddock. John Henry wants to be heavyweight champion, not for the glory, but to get money enough to prepare for the ministry and to battle for the Lord.

The late Tiger Flowers, also colored, a game and clever fighter, had the same idea. He was a fervent preacher in between fights and was sometimes known as "Deacon" Flowers. Then there was that little colored evangelist of 10 or 15 years ago, known as the "Fighting Parson." Before entering the ring, he used to pray, "Lord, help me smack him down, but don't let me smack him too hard."

Even omnipotence must sometimes be puzzled about just what to do in these strange admixtures of will, desire and supplication. Bearing on all this is the true story of how Leadville, Colo., once built a church.

It was in the seventies. The congregation held services over a saloon and gambling hall. One Saturday night, when the games were going full blast downstairs the wardens and vestrymen and the minister were meeting in the rooms above. They had decided to build a church, but with much campaigning and solicitation of funds they had been able to scrape together only $5,000. That wasn't enough.

Minister Had Idea

Their campaign had dragged along for several years, but they were getting nowhere. Down below they could hear a surge of men in and out of the gambling hall, the chant of the dealers, the heavy clink of $20 goldpieces on the tables. The minister had an idea.

"I believe," he said, "that the time has come to ascertain whether God really wants a church in Leadville. I propose that we take our $5,000 downstairs and play it at the roulette table. If God wants a church, we win; if He doesn't, we lose." There was unanimous agreement. Parson, wardens and vestrymen gathered around the roulette table. They ran their $5,000 up to $48,000, pulled out and built themselves a nice little church.

John Henry Lewis is a sincere Christian according to all who know him. He earnestly and devoutly desires to preach the Gospel. There is no irreverence in suggesting that the Lord might strengthen his arm like that of Jeohthah against the Ammonites. If her has faith, he will of course, wager all he can get together on his fight with Braddock, knowing that if his career in the ministry is divinely ordained he must win, and all the sooner unsheath his sword of righteousness.

Simple folk of unquestioning faith, such as "De Lawd" of "Green Pastures," are not disturbed by any suggestion of blasphemy in such conjectures.

Reverting again to the Leadville incident, a naive old prospector who had lived most of his life in Leadville was in New York a few years ago. He was astonished to hear that they were still building St. John's Cathedral. In all sincerity, he proposed that they do what they did at Leadville—take their available funds, stage a big tilt with the Tiger in Boyle's Thirty Acres with Mike Jacobs running the show and "find out whether God really wants a cathedral in New York."

Pray for Victory in Bouts

We are supposed to have passed out of the age of faith into the age of reason. But clerics of both sides pray to the same God for victory in war. We are perhaps condescendingly amused at John Henry Lewis or Tizer Flowers praying for victory in a mauling contest. But prize-fighting is a sensible, civilized and harmless business compared to war. And much more conclusive. Once in a while somebody does really get something out of it.

One can conceive of a kindly Providence being inclined to give a devout colored boy a hand, rather than any or all of the snarling fight mobs of Europe or the Orient—if there is any such divine intervention in our mundane strife. An old-time sports writer, a keen observer, cited for me many colored athletes who resorted to psychological devices to bolster them up. He maintained that the racial disadvantage of the black men has taught them clever adaptations.

"Ever since he came over here the southern negro has resorted to clowning to save his skin," said my friend. "It is definitely a protective device. Jack Johnson carried it into the ring. If you watch any negro athletic closely, you will see that he is putting on an act. I do not believe it is deliberate. It is an unconscious defensive tactic against the crushing psychological forces of the white man's world.

"I could tell you stories by the hour about Battling Siki, Sam Langford, Joe Jeanette, Joe Gans, George Dixon, among the fighters; and Duke Slater, Fritz Polland, Lewis of Harvard; Matty Matthews and Jim Bullock among the football players. The cleverest negro athletes are always apt to carry some kind of a psychological rabbit's foot. Their ancient world works that way, and taking a look at our world as it is to-day, one can't blame them much for carrying on traditionally."

Sabbath Message For the Shut-Ins

SABBATH MESSAGE
By
REV. E. R. JAMES
Toronto

A VIVID SHORT STORY

"Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief."—St. Mark 9.24.

Have you imagination? Test it by reading the story in St. Mark 9: 14-29 before you go any further. The story is also repeated by St. Matthew and St. Luke. According to modern scholarship St. Mark was the earliest written Gospel and the later writers had this as their basis, which they used freely, omitting, adding or changing as they saw fit.

It is the account of an eye witness. St. Peter, who, with his highly trained memory, told this story very frequently in his missionary work in Rome. St. Mark later puts it into writing. Verses 21 to 29 are only found in St. Mark.

See the touch of the eye witness. "The scribes disputing with them"; the multitudes "were greatly amazed and ran to meet Him, saluting Him"; the body is "dumb"; "he grindeth with his teeth." We would not know these details but for St. Mark.

Very probably we have here the original primitive tradition in its minute details reflecting the personality and methods of the Lord more completely than in the later records. The Gospel stories were memorised in those early days. The primitive Church had an intense dislike to writing these "memoirs" as they were called.

Can you see "the scribes disputing with them," delighting to intensify the disciples failure. The crowd's amazement at the sight of Our Lord may be explained by the fact that His face still retained something of the radiance of the Transfiguration. St. Mark has a habit of using strong expressions and Moffatt translates this as "thunder struck."

Our Lord gives way to His disappointment at the disciples' failure which jars on His spirit. His rebuke includes the disciples also. How interesting it is to remember that St. Mark and St. Luke copy Our Lord's exclamation of dismay almost word for word, showing that they had this work before them.

How life-like is the father. He naturally goes into details of the boy's illness and ends with the heart breaking appeal: "If thou canst, have compassion on us and pity us." How touching. His only son and his happiness is bound up in the boy's future.

"If you can, indeed?" the Lord replies. "It depends on yourself and not on Me. Can you rise to it? All things are possible to him that believeth." The father instantly responds to the demand for a fuller trust on his part; his strength of feeling shows itself in the cry as piercing as that of the demoniac: "Lord, I believe, help Thou mine unbelief."

You see the multitudes running to the Master full of curiosity—true to life. Our Lord has no desire to satisfy them and immediately speaks the power word. The boy is both "dumb and deaf." Then follows the convulsions and the child lies in the last spasm in a death like stupor; the crowd pronouncing him dead.

Our Lord rarely touched the cured after the power word. Here He takes the boy by the hand; His own life and strength enters into him and he stands on his feet.

How natural the sequel. They are now in the house and the disciples ask Him privately: "Why could we not cast him out?" "This kind can come forth by nothing but by prayer." It implies that there are apparently evil spirits of more or less evil power. But the lesson for us is that spiritual concentration is needed. What an important lesson for our easly going age.

How frank the story is regarding the weakness and failure of the disciples. St. Luke writing later omits it for the credit of the Apostles must be upheld in the eyes of the primitive Church.

What is the great lesson? The blessing is given to the child because of the father's faith. What strength it gives to the prayers you offer for your loved ones.

—Rev. Edward R. James.

New Passage Across Top Of World

Board S.S. Nascopie, Prince Regent Inlet, Sept. 4 (CP, by wireless).—A new passage across the top of the world, was charted today when contact was made between the Hudson's Bay Company ship Nascopie and the schooner Aklavik in Bellot Strait.

The dream of Arctic navigators for 400 years became a reality when the Aklavik, from Cambridge Bay in the Western Arctic drew alongside the Nascopie from Montreal. It meant a new north west passage through Bellot Strait which separates Boothia Peninsula the most notherly tip of the Canadian mainland and Somerset Island.

Although ships have run the original north-west passage farther north, along Lancaster Sound and Barrow Strait, it was the first time a ship had passed through Bellot Strait, thus opening a new passage.

The Nascopie was picking its way through the strait, guided by a small boat in which Capt. T. F. Smellie was taking soundings in the uncharted water. The schooner suddenly came into sight around a rock headland scarcely visible in light snowfall.

Amid cheers from the Nascopie, the schooner pulled up and Eskimos from the Eastern Arctic grinned down on Eskimos from the Mackenzie River district.

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 5 is Leviticus 19:1-18, 32, 37, especially verses 9-18, 32-37, the Golden Text being Luke 6:31, "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.")

What more appropriate subject for our study on this "Labor Sunday" than the subject "Social Justice." And it is interesting to note that we study it in the light of God's word embodied in the Mosaic code nearly three and a half millennia ago. Fundamental principles embodying essential truth do not change with the passing of centuries. "Equal Justice Under Law" is the slogan engraved over the entrance to the magnificent new temple of the supreme court in our national capital. That word "Equal" would make doubly sure that justice is dispensed impartially to all social classes.

Holiness Basic to Justice

God goes down to bed rock for the foundation of social justice when he demands that it be based on holiness: 'And Jehovah spake unto Moses saying, Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel and say unto them, ye shall be holy; for I, Jehovah your God, am holy." We are to partake of the likeness of God we worship. Our strongest argument for the incentive to holy living is God's holiness. Our deed must become our creed; our ethics must accord with our religion.

Spiritualizing Sociology

Thus through all varying social relations, beginning in the home and reaching outward in ever widening circle, God's nature is held up for us to match in all of our dealings with him and our neighbour: "ye shall fear every man his mother, and his father...I am Jehovah your God" "And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleaning of thy harvest...Thou shalt leave them for the poor and for the sojourner: I am Jehovah your God." Poor relief is not the concern of a distant and impersonal government; it is the heart to heart concern of every man for his needy neighbor, willing to share as God has shared with him.

Industrial Justice

Industrial justice is sought through the same high appeal: "Ye shall not steal; neither shall ye deal falsely, nor lie to one another ...I am Jehovah. Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbor, nor rob him; the wages of a hired servant shall not abide with thee all night until the morning. Thou shalt not curse the deaf, nor put a stumbling block before the blind; but thou shalt fear thy God: I am Jehovah. Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment: thou shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty: but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbor... Thou shalt not take vengeance, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people; but thou shalt love thy neighbor as myself: I am Jehovah...Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment, in measure of length, or of weight or of quantity...Just balances, just weights shall ye have; I am Jehovah your God, who bought you out of the land of Egypt." Just wages, just working conditions, just service for wages paid, just treatment of both employer and employe by the other, just regard for the rights and welfare of one another—all these may be realised among us only as we pattern our conduct after the holiness and love of God, and for his sake love our neighbor as ourself.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

God Requires Social Justice

Scripture—Leviticus 19:1-18, 32-37.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

God laid the foundation for social justice under the laws of Moses by demanding of the people holiness patterned after himself. - "Ye shall be holy for I Jehovah your God am holy." [illegible]

Poor relief was to be administered by all the people sharing with their needy neighbors: "Thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field . . . Thou shalt leave them for the poor and for the [illegible]

"Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbor, nor rob him," God said, "Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment, in measures, or of weight or of quantity." Justice in wages and treatment of workmen was required by God.

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," said God through Moses. Jesus expanded this into the Golden Rule: "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."

For Which We Are Thankful

One of the best pieces of information published in Peterborough in recent days is the recording of the fact that the crippling effects of paralysis have not developed in the four cases reported in this city. In some centres where more cases have been reported than in this community the percentage of those who escape the effects runs from 30 to 50 per cent.

It is also a fact that the percentage of our population liable to attack is not nearly as great as some disturbed people have believed. The soundest advice we have heard is that people should face such a situation without fear and worry. See to it that members of the family pursue regular habits and follow regular hours, and eat nourishing food.

So far Peterborough has not had a case in which the crippling effects of the disease will be in evidence. And for that we are thankful.

Money In Safe Hands

When an individual comes into possession of money it always causes discussion. It is so in London, Ont., where a teacher in one of the secondary schools has inherited $695,000. People want to know what she intends to do. Actually it is not necessary for her to teach school any more in order to earn a living. But she intends to keep on teaching.

We learn that teaching school has meant a good deal to this lady. She has found in her classes now and then pupils whom she was certain had unusual ability, but they were not able to go far toward higher education because they had no financial backing. On several occasions we find this teacher has supplied the funds from her own earnings. When it came to the matter or repaying the loan her attitude was this: "I don't want you to worry about paying it back, but when you are in a position where you have extra money, pay some other person's college expenses."

So there is nothing much to worry about because that school teacher in London has inherited $695,000 or any other amount. She knows how to use money.

An Impartial Witness

On behalf of two accused bailed for trial after preliminary hearing in magistrate's court on charges connected with disorder during the textile strike, J. L. Cohen, defence counsel offered a suggestion that was not treated with much consideration.

Counsel told Chief Constable Samuel Newhall, who learned of the fact for the first time according to his own evidence, that a motion picture record of the clash between strikers and police was filmed outside the Bonner-Worth Mill by Associated Screen News.

He suggested, because public showing of the film was banned by the Ontario Board of Censors, it was the duty of the Chief Constable to see the films were available as evidence at the trial.

The Chief in refusing to consider the suggestion told counsel it was for him to produce the film as evidence if he wished to do so. Mr. Cohen contended it was the duty of the Chief of Police to produce every shred of evidence either for or against an accused person.

The showing of a film in a court is actually presenting impartial evidence of what actually took place. We believe the bench could have placed before it a more accurate view of what actually took place than by asking of many questions. When the camera goes into action records what it sees, and it does not play any favorites. Showing such a picture would be like standing there as an eye-witness during the trouble. No witness could possibly describe events with the accuracy of a camera. Our belief is that such a picture should be gladly received.

It Is Worth Mentioning

There have been several references in newspaper reports within recent weeks to rather mysterious visits which were made by representatives of various nations to the territory of others. In one place it was recorded that several German officials were making a tour along the borders of Czechoslovakia, and it was believed special attention was being paid to barricades or methods of fortification. It is common knowledge that the frontiers of France, Germany, Italy, and so on are well fortified. The military men of these nations know every foot of the ground; know where they may expect to be attacked, and know where in turn they would attack. They spend time and money in impressive volume on such work.

All of which adds interest and point to an address made by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York state. He was speaking in Buffalo to a convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars when he made reference to the manner in which United States and Canada live side by side and in peace. This he said:

"Today on a frontier more than 3,000 miles long there are no guards and the people live in peace and harmony."

That is a favorite topic for speakers to discuss—that friendly international line. It is a fact that immigration rulings cause it at times to be anything but friendly, but as far as international relations are concerned, it is a friendly border. There are no guards along it; there are no guns ready to shoot north or south as the case might be. It is a greater example to the world than is generally realized, and on that account we should keep on referring to it. It is a better system than that employed in Europe; more simple, more friendly and far less expensive. In this war-mad age it is worth mentioning as one of the seven wonders of the world.

Marrying A Prisoner

Donald Irving of Niagara Falls is in jail at Welland, but he will not remain there long, as he is going to start serving a sentence of 18 months for the theft of an automobile. Before making a start on this stretch he wanted to be married, and a young lady from Niagara Falls was willing and ready to do her part. The ceremony was performed in the office of the county sheriff, and those in attendance were officers of the court. There was no honeymoon trip; only a brief chat in the office of the turnkey before the husband returned to his cell and the bride went her way to wait for eighteen months for the home-coming of her husband.

Well what about it? We are certain as can be there will be plenty of folk ready to say the young lady was ill-advised, and that she should have waited until the young man got through with his prison term and was able to show that he had reformed. After such a demonstration on his part the wedding could have taken place. But not before. And it can possibly be shown that other ventures of this sort have not succeeded. The young man will be released as an ex-convict and he will find it difficult enough to get along without having to support a wife.

But who is going to point the finger at the young lady and inform her she has done something which she ought not have done? In this age where money and position seem to play so great a part in influencing many of our actions, we cannot pass lightly over the case of a young lady with her own life to live who is willing to become wedded to a man facing a term in prison. It looks much like the maximum degree in devotion, a substantial tribute to her belief in the man whom she must trust, and it comes at a time when other hands have probably been turned against him.

We admit it is a great experiment, but one would be foolhardy to call it nonsense or brand the marriage as something which should never have taken place. If there is anything worth while in that young man then his bride's complete trust in him should cause it to grow and develop. It is she who has been willing to take the big chance.

Sleeping On The Floor

We read with interest a report of a Women's Institute meeting where the question of providing added sleeping accommodation in the home was being aired. This we found:

"In the living room it is possible to have a couch so fixed that it can be turned into a bed, and I have seen even the old lounge so fixed that it would give one a good night's rest. Having such matters well in hand all the time is apt to save a good deal of embarrassment when several people come at a time when all the members of the family are home. I know of a good many farm homes where they do not boast of a spare bedroom."

No doubt it is possible with all the new contraptions in existence today to have several sleeping places about the house which are not regularly in use. It probably would have been better on the Tenth Concession had such plans existed some years ago. People used to turn up there at times without much warning. Sometimes father and mother and a couple of children. They'd drive in with three on the buggy seat and the smallest sitting on the floor with back up against the dashboard. There never was any trouble in finding a place for the horse and buggy, and there was no problem connected with giving them something—and plenty—to eat. But there was a certain uneasiness after the chores were done for the night and a certain amount of conversation had been carried on in the house. After the hanging lamp in the parlor had been lit there was always the giving of directions behind the hand and generally out in the next room to where the company might be sitting at the time. Grandfather was pretty good at that; he was something like a general in the army when it came to disposing of the troops in proper billets for the night. Never must the company be allowed to suspect that their presence had in the slightest way caused any inconvenience. That was not the sort of hospitality they dealt out on the Tenth. The company must be impressed with the fact that their coming had not caused a ripple on the surface of domestic affairs.

The younger members of the tribe would be told (behind the hand) to slide upstairs and get their things. That meant a nightshirt. And then to remain downstairs while the company went up to bed. There were two extra sleeping places, and one was on the parlor sofa and the other was on the floor. The sofa was covered with hair-cloth and it was hard and a little slippery and rather narrow. One could not do much twisting and turning. The floor as might be suspected was hard, but with a couple of quilts underneath and a pillow it was at least as good as the sofa. There really wasn't much choice. But sleeping on the floor meant getting up as soon as grandfather came down in the morning and he was a bit rigid in the way he followed the even course of early rising. The reason for the sudden rising in the morning in the parlor was that the quilts and pillows and all else indicative of slumber on the floor or the sofa had to be obliterated before the company came down for breakfast. They could never be allowed to suspect that their presence in the house had overtaxed the bedding for the night. Although it had.

Hence we are somewhat mildly interested in the new order of things in farm homes, where the slumbering hours of the unexpected guest are to be provided for in advance. There will be no last-minute shuffling about, no whispered family conversation behind the door of the next room, and no sleeping on the floor. And yet a bit of sleeping on the floor is good for a young person because then it is that realization is born of how comfortable a bed can be.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We applaud the man who saves his money and at the same time call him a tight wad for not spending it.

There are a good many millions in China who have nothing more to live for than war, famine, floods and a bit of rice.

Some people always make a bad situation worse. Now there is the chap in jail at Cleveland charged with murder, and now he is writing poetry in his cell.

Some day we may advance to the point where the people will rise in a rage and take a man apart who tries to get them into another war.

One of the features at Toronto Exhibition in front of the grand stand is a head-on collision between two cars. But that has happened so many places that it can hardly be regarded as a feature.

Thieves in Hamilton worked many hours battling the door off a safe and then found there was nothing there. Like all other information, it was necessary for the thugs to work hours to secure theirs.

Man in Brantford went to hear Premier Hepburn speak and some person took a wallet containing $30 from his pocket. No names are mentioned, but we know the loser could not have been a newspaper reporter.

We were reading a while ago that with all the modern equipment which has been made a modern war could not last more than 48 hours. And that would be fine for the fellows who had to travel a long way to get there.

Pictures have been taken in London, Ont., of a young man standing in a court room. How this happened is something of a mystery and surprise combined. We couldn't get away with it in this city, nor would we make the attempt.

Alex. Elliott, when nominated as Liberal candidate in a room where the heat was terrific, said the size and enthusiasm of the audience made him feel like taking his coat off. So there would be two good reasons.

The big swim at Toronto Exhibition has lost its attraction. Years ago newspaper offices the province over were continually bombarded with inquiries about the progress of the event. In the last two years there has not even been a call at this office asking the name of the winner.

Conductor on a Halifax street car found a pocketbook and said it must belong to one of the delegates attending the General Synod of the Church of England in that city because it was empty. Newspaper people have long enjoyed a complete monopoly of the empty purse and pocket field, and will tolerate no competition from the pulpit.

WEE ANGUS

(By A. B. K.)

¶ Of books Wee Angus has a pile, I'm trusting they are worth the while, he's in some other class; his other books got laid away, he'd soaked up all they had to say, that's how he come to pass.

¶ I used to help him some last year, when he had problems long and queer, when he was none too good; I could not always do the stuff, for some of it seemed rather tough, I tried the best I could.

¶ Last night when Angus went to bed, I got his books a while and read, at questions tried my luck; and things are not so simple now, I put more furrows in my brow, I fear I will be stuck.

¶ When Angus was a little lad, why helping him was not so bad, 'twas quite a simple trick; he'd ask me this or ask me that, and I could answer off the bat, and do it smart and quick.

¶ Each year when he moves on some more, I find it harder than before, asks things I never saw; instead of giving answers fast, I put him off until the last, and have to hum and haw.

¶ The figures grow to greater size, big words come popping to my eyes, I have to read them slow; when Angus asks me things some day, I fear I'll have to up and say—that really I don't know.

HAY FEVER

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I note your comment on "allergies" in yesterday's paper, and feebly confess I am one.

I feel that a definite step should be taken to eliminate the presence of ragweed, which it is claimed is the cause of at least 90 per cent. of hay fever. Until one suffers from it, no one knows (except one's family) what a miserable affliction, hay fever is. Sleep is essential for health, and hay fever robs one of even the semblance of a night's rest.

Other counties have taken action in the matter of having ragweed removed, and I would (as many others would too) appreciate any definite steps taken to clean this noxious weed out of the district of Peterborough.

Yours sincerely,
HAY FEVER.

HE DISAGREES

Editor Examiner:

Sir: That demon, grouch, has attacked me, and I decided the best means of getting back to normal was to get a few things off my chest. My grouch was not acquired by reading your praise-worthy paper, but by noticing something in one tiny corner of it. I refer to the sports page in your issue of Monday August 30th.

I am taking the liberty of finding fault with a few of Cec. Perdue's rather broad statements and fantastic predictions regarding the Louis—Farr bout in New York. The great fight is over now and we all know the result Louis was acclaimed the winner, and no doubt he merited the decision. But did the Brown Embalmer belt the Welshman into oblivion according to Mr. Perdue's gloomy and alliterative prediction of Monday? He did not! After going the limit of fifteen rounds Farr was still in good condition. He led the fight, at least part time, in that last round, so obviously the embalming process was far from completion.

By way of explanation to any person who didn't notice Mr. Perdue's column on Monday I will quote one of his statements. It says "Farr was unheard of six months ago, and has no more business, apparently, going in against Louis than we have." His 'we', I presume, is just another way of saying 'I', and is not intended to convey plurality.

Now, does Mr. Perdue still think that he is as suitable a match for Louis as Tommy Farr proved to be? Personally I believe that if he (Mr. Perdue) had stepped into the ring at the end of the fifteenth round and carried on where Joe Louis left off, there would have been three, instead of two disfigured visages in New York on the evening of the 30th. In fact, Mr. Perdue would have stood a remarkably fine chance of being rocked to sleep.

There is just one thing yet, Mr. Perdue asserts that Farr is 'in wrong' with nearly everyone, including his own countrymen. Obviously that is either a falsehood or a gross exaggeration. Farr received much applause in New York. He is hugely admired in this district, I know. And I cannot help but gather from the newspapers that he is a hero to his fellow country men. In Wales, immediately after the bout, choruses rang out and bonfires blazed as tribute to Farr and the magnificent fight he fought against Joe Louis.

Please allow me to add that, although a Farr fan, I have nothing against his brown antagonist. Joe Louis is a first-class boxer who has honestly and decisively lashed his way to that seat on top of the world of heavyweight boxing. But let us have fair play always, a fair fight, and a fair and authentic account of everything pertaining thereto.

I trust you will kindly allow space in the Examiner for this letter, as I cannot understand why Mr. Purdue's charges have remained unchallenged and unanswered to date.

Thank you, sir,
RICHARD HUME.

No One Is Safe in Eastern War Zone

U. S. Cruiser Struck By a Mysterious Shell; Another Smashes In Heart of Store District.

From N.Y. News-week

LAST Friday two score bluejackets gathered on the afterdeck of the U.S.S. Augusta, anchored a slingshot away from Japan's shell-belching cruiser Idzumo. It was 6:40 P.M., and the neighboring detonations shook the American Far East flagship from stem to stern. They were going to see a movie, a hot one, "That I May Live!"

They never did. They didn't even know what hit them. Some got back on their feet and figured out there had been an explosion. Others lay on the deck. Seventeen went to sick bay. One died.

It was an anti-aircraft shell—but no one could prove from which side it came. Like the Bund disaster of the previous week, the accident merely accentuated the increasing danger for foreigners, the desperate character of the struggle, and the fact that both sides were failing to carry out their first objectives.

With artillery from Pootung and the Hongkew outskirts, and with aircraft from above the Chinese were trying to blast the enemy ships out of the river. The Japanese replied by landing 50,000 Marines in the Hongkew part of the International Settlement (where 20,000 of their nationals have homes, offices, and mills) and another force on the Pootung side.

The Chinese attacked bith these armies savagely. They completely thwarted the main enemy strategy: a wheeling movement, with the North Station area as its base, designed to fold back the defenders into the Chapei district and ultimately into the neutralized International Settlement.

There were still hardly foreign blusterers who swore they would never leave town. Monday morning they received a rude shock. The unmistakable rumble of a heavy artillery shell passed over the Bund—straight toward the heart of the International Settlement. Seconds later there was an explosion like a volcanic eruption.

When the cloud of dust and smoke had drifted off, rescuers were able to size up what had happened—but only vaguely. The buildings of Sincere and Co. and Wing On and Co., leading department stores, were wrecked. They had been crowded with shoppers—and the dead and wounded lay in heaps. But how many there were, how many might be foreigners, and how many Americans, no one could tell.

ABSENT MINDED MOTORIST

(Minneapolis Tribune)

A SURVEY of American Automobile Association garages reveals that 1,500,000 motorists ran out of gas on the road, in the United States, last year, despite the fact that there is a filling station nearly every mile of pavement and a gasoline gauge on every modern car.

The report is an interesting exposition on the absent-minded carelessness of the average motorist. It draws a vivid mental picture. A million and a half drivers stranded and inconvenienced because they were preoccupied and forgot to check the contents of their tanks. A small army of can carriers walking to the nearest gasoline station as a result of abstraction and over-optimism.

It is hardly a picture to weep over, but it has its serious side. For it is entirely plausible that this same absent-mindedness may apply to other phases of driving and be responsible for a great many traffic accidents.

DIVIDENDS

(Muskogee, Okla., Phoenix)

THERE is a good chuckle in the story of the Chattanooga storekeeper who put up an empty cigar box in his store under a sign reading: "Police got my slot machine; please put your money here." The chuckle comes from the fact that his patrons took him at his word, so that in a few days the box was nearly full of coins.

The average American likes a joke, and isn't above tossing away a nickle if it appeals to his sense of humor. The point, however, is that the customers who "played" this cigar box got just about as much for their money as they would have got if the slot machine had never been removed.

The average slot machine is an everything-goes-in, nothing-comes-out proposition. You might just about as well put your money in an empty cigar box, for all you are likely to get out of it. Indeed, these Chattanooga players are probably ahead of the game; they at least got a chuckle for their money.

THEY DO IT EVERY TIME!

HASTINGS.

BARN DESTROYED ELECTRIC STORM

HASTINGS, Sept. 4.—When a severe electric storm passed over this district on Friday morning around 9.30, the barn and contents belonging to George Stevenson of Percy township a few miles from the village, was completely destroyed by lightning. The barn contained the season's crop of hay and grain grown on the home place and also a large quantity of alfalfa seed and machinery.

Although the loss is partially covered by insurance, the loss is heavy.

The rain was very badly needed, hoe crops and pastures are burning up. Rain fell for over one half hour in the village but within a few miles south and west of the village, there was only a shower. Unless rain comes within the next week the potato crop will be a failure. Tomatoes are ripening in abundance and gardens are withering from the hot dry weather. The majority of the farmers have commeted their harvesting but find the ground too dry and hard for fall ploughing. A real heavy rain is needed to get the ground in proper condition for the fall grain.

BLAMES LOYALIST SUB.

SALAMANCA, Spain, Sept. 4—(CP-Havas).—The attempted torpedoing of the British destroyer Havoc was blamed on a Valencia government submarine to-day in an insurgent communique here. Assailing the "hostile" foreign press which has accused the insurgents the communique said the Havock could not have been attacked by a "Nationalist" warship because its fleet had been given strict orders "to respect foreign vessels."

$9,800 ROAD GRANT FROM GOVERNMENT

"Lakefield is our nearest neighbor, and we feel that we should help in any way we can," Alderman Glover remarked at the manufacturers' committee meeting last night in regard to local interest in the Canadian Nepheline Company. They particularly wanted improvement of the road to their quarry in the Blue Mountains of Methuen. It was learned from J. J. Duffus that a grant of $3,300 was obtained from the federal government in 1936 for that purpose, and another grant of $4,000 this year. Only recently Mr. Duffus had obtained another appropriation of $2,500. Ald. Glover said he regarded the Nepheline Company as a very promising and important industry and he had found Mr. Duffus keenly interested in it.

Local Member Still Hopeful "Cambria" Might Fly Over City

Change of plans in connection with the return flight to Montreal of Imperial Airways flying boat "Cambria" necessitated by the mishap she suffered to one of her pontoons when landing on Lake Ontario before Exhibition crowds, may result in the aircraft being seen over Peterborough J. J. Duffus, M.P. believed.

Recently The Examiner and Chamber of Commerce here wired to S. J. Hungerford, president of Trans-Canada Airways and Canadian National Railways asking if the big silver flying boat could be rerouted to include Peterborough in its itinerary on her goodwill tour.

Mr. Hungerford replied he had discussed the matter with the aircraft's commander and regretted it was not possible for the ship to hover over Peterborough on the present occasion.

At the same time Mr. Duffus made a similar request through the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport. He since received word from the Minister that other municipalities to be visited by the aircraft had extended invitations.

Answering a further letter which Mr. Duffus sent to Ottawa, the Minister replied his Department had no jurisdiction in the matter as the goodwill flight of the airship had been arranged by Imperial Airways and Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Since the aircraft met with the mishap at Toronto and will be delayed on her schedule, Mr. Duffus is hopeful of completing arrangements through Canadian National Railway officials here and in Montreal for the aircraft to deviate from her course to permit Peterborough to join in tribute to her prowess as a trans-Atlantic air line pioneer.

Outlook Not Good For Bacon Export During Next Year

Number of Pigs on Farms in Canada Smaller Than Anytime in 1936.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (CP).—A warning against any abnormal liquidation of unfinished pigs was voiced by the Agricultural Department in a statement issued today forecasting the possibility of a "serious problem if increases in the number of unfinished hogs in country loadings continue at the present rate." Prospects of deductions in hog marketing during the next year was basis for the warning.

"The number of pigs on farms in Canada is probably smaller than in 1936 as the result of a reduction in spring farrowings in all the major producing provinces," the statement said. "This implies that the supply of bacon-making material available for the export and domestic trade during the remainder of 1937 and the greater part of 1936 may be below demand. Under such circumstances, any abnormal liquidation of unfinished pigs becomes a serious problem.

"While considerable numbers of feeders now being marketed are being returned to farms where feed is available, present demand may not be sufficiently broad to handle an increasing volume of suitable pigs.

"The provinces of Manitoba and Ontario, each with a very good grain volume could easily absorb all the good feeder pigs offered and do much to maintain our total output for bacon-making purposes."

"It is not necessary to emphasize the fact that one of our most important tasks is the holding of our present position in the British market in respect to volume. World production of pig meats is likely to cost more during the next 12 months than during the previous 12 months, but all competitors in the British market will no doubt make every effort to maintain their present volume of commitments.

"With the total imports into the United Kingdom definitely restricted, competition for her bacon requirements is more intense today than at any time prior to the regulation of import supplies. Any losses from the 1937 export volume would be extremely difficult to recover.

"A reassuring feature of the situation here is that we have more permanent producers of hogs in Canada today, more intelligent feeding practices, a higher appreciation of good market types and weights, and a better knowledge of the market situation than at any time in the history of the industry.

"No suggestion is made that farmers should undertake the purchase of feeder pigs unless their individual circumstances indicate that it would be a good investment."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4 (CP).—Wheat futures moved in a narrow range in listless trading on Winnipeg Grain Exchange after moving in a narrow range prices dipped ⅛ to ¾ cents at the close.

Exports of Canadian wheat, estimated earlier at 250,000 bushels, were revised to the 200,000-bushel mark at the close. Liverpool ended ¼d lower to ½d higher and Buenos Aires at noon was ⅛ to ¾ cent off.

A private estimate of Australia's probable wheat production this year of 175,000,000 bushels was more than 36,000,000 bushels higher than actual outturn last year. This was construed as a bearish factor in some quarters.

Another cable report included an official estimate of Germany's wheat crop at 161,000,000 bushels, nearly 10,000,000 below last year's yield and less than domestic consumption.

Cash wheat trading was less active than during previous sessions this week and as a result spreads for tops grades of red Springs eased fractionally. Small sales of No. 2 Durum changed hands at one cent better.

Coarse grains all closed firm after a quiet session.

Knox United Church
Honors Miss B. Morrison

Miss Beatrice Morrison, a popular bride of next Monday, was the guest of honor at a shower and reception held by Knox United church. The ladies' parlors were prettily decorated for the occasion with gladioli and asters, the gifts being presented in a pink and white basket matching the room decorations.

Mrs. Huffman, president of the choir, spoke on behalf of the officers and members, wishing the bride every success in her new home in Toronto, and expressing regret at losing so valuable a member. Miss Morrison was presented with an end table and lamp by Mrs. Huffman as a special gift from the choir. Mr. Gillis, superintendant of the general Sunday School, expressed the regret of the Junior Department in which Miss Morrison has been a teacher for a number of years, and presented her with a leather bound Hymnary. Mr. Morrison from the the Session Mr. George Davis, chairman of the Board, extended the good wishes of the church.

Mrs. Huffman welcomed the Rev. and Mrs. Zufelt to the choir, to which Mr. Zufelt replied on behalf of Mrs. Zufelt and himself, speaking of their appreciation of the choir's kind wishes, and also congratulating Miss Morrison on her approaching marriage. Mr. Potter, organist and choir master, voiced his appreciation of the bride for her years of service.

Two duets sung by Mrs. N. Hughes and John Donaldson were greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served later, coffee being poured by Mrs. Zufelt and Mrs. P. Edwards. The arrangements for the enjoyable occasion were in charge of Mrs. Huffman, Mrs. Mongraw, Mrs. Lewis M. Morton and Miss M. Armstrong.

The guest of honor received gifts of silver, china, cut gass and handpainted pictures.

A new All Saints
In the Far West

All Saints' Church in this city has now a daughter church of the same name in the Diocese of Athabasca. Last year Douglas Paterson, son of Canon J. D. and Mrs. Paterson, went out to the new district of Cherry Point on the Alberta-British Columbia border north of the Peace River and developed a work there to the point where a church was to be erected.

It would have been built last year as all the material was on the property, but a school was under construction by voluntary labor and the two buildings could hardly be erected in one short season in this way. As soon as possible this year the logs were put in place and the church is now completed.

Special gifts were sent out last year, among which is a Holy Table with linen and furnishings donated by the Evening Branch of the W. A. of All Saints', in memory of a former president, Mrs. J. C. Adams. The vessels for the Holy Communion are of pewter annd were the gifts of Canon and Mrs. Paterson; books and other gifts were also sent.

In an article by the Bishop of Athabasca in his diocesan gazette he writes: "This church is to be called All Saints' church after the church of that name in Peterborough, for this eastern church is taking a real and practical interest in this new church back of the beyond."

Hughey—Thompson

A quiet wedding took place in St. Paul's Presbyterian church recently when the Rev. Robert Boyle of Lakefield united in marriage Helen Isabell, youngest daughter of Richard Thompson and the late Mrs. Thompson of North Monaghan, and Ernest James, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hughey of Smith.

The bride wore a costume of navy blue sheer with white accessories. She was attended by her sister, Miss Amy Thompson of Toronto. The groom was attended by his brother, Harvey Hughey of Mitchell, Ontario.

Immedaitely after the ceremony the happy couple left for a short honeymoon. They will reside on the groom's farm in Smith township.

✧ ✧ ✧

Kenny—Martin

TWEED, Sept. 4.—A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the United church, Kingston, when Miss Bernice Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Martin of Fernleigh, was united in marriage to Mr. Andrew Kenney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Kenney, South Mountain, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Seymour of Kingston.

The bride was very charming in navy sheer with white shoes, hat and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Martin of Portsmouth, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, were attendants.

✧ ✧ ✧

Hannifan—Hunt

TWEED, Sept. 4.—A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Charles church, Read, when Miss Rose Hunt became the bride of Mr. Vincent Hannifan, Fr. Carey performed the ceremony.

The attendants were Miss Rita Hannifan, sister of the groom and Mr. Wm. Hunt, brother of the bride.

Russel—Miller

WARSAW, Sept. 4.—An interesting wedding took place in the George Street United Church parsonage at two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 1, when Helena Margaret Miller, eldest daughter of Stuart Miller and the late Mrs. Miller, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony with Thomas George Russel, only son of the late George Russel and Mrs. Russel, by the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Warsaw, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Parr of George Street United Church. The register was signed by the bride's father and one of the groom's sisters, Mrs. George Moore. Only immediate relatives of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony.

After the ceremony the party motored to the Russel Farm and later Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Russel left for a short motor trip to Toronto and other points.

Labor Day For A Dionne Quint

Labor Day rolls 'round again, but this year it is marked by a signal event that no Labor Day ever saw before. Marie Dionne is shown as she made the acquaintance of one of the oldest of labor's tools and occupations, the hammer and carpentry. By the way Marie has both hands swinging the hammer, it looks as if the nail is in for a terrific beating. Careful's the word, Marie! Finer nails have been hit before this.

Sweet Pickled Peaches Or Pears

½ peck peaches or pears
2 lbs. brown sugar
1 pint of vinegar
1 oz. stick cinnamon
1 oz. cloves

Combine sugar, vinegar, and spices (tied in a cheesecloth bag) and bring to boiling point. Wash fruit in warm water and wipe dry. Put into syrup and simmer until soft, using a few at a time, and placing them in sterilized jars or crock as soon as cooked. When fruit is all cooked, boil syrup 3 minutes, and fill jars or pour over fruit in crock. Seal jars or cover crock closely.

GIRLS STOP TRAFFIC

When two Danish girls visited Oslo, Norway, and smoked cigarets on the main street, they attracted so much attention that traffic was stopped. Police took them to headquarters, but could find no law against women smoking, so they were released.

Grandmother Is Crack Shot

Mrs. Agnes M. Mulligan, 71, a grandmother of Fort Lee, N.J., when applying for a permit to own a pistol, was forced to show the authorities that she could use one. Twice she hit the target, 15 yards away, with a 38-calibre police revolver. Mrs. Mulligan was the first woman to receive the degree of Bachelor of Law at New York University.

Department of Health of Ontario

"INFANTILE PARALYSIS"

(POLIOMYELITIS)

The Department of Health has a sufficient supply of Convalescent Serum for present demands. This serum is obtained from persons who have previously suffered from an attack of "infantile paralysis".

In anticipation of further requirements the Department now requests that persons who are willing to provide blood for this purpose (donors) register with the medical officer of health in their district.

The Department remunerates donors on the basis of Ten Dollars for 100 cubic centimeters; the usual amount withdrawn from one donor is 200 cubic centimeters. This can be readily obtained without discomfort or ill effects to the donor.

Children under fourteen years of age are not eligible. Persons who have suffered an attack of the disease during the present year are also not eligible. Those persons fourteen years of age and over who have suffered an attack within the past twenty-five years and who show some definite evidence of resulting paralysis, are requested to provide the medical officer of health with their name and address.

Those who have already acted as donors need not register again.

When a clinic is to be held, donors will be notified through their medical officer of health.

MINISTER OF HEALTH

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"THERE is little hope for the man who feels satisfied with himself, who does not know the 'Divine discontent that stirs the acorn to become an oak.' Many's ambition to improve something somewhere every day, to get a little further on and a little higher up than he was the day before, an insatiable passion for bettering things all along the line, is the secret of human progress."—Dr. Marden.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever make an after-dinner speech? Were you ever an actor or an actress? If you ever did either of these things, you know that you had to rehearse a little or a great deal, depending on what you had to do.

It isn't a bad idea either, to rehearse before a mirror, to see if you do not want to get up and make a fool of yourself by stuttering or halting speech, so, if you are wise, you speak this over to yourself, emphasizing here, and raising your voice in another place, and all this is so that you make things pleasant for those who will hear or see you.

But—did you ever do any rehearsing about your life, trying your utmost so that you will present yourself before the world to the best advantage? It is evident on all sides that a lot of people never even heard of rehearsals.

Why not have one about your preparedness for certain work, why not tell yourself your good and your bad points, being perfectly frank in the doing of it, then set to work to make yourself as much better as you can?

Men are striving every day to better things for the human race, but some of us need to attack things nearer home, before we attempt things of the world. Just as charity should begin at home, so should improvements, and it would be a real charity to others if we began on ourselves.

Just as an audience sees most of the play, and the players see only their parts, so do those we meet see our performance better than we do ourselves. And just as it needs good performers to make a play or a movie succeed, so it needs good performers on the stage of life if we too are to make a success of it.

And how better could we do that than by rehearsals, getting a grasp of what it is all about, not paying so much attention to how the other fellow is going to play his part, but seeing that we are letter-perfect, that we can give a good performance, and not throwing things out of joint.

It is only at times when we look in the mirror that we see our own expression, but everyone else sees it no matter how casually they look. The same with our work. We get so accustomed to it we treat it casually but all the world is our audience, whether we meet up with few or many.

A good all-round performer is never out of a job, because they rehearse, they have this "Divine discontent" so that always they want to excel the previous performance. There is a growly discontent which is always complaining but does nothing about it, unless to blame things on everyone else but themselves.

But the real kind seeks perfection, and in the seeking achieves something worthwhile. So, look in at yourself, look at the work of your hands or brain, rehearse again and again, and see yourself slowly but surely rise to the heights you desire.

What is worse than slipshod work, in the home or anywhere else? Take a pride in what you are doing, whether it be making a pie, raising stock, typing in an office, or what have you? Take a pride in yourself, your appearance, your speech, your mode of walking, how you sit or stand, what you read, your gestures, and see after rehearsals how much you have improved. Use Divine Discontent for your betterment, and see how much brighter life will be for you.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Breakfast Dishes Are Easily Varied

Do you serve the same breakfast day in and day out just because your husband and the men in your family have accepted fruit, toast and coffee—with an egg and breakfast cereal for occasional variety that does not mean they they have no desire for any other breakfast dishes. So vary the program and serve a hearty meal, especially on Sunday, suggests Byron MacFadyen, in Good Housekeeping.

He suggests you go the limit and serve the meal in courses. If you start with fruit juice, be sure to have it well chilled. Then don't forget that cereal belongs in breakfasts of this sort. A crisp, ready-to-eat cereal or one of those delicious piping hot kinds is always welcome served with rich milk or cream. Have you ever eaten a ready-to-eat cereal with a baked apple or applesauce? If you haven't—you've a treat in store. Try it with lots of top milk or cream, suggests Mr. MacFadyen.

Don't overlook jellies and jams. They are just as important in a course breakfast as salted nuts, olives and celery are in a course dinner. Although one kind of jelly or jam will do, there's more appeal in serving three or four, such as marmalade, strawberry jam and apple jelly. Then plan your main course dish. For instance, something new and extra nice is creamed chipped beef kidney stew. Serve with hot cereal and bananas, plenty of muffins and good coffee—and you have a grand breakfast.

Control of Radio In Homes Urged

THE RADIO, like many other recent inventions, has great possibilities for effectual education and home recreation. Sometimes it educates in directions not desirable, and affords recreation which we parents disapprove. But always we have the privilege to turn the dial, or have it turned.

Nevertheless, in most homes children over six either persuade their parents to allow them to listen to what these youngsters like most, or adjust the dial themselves, regardless of their parents' wishes or forbiddings. Or, disallowed to tune in on certain programs at home, these children may go to hear them in a neighbor's home—adding serious complications.

If you child or mine listens in to programs we are sure are harmful to him, we might as well admit that we have failed seriously in parental control somewhere along the line. For our own children's sake I see no good reason why we should put the blame on the broadcasting station. But if we are socially minded and have regard for the children in homes where parental control is not well established—that means most homes, I suppose—we have a moral obligation to protest vigorously.

No Radio at Meals

The more fundamental problem, however, is the one of parent education for reasonable parental control. Unfortunately, as I see it, most parent educators, in books and articles and lectures, not only have ignored restraints essential to control, but have condemned such control as dangerous to the child's personality. Imagine a parent keeping a child of eight from a blood-curdling program by appealing to his reason!

Where there are very young children, let there be only soft, quiet music of good quality while they are awake; the same for the family at meals—preferably no radio then.

Worst harm from radio seems to come in homes where a station is dialed and allowed to run on loudly and continuously, willy nilly. Wise parents made it a rule to dial intelligently and never to have the radio on when conversation is likely or desirable.

We parents ought to be able to cultivate taste for good music in our children by beginning to expose them very, very young to the best. And there is much good music on the air.

Picnic Palaver

By MARY MOORE

BECAUSE they are both fat and because they can both be put in one pot, and because I can tell Audrey how to do it and don't have to go back to the kitchen until time to go on the picnic, I think both Brunswick Stew (with chicken you know) and Chili Con Carne make perfect hot dishes for out of door meals—especially if you are going to swim or hike and know you will have a hungry crowd to feed.

I do not intend repeating detailed directions for Brunswick Stew just now, but you will get the flavor if you have a big chicken in the pot, some tomatoes, some onions, some potatoes, and some green beans and salt and pepper. (Seems a travesty on such a grand dish to describe it so off-handedly but I don't want to risk your criticism by repeating it too often.)

Last Sunday with this we served fresh 4-inch cumbers cut in quarters lengthwise, whole small chilled tomatoes, and a fruit cup of sliced peaches, pears and seedless green grapes, all made tart with lime juice, and all made sweet with corn syrup. The fruit cup "wow-ed" 'em! (I feel hard-boiled because I just show-ed some boys out of our pear tree.

The Chili Con Carne is merely a matter of satuating some chopped up onions and possibly some green peppers in butter, adding ground beef, and after about 5 minutes adding a can of tomatoes or 2 or 3 cups chopped fresh ones, letting this simmer for about 1 hour and lastly adding salt and pepper and as much chili powder as your tongue can stand. Serve with Rye Rolls.

Influence Of The Aunts and Uncles

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

SOME IN-LAWS are assets; others are liabilities. It would seem that the parents' parents and the parents' brothers and sisters ought to be assets always in the bringing up of a family. They have a human interest, a family pride in the growing children, and they have, particularly the grandparents have, rich years of experience upon which to draw. But they are liabilities sometimes, so far as the children are concerned, especially when living near or in the same family with the children. On the other hand, when in-laws are so far removed physically as to come into the home of the children only occasionally, and never for long periods of time, their influence may be very salutary. They are, for instance, available to help in emergencies, to give comfort in times of distress, and to offer counsel when it is welcomed.

Those parents who cut themselves and their children off entirely from their kindred merely to be independent, divest themselves and their children, in almost every instance, of great values. Be it added that in some instances in-laws right in the home prove a great blessing to the family.

On the other hand, visiting in-laws are inclined to bring too many gifts to the children and, where there are several children, to betray strong favoritisms, arousing jealousies.

Uncle Teases.

The uncle is prone to tease the child most easily annoyed, just to see him grow angry. For this offense he ought to be asked by the parents never to return again unless he will desist from such destructive pastime. The aunt may be over-critical of the manners of the children, expecting unreasonable conventions in them; though she also may raise the standards of the family in matters of culture. If she lives in the family she may cultivate small confidences with the brother-father or sister-mother, leading unawares into small or large intrigues against the other married member.

The unmarried uncle under the same roof is less likely to do so, but may be over-indulgent or over-critical of the children. He also may degenerate into a grouch, complaining about the food and the home program in general.

Married aunts and uncles who have children are tempted to start fires of jealousy and to fan their flame. If their children do not seem quite so alert, or do not get on so well educationally, socially or vocationally, as their nephews and nieces, they are likely to engage in all sorts of conduct and remarks to depreciate in their own esteem these little relatives, and to exalt the virtues and achievements of their own children. How hard it is for any of us to be sportsman-like toward the distinction and attainments of our nieces and nephews who excel those in our own children.

Foot Rules for Housewives

These rules for foot comfort are given by Ruth Murrin, beauty editor of Good Housekeeping magazine:

1. Wear shoes that fit well and give your toes plenty of room. Don't wear shoes with extremely pointed toes or extremely high heels.

2. Be sure your stockings are slightly longer than your feet when you are standing. Many women who buy well-fitted shoes ruin their feet with short-footed stockings.

3. Keep your shoes in good repair. Never walk on run-down heels.

4. Change your shoes at least twice a day if you can, and slip shoe forms into them when they are not being worn.

5. Learn to carry yourself properly. Bad posture is the chief cause of painful, ugly feet.

Orpington Road Man Labors For Security Aided By Board

from Orpington Road, but this summer the blue punt with its pointed bow is not likely to be moved from the spot along the fence where it was unloaded from Peterborough.

No Time For Boating

When you have to be out by six in the moning or at the latest six-thirty, and battle along all day against the weeds and such necessities as cultivating, fertilizing and so on, you can't even think of such little luxuries as boating, not if you really want to own the bloomin's land.'

Probably this should be more pointedly a story about the new "market garden experimental settlement scheme," but if you were to see those seven ex-service men and their families, and the job they have undertaken, and catch the infection of their buoyant spirits you become more interested in the personal element of the promising effort rather than in the muck land that was cleared of its poplar last Spring, and other physical features along the Camp Borden Road.

Alf Hawkins enlisted at Peterborough with the 21st Battalion. His war service brought him a small pension. Looking at him you get the idea that he is a man of industry; not quite medium height; lean and wiry. Years ago he helped lay the pavement on Hunter street; and he did other jobs around the city, incding seven years with the Canadian General Electric Company. Health impaired by his experience overseas forced him to quit the big shop, and apparently he likes to mention that he quit of his own accord. Then he has been doing quite a bit of gardening in recent years, probably he always has; in fact he seems to be the type of Englishman who is happiest when he is hoeing among the vegetables and freshening up the ground in his flower beds.

And if Hawkins is 115 miles from the old Orpington Road spot he is not far removed from its type of soil. In fact the property chosen for the settlement scheme is remarkably similar in appearance, at any rate, to the section in North Monaghan along the north side of the road running west from Crawford's Grove, especially the poplar and black muck stretch between the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. And Hawkins happens to be at one end of the settlement where the property rises slightly, lifting into a sandy loam through some of his acres; very much like the land around Orpington Road.

The Commission

The members of the Soldiers' Aid Commission under whom Alf Hawkins and his recently acquired neighbors are working are: Captain E. A. Baker, O.B.E., M.C.; Major-General V. A. S. Williams, C.M.G., Toronto; Colonel T. J. Rutherford, E.D., Owen Sound; Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., Peterborough; Major F. R. Palmer, St. Thomas; Charles J. Brown, Toronto; Dr. Walter F. Charteris, Chatham; T. Summers Wilson, Sudbury and Colonel W. Rhoades, D.S.O., M.C., Director.

The history of this Commission is of no special interest in relation to the market gardening scheme. When the personnel was revised by the Hepburn government, and the policies reduced to a basis of strict economy, the Commissioners began to cast about for a practical plan for assisting veterans of the war, particularly men with small pensions, to become entirely self-supporting. A great deal of time and thought and enquiry was expended on this proposal and even then it did not seem destined for early transference into reality; but it was ready and at hand for use when the Hon. David Croll announced his approval of a practical undertaking a year or so ago when plans for soldier settlement were being urged.

Colonel T. J. Rutherford of Owen Sound recommended the purchase of the property in Innisfil township, Simcoe county, on which the Commission has proceeded with its market gardening experiment. He had the advantage of knowing the quality of the land and of knowing what it might be expected to produce. He and Col Dewart were appointed a special committee, and their investigations ranged over the results of other soldiers' settlement schemes. With this background as guidance, they finally focussed their attention on the available 363 acres of poplar bush, including some spruce and cedar, on the Camp Borden Road, one mile west of Allandale.

Good Gardening Land

Soil tests confirmed the opinion of the Commissioners. George Rush of the Horticultural Branch of the Department of Agriculture told the Commission he was willing to stake his reputation that no better land for gardening purposes could be found anywhere else in Ontario. An analysis made by the Ontario Agricultural College showed it to be similar if not superior to other well - decomposed muck soils now successfully used for market gardening, and an opinion was given that it is superior to clay or sandy loam.

The property consists of 363 acres of which 323 acres is black muck, the remaining forty being sandy loam. The property including a frame house and barn.

With this information and other complete details regarding the proposed purchase, the committee was prepared to present a report of their investigations. It was approved by the Commission, and also by the Department of Welfare, and last April the Government appropriated $10,000 for the settlement project. Contracts were let for clearing sufficient land, and building seven frame houses which with the farm house were to be provided for eight ex-service men and their families.

These men were selected from different parts of the province on the recommendation of local branches of ex-service men's organizations and the Canadian Legion. The land and buildings were ready for them within a month, and their occupancy began around the first of June.

On the occasion of the Examiner's recent visit seven of the eight men had already made an encouraging beginning. The eighth man abandoned his house and lot, finding the work and rural surroundings unsuitable to his experience.

The other men are as follows: Elwood Elliott, 39, Owen Sound, with the 4th C.M.R. overseas, had worked on farm, and in a factory, and latterly had a milk route until pasteurization forced him out of business. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott have one child.

William Thomas Banks, 49, Sydenham, Grey county; enlisted with the 177th battalion and transferred to the 2nd C.M.R.; farmed since 1912, except during the period of his war service, and five years with the Owen Sound hydro; has wife and eight children ranging from 14 years to 3 years.

Stephen Thomas Gapp, 43, Dundas, Ont., with the 35th battery C.F.A.; engaged in mixed farming prior to the war, and market gardening since then; has wife and five children whose aged are from 16 years to 7.

Norman Sisson, 41, Windsor, Ont., 18th battalion, worked on farm and in automobile factory; has wife and six children ranging from 15 years to 4.

Herman Kohne, 38, Etobicoke, Long Branch, Ont., with 203rd battalion; born on farm, worked in fruit gardens for last few years; wife and five children from 13 years to 20 months.

Robert Scott, 49, Scarboro, Ont., 16th battalion; upholsterer before the war; farmed for a time and was subsequently a saleman; recently out of work has wife and six children ranging from 19 years to 5.

Alfred Hawkins, 46, Peterborough, 21st battalion, worked C.G.E. Company, has wife and seven children.

These men are war pensioners except Mr. Elliott. The members of the Commission present on the recent visit to the settlement were Colonel Rhoades, Colonel Rutherford, and Lt. Col. Dewart, the latter of whom observed the progress that had been made during his absence while attending the Coronation.

The Commission's plan of transferring ownership calls for a cash payment of $100 by each applicant as a pledge of good faith, the remainder to be spread over eleven years, when the settlers acquire complete possession of their property and dwellings. Allotments of land will average from seven to ten acres, and the project contemplates an ultimate settlement of probably fifty families, depending upon the results of the present experiments as shown by the success of the first two years' marketing operations.

A. B. Reid of Leamington, a second year student at the Ontario Agricultural College, was appointed by the Commission as supervisor of the gardening scheme for this summer, chiefly to advise and assist the men in the various phases of their work. All of them had vegetables ready for marketing when the Commission visited the settlement recently, and purchase of a suitable truck was authorized to promote the sale of the produce. In this important detail, Mr. Reid was instructed to assume charge for the present, taking with him one or other of the older boys in making the rounds of the populous summer resorts on Lake Simcoe, Lake Couchiching, Wasago Beach, Honey Harbor and possibly the Muskoka Lakes, and also in Barrie and other nearby towns.

A survey of the gardens after from only four to six weeks' work was regarded as a practical demonstration that the soil possesses all the fertility that was anticipated. Some of the lots had been but recently claimed from the poplar bush leaving shallow roots which will require another year or two to clear away; but all of them presented splendid crops of potatoes, head lettuce, carrots, beets, cabbage and other vegetables. Several of the men have planted strawberries that are already flourishing.

Finding of Markets

The finding of markets now and in the future seemed to be the major problem because there is no longer any doubt that vegetables can be produced in increasing quantities. The hopeful spirit of the men and their determination to make good, step by step, was an inspiration to the visiting Commissioners. These ex-service settlers were planning a meeting to decide upon a trade name or brand for their produce, and they were naturally concerned about the disposal of their first crop, although it could hardly be expected that the present season's yield would be a true criterion of the potential development of the settlement and the returns from it by the time the soil has been thoroughly cleared of the remnant roots of poplars and tag elders.

Incidentally, the Commissioners began negotiations with the public school inspector of the district for accommodation for the children of the settlement, probably at a nearby rural school. They were also assured that for the present the assessment of the property will remain unchanged with the taxes of about $50.

Fifty-five acres are now under cultivation, and one hundred acres of bush should provide fuel for five or six years as the land is gradually cleared. A line of the C.N.R. traverses the settlement, and beyond the railway two springs assure an ample water supply even in dry seasons. Pumps have been driven beside each house and apparently were giving satisfaction to each household.

Houses All the Same

The seven new houses are of dentical size and design with a large living room, three bedrooms, kitchen, a smaller room, and also a wide verandah. Telephone and electric light services are available, and with adequate water supply, drainage, fuel, proximity to school and also to the town of Barrie, all the ordinary requirements of a family are provided for.

Alf Hawkins and his family are located in a house at the west end of the settlement where the land is a sandy loam trailing off to black muck in the lower area, toward the railway. The house has been painted and is just about the most attractive in the settlement. His land is well worked, promises exceptionally abundant crops of vegetables, and apparently he has succeeded in the daily battle with the tireless weeds even better than his neighbors. The men of the colony all seem to be unanimous in their confidence that there is a future ahead of them in this experiment, and none of them is more determined than Mr. Hawkins in his resolve to dig himself into security for the future on this property, most of which only a few months ago was a poplar bush in the black muck.

On the opposite side of the road a Belgian, Frank Straetman, has shown that it can be done, for in the same type of soil he has earned a substantial competence since he bought nine acres in 1934 at $25 an acre. He has his place nearly all paid for with a new motor truck, tractor, house and several other buildings.

But as Mr. Reid of the O.A.C. says, it is no light task. That kind of progress demands persistent work and although the little colony of ex-service men are pensioners, indicating more or less they are what the veterans call "old crocks" they have already accomplished enough this summer to warrant their hopes and plans of acquiring permanent homes for themselves and their families on a stretch of what used to be a poplar swamp. They have the will and the ambition to work, and if they develop markets for their produce their future seems assured.

The Soldiers' Aid Commission is assisting them as much as possible this summer, having provided scufflers and other necessary implements, fertilizer, and a helpful personal interest, but the scheme is intended to withdraw as soon as possible any spirit of paternalism that might linger, and leave the men to their own self-sufficiency.

Talks to the People — J. H. Burnham

The true issue at the coming election is whether or not the people will back up the "closed shop" which means that union labor demands that all employers shall employ only those who are members of the Union and under its control and close out the others. The closed shop is a revival of the guilds of the middle ages which closed all employment to those not members of the guilds and that meant that when organized labour had enough seeking employment it refused both membership and employment to the rest who were thus driven to beggary or to highway robbery. The Closed Shop is not a solution of the Labour Question. Employers do not care since they add increases to increased prices but the man or woman not admitted to the union becomes an outcast and an untouchable. The closed shop was the origin of Hindu castes in China it is the infamous "tongs" (gangs), the "racketeers" in America. I think Labour will agree. The common man must not be crushed. It was only after a great and bloody war that the farmers of England destroyed the farm-labourers' "closed shop" dictatorship.

Why Use A "Sissy" Laxative?

Chronic constipation has to do with the colon or large intestine. Unless the large bowel is thoroughly emptied from time to time you become a victim of chronic constipation and poisoning of the system which results in colitis or other serious diseases.

Mild or "sissy" laxatives merely cause a movement of the bowels without effecting a thorough cleaning out of the colon or large bowel. For this reason you are misled into thinking that you are doing all you can to overcome a constipated and poisoned condition of the system.

Those who know Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills appreciate the value of a real medicine which not only effects a thorough cleansing of the colon or large bowel but also arouses the liver and kidneys to activity in filtering poisons from the blood.

Once you have proven the merits of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you will never return to the use of "sissy" laxatives. Used regularly once a week this medicine ensures pure blood and freedom from constipation and the pains, aches and serious diseases which accompany it.

Man Who Works Hard, Harder To Kill Claims Aged Workman

Mr. and Mrs. William Sandiford Celebrate Their 56th Wedding Anniversary.

"I always say that the man who has worked hard is harder to kill. And I have never had any soft jobs during my lifetime," declared seventy-eight-year-old William Sandiford, 6 New Romaine street in attributing his present sound health to industrious living.

Mr. Sandiford and his wife, the former Lucy Jane Hosker, also in her 78th year, on Friday quietly observed the 56th anniversary of their wedding. They were united in marriage at St. Andrew's Church, Higher Blakely, near Manchester on September 3, 1881.

Although he has been in Peterborough for twenty-nine years, Mr. Sandiford's accent still betrays his Lancashire origin. He thinks Canada a fine country and has no desire to return to his native land. Since coming to this city Mr. Sandiford was variously employed by the Colonial Weaving Company and the Canadian General Electric Company. He retired from the latter factory at the age of seventy-one years, but in his own words, "I would have been working yet if times had not become bad."

His leisure time is spent in his garden and in doing chores around the house. But there is one thing he will not do and that is buckaw wood, the old gentleman declared.

Paying tribute to his wife as "one of the very best," Mr. Sandiford told a reporter you can say "we have both been strivers." He owns his own house and lot, and the couple have raised a family of four daughters and three sons. They have also twenty-five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Their family consists of: Mrs. W. McLaren, Mrs. C. Francis and Mrs. A. Marshall all of this city; Mrs. W. Yates and Charles and Richard, all of Toronto and Oliver in England. Charles and Oliver are twins, it was stated.

BOY BACK HOME MISSING 2 DAYS

Miss for two days, Gordon Scriver, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Scriver, 231 Crescent street was found by a neighbor of the family wandering about in the business section, this morning.

Reunited with his distraught parents who had made wide enquiry in their search for the lad in addition to having police broadcast a radio appeal over a Toronto station, the boy spent one night in a box car and another night on the lacrosse grounds, according to the explanation he gave his father.

Obviously tired and unstrung by his experience the lad sobbed violently when a reporter attempted to question him as to his movements and reasons for running away.

His most immediate needs appeared to be a good bath, some nourishment and sleep. He had only one sandwich during his prolonged absence from the family circle, he told his dad.

HEPBURN MEETING ARMOURIES SEPT. 13

The Liberal executive has received complete information regarding the visit of Premier Hepburn to Peterborough as the outstanding feature of Alex L. Elliott's campaign in this riding.

The premier will speak at the armouries on Monday evening, September 13 at 8.30 standard time. In fact city and country will have their clocks ticking in tune again after Labor Day night. The fact that Mr. Hepburn is one of the most vivid personalities in Canadian political life, that he is now giving his first account of stewardship, and seeking to remain in charge of the administration of this office, will no doubt assure a large attendance for this meeting which will also serve to bring Mr. Elliott before the public for the first time since his nomination.

ADVERTISING CITY IN FINANCIAL POST

The manufacturers committee of the council last night decided to take a full page advertisement in the mid-September special supplement of the Financial Post, which will feature advantages of industrial conditions in Canada, for distribution in the United States. The cost to the council is $250, and it is expected that ten local manufacturers will buy part of the space at a total outlay of $250, thereby co-operating with the city in advertising that is regarded as non-productive except in the creation of goodwill and publicity for Peterborough as a whole.

Hugh Kennedy, representing the Financial Post informed the council that he had already sold space to five local manufacturers, and expected to complete the page by Tuesday.

The whole idea of the supplement had been inspired by a visiting American who was impressed by Canada, and pointed out that American manufacturers were considering more positively than ever the location of branch plants in this country as a result of the disturbances caused by John L. Lewis and the C.I.O. There had been more enquiries with the government, the banks and other centres of information during the last six months than during the previous four years.

ARMY HAS REVOLTED.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4. (AP)—A central Chinese news agency dispatch from Kweihua today asserted the entire second division of the Manchoukuoan army stationed in north Chahar Province had revolted against the Japanese and declared its allegiance to the Nanking government. The dispatch said the revolt was led by Divisional Commander Yinpaoson and Chief of Staff Chuchenyua.

MORE WEAKNESS THAN STRENGTH IS SHOWN ON MARKET

TORONTO, Sept. 4—(CP). —If Canadian stock markets have a fall advance in store they continue to conceal the fact, although the holidaying season is about over. The last week found Canadian markets, acting in harmony with the New York and London markets, displaying more weakness than strength. The Toronto financial district has no explanation for the market's disappointing showing, but war fears draws repeated mention to the comment.

Noranda and International Nickel dropped back to $59 this week compared with a top of $73.25 for nickel for the year and $83 for Noranda. Both are around their level in September of last year. Consolidated Mining and Smelting declined $1.50 in the last week, Hudson Bay was down 50 cents and the cheaper issues of the group posted smaller losses.

Gold Had Dull Week.

The gold shares had a dull week on the whole with prices easing off about 2¼ points in the index. O'Brien was sold in quantity on Thursday on a drop to a new low for the year at $4.85. Partial recovery was staged on Friday but the stock shows a net loss for the week of 40 cents at $5.15. Macassa weakened 25 cents and narrow losses were collected by Pioneer, Little Long Lac, Central Patricia, Biscoe, Canadian Malartic, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Hard Rock and Stadacona. Dome Lake Shore and McIntyre lost 50 to 75 cents each. Bralorne came along with a gain of 85 cents on dividend news.

The selling increased in a group of the interlisted leaders of the industrial section at moderate declines. Hiram Walker Common lost $1.50 to $46.50 and Distillers-Seagrams was down slightly to $20.75. Brazilian registered a drop of 90 cents and recessions of 65 cents each appeared for C.P.R. and Ford of Canada. The Rails closed yesterday at $10.75, a new low point for the year.

Losses were more pronounced in the Steel group. Both Steel of Canada issues declined about $6 and substantial losses were boarded for the Bridge issues, Page Hersey and Pressed Metals. Foods and Building shares trailed the list downward.

JEWISH NEW YEAR STARTS ON SUNDAY

Once a season of altar sacrifices, now a time of penitence, prayer and self-scrutiny, Rosh Hashonah, Jewish New Year 5698 will be ushered in at sundown on Sunday evening. It will be observed for two days with special services in the Aylmer street Synagogue on Sunday evening, and throughout Monday and Tuesday.

Rabbi A. Fine who will officiate at the special services, said divine justice and human responsibility are the subjects of critical thought during Rosh Hashonah, when family ties are strengthened and friendships renewed.

Special messages for the occasion are to be delivered by Rabbi N. Katz of Toronto.

"Rosh Hashonah is a complete cessation of everyday business and other occupations", Rabbi Fine declared. "Because of the customs and habits of this country the Jewish workers are compelled to work on their Sabbath, but Rosh Hashonah supersedes even the Sabbath itself, and is so important a Holy Day is it, that no Jew of any country will fail to rest on this occasion, because it is a period set aside not only in order to afford the Jewish people an opportunity to forget their daily task, but also for them to reflect on past deeds and conduct toward God and man".

During the week-end services prayers will be offered in the Synagogue for the welfare of their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Royal family and for the British Empire, while supplication will be made for the establishment of peace in Europe on behalf of all races and creeds, particularly significant in view of the turn of current events in the old world.

COUNCIL PUZZLED BY WIDOW'S RENT

If you were a member of the city council, what would you do in this case, having in mind that you are a trustee representing the ratepayers, and that you are sworn to do your duty?

A widow of about 64 owned a three-house terrace. She has one grown-up son. The city acquired the property by the process of uncollected taxes, and the widow became a tenant. The section she occupies rents for $16 a month, but already arrears amount to $300. Several months ago the council decided that the woman would have to move, and legal action was taken to evict her, if necessary.

The job of interviewing the woman was left to Mayor Macdonald. She asked for a month's extension of tenancy, saying that she would find another place. That was granted, but nothing happened. Then she asked for a week or two; and again nothing happened. Time has been moving on, but in view of the fact that the woman once owned the property Mayor Macdonald simply hadn't the heart to refuse her appeals for delay. Recently she promised to begin paying rent if she could remain, but that involved a legal point of nullifying the order that had been obtained for getting possession of the house.

So what would you do if you were one of the aldermen? Would you send the bailiff or sheriff down there and evict the woman and her son, putting their furniture out on the street? Would you do nothing about the mountain arrears of taxes? Would you wipe out the debt of $300 and tell the woman to stay in the place and make a new agreement with her for rent from now on, and take a chance on getting it?

The council is just as sentimental as you are, and extremely reluctant to evict. They have a notion to try to sell the terrace, but for the present they may agree to a new deal in rent payment, and forget the old debt.

Trades And Labor Council Asks Investigation Into Action Of Police During Woollen Strike

Public Inquiry By Neutral Parties Demanded in Resolution.

To the Trades and Labor Council the conduct of police during the textile strike was "ludicrous" according to a resolution passed at their meeting with T. J. McMurray in the chair, at which they petitioned the city council for a neutral investigation of the outstanding incidents.

The text of the resolution follows:

"We protest the introduction of Provincial Police in the recent disturbance between police and the employees of the Bonner-Worth Woollen Mills who were on strike, and request that a full and complete public inquiry by neutral parties be instituted by the city council, as representative of the citizens of Peterborough, in all and every circumstance relative to the unfortunate occurrence for the following reasons:

We find in fact:

First: The number of strikers did not exceed two hundred.

Second: The majority of the strikers were young women.

Third: None of the strikers were armed or carried weapons in any sense of the word. This is attested to by the fact that none of the strikers taken into custody by the police have been charged with carrying arms.

Fourth: The police freely used batons and tear gas against the defenceless strikers whose numbers were comparatively small and the majority of whom were young women.

We understand not less than twenty Provincial Police (this number stands to be corrected in point of fact) were brought in to reinforce the city police, and in view of the foregoing facts we are of opinion that a great error has been committed by some one.

Chief Newhall is a man of wide and varied experience not only in Canada, but in some of the great cities of England, to wit, that great city of old London, with a dense population equal almost to the entire population of the whole Dominion of Canada.

In that same City of London Chief Newhall must have gained valuable experience in handling mobs, not of one or two hundred, without arms, the majority of whom were young women; but of many thousands the great majority of whom were resolute men, and that without the use of batons and certainly no tear gas; the only weapons brought into play by those police being tact, discretion, and common sense; the baton being resorted to in the last extremity.

Therefore, in view of Chief Newhall's experience and known ability, we cannot conceive that a request for reinforcements came from his department to handle one or two hundred defenceless strikers, the majority of whom, as previously mentioned, were young women.

The whole ludicrous affair raises the question whether our local police is an efficient force to protect our citizens (their primary duty) without outside interference, the brandishing of batons, and the bellicose tear-bomb.

Hence the reason for the request that a full and complete public inquiry be instituted, without delay, into the whole affair, in order to place the responsibility for the error where it belongs, and so vindicate the honour, integrity, and efficiency of Chief Newhall and his staff.

A copy of this resolution be sent to the city clerk and the mayor.

SAILED FOR CANADA.

SOUTHAMPTON. — Lord Chief Justice Hewart and Lady Hewart sailed for Canada today in the liner Empress of Britain. "It is a long-promised holiday and we look forward to the trip very much," Lord Hewart said.

CANADA UNITED IN ITS ANNUAL LABOR HOLIDAY

TORONTO, Sept. 4—(CP).—In a red-letter year for strikes, lockouts and sit-downs Labor Day emerges Monday, nationally dedicated to organized labor, but like the traditional "bank" holidays in England, observed in Canada by people of all classes.

Celebration of Labor Day this year is the 44th in Canada and the United States. Agitation for a legal holiday on this continent was started 55 years ago by the Knights of Labor and other unions and workingmen's organizations. There were demonstrations in New York in 1882, 1963 and 1884 and in Montreal and Toronto in 1885 and 1886.

The Knights of Labor under that name passed out of existence in 1894 but by that time the demand in Canada for the proclamation of a labor holiday was nearing the status of a political issue. In the same year the United States' Congress provided a Labor Day for the citizens of the republic.

Sir John Thompson, then Canadian prime minister, introduced a similar measure in the House of Commons. It named Sept. 1 as the annual statutory Labor Day and was subsequently passed. Later on, to make a long week-end, the holiday was fixed for the first Monday in September.

Organized labor's celebration with parades, meetings and speeches continued the principal factor but the holiday, last of the summer months, proved generally popular.

The modern Labor Day in North America recalls that of the middle ages in England when processions were staged by trades guilds to obtain recognition of the honorable position of the workingman in mediaeval society and to show their pride of craftsmanship.

Later the May 1 activities developed in the old lands, generally with a radically political objective and marked by conflicts with authority not contemplated in the more constitutionally inclined Labor Day proceedings in North America.

BARNS ARE BURNED CAVAN TOWNSHIP

(Examiner Correspondence)

IDA, Sept. 4.—Three barns in Cavan district were struck by lightning and burned yesterday afternoon and evening in severe electrical storms which swept this district.

The barn, sheds, pig pen and henhouse, belonging to William Hooton on the 12th Line of Cavan, a mile and a quarter north-east of Ida, were destroyed in the afternoon. Mrs. Hooton was alone at the time, and it was some time before neighbors at a threshing were on the scene to assist in saving goods. Included in the loss were 250 bushels of oats, 350 bushels of threshed wheat, five horses—including a purebred Clydesdale mare and also a foal—four calves, and the winter feed. Some insurance is carried.

On Friday night the barn of Arnold Bidgood, Ebenezer, on the 12th line of Cavan, about four miles west of Ida, was struck by a bolt and burned to the ground. A few pigs and a calf were lost, as well as 200 hens.

A barn owned by Al Cathcart, 10th Concession of Cavan, was destroyed during the afternoon storm. The barn on the adjacent farm to the homestead was filled with hay.

Population Of World Quadrupled In Past 237 Years Professor Says

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Sept. 4.—(CP).—The number of people on this earth has quadrupled since the beginning of the 18th century, Professor C. B. Fawcett said today in an address to the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Prof. Fawcett is president of the geography section.

In 1700, the population of the word probably did not number 800,000,000 he said. But the present population is 2,000,000,000.

The European peoples have multiplied at least sixfold in the last 235 years, and there is reason to believe that the Chinese and the people of India have at least trebled their numbers in the same period. As far as very scanty evidence goes, Prof. Fawcett said, the population of Africa has decreased rather than increased in that time.

Prof. Fawcett, speaking on the changing distribution of population, noted the steadily increasing "drift to the towns." Since 1800 greater London and greater New York have each doubled their populations, while the number of people in Tokyo has been quadrupled and in Shanghai the increase has been tenfold.

PROHIBIT POSTING OF BILLS ON POLES IN NEW BY-LAW

At the request of the Utilities Commission the Board of Works Friday night authorized preparation of a bylaw to prohibit the posting of bills on poles carrying the Commission's power lines, also on Hydro and Bell Telephone Company poles and on trees.

An application from the E. L. Ruddy Company to erect new sign boards was referred to City Engineer Parsons for a report at next Tuesday's meeting of the council. The proposed locations are the Chamberlain estate at the northwest corner of George and Townsend streets, R. H. Turner's property on the east side of Water street north, and two on the lot south of Sherbrooke and on the east side of George street.

Referring to the practice of nailing and sticking signs on posts and trees Alderman Stocker said the city had a good evening newspaper, and there was no need of making the streets unsightly with these signs.

David Rice and Frank Kearney asked for drainage at the corner of Ross and Dufferin streets to carry off surface water that seeps into cellars in that neighborhood. Mr. Parsons was asked for a report and recommendation by Tuesday night.

Mayor Macdonald, Alderman McIntyre, Cotton and Glover were appointed a special committee to draft a new bylaw regulating the engagement of dog catchers and setting forth their duties. A bill was received from Dr. Herbert Young for $20 for attending C. W. Holland, who has been employed as a dog catcher all summer. It was explained that Mr. Holland met with the injury in the performance of duty.

Want Sewer Service

On behalf of residents of Charlotte street west, in North Monaghan, Bruce Johnston, clerk of the township, asked for the extension of the city's sewer and water connections. Mr. Parsons was instructed to submit a report as to the cost of these services and where they should be laid.

Completion of the government's improvement of Crescent street prompted a resolution by Alderman Glover, seconded by Alderman Stocker, inviting Harry Moore of the horticultural branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture to survey the bank from the end of Lake street to the cemetery gate and recommend a plan of beautification. While he is here he will also be asked to suggest improvements to Armour Hill.

"The federal government has made a splendid job of the rip-rap bank," Alderman Hamilton said, "and it is up to us to finish it."

Some of the ideas under consideration include widening of a section of the street leading to the Little Lake cemetery, removal of most of the old trees and replanting new ones, building a curb, and grading the ground between the proposed curb and the top of the bank.

Some action may be taken to control the building of small boat landing which have appeared since the stone work was completed. The provincial government owns that part of the water front, but negotiations are under way to transfer its rights to the city.

50 TONS TOMATOES HANDLED DAILY

Luscious tomatoes, big and red, are rolling by the truckload into the Canada Packers plant here throughout the day and night now for the tomato canning season is at its height. More than 50 tons of the juicy vegetables are being handled at the company each 24 hours.

The problem of cramming an industrial production which could be nicely spread over an entire year if nature permitted, into a period of three to four weeks is being met at Canada Packers by the employment of 80 men and women specifically on tomato canning, Manager Gordon S. Matthews explained today. The tomatoes must be taken at their finest stage of ripening. Particularly pressing is the rush this season, high temperatures of the past several days having advanced ripening.

"The unusual heat has ripened tomatoes more rapidly than usual but the quality has never been better than this year," Mr. Matthews said. He estimated that tomato canning would be over in another two weeks.

Each day, about 2,000 bushels of tomatoes are being canned or converted to tomato juice at the factory. Twenty percent of the tomatoes ar ebrought in the immediate Peterborough district and the remainder obtained from the Port Hope and Cobourg region.

Il Duce Will Meet Hitler On Monday

BERLIN, Sept. 4.— (AP) — Nazi party convention preparations today paved the way for Premier Mussolini's impending face-to-face meeting with his closest collaborator—Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Strengthening of Italo-German relations and open inclusion of the Spanish insurgent regime of General Franco in the Fascist bloc of nations were expected to be important developements of the Nazi convention that opens in Nuremberg Monday.

Soon thereafter Mussolini will come for a portentous visit with Hitler. Official announcements said he would make his visit in the last half of this month upon the invitation of Der Fuehrer.

Hitler's own mouthpiece, Voelkischer Beobachter, hailed the approaching event as new evidence of the strength of the Rome-Berlin axis and as heralding the birth of a new Europe.

Although plans for the Duce's visit were incomplete, it was understood he would be present at special army manoeuvres in Northern Germany.

NO RETURN TRANSPORTATION

Tourist crowds in Belfast, Northern Ireland, were so great on a recent holiday that more than 1,500 unable to get transportation back to England, had to sleep overnight in waterfront sheds.

Labor Continues Democracy's Aid, Trades Leader Contends

Trade Unionism Steady Foe of Dictators, Says President P. M. Draper.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4—(CP) — It would be well even in the midst of diversion in Labor Day to remember the benefits labor had obtained through united action and to vow that in the future each would do his part to consolidate and strengthen the great humanitarian cause of Labor, says P. M. Draper, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in his annual Labor message.

Europe was in a state of tension to which Canadians were wholly unaccustomed, Mr. Draper pointed out. "We are told that conflicting idealogies are waging battle to see who will conquer—the Right or the Left, Fascism or Nazism against Communism. So long as people are ranged on these two sides it does not appear to matter who wins, for either is an intolerant dictator. But surely there is a sane middle course.

"We in Canada seek to adhere rigidly to constitutional democracy, which is not a compromise as between Right and Left but an honest effort to live and let live. In dictator-ridden countries one of the first dictatorial acts was to sweep aside all traces of a free trade union movement, which of itself is an indication that in the minds of dictators, free trade unionism and dictatorship cannot exist side by side.

The fact was that free trade unionism was both an advance and a support of democracy, the message continued. "Trade unionism does not seek nor suffer arbitrary domination. It is the foe of the dictator for it tries to remove the very causes of discontent on which the dictator rides to power. It does not seek class war but only an understanding with its partner in industry to ensure industrial peace founded upon social justice.

New Charter For Labor

Since Labor Day a year ago, workers of Canada had been given a more direct recognition of their right to organize than at any previous period, a recognition greatly to be welcomed. Following a request from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada presented to members of eight provincial legislatures for the enactment of a law to safeguard the right of freedom of association among the workers, four legislatures had passed bills conferring such a right by law. These were Nova Scotia, Quebec, Manitoba and Alberta.

"This legislation in the provinces named gives the workers a new charter," Mr. Draper said. "It is put up to the workers themselves to work out their own salvation in their own way, with a positive provincial constitutional support previously lacking.

"Workers in the other provinces should see to it that their legislatures are no less aware of the pressing need for legislative recognition of the right to organize so that they too may have legal backing for their efforts to extend the scope of collective bargaining in industry.

"No reasonable relationship can exist where one industrial group attempts to deny another group the free exercise of a legal or a moral right. If each side will recognize the full rights of the other and respect those rights, benefits and advantages will come to industry, to the workers and to the general public, all of which will enrich the entire Canadian population."

The great depression could not yet be regarded as a matter of history, the president added. Unemployment was here still, although the level of employment had risen perceptibly through four years. Relief in consequence of unemployment is still a grave necessity. "Until a more definite remedy of the problem of unemployment is discovered we cannot justifiably consider the times in which we live as normal."

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, September 5.

Sunday's horoscope is conspicuous for the prospect of major events drastically affecting the affairs of church and state, labor, property, as well as all manner of secret, fraternal or political organizations. These are all under excellent auguries for notable performances, but at the same time, there are elements of fraud, duplicity as well as turbulence, violence and devastation to be met and handled strategically.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of conspicuous, sudden and memorable adventures affecting vitally the future and its fortunes. While prospects are excellent for advancement, increased finances, enhanced prestige and popularity, with much solidarity in high and potent friendships, yet there are omens of duplicity, fraud, intrigue as well as sudden disruptive, turbulent and passionate occurrences to jeopardize the propitious auguries.

A child born on this day may have a rather remarkable character and disposition, with orginality, ingenuity, shrewdness and many talents for attaining wealth, high popularity and prestige, possibly fame. But, at the same time, it may be impulsive, turbulent aggressive and passionate. It may have a most adventurous and romantic life.

For Monday, September 6.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively, progressive and adventurous day, despite certain very definite and stubborn obstacles, delays, impediments and difficulties to be carefully but resolutely met and disposed of. Perseverance, determination as well as tact may be instrumental in eliminating such obstructions and problems, making way for high adventure if not sensational romance in the private affiliations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively, exciting, progressive and even sensationally adventurous or romantic year. Radical influences are at work to undermine current stagnations, obstructions or stubborn oppositions or treacheries. Persistency and sagacity should dispose of these to make way for definite business progress as well as romantic denouements or sensational adventures in the private life.

A child born on this day may be unusually versatile and gifted with intellectual and inventive powers of genius. It may follow a career of adventure or public service.

For Tuesday, September 7.

A lively and probably exciting day, with much stirring in business and private lives, is presaged from the transits of the moon over the activating planets. Employment will prove interesting and progressive, with small recognitions or favors. Other matters assume intriguing phases, particularly as they are involved with corporations, secret societies, political or diplomatic organizations.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly active and progressive year, with employment under good prospect of favors or some token of preferment. Transactions with large concerns, rings, political or diplomatic circles or with secret lodges or fraternities will be intriguing and fairly prosperous. However, there are temptations in the way of speculation, social extravagances and indulgences to guard against.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, energetic, of speculative or expansive ideas and large ambitions, winning favoritism from its employers or others in power. Its social tendencies may lead it to extravagances and personal indulgences.

Dr. Peter Shih Is Coming To Peterboro

Dr. Peter Shih, of Nanking, China, who is to lecture at George Street United Church on Tuesday evening next is a third generation Christian and a minister of the gospel. He is at present taking post graduate studies at Columbia University, completing a three-year visit in Canada and United States.

He has studied social conditions here and has lectured and preached to great audiences and is preparing soon to return to China, there to continue an inspired ministry.

Dr. Shih is the only son of three families, who is still alive and preaching the word of God. His father and uncle share between them a century of service in this field and this ardent young Christian carries on the work in strife-torn China.

Peru will aid home builders.

Young Spanish refugees in Russia have started a wall newspaper.

Income of the federal railways in Sweden is the highest ever recorded.

Dairy farmers of New Zealand are asking decreases in wage and transportation costs or rises in the government guarantees of prices for their products.

CARRIED 250,000 CHILDREN KOKO, ZOO ELEPHANT, DIES

Idol of Thousands of London Youngsters Had To Be Shot

HAD BIG APPETITE

London.—Thousands of children knew Koko, the London zoo's largest, oldest, and most popular elephant. But she will take them for rides no more.

For her keeper found 45-year-old Koko dying in her stall.

She tried to rise to her feet in readiness for her work, but she couldn't stand. Her keeper talked to her and tended her. But nothing could be done. They had to shoot her.

And so passes a faithful friend that every child who has ever been to the zoo, and their fathers and mothers too, will mourn.

"Koko the Great," the keepers called her, and she was.

In her 12 years at the zoo she carried nearly 250,000 children—more than any of the other elephants. She was nine feet high and weighed three and a half tons.

She was brought to the zoo at the close of the Wembley exhibition in 1925, and right up to the last she carried on her work.

Children adored Koko—to them she was the elephant of their picture books, and it was because of her immensity that so many children wanted to ride on her.

She ate twice as much as any of the other elephants. Her menu for the day was three and a half trusses of hay, a hundred-weight of potatoes, and large quantities of bran mash. Not to mention all the buns and oranges offered her by children.

Dr. G. M. Vevers, superintendent of the zoo, said: "The elephant keepers had no trouble with Koko. She was easily the hardest-worked animal in the zoo.

"We are not considering getting another elephant to replace her."

ADVERTISING THANKED FOR 'PHONE PROGRESS

250,000 Instruments Installed During 12 Months for New Record

Brighton.—Great Britain's post-office, one of the most progressive and rapidly expanding businesses in the country, owes most of its success to press advertising, Major Tyron, postmaster-general, told the empire advertising convention here.

"Press advertising continues to be a main and effective plank in our program," he said. "Judged by results it has amply repaid us.

"It was confined at first to the telephone service, but has now been employed for other branches of post-office activities. Use of advertising for telegrams and telephones has considerably increased the public response to reductions in charges.

"With the aid of advertising telephone development has made unprecedented progress. During the last 12 months more than 250,000 telephones were installed, a figure never previously approached in the history of the telephone in this country. This in turn has brought about a real improvement in employment.

"Soon we shall begin a further newspaper advertising campaign in connection with the inauguration of the first part of the empire air mail scheme.

"I think I have told you enough to show that we fully realize the importance of advertising to a great business organization."

GOAT CROWNED 'KING' IN ANCIENT CEREMONY

Origin of the Custom Is Buried in the Shades of Antiquity

Dublin. — Southern Ireland — though almost a republic within the British Empire—has been busy choosing itself a number of "kings" lately.

There is now a "king" of the Arans, the wild, storm-lashed islands off the Galway coast. It is reported that a successor is being sought for the late "queen" of Tory island, off the coast of Donegal. Quite recently a "king" of Dalkey island, near Dublin, was crowned publicly in the presence of some of President Eamonn de Valera's staunchest adherents.

Finally, during the three-day annual fair at Killorglin, County Kerry, near Killarney, thousands of farmers witnessed the centuries-old custom of crowning a goat as "king" of Killorglin.

The origin of the latter ceremony is buried in the shades of antiquity. One theory explains, however, that a goat saved the village from destruction by a marauding army in the distant past. To commemorate this event the inhabitants are supposed to have decreed that a goat should be crowned each year at the fair.

ORIGINAL IDEAS SCARCE

London.—A class of 36 girls was asked to write an essay on what they would like to be doing in ten years' time. All but three gave the same reply. They said they would like to be married and have a baby. Some of them said they would prefer twins.

PUTS MOTHER ON BUS THEN HANGS HIMSELF

Tottenham.—William Noel Schluter, aged 12, Tottenham, was found hanged at his home.

The boy left home with his mother and young sister to spend a day at Chingford. They called on the way at his aunt's house. The boy said he wanted to return home, and his mother put him on a bus.

When she returned at 9 p.m. she found the bathroom door locked and called her husband. He found his son hanging from a cistern. A small rope was round his neck.

The boy was wearing only slips and socks. He had been dead for several hours.

BAN OF FAN DANCER AIRED AT NEWCASTLE

Blonde Actress Admits She Appears on Stage Nude Shielded by Feathers

Newcastle-on-Tyne.—Members of Newcastle watch committee are to consider whether there is any ground for them to take action to stop a "feather dance" at a theatre here by a young woman.

The actress, blonde 25-year-old Eileen Walker, is a native of Birmingham, and has appeared in the same turn in Paris, London and Hull without any complaint having been made against her.

"It is true that I appear on the stage completely naked," Miss Walker told me, "but I shield myself with a pink feather boa while I dance."

Miss Walker is disrobed on the stage by six girls from the chorus.

"I am standing in a dim blue light at the time," she said, "and three of the girls shield me from the audience while the others take my clothes off.

"I am left with my feather boa, which is about 18 inches wide, and I manipulate it while I move about the stage in a series of poses rather than an actual dance.

"At the end of the act I am standing with the boa draped in front of me, and I pull it slowly over my shoulder. As it falls to the floor there is a blackout, and when the lights go up again I have disappeared and the feathers are lying on the stage."

HELD HAIR TO STEADY HEAD AS NECK BROKEN

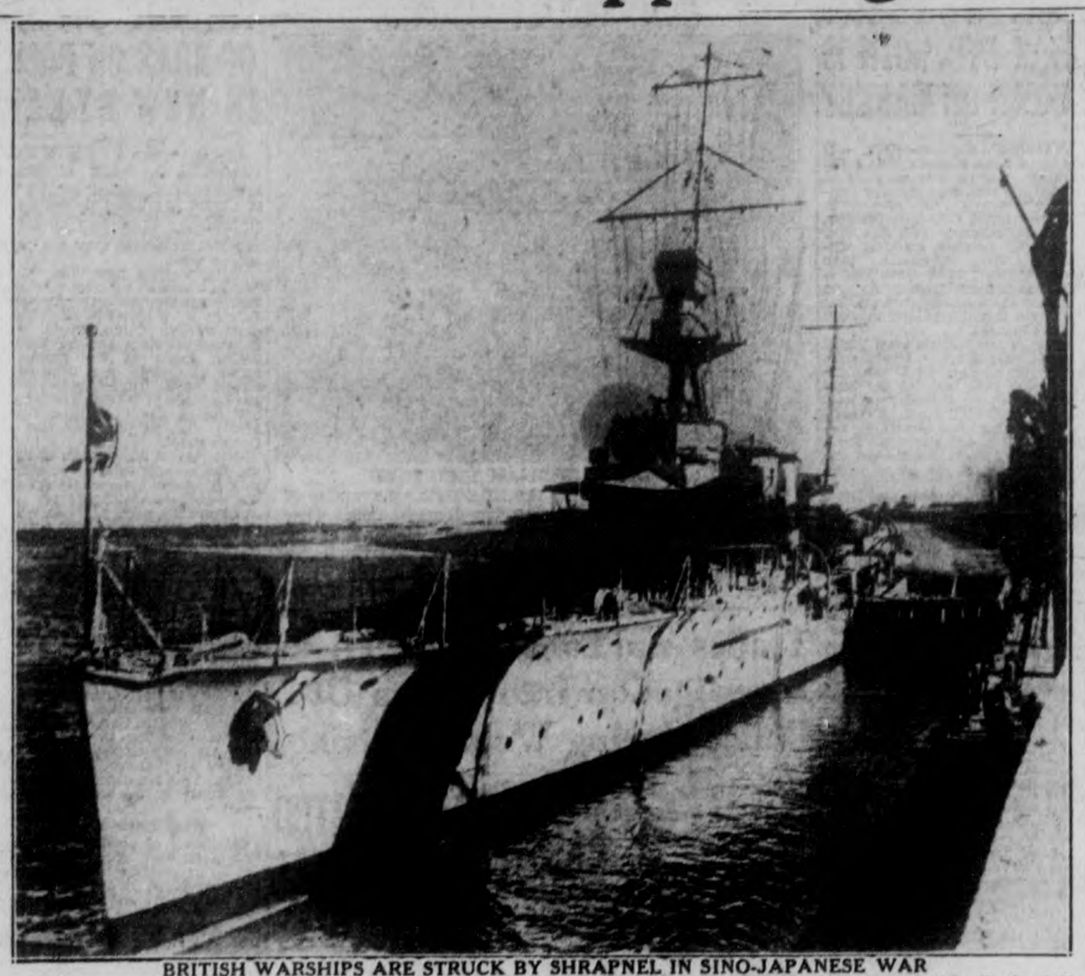
Farmhand Refused to Move After Fall—Directed Rescuers

Shoreham, Sussex.—Charles Still, 47-year-old farm worker, lay on a settee in the sitting-room of his cottage and told what it feels like to lie on the ground conscious that your neck is broken and that you are facing immediate death.

Catapulted from a hayrick at Newsalts Farm, near Shoreham, six weeks before, this man, who is nicknamed "Lucky," and is employed as a foreman on the farm, was taken to Southlands hospital. Now he plans to start work again.

"When the men rushed to pick me up, I refused to move and lay flat," he told me. "I knew my neck was broken and one touch on the spinal cord would mean death. When I was eventually carried into the house I grasped a tuft of hair to prevent my head from falling back.

"I was told afterward that my recovery was a chance in millions."



BRITISH WARSHIPS ARE STRUCK BY SHRAPNEL IN SINO-JAPANESE WAR

No guarantees of safety have been received by neutral countries affected by the widespread war between Japan and China and recently two more British warships and a British merchant vessel off the Shanghai coast were struck by shrapnel showers. Shown here is one of them, H.M.S. Danae, a cruiser, flying the flag of Admiral Sir Charles Little, commander-in-chief of the royal navy, China station. The two other ships hit were the sloop, Falmouth, and the Shenking. The shrapnel was believed to have struck during a Sino-Japanese air fight although, as yet, neither side has been blamed.

SLEPT ON FIFTH NIGHT FINDS CHILDREN DEAD

Doctors Warned Him Not to Leave Sick Wife—Sent to Trial

Chichester, Sussex. — Patrick George Goldsmith lay awake four nights when the doctors told him not to leave his wife while she was suffering from acute mental distress.

On the fifth night he could no longer keep awake. He dozed off, awoke to find his two daughters, aged five and seven, strangled on their bed, and his wife on the floor with a knife wound in her throat.

Next morning other arrangements were to have been made for his wife's welfare.

He told this story at Chichester police court when his wife Ivy, 31, was charged with the murder of their children Priscilla and June, and was committed for trial.

MOTHER LOVE WINS

Father Offers Security — Can't Get Child's Custody

Manchester.—Mother love won a legal battle against money for the custody of a child in the courts here. Chubby two-year-old Leslie Pollitt's parents both wanted him. His father, who earns $75 a week, promised him a position in life, but it was his mother, who had little to offer the child save her love, who carried Leslie out of the court in her arms.

HOTEL WORKERS SAVE GIRL FROM PLUNGE INTO STREET

Had Clung to Stone Balcony Fifty Feet Above Hotel

CROWD HORRIFIED

London.—Crowds streaming out of Victoria Station in the morning rush hour were horrified to see a young woman hanging by her hands from a sixth floor front balcony of the Grosvenor hotel.

The woman, who wore a dressing gown had got on to the balcony from one of the hotel bedrooms, 50 feet above Buckingham Palace Rd.

She climbed over the railings and hung on to them, looking down into the street.

A crowd quickly gathered, staring up at the white figure that they expected to fall at any moment.

A man appeared on the balcony reached over the railings, and grasped the woman's shoulders.

According to eye-witnesses, her feet had left the stonework, and she was hanging, held only by the man, a night porter.

He was unable to lift her to safety, and for several minutes, while still more people gathered below, it seemed that she must fall.

Then a waiter hurried to the assistance of the porter, and between them they were able to pull the woman back over the railings.

THEY LIVE IN CAVES THOSE HARDY BRITISH

Water, Gas Service Supplied to Kinver Folk

London.—There are still cave-dwellers in Great Britain, and, strangely, they are to be found in the busy Midlands.

At Kinver, Staffs, within a few minutes of Birmingham, live men, women and children who have plunged thousands of years back, in caves hewn out of solid rock by early Britons.

The caves are seen on the cliffside and all lead into a giant cave known as the "ballroom". Landlords are the National Trust.

"The caves make a great home," H. M. Gibbs, chief caveman, declares. "They're really cozy — cool in summer and warm in winter, and dry all the year round. Life here is much the same as outside, really, for we have water and gas, and we pay rates and taxes like other folk."

EMPTY HOSPITAL ON GUARD

London. — A 50-year-old hospital stands on the Thames bank at Rotherhithe — empty except for a day and night staff of nurses. No patients have been admitted for three years; yet the hospital must be kept going. It is designed to keep smallpox from London.

LAD USES OIL DRUM WALKS RIVER BOTTOM

Builds Diving Suit for Buoyancy—Can Jump to Surface

Shoreham.—Watched by a crowd of holiday-makers, William Suter, 19, donned a home-made diving suit in his father's shipyard, Shoreham, and walked 75 yards across the bed of the River Adur, which was in full flood and 30 feet deep.

His friend, William Barnes, worked a home-made pump which kept him supplied with air.

Suter said: "Walking on a river bed is like walking in a strong wind.

"It is a question of balancing weight against air buoyancy, and I have balanced this so that I can jump from the bed of the river to the surface, take a quick look round, and land on my feet again.

"The suit cost me 2s. 6d. (60 cents). I got an oil drum from my father's yard, cut it to fit my shoulders, lined it with rubber and fixed a valve for the 100 feet of hose to supply me with air.

MUST PROTECT "FOOLS"

London.—Remanding two young men accused of theft from an unattended car, Mr. Dummett, the magistrate at Bow St., remarked: "I will say nothing about fools who leave valuable property in their cars. There are such fools, and, of course, it is the duty of the courts to protect people like them."

ORDERED NOT TO CONVERSE COUPLE MARRIED IN NORTH

Home Secretary Urges Magistrates to Restrict Their Probation Orders

CHANGE IS PROMISED

London.—In accordance with his recent promise in the House of Commons, the home secretary is to attempt to put magistrates right on the matter of probation by sending them a circular letter.

By law magistrates in binding over an offender may place him under the supervision of a probation officer upon such terms as they think proper.

The departmental committee which reported on the subject gave some instances of the extravagant conditions sometimes imposed.

In one case a man and woman were jointly charged with an offence. They were placed on probation and ordered not to speak to each other any more. Within a month they were married.

A man of 42, accused of stealing a handbag from his wife, was bound over, one condition being that he should not speak to her for 12 months.

In other cases, offenders are ordered to be indoors before a fixed time, or not to go to a cinema, or to go to church twice every Sunday, or to report to the police once a week, or not to smoke, or not to read detective stories.

At a London court lately the magistrates took the extraordinary course of binding over the parents of a young person charged with an offence.

Conditions Are Ridiculed

The variations of the conditions are such, and the contempt and ridicule they provoke so widespread that, pending the proposed legislation to deal with the probation system generally, magistrates are to be reminded of the need for restricting their orders so as to bring their practice more into consonance with the spirit of the law.

In view of the important work that probation officers will have to do in connection with the administration of the new law relating to matrimonial matters, and for other reasons, the probation system is being completely overhauled.

A special department has been established at the home office; better conditions of service are provided, with increased pay, and in future candidates will have to undergo a course of training at special establishments.

TWINS GET MARRIED IN DUAL CEREMONY

Sang in Same Choir for Sixteen Years

Chelsea. — Inseparable boyhood companions, William George Smith and Walter Smith, best known twins in Chelsea, decided to get engaged at the same time. Now they have arranged to get married on the same day at the same church, St. Simon's, Chelsea, where they have sung in the choir side by side for 16 years.

Stalwart William George and Walter, now 23 years old, were so small and delicate at birth, weighing only three lbs., that their lives were despaired of.

SARDINES ARE BEACHED

Fish Spread Over Six Acres of Sea at Durban

Durban, Eng.—A shoal of sardines, spreading over six acres of sea, was driven ashore recently at Isipingo Beach, Durban. Fishermen simply loaded the fish into lorries and carts, and children caught them in bucketfulls. Big flocks of seagulls which had followed the shoal up the coast, swooped down on the sardines as they floundered on shore.

CLAIMS BIG FORTUNE 'BUT NONE IS LEFT'

London.—Albert Ansell is in London from South Africa, planning to claim a share in a dead brother's fortune — but the widow, Mrs. Charles Ansell, says: "There is no fortune left."

She explained: "My husband died in 1905 leaving, at a guess, £500,000 ($2,500,000). He left a large income for me and a bigger sum in trust for my son, who was then eight.

"My son died when he was 17, and by my husband's will the boy's money was distributed to London hospitals. So nothing remains except the trust fund from which I draw an annual income."

FEARED RIDING OVER GIRL SHOOTS SELF

Militiaman's Daughter Had Passed All Examinations in Horsemanship

Ross-on-Wye, Herefordshire. — Pretty Valerie Thompson, 20-year-old tomboy, had only one love in her life—horses. She so feared that her health, which had not been good recently, would interfere with her riding that she shot herself here.

She was rich. She had passed all her examinations in horsemanship. A few weeks ago she came back to her old riding school at Peterstow Court as instructress. In the garage was her new car, just delivered. She seemed completely happy.

She went to the bathroom in her pyjamas and dressing-gown, taking a shotgun. A few minutes later she was found there with a bullet wound in her heart.

Valerie was the daughter of Lieut-Colonel Thompson, of Virginia Water, Surrey. Eton-cropped, tiny, she looked even younger than her age in jodhpurs and shirt, wore collar and tie, rode astride.

"She was absolutely fearless with horses, a splendid rider," R. E. Pritchard, a former M.F.H., who keeps the riding school, said.

Valerie wrote a note to her mother asking forgiveness.

ONE HONEST RACKET LEAVES VICTIMS SAD

'Customs Man Hasn't Seen It' They're Told—and It's True

London.—Somewhere on the east coast small shopkeepers are bemoaning the fact that they are victims of the one honest racket. This is how it works.

One night a motor-boat chugs mysteriously up the river — the Crouch, the Blackwater, the Stour.

Two mysterious strangers step ashore.

"Got a minute, guv'nor?" they ask the shopkeeper. They step into the back room, and one of the strangers unfurls a beautiful Persian rug.

"These come straight from Persia," he says, and the shopkeeper can see for himself that it is the real stuff.

"Our ship is anchored off the mouth of the river. We can let you have a hundred quids' ($500) worth of this stuff for £10 ($50)—so long as you pay cash," they say.

"It's not stolen stuff, is it?" asks the shopkeeper. "Of course not. But," the stranger gives a wink, "maybe the customs man hasn't seen it. After all—a hundred quids' worth for £10 ($50)...."

So, later still that night, the men walk into the back room of the shop. "Here's your stuff," they say. "Now let's have the money quick."

The money is handed over and the men leave. The shopkeeper nervously unrolls his parcel—and finds exactly £10 (retail) worth of good old English carpet.

FELL ON PITCHFORK FARMER IS KILLED

Pulled Prongs From Neck, Ran 60 Yards

Botley, Eng.—How a farm laborer, who impaled himself on his own pitchfork while haymaking, pulled the fork from his neck and then ran 60 yards, was told to the deputy coroner for South Hants at an inquest on John Stanley Baker, 21, of Parkgate.

Sidney Pateman described how the loaded cart on which Baker was standing had slipped, causing him to drop his fork and fall. "Accidental death" was the verdict.

DRIVES MAID TO WEDDING

Chauffeur For Her Servant to Fulfill Promise

Wellow, Hants.—A maidservant's employer, Mrs. Priestley, of Yately, near Andover, fulfilled a promise when she drove Miss Winifred Shutter, her personal maid for four years, to the church at Wellow, a Hampshire village, for her wedding. After the ceremony, Mrs. Priestley again took the wheel of her limousine car, to drive the newly-wedded couple to a reception.

BRIEF STORIES GATHERED FROM ALL CORNERS OF THE WORLD

HOUSE-TO-HOUSE SEARCH FOR BELFAST ARMS DUMPS

Police Swoop Down on Shop Seize Ammunition in Suitcases

SIX ARE CHARGED

Belfast.—House-to-house searches and a large scale digging of vacant ground for ammunition dumps were features of surprise police raids in Belfast.

A tremendous stir was created in the Falls area of the city when police swooped on a shop and made a big haul of arms, which were removed in suitcases.

Dwelling-houses were also visited in this area and thoroughly searched. In one house mattresses were examined and cupboards in various rooms inspected, while constables armed with pick-axes and spades spent hours digging in vacant ground for arms dumps.

A search of six counties of Ulster is contemplated, with a view to curbing the activities of extremist elements and to discover further hidden arms. All roads leading from Belfast are carefully watched and the border is being systematically patrolled.

Wide powers are given the police under the Civil Authorities Act, including the right to detain men under suspicion, and there is ground for the belief that a number of men have been temporarily detained.

The discovery of an arms dump in a house during the raid by police in the Falls area at 6 a.m. led later to charges against Francis J. McKenna, a butcher, of Falls Rd., in Belfast police court.

He was remanded in custody on a charge of the illegal possession of one rifle, one automatic pistol, two revolvers, two Mills bombs, eight rounds of rifle ammunition, 531 rounds of revolver ammunition, and 20 rounds of small bore ammunition with intent to endanger life.

Five young men who were arrested near Omagh, Co. Tyrone, on the day of the King's visit to Belfast were further remanded at Belfast police court. They were: Charles Coyle, James Devlin, Aloysius Conway, and James O'Doherty, all of Gortin, and James McBride, of Newtown Stewart, Co. Tyrone.

DREDGING DANUBE FOR SPECIAL BOATS

Double Facilities at Free Port of Budapest

Budapest. — The Danube is being dredged, docking facilities extended and especially designed boats built which will double the facilities of this free port within the year.

Long the principal trading route of Europe, the Danube is now traversed by more than 2,500 steamers which tranship here for central, western and northwestern Europe. The system of navigable canals is also being enlarged and extended.

FAILED TO STOP CAR IS FINED AFTER CRASH

Two Workmen Struck Down By Driver Who Borrowed Auto

Ramsgate.—Sentence of 2 days' imprisonment, and fines totalling £10 ($50), were imposed by Ramsgate magistrates on Philip Lotheim, aged 21, of Charlton, S.E., the driver of a car which failed to stop after knocking down two Ramsgate corporation workmen who were pushing a barrow in Margate Rd., Ramsgate.

Lotheim pleaded guilty to failing to stop, having no policy of insurance and driving without due care and attention.

The chief constable, S. F. Butler, said that the handle of the barrow penetrated the radiator of the car. Lotheim was driving, and tar from the barrow was thrown over the windscreen. The car was later found abandoned on the outskirts of Margate.

Lotheim had borrowed the car for ten minutes from a man at Blackheath and, unknown to the owner, drove to Ramsgate. The men pushing the barrow were injured.

SCOTTISH EDITOR DIES

Glasgow—James Davidson, prominent Scottish newspaperman and first editor of the Bulletin, Glasgow newspaper, is dead at 75. The Bulletin was Scotland's first picture newspaper.

FASCISTS VACCINATE 116,534 ETHIOPIANS

Are Fighting Smallpox Epidemic Which Has Ravaged Country

Rome. — Fighting the smallpox scourge that has ravaged Ethiopia for years, Fascist medical authorities vaccinated 116,534 citizens of Addis Ababa and the surrounding country in the first six months of 1937.

Diffidence and native superstitions led many dusky Ethiopians to attempt to avoid treatment, while Fascist officials charge provocateurs "across the empire borders" circulated rumors among the natives that the vaccination campaign was a deliberate attempt on the part of the Italians to insert deadly poison in the Ethiopian blood stream.

Despite these handicaps, almost every human being living in the so-called "capital zone" extending miles into the hinterland surrounding Addis Ababa has now been treated, and Addis Ababa for the first time in its history lacks a single case of the dread disease.

MORE BUS STOPS

London — More fixed stops for London buses mean that no person has to walk more than 150 yards to get a bus. Sixty-five miles of streets are marked now with 714 bus stop signs.

BEAUTIFUL DUCHESS ESCAPES FROM SPAIN WITH HEIRLOOMS

Once Wealthiest Woman in Country Lands at Gibraltar With $210,000

FACED DANGERS

Gibraltar.—The Duchess of Penaranda, one of the wealthiest and most beautiful women of Spain's aristocracy, escaped from Madrid and reached Gibraltar in the British cruiser Arethusa with jewels and family heirlooms worth £37,500 (about $210,000).

At Valencia customs officials insisted that she and her son should be searched and she had to undress before a customs matron.

But no jewels were found on her. She had given the old leather bag, in which she had hidden her treasure for months in Madrid, to a friend to carry.

She was still elated and excited about her escape when she told the story on arrival.

She is a striking beauty, with deep gold hair and blue eyes. She wore a smart sky-blue coat and some of the jewels she brought from Madrid.

"I cannot get accustomed to this freedom," she said. "For eight months I have been cooped up in the flat of the Chilean consul in Madrid, and only once did I go out for an hour.

"My husband, with whom I used to go to England for three months every year during the polo season, was ill in a Madrid sanatorium when war broke out. In November he disappeared.

SPECIALIST CLAIMS HE TOOK OUT HEART

Scraped It, Put It Back, He Says

Rome. — Italian heart specialists are studying the report of Prof. Defrize, a Milanese surgeon, who claims to have taken out the heart of a 50-year-old man, scraped it for an hour, put it back, and restored the patient to health.

The patient, Signor Lelli, was suffering from pericarditis—or inflammation of the smooth membrane which surrounds the heart.

Prof. Defrize says he "opened a shutter" between Lelli's ribs, took out the heart and held it in his hands for 30 minutes, scraping it all the time.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS

Singapore.—A 13-foot king cobra was cheated out of a victim here by its own weakness for music. The cobra was about to strike an Indian coolie on an estate when the coolie sprang up a tree and began to sing. The snake forgot all about his ravenous appetite and listened. It listened for nearly an hour.

$600 UNCOLLECTED IN HASTINGS TAXES

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Aug. 4.—The regular monthly meeting of the village council took place in the council chambers on Friday night with the reeve in the chair and all members present.

Correspondence was read from Warden Jones regarding repairs to the road surface of the county bridge, the work since having been completed. A petition signed by a number of ratepayers of Park street was read requesting better lighting on that street. It was moved and seconded by C. Lynch and H. Dodd that the council recommended to the Hydro Commission that the light on the corner of Park and Water streets be changed from 100 to 200 watts. This charge will be tried for one month.

The tax collector R. W. Montgomery will be instructed to have the tax roll returned at the next regular meeting with the names of taxes unpaid for 1936. The amount of taxes uncollected was estimated at less than $900, which is better than for the same time a year ago.

Relief Accounts Paid.

The relief accounts were then read by the reeve. It was moved by Kelly and seconded by Lynch that the relief accounts be checked and if found in order to be paid in the regular way.

By-law No. 780 regarding the village tax rates received its three readings and was signed by the reeve and clerk and the corporate seal attached.

Fred Dood, the village fire chief interviewed the council regarding insufficient fire hose, claiming that sections of the village did not have fire protection due to the short length of hose. Numerous locations and their condition were discussed, where the horse drawn engine could be placed at the time of fires.

James Ryder will be appointed special constable for the village to act in or near, E. J. Lynch's dance hall on nights when his presence is needed. The salary of special constable is to be paid by Mr. Lynch.

The following accounts were passed: W. Wellman, $18.00; W. Boyle, $8.33; Geo. Lynch, $7.00; C.N.R. wigwag, $4.44; Bell Telephone, $2.05, $2.05, $2.05; Counties' treasurer, $23.33, $1.50, $25.25; F. Dodd, eight months' salary 23.33; S. Hatherly, $4.25; W. Whitred, 75c; Earl Clark $2.00; Geo. Bonds, $6.00; Post Master, $3.31; E. Shaunessy, $2.25; J. M. Blake, supplies, $2.05; Roy Johnson, $8.00; G. Herrington, 50c.

ACTINOLITE MAN PAYS $100 FINE

(Examiner Correspondence)

TWEED, Sept. 4.—Charged under the Excise Act, of having a still suitable for the manufacture of illicit liquor, Stephen Woods of Actinolite paid a fine of one hundred dollars and costs after pleading guilty before Magistrate Lloyd at the weekly court held in the Township Hall. Woods was apprehended and prosecuted by R.C.M.P., who eradicated the accused man's still. The fine was paid forthwith.

Considerable excitement was caused in the village early on Thursday morning when a fiery cross, emblem of the K.K.K., was burned on the main street. Sid Arber, returning from the bake shop, discovered the object in flames and extinguished the blaze. The flaming cord was composed of a wooden frame in the form of a cross, covered with burlap bags soaked in kerosene or other inflammable fluid.

The bright light roused a number of citizens from their chambers, and a considerable crowd soon gathered in the street in various stages of semi-dress, speculating as to the purpose for which the cross was lighted.

Thrown into the side of a moving transport when the bicycle he was riding struck the right curb at noon on Thursday, Walter March of Madoc suffered four broken ribs and two fingers on his left hand and a bone in his left arm were fractured.

March left Madoc on his wheel for Toronto shortly after daybreak and had covered 37 miles of the journey when the accident occurred. William Wakefield of Toronto was the driver of the transport.

Attacks System

Speaking before the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Nottingham, Eng., H. G. Wells (ABOVE), well known author, told the assembly that modern schools are turning out "mere cannon fodder". Wells claimed the schools send out young people absolutely unprepared to grasp the importance of economic changes in history, the theories of individualism, socialism, the corporate state of communism.

MILLBROOK

Mr. William Needler and three children Billie, Nancy, and Dan of Indianapolis, Ind., and his sister, Miss Janet Needler of Toronto were guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. A. A. and Miss Henrietta Needler, on Tuesday.

The name of Miss Flossie Bothwell was inadvertently omitted from the members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. George Bothwell in the account of their thirtieth wedding anniversary observed with a large party on Monday evening. Miss Flossie is attending the Continuation School at Millbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harrington have returned from their summer vacation trip, by motor, New York, Scranton, Buffalo, Toronto and other points.

The pupils started back to school on Wednesday in this community, with approximately eighty enrolled in the Continuation School, and the rooms in the Public School also well filled. A number of little tots, who have now reached school age, began their educational career in Miss Montgomery's room on Wednesday.

Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., and his son, Edward, of the local Bank of Toronto staff, are on vacation enjoying a fishing trip in the vicinity of Apsley. Mr. Richard Williams will have charge of the services at Grace Church, Millbrook, and at Centreville on Sunday, September 5.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barringer and family have moved this week from Prince Street to the house on Anne Street formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Fennel.

The two new teachers of the Continuation School staff, Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A., principal, and Mr. Charles J. Ireton, B.A., are with Miss M. E. Needham for the current year.

Much sympathy is felt for Jack Whittington, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Whittington, of South Monaghan, who was seriously injured in the head when he was kicked by a horse, in his father's stable on Wednesday.

Reeve Percy and Mrs. Stinson and family are home from their summer cottage at Thurstonia Park; Mr. Jack Stinson has returned to his school at Wellington, and Miss Jean to her position as kindergarten teacher in the Central Ward School, Cobourg.

Miss Bessie Dawson is teacher at the Marsh school this year, taking the place of Miss Jean Bothwell, who has been engaged as teacher at Columbus, in the vicinity of Whitby for the current term.

Miss Margaret Armstrong spent the week-end with friends in Toronto, and attended the Canadian National on Tuesday.

Messrs. M. Mogwell, Harry Ball, and H. C. Lord were among those from Millbrook who attended the convention of the Durham Liberal Association at Orono on Wednesday. The convention hall was filled to capacity, in spite of the intense heat, and a spirit of enthusiasm prevailed. Reeve Cecil G. Mercer, of Hope Township being chosen as Liberal candidate in the present election campaign.

Mrs. Loyn Acton and little son, Ronald, of Detroit, who have been visiting her mother, Mrs. Wentworth Gray, for the past few weeks, except to leave for home at the week-end.

Mr. Fred Macnamara, and his two sisters, Misses Jean and Francis of Montreal, visited Mrs. C. M. Westmacott and Miss Rose Macnamara last week, the latter accompanying the party as far as Orillia for a visit at her home. Miss Macnamara is expected to return this week-end, reaching here on Saturday.

Miss Lillian Burton will leave for her summer vacation this week-end, visiting her sister, Mrs. A. Smith, and Magistrate Smith, at Sandwich, and being accompanied by Miss Ann Rorke, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rorke, of Detroit, who has been here during the holiday months, and who is returning home.

Mr. H. C. Lord was successful in landing a six-pound lunge at the week-end, while visiting his son, Mr. Harry Lord, and Mrs. Lord, at their summer cottage, Chemong Lake.

WORKED FOR YEAR WITHOUT ANY PAY

LINDSAY, Sept. 4.—Claiming that he had been working for John Murphy, Mariposa Township farmer, every day "from daylight to dark for a year" and that at the end of that time he had not received a cent in pay, Michael Terenski, Denison Avenue, Toronto, asked for leniency when he appeared before Magistrate Gee in Police Court here on Friday, charged with theft of a considerable quantity of household goods, the property of his one-time employer.

"This stealing by young men must be stopped, and I would suggest a term in the reformatory for the accused. Whether he received any pay or not is no reason for theft," said Crown Attorney Anderson. Terenski was sentenced to six months in the Ontario Reformatory.

George Washington Mann, Verulam Township, appeared in court shabbily dressed on a charge of possession of illegal liquor. "Like my namesake, I cannot tell a lie. I had the liquor," said Mann. Mann was fined $100 and costs or three months. He pulled a large roll of bills from his ragged trousers, paid the fine and departed.

H. J. Rooney, 32, of Dorval Road, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs on a reckless driving charge, arising out of an accident west of here when two other Toronto motorists were injured.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE.

JARVIS.—Lea S. Marshall, dairy owner of Jarvis, was nominated as candidate for the Ontario election at a meeting of the Haldimand-Norfolk Conservative Association here last night.

C.C.F. CANDIDATE.

WINDSOR. — Alcide LeBlanc, Tecumseh, was nominated last night as Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate in the October 6 Ontario election for Essex North.

BEAN CROP IS LARGER.

ST. THOMAS. — Elgin county's bean crop for 1937 promises to be much larger than that of 1936, crop reports indicate. First threshings have produced a yield of 25 to 27 bushels an acre, compared with an average yield of 12 to 14 bushels an acre in 1936.

NIXON DEFENDS PARTY RECORD

PICTON, Sept. 4.—A declaration that the Hepburn Government was set in its policies toward the C.I.O. in this Province was made here on Thursday night by Hon. Harry C. Nixon when he addressed the convention of the Prince Edward-Lennox Riding Liberal Association.

"We recognize the right of labor to strike—but we also recognize the right of labor to work without being subjected to broken heads," he asserted. "Our colors are pinned to the mast and they won't be changed."

The Ontario Provincial Police force, he said, was the "best insurance Ontario could have." Mr. Nixon believed that the Hepburn Government had given more advanced labor legislation than the Government of any other Province in the Dominion. Wages were 25 per cent. higher in Ontario than in any other province.

Thomas G. Bowerman, present Provincial member, was unanimously renominated to represent the riding in the fall elections. A good crowd turned out at the meeting despite the terrific heat.

Considerable laughter greeted the Provincial Secretary's reference to the "Hungarian partridge farm" conducted by the Conservative Government at Normandale, where the birds had cost the taxpayers $62 each and three men were employed to "chase all over the county collecting ants to feed them."

TRENT RIVER

Mrs. J. A. Glover, daughter Helen and son Vaughan arrived Friday from Claremont accompanied by the following members of the C.G.I.T.: Bertha Bacon, Myrtle Bacon, Isabel Tran, Frances Loyst, Isabel Johnston, Mabel Johnston, Evelyn Sanderson. They will spend a week at "Restholme." Mr. Vaughan Glover returned the same evening to his home at Claremont.

Miss Eleanor Ferris of Campbellford was a Friday visitor with Miss Irene Davidson at "Sunnyside."

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Halliwell, son Lee, Messrs. R. J. Ranch and B. E. Young have returned to Akron, Ohio, after holidaying for a week at Mrs. George Dart's cottage.

ROSENEATH

Miss Jean Wiley, Niagara Falls, Ontario is visiting Miss Jean Braithwaite.

Mr. Palmer of Fenelon Falls is the new principal of Roseneath School. Miss K. Barrie who was principal for eight years resigned, following the closing term and is engaged to teach at Leamington.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pacey attended Belleville Fair on Tuesday.

Mr. J. H. Hallett, manager of the Royal Bank branch here, and Mrs. Hallett are on holidays, motoring through Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Mr. Gilleland of Toronto is supply manager during Mr. Mallett's absence.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Atchison and baby daughter Joyce and Mr. and Mrs. George Tabscott, all of Bailleboro were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams and daughter Vivian of Rochester, N.Y. visited Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hugh during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pacey were in Trenton recently visiting Mr. and Mrs. Merwin Pacey.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Davey visited in Toronto over the week-end with their son, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Davey.

The Ontario Department of Health

Presents a Statement by

The Academy of Medicine, Toronto, on

"INFANTILE PARALYSIS" (POLIOMYELITIS)

Realizing the anxiety which exists in the public mind today with respect to the increased prevalence of Poliomyelitis ("Infantile Paralysis") in Toronto and other parts of the province, the Academy of Medicine of Toronto, which represents more than one thousand physicians, called a special meeting of its Council, September 1st, to review the whole situation. To this meeting were invited representatives from all departments of medicine interested in this subject.

At the conclusion of the conference, during which time all of the pertinent facts of the present situation were presented and discussed, it was felt that, in fairness to the public, an official statement should be made to set forth the facts exactly as they exist. To this end, a committee was appointed to prepare and issue an official statement, which follows:

Poliomyelitis ("Infantile Paralysis") is a communicable disease. It is definitely known that it is caused by the entrance into the body of a minute form of life known as a virus. It is known also that this virus enters commonly through the upper part of the nasal tract. There is no evidence that the disease is conveyed by flies or domestic animals.

When an outbreak of the disease occurs, healthy persons as well as those ill with the disease are found to harbour the virus in the secretions of the nose and throat. The disease is, therefore, spread through the contact of persons one with another.

Usually the virus occasions only a mild illness but sometimes the virus enters the central nervous system, which may result in paralysis. The majority of adults are not susceptible to the disease.

Present Situation

While the number of cases reported in Toronto is greater than in any previous outbreak of this disease, and there is no reason to presume that the incidence rate is likely to decline within the next two or three weeks, it must be borne in mind that not 25% of these cases show any evidence whatever of paralysis. Furthermore, among those developing paralysis, the majority eventually will recover complete use of their paralysed limbs. It would appear, therefore, that while there is every reason for the public to view the present situation with concern, there is no justification for undue alarm or hysterical behaviour.

According to figures computed by the Department of Health, Ontario, to date, there are estimated to be 750 cases in Ontario, of which 285 have occurred in the City of Toronto. Of this number, 212 cases have been admitted to the Riverdale Isolation Hospital, only 54 of whom developed some degree of paralysis. There were 11 deaths in this group. Statistics of a similar nature apply to the Hospital for Sick Children, which has received its cases not only from Toronto but from other parts of the province.

Control Measures

These include the strict isolation of all persons ill with the disease and the quarantine of those who have been in immediate contact.

In as much as it is not known who are or are not carriers of this disease, it is advisable to reduce to a minimum, contact with other people. In other words, keep out of crowds. As children are particularly susceptible, it is most important that they be kept as far as possible from mingling with other persons. For this reason, the opening of the schools of Toronto has been deferred and the Department of Health of the Province of Ontario has recommended to parents that they see to it that their children avoid attendance at theatres, playgrounds, bathing pools and beaches and other places of amusement where children congregate. The Academy agrees with the provincial and municipal health authorities that the responsibility for the control of the activities of children is primarily the duty of the parents.

The Department of Health of Ontario has completed within its own organization plans whereby serum for the treatment of this disease is available in any part of the province upon the request of the attending physician.

Nasal Spray

Experimental work with animals indicates that Poliomyelitis can be prevented by spraying the extreme upper part of the inside of the nose with a harmless solution of zinc sulphate. This was discovered during the past year. To date, its value in the prevention of Poliomyelitis in humans is not known. To be in any degree effective, the spray must be applied high up inside the nose. This can only be done with a specially constructed atomizer and by a physician thoroughly familiar with this type of work. The application of this or any other spray by an ordinary atomizer or to the lower part of the nose is quite useless. The possible value of the nasal spray properly administered is being determined at the present time in Toronto.

The Council of the Academy of Medicine of Toronto endorses the attitude adopted by the provincial Department of Health and the local Board of Health in respect to measures designed to control the present situation. We would respectfully suggest that the general public will best serve its own interests by endeavoring to follow the advice which is being given by these health authorities.

SPORTS DAY by DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AND so it comes up vacation time again and we will retire from this job for two weeks of hard-earned holidays. Anyway, two weeks' holidays. Summer sports are almost over around these parts and the grid season won't commence for maybe three weeks—hence this is a good chance to slip away and not muff much in local athletics. Had the holidays postponed once and can't take chances again, even if the Petes should win today and Monday in Oshawa and then knock off the Ponies. Such prospects being about as bright as the middle of a ton of coal, we fear! So we'll put a couple of gallons of gas in the chariot and chug-chug off in the general direction of Montreal for a space. Meantime, we expect one of the other members of the staff will anovel out this column daily.

* * * * * *

HAD a few words the other day with Umpire Ken Colling of Belleville here—friendly words for a change. We told him that we had to admit that Belleville produced one good guesser recently. He is a chap named Thomas who umped a junior baseball playoff and two men's softball playoffs here the last two weeks. And was downright good, too. Colling comes back: "Sure, and I've been coaching him in umpiring for a long time now." Says we: "Well, he's pretty good in spite of your coaching." But Ken is an okay arbiter, also.

MANAGER COLLINS and his Petes are playing today in Oshawa, if the weather doesn't prevent, in the third tussle of the C.O.B.L. semi-finals. First one ended in a draw and the next was won by Oshawa. If they win today, they go in against Kingston in loop finals at once. With the Petes fading out of the picture till 1938. If the locals should cop the nod this afternoon, the deciding game of the serial will be Monday aft in the Motor City. Either Ogden or Biddle will hurl this tussle today with Whitehill or Kitchen getting the Collins' call. Should have the score by five o'clock or so.

THE Quinte scribe was talking the other day to Johnny (One Man Gang) Lalonde of the Trenton Fliers. The latter bragged that the R.C.A.F. rugbyists this fall would be the best-equipped outfit in this part of the country. Silk and wool pants and jerseys imported from the States (tch, tch, and this a Government airport!) with the latest in pads and foot gear. Seems to us Belleville had the best equipment last year but where did the team finish? You gotta have the guys inside those fancy sweaters. Lalonde says the grid title will be as easy for the Fliers to cop as hockey honors last year. He didn't say why the Fliers folded in lacrosse this summer and dropped right out after Auburns had smeared 'em.

LOU BROOKS has called a meeting of O.R.F.U. club delegates of Oshawa, Lindsay, Cobourg and Peterborough, for here Sept. 8th. It'll be at 8.30 p.m. in the Empress Hotel, and while only two may vote to a club, all those interested are invited to attend. They'll reorganize the group, draw up schedule, arrange for referees, etc. Hope to start playing on Sept. 18th, which is but two weeks away. The other Central Ontario group this year takes in Trenton Fliers, Belleville and two Kingston squads. Winners of each of these groups will likely playoff about the time snow flies. The Orfuns, some 30 of 'em, are having heavy drills in uniform nightly now at King Edward Park, and may switch to Riverside sometime next week. A few of those expected out haven't appeared yet. All prospects are invited.

* * * * * *

COBOURG will have a good grid squad this year. Chuck Peck and Fred Dufton have been drilling the boys hard lately and have four or five newcomers working with most of last year's tough crew. Mike Meikle, Balmy Beach intermediate last season, may team up with Edwards, Young and Henderson on the backfield. And there are a flock of others showing up well now, gees like Spooner, Bulger, Ibey, Boyce, Randall, Cancilla, Cooper, Johnston, Reymes and Lucas. Two other strangers, one named Jacobs, and fair prospects like Mitchell Rogers, Taylor, Haines and Thompson. No word yet of Barton and Schrum, two good huskies with the 1936 team. Yeah, those Lakeshore lads were tough onions a year ago and they'll be no softer this season, we expect.

* * * * * *

OTTAWA JOURNAL didn't have much to say on the gals' softball playoff there recently—those lasses' teams finishing up the series here today. The writer wrote: "A rally in the eighth inning when the local team scored their runs decided the contest. Lois Hudson allowed but three safeties and fanned seven batters. She also shone at bat with two singles in three times up. Irene Grenon hit a homer with two runners on. Outside of the eighth inning, Miss Betty Blade"—it's really Barbara, folks—"the visiting pitcher, was perfect. D. Merrett, M. Hawthorne and M. Allison were next in line in the field for Peterborough."

* * * * * *

WESTCLOX MEN took an 8-6 verdict over Kingston Dukes in their O.A.S.A. game here last eve before a fair crowd at Riverside. A good tilt marked by hard hitting in two frames by the Clockmakers. Pitching was fair for the winners and not so hot for the Dukes. Their other hurler, Stan Scrutton—playing left field—was chased from the game by Umpire Batley in the seventh for arguing a close decision at first too strenuously. The return joust is in the Limestone City on Tuesday, and it'll be a torrid series likely before the checks are all in. Bill Calladine led the Baptie bunch at bat with three for three, one a double, and also handled eight chances perfectly in the field. Dormer took care of six neatly and O'Leary roped in a couple of good grabs, besides getting a homer and single. For the Dukes, Collins and Scrutton had two hits each, the latter getting a three-bagger. They had two senior baseball players and the winners two.

OBSERVATION PLATFORM: We hear that ex-Umpire Woodley, of the Belleville juniors in O.B.A.A. playdowns—who kicked about the umping in a series here recently—is now yelling about Toronto umpires....Rugby prospects in Oshawa are none too rosy at the moment....But the Sougog boys are turning out in goodly numbers ....Understand Ken Graham, Eddie Starr, Doug Mowry and Bill Calladine, will motor together to see the world's series the end of the month....Postponed exhibition gals' softball game betwixt Keene and C.G.E. here may be staged next week....Oshawa and Auburns open their lacrosse playoffs Wednesday in the Motor City and finish them up here Friday...."Too many stolen bases," said Prexy Max Swanston of the C.O.B.L. after the last ball game here; we remember that they didn't steal many when Swanny was wearing the pads for the old Petes....Those Kingston gees sure hate to lose here, and their softballers last night were no different....Be seein' ya in a couple of weeks.

Oshawa Lacrossers Triumph In Semi-Final With Norwood

Homesters Win Final Game 14-13 But Lose Out on Round 39 to 23.

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORWOOD, Sept. 4.— Norwood defeated Oshawa 14 to 13 last night (Friday) in their last playoff game in the Norwood Arena. Oshawa took the round as a result of their 25 to 10 victory in Oshawa on Monday, and they advanced to the Central Ontario Lacrosse League finals against the Peterborough Auburns.

Norwood opened the scoring after 45 seconds of play, when Puffer scored. Hunter scored Norwood's second goal 3 minutes later. Sanders took De Gray's pass at the 6.30 mark to sink Oshawa's first goal. Three minutes later Richardson completed the scoring for the first period when he made it 3 to 1 for Norwood.

Oshawa came to life in the second period when they outscored Norwood 6 to 2. Whyte took Cooper's pass after 45 seconds to sink one for Oshawa, while Baron took Cook's pass at the 6-minute mark to tie it up for Oshawa. Armitage passed to Cook for another Oshawa marker 30 seconds later. Norwood tied it up again when Hunter scored on a pass from Richardson 2 minutes later. Oshawa came right back, with Baron scoring at 9.30 Rothwell scored for Norwood 1 minute later to again tie the score. Oshawa went one up when Le Roy scored at 11.30 and Sanders made it 7 to 5 for Oshawa when he scored 30 seconds before the second period ended.

Tight Third Period.

After 1 minute of play in the third period, Oke scored on a pass from Baron to add to Oshawa's lead. Richardson came back strong for Norwood when he sank one at the 3-minute mark. Baron took Oke's pass 2 minutes later to score another Oshawa goal, while Rothwell sank one for Norwood to make it 9 to 7 for Oshawa to start the fourth period.

After Le Roy took Sanders' pass to put Oshawa 3 up, after 2 minutes, Norwood opened up. Puffer scored for Norwood 45 seconds after and Baker notched another Norwood counter 30 seconds later. Richardson tied it up in another 30 seconds, while Puffer took McConnel's pass at the 4.15 mark to put Norwood one up. Armitage tied it for Oshawa when he took Baron's pass one minute later. Hunter put Norwood one up after 6 minutes, while Baker took Puffer's pass 2 minutes later to make it 13 to 11 for Norwood. Rothwell gave them a 3-goal lead one minute later. Sanders on a pass from De Gray reduced the lead to 2 goals, and Le Roy on a pass from Sanders brought Oshawa to within one goal of Norwood 2 minutes before the game finished. The Norwood stars were McConnell, Hunter, Richardson and Baker, while Oshawa's stand-outs were Baron, De Gray, Sanders and Cook.

The teams:

Oshawa—Goal, Clarke; defence, De Gray and Armour; centre, Cook; rover, Armitage; wings, Baron and Oke. Subs: Le Roy, Whyte, Cooper, Sanders, Fleming, Campbell and Hooper.

ELGIN DEADLOCKS HASTINGS SERIES

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 4.—Elgin tied their series with the Otulaws when they defeated them 13 to 12 with a 7-run rally in the seventh inning last night (Friday). It was a very loosely played contest.

Elgin scored their first run in the fourth innings on a hit and an error. They scored three in the fifth on a single, doubles by J. Preston and G. Richardson and three errors. They added two more in the sixth on errors. In the seventh, Elgin drove McKee to the showers when they scored seven runs on four hits, three errors, and a walk.

The Outlaws scored two in the first innings on a single, J. Bond's double, and two errors. They scored another in the third on a single and J. Bond's triple. Four more of "Dit" Clapper's Outlaws crossed the plate in the fourth on five hits. They scored another in the fifth when "Dit" Clapper doubled, went to third on an infield out, and scored on a passed ball. They completed their scoring in the sixth when they scored four on a single, "Casey" Radford's triple and three errors.

Fair Hurling

J. Richardson on the mound for Elgin, allowed 14 fairly well scattered hits, while striking out one and walking none. McKee started for the Otulaws, but was yanked in the seventh after giving Elgin nine hits, striking out eight and walking two. McCoy, who relieved him, allowed two hits, struck out none and passed none. "Dit" Clapper and Puffer, both of the Otulaws, led the hitters each with three hits in four times up. A. R. Richardson to G. Richardson to E. Preston double play in the seventh was the outstanding fielding event. The teams:

Outlaws—Radford, cf; Stickles, 3b; J. Bonds, c; C. McKee, p, lf; Clapper, 1b; McCoy, lf, p; Scriver, rf; Puffer, ss; Demoire, 2b, and G. Bonds, 2b.

Elgin—J. Preston, c; J. Richardson, p; Scott, 1b; E. Preston 2b; G. Richardson, 3b; R. Richardson, ss; Fleming, lf; Stinson, cf; Grady, rf.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
Outlaws	12	14	9
Elgin	13	11	8

Umpires — Wellman, plate; Jones and Knight, bases.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Hollywood, Calif. — Chief Paris, 150, Oklahoma, outpointed Glen Lee, 156, Nebraska, (10).

Atlantic City, N.J. — Jersey Joe Wolcott, 183, Camden, N.J. knocked out Joe Lipps, 184, Charlotte, N.C., (2); Henry Hook, Indianapolis, and Bobby Green, Philadelphia, drew, (10).

The Umpire Still Pursued Him

Mel Ott, diminutive, but hard-hitting third baseman of the New York Giants, is shown being forced out at third by the Pittsburg Pirate third-sacker Brubaker. The umpire looks kind o' mad about the whole business. But the Giants won both games of the double header at the Polo Grounds in New York.

Being Groomed For Big Fight

Before many more months have passed, Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, will have plenty to worry about as far as his boxing crown is concerned. Latest reports are that another "white hope" in the person of Jimmy Adamick is rapidly coming to the fore. He has won his last 37 bouts by the knockout route. In his latest encounter he hit his opponent so hard he broke his jaw. Adamick is seen here in a fighting pose.

TIGHT FINISH AT BELLEVILLE

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 4.—Featured by a finish which was all but a dead heat in the second heat of the 2.18 class, the harness races at Belleville Fair yesterday again proved the paramount attraction of the day.

In the close finish were Uni Gratton and The Heiress, with the former getting the nod of the judges held a brief conference. The Gratton horse went on to take the third heat, after finishing fourth in the opener.

Results of the day's races were:

2.25 Class—Purse $150

1. Roy McKillop	1	1	2
2. Wireless Hal, owned by J. T. Payette	3	2	1
3. Scottie Gratton, owned by C. Chapman	2	3	4
4. Worthy Gratton, owned by L. G. Bennett	4	4	3

Times, 2.10½; 2.10½; 2.19.

2.18 Class—Purse $150

WEEK'S PROGRAM

Monday, Sept. 6.—Mixed tournament, commencing at 2 p.m. Wide open; 25 cents fee.

Tuesday, Sept. 7.—Men's schedule and the following postponed games: R. Ross vs. H. Freeman, J. Harrison vs. E. Wall; D. Hill vs. K. Sloane.

Wednesday, Sept. 8.—Men's schedule and postponed games, H. Freeman vs. J. Fitzpatrick; F. Dearborn vs. Al Heckman.

ALTHOUGH our ladies did not win the Globe doubles Friday they did exceedingly well to reach the sixteens. There were 144 entries and, we repeat, Mrs. H. Staunton and Mrs. L. Yeates did well for the first time. They were only beaten by one point.

TWENTY MIXED rinks from Lakefield and our club made up the biggest Friday night tournament of the season. So keen was the competition that only one rink won all three games. The winning skip: J. Harrison, T. McDonald, H. Freeman, L. Loftus and Dr. Allan.

IT IS EXPECTED the draw for the ladies' and men's doubles will be posted in the clubhouse early next week.

Seek Improvements To Pressing Rooms

The Parks Committee of the City Council Friday night promised to meet local rugby officials at Riverside Park on Tuesday evening to look over the dressing rooms there and discuss possible improvements to them for the autumn. While reluctant to spend any money on the building, it was felt that certain improvements might be made at a low cost.

A rugby delegation waited upon the Council last night to make this request, pointing out that the dressing rooms were without sanitary accommodation and required some cleaning up work not only for the benefit of home teams but for visiting clubs—the latter often having to hit out in the cold between playing periods or stay in the bus the team travelled in. H. L. Bamforth represented the P.C.I. club, and officers of the Orfuns' club were Lou Brooks, H. A. Cranfield, James Morley and Walter Jackson.

Joe Louis And Schmeling To Give Battle Next June

Champion to Get 37 1-2 Per Cent, Challenger 20 of the Gate

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Champion Joe Louis and Max Schmeling, the only man to defeat the negro titleholder since he skyrocketed to fame, were matched yesterday for a 15-round championship bout "somewhere in the United States" in June, 1938.

Promoter Mike Jacoga announced that Schmeling, who had been holding out for 30 per cent. of the gate, had receded to 20 per cent and given him (Jacobs) a 1½ year contract on his services after the title match. Jacobs will control the German's affairs until September, 1939.

Louis, who won the title from Jimmy Braddock in June and defended it in record time against Tommy Farr of Wales this week, will get the usual champion's share of 37½ per cent.

When they meet in June Schmeling will be nearly 33 years old and Louis will be 24. Schmeling probably will be somewhat of a question mark because of the two years that will have elapsed at an age when a fighting man's efficiency fades rapidly.

Schmeling hasn't had a fight since he stretched the Brown Bomber on the canvas, but Louis has crawled through the ropes nine times since then without defeat. And Mike Jacobs indicated that the Bomber probably would have at least three more bounts before June.

Schmeling signed the fight contract last evening after five and a half-hours of bickering over clauses in the agreement. Louis will sign later, his manager, Julian Black, already having agreed to the terms.

Maxie will sail for Germany tonight on the Bremen. He may return to the United States to fight one tune-up match for Mike Jacobs before June. Or he may engage in a tune-up fight in Germany. Under his contract, Max is allowed to do either. But if he boxes in Germany, he is not permitted to meet Tommy Farr, Bob Pastor, Jim Braddock or either of the Brothers Baer, Maxie and Buddie.

Louis is not bound to refrain from fighting or defending his title meanwhile. But if he should lose the title, Promoter Jacobs agrees in the contract that Schmeling will meet the new champion in June and receive 35 per cent. of the gate instead of 20.

It is also specified in the contract that the Louis-Schmeling winner will defend the title in September, 1938, against the winner of Promotor Jacobs' heavyweight elimination tournament.

O.A.S.A. To Consider Protest By Napanee

GUELPH, Sept. 4 (CP)—Meeting of the sub-committee of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association is being held in Hamilton (Royal Connaught Hotel), Saturday, to hear a protest lodged by Napanee Mic Macs regarding the first game of the intermediate "C" semi-finals with Havelock Albions last Saturday.

Napanee claims the Havelock pitcher refused to comply with demands to wear a team sweater, pitching instead in a light jersey. Havelock in defense claims their pitcher suffered from a skin ailment which prevented wearing the regulation sweater.

CURFEW BALKS ORIOLES' MARCH

TORONTO, Sept. 4 (CP)—Since the civic fathers of Baltimore have taken a hand in the affairs of the Orioles to the extent of limiting their nocturnal activities, it begins to look as if they should go further and dig up a couple of pitchers who could get games finished within the time limit.

Twice in as many nights the Orioles efforts to earn a place in the International League playoffs by the doubleheader route have been balked by the combination of the 11.30 curfew rule and the league-leading Newark Bears. After playing a 15-inning game Thursday they couldn't get started on a second clash. Last night the first game turned out to be such a slugfest they barely got in the legal five innings of the second before it was called.

Orioles lost both games last night. A three-run splurge in the eighth gave the champions the opener, 9-7. They won the short afterpiece, 6-3.

Syracuse, meanwhile, split a loosely played bargain bill with Jersey City, losing the first game, 7-5, and winning the second, 6-5. Buffalo batted out a single 5-3 decision over Toronto Leafs. The second-place Montreal Royals, who ought to give Newark a lively tussle in the playoffs the way they're going now defeated Red Wings 19-0.

CANADIAN THREAT FALLS IN TENNIS

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 4 (A.P.) — A combination of oppressive heat, unfortunate playing conditions and a comparative "unknown" who refused to be impressed by an international reputation, yesterday robbed the men's United States tennis singles championships of one of its most attractive performers.

As thirty-two survivors of the star-studded starting field of 100 advanced into the third round, the Canadian threat was turned aside when M. Laird Watt of Montreal bowed in the second round, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3, to Jiro Yamaguhi, Japanese Davis Cup star.

Paddy Jones Dies Lengthy Illness

HAMILTON, Sept. 4 (CP).—Patrick (Paddy) Jones, 46, for many years sports editor of the former Hamilton Herald, died yesterday after a protracted illness. In his younger days he was an outstanding baseball player. Mr. Jones played with the locally famous Keystones from the old "Corktown" district. His father, the late Mickey Jones, was a professional pitcher for several seasons. Paddy, as he was known, started as a junior at the Hamilton Spectator. In 1912 he became sports editor.

Westclox Cop Nod Over Kingston Dukes

Local Softbalers Win First in O.A.S.A. Playdown Series With Timely Hitting.

Westclox copped an 8-6 nod over Kingston Dukes here last night in the first game of their second round O.A.S.A. intermediate playdown series. A fair-sized crowd at Riverside Park saw the Clockmen come from behind to score all their runs in the sixth and seventh frames on hard hitting. It was an exciting scrap most of the way on a slippery diamond. Second of the two-in-three series will be in Kingston on Tuesday.

The visitors got two runs in the fourth and added three more in the fifth. But Westclox broke through for a trio of markers in the sixth and took a safe lead with a five-run splash in a big seventh stanza. Kingston added one more in the eighth. Stan Scrutton, a pitcher playing in left field, was chased from the game by Umpire Batley in the seventh during a heated argument over a close decision at first base.

Use Two Hurlers

Lefty Sturgeon started for the locals and went good till the fourth when three hits and an error counted two runs against him. A walk, error, triple and an out sent in three more Kingston counters next heat. He gave way starting the seventh to Tom Parsons, who finished up in good style, despite a walk, hit and error for a run in the eighth. Hurley hurled the full game for the losers and went all right but for two bad frames when the Baptie boys got all their runs. There were few strike-outs and walks in this tilt, and the flingers had fair fielding support.

Bill Calladine led the hitters with a double and two singles in three times up. O'Leary got a homer and single, P. Calladine a two-bagger and single, and Ellis two singles. Kearns and Sturgeon also hit doubles. For Kingston, S. Scrutton had a triple and single, and Collins two singles. The fielding of Buck and W. Calladine, a fast double play by the losers, and a catch by O'Leary were defensive features.

How They Scored

An error and hits by S. Scrutton, Rawley and Collins accounted for Kingston's two runs in the fourth. They got three next time up on a miscue, a walk, S. Scrutton's triple and an out. In the eighth, a walk, an error and a hit by Hurley sent in their final run. Westclox got three in the sixth on a walk, P. Calladine's double and O'Leary's homer with one on. They got five in the seventh on two errors, singles by Ellis, Parsons and P. Calladine and two-baggers by Kearns and W. Calladine.

YANKEES DROP THIRD IN ROW

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The New York Yankees suffered their third straight loss and had their American League lead cut a full game when they lost to the Washington Senators, 4 to 2. Ken Chase, 23-year-old southpaw, turned the Bronx Bombers back with seven scattered hits while his mates assembled eleven, including four doubles, off Red Ruffing.

The Yankee defeat enabled the Detroit Tigers to gain a full game with a 4 to 3 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Elden Auker and Boots Poffenberger combined to hold the Sox to eight hits, and the Tigers scrapped nine off Vernon Kennedy, including a home run by Gerry Walker. Rudy York's single in the seventh drove Gehringer home with the winning run.

In the only other game, the Cleveland Indians slugged a 15 to 3 victory over St. Louis while Johnny Allen held the Browns to nine hits. Campbell and Lary homered for the Tribe; Clift for St. Louis.

HAVELOCK GAINS EASTERN ONTARIO JUNIOR HONOURS

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Sept. 4.—The Havelock "Wreckers" became the Junior "B" champions of Eastern Ontario last evening when they walloped the Odessa Juniors 16 to 3, taking the final round in two straight games. Although very much handicapped by the loss of their star pitcher, Don Clarke, the local boys, with Cliff Kennedy on the mound, had little difficulty in defeating their opponents. Kennedy, as well as going the full route in both games, also smashed out two homers, establishing himself as leading batsman of the series.

Havelock took the lead from the first, with Odessa making their only threat in the third and fourth when they scored all three runs, and tied it up. Going into the fifth the Wreckers started on a batting spree, ten runs crossing the plate to practically cinch the game. Two more were added in the seventh and another in the ninth to make the final score 16 to 3.

The teams:
Odessa: M. Pauley, K. Pauley, B. Cairns, Henderson, Haman, Lollar, F. Lollar, C. Snider, L. Wright.
Havelock: McMullen, Ketchen, McCutcheon, Kennedy, Peters, Harnden, Puffer, Pollock, Bedford.

DODGERS BEAT TERRY CLAN TO HELP CHICAGO

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The New York Giants' National League lead was trimmed to a half game yesterday when they were walloped 18 to 7 by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Jimmy Bucher and Babe Phelps, each with five safeties in six trips, paced the Dodgers' 18-hit attack off Melton, Brennan and Baker. Bucher homered for Brooklyn and Leiber for New York. Waite Hoyt was the winning pitcher, scattering 10 hits in 6 2-3 innings before he was knocked from the box by a five-run Giant assault in the seventh.

The defeat left the Chicago Cubs, who with the Pittsburg Pirates were idle, trailing New York by only .005 percentage points.

Jim Turner chalked up his fifth straight and sixteenth win of the season, limiting the Philadelphia Phillies to seven hits as he buried the Boston Bees to a 7 to 2 decision. It took a five-run burst in the tenth inning to win Johnson's homer coupled with doubles by Moore, Fletcher and Turner. DiMaggio's single and a pair of errors thrown in furnished the power. The Bees got 15 hits off Mulcahy and Jorgens, three each by DiMaggio, Johnson and Fletcher.

TELEPHONE TALKS IN THE WATSON FAMILY

Meet "General Donald"
. . . an Army of Thousands Obeys his Commands!
As little Donny Watson talks to his Aunt Mary 200 miles away, he is using a service that keeps an army of thousands of men and women in pleasant and profitable employment, eager to serve the communication needs of a nation.
Even as most of us forget that the purpose of Labour Day is to honour the working man, we forget also how much scientific advance has lightened his load and created new and more agreeable occupations.
In making man's work easier, the telephone is playing a tremendously important part. It is no exaggeration to say that thousands of Telephone people —happy in congenial employment—are immeasurably better off than if old, cumbersome modes of communication were still in use. And so are we all . . to whom telephone service has become an accepted everyday convenience.

Prosecuting Attorney

A former resident of Nova Scotia, Jeanette Chisholm (ABOVE), only woman assistant district attorney in the state of Massachusetts, poses for photographers after she had handled the arraignment of Edward P. Simpson, held in connection with a police slaying. Miss Chisholm, second youngest daughter in a family of eight, worked in a Boston five-and-ten store, but later became a restaurant cashier, going to law school at night. The attractive young woman has prosecuated many men, but the present case is the first murder charge which she has handled.

AMOY IS BOMBARDED.

AMOY, China, Sept. 4.—(AP).—A Japanese cruiser and four Japanese destroyers bombarded this southwestern port city for four hours to-day and supporting planes bombed the Chinese military headquarters and fortress for one hour. In Chinese land batteries returned the fire but were unable to damage the attacking ships.

PEIPING, Sept. 4.—(AP).—A food shortage in this city of 1,500,000 inhabitants now under Japanese domination was relieved to-day with receipt of flour and rice supplies from Manchoukuo and distribution of food rations abandoned by the 29th Chinese Army.

TOMMY MANVILLE HAS GOT LAWYER AND NEW MANAGER

CHATEAU BON REPOS, New Rochelle, N.Y., Sept. 4 (AP).—Exhausted from the rigors of acquiring a new lawyer—no others need, for the moment, apply—and a winsome "new manager," Tommy Manville slept to a late hour in the master bedroom of his "house of good rest" today.

Telegrams and letters of application still poured into the secretary of the Asbestos millionaire who stacked them in a waste-basket.

But Tommy had already retained Frank Devlin, New York attorney, who had paid no attention to yesterday's full-page newspaper advertisement: "Wanted: a lawyer, Tommy Manville."

Said Manville: "Manville retained Devlin. Manville paid Devlin no fee. Rumors that Manville paid $100,000 are incorrect."

And the new manager? She is Jean Ryan, 18, of Hollywood. She is blond. She announced: "I'm a fighter. I'm not an April-born fighter, I'm a June-born fighter."

Tommy, you see, had specified that he wanted to be surrounded by April-born fighters to assist him in his fight against the $1,000,000-demand of his fourth wife, the former Marcelle Edwards, who seeks a divorce.

Jean said she would stay right by Tommy's side to inspire him in his battle and Tommy made her status clear by announcing her as his new manager.

Devlin succeeds Samuel Hartman, discharged four days ago with a $5,000 cheque.

And Manville issued an official communique, asserting:

"There is no possibility of Manville spending his millions to avoid payment to his last and fourth wife. He has offered and will pay upward of $200,000 for a complete divorce with no threats.

"Manville sincerely regrets all this throuble for which I am not to blame. Some people think Manville is crazy for spending his money. He cannot understand why they criticize a man for being generous."

DIET IS CALLED VOTES WAR FUNDS

TOKYO, Sept. 4.—(CP-Havas).—Clad in military uniform, Emperor Hirohito to-day opened the special session of the Diet called to vote funds for prosecution of the Chinese campaign.

"It has always been our utmost concern to establish peace and stability in the Far East by cooperation between the Empire and China," said the Emperor.

"We deeply regret China failed to understand Japan's true intention and that, it resorted to provocations leading up to the present incident.

"Our soldiers are now showing their loyalty and courage in spite of innumerable difficulties to attain the aim of causing China to reconsider and thus firmly establish peace in the Far East. We hope our subjects will do their best to reach the goal thus determined."

Jap Commander

Commander-in-chief of the Japanese forces in China, General Kiyoshi Katsuki is shown ABOVE in a photograph taken at the front lines of the Japanese forces in northern China. Under his command the Japanese invaders captured both Tientsin and Peiping after days of fighting.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By
MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 26

A tiny blacksmith beat 10 strokes on his tiny anvil in the clock on Mari's desk—she was Mari to everyone, even herself now. The telephone rang imperiously and another messenger with another cable arrived at that precise moment.

Mari let her breath out with a whistle and pulled her fur toque over her head determinedly. Slipping one arm into her coat, with the other she reached for the directory. She ran her finger down the A's.

American University Union....

She read the address, jotted it down on a piece of paper and put it in her handbag. "I'll be back in half an hour," she said to the vendeuse who had been engaged to substitute for Anetka. "I'm going to get me an American secretary. I'm too woozy to make head or tail of what these cables mean."

Mari was back in less than an hour with Miss Letitia Higgins, late of Kansas City, who was in the years to come to prove to be her right hand.

"Look," Mari said directly to the Picture of Efficiency, "we haven't much money and I can't pay you a salary that will dazzle you but I need help badly. I need a good common sense point of view to apply to what is happening. A month ago this shop was doing splendidly in a nice, mild progressive way and I thought that I was a capable business woman. But suddenly—in fact in the last three days—things have been happening that make me feel that, perhaps, I am losing my reason."

The Picture of Efficiency regarded her solemnly through thick-rimmed glasses.

"People have been pouring in here like cattle." She waved her hand beyond the black silk curtain that had been hastily draped over the doorless doorway separating the office from the salon. "I've engaged more sewing women and cutters, and been trying to get fabrics through in an impossible shortness of time. But I can't cope with these telegrams!"

"May I read them?"

Gladly, Mari handed over the pile of cables.

"Now, if you'll permit me," Letitia replied in a business-like voice, "I'll answer these at once. I think, under the circumstances, the best answer is merely that you find it impossible at the moment to consider any of them. You'll be glad to let them know, etc."

Mari looked at her new jewel with awe. "Of course," she murmured. "But don't you think we might lose some of them—I mean the manufacturers who are interested in America and the people who want me to give interviews and write for them—if we put it off?"

Miss Higgins glanced at her with surprise. "Not you!" she replied firmly. "You're a legend. Be hard to get! Now, then, your engagement book. Make those people wait. No good can come of exhausting yourself. I think we'd better get a purchasing agent so that you won't have to do the shopping yourself."

Mari combed her hair, powdered her nose and went out to greet her clients.

Two hours later she sent a note to Anetka to tell her the things that had been happening during the morning. And then the thought came back to her of what had happened the night before.

In the bland light of mid-day, it seemed ridiculous that her remark about spies and government agents could have frightened Anetka. And that, in turn, Anetka's fright had been transmitted to her. It had been long ago, she had said to Anetka; but in Europe, 20 years was not so long ago when intrigue seethed constantly beneath their daily lives.

Had Anetka been involved, or was she still involved—in some political plot? It wasn't unlikely, Mari thought worriedly.

Perhaps the authorities had not known where Anetka was. Perhaps this publicity from America had revealed her whereabouts. There had been a dark man, suspicious in appearance, waiting in a car when Mari had arrived that morning. For an instant Mari thought that she had seen him peering through the windows later in the morning.

Letitia made her a cup of tea, brought her a salad from a nearby restaurant at 3. It was the first calm hour of the day.

Mari felt rested, relieved by the efficiency of her American helper, glad for someone to talk to.

"Miss Higgins," she said, sipping her tea, "Always remain a pearl beyond price. Always be as perfect a secretary as you are and never indulge in ridiculous ideas of grandeur, importance or intrigue."

"Of course no, Madame."

"And I'm not 'Madame', Miss Higgins, I'm Mary Barrett of Brooklyn."

Miss Higgins permitted herself a slight start. "It's a long way from Brooklyn to Paris. I used to live in Brooklyn and I know."

"Did you?" Mari said a trifle wistfully. "Did you live in a brownstone house and go to the museum and the park? Did you resent people who said that Brooklyn was the end of the world? Did you ever thrill to the lights of the brige on a night in February?"

"I lived on Brooklyn Heights and I loved it. All the lovely, old dignified houses and the quaint streets called 'Cranberry' and 'Orange' and ....."

Mari put down her cup. Very firmly, she said, "Letitia Higgins, please don't ever let me get wistful about.....about New York. I might surprise you—and myself—by breaking down. Paris is the most beautiful city in the world. At least, that's what the architects say, and it's been good to me. I want to forget that I ever knew anything else.

She turned her eyes away from the accusing eyes of Miss Higgins. She couldn't say that as long as she lived her heart would be in America.

Having indulged herself briefly, she went back to work, dismissing thoughts that, try as she would, she could keep no deeper than under the layer of her immediate consciousness.

There was immediate work for her and no time for thoughts of her heart, her home, or her momentary fears concerned with the things that Anetka had put into her mind.

She was to think of them again later in the afternoon when again she saw the dark-bearded man she had seen in the morning. Twice, while she sketched and discussed the relative merits of cotton jersey as against corded wool with an English client, she saw him pass her small window. Each time her heart took a sickening dive and her thoughts strayed far from fabrics.

That night she dreamed of firing squads and conclave dark-bearded men sentencing her for a crime she knew nothing about.

The next morning she found the answer.

Into the little shop promptly at 11 o'clock there came a committee of three dark-bearded gentlemen.

Mari received them in her infinitestimal office, at first with misgivings then with incomprehension, and finally, with awe.

They were, they told her, the representatives of a combine of textile houses. They had come to offer her capital with which to open a great house.

"How ever did she grow so tall?"

"Why she's like a giant orphan rabbit!"

"And look at Daddy! He's almost as tall as the church steeple!"

A group of Uncle Wiggily's rabbit children, playing games outside the camping tent at Blue Lake, paused to look at the two tall rabbits walking toward them.

For a few seconds the wondering rabbit children did not know what had happened to cause their father and the little orphan rabbit, who made her home with them, look so tall. But as the two tall ones came slowly nearer it could be seen that they were walking on wooden stilts.

"Oh, may we have some?" called Buster who was all cured now, of Meanitis, which means he would let anyone take his paddle ball toy when he wasn't using it and sometimes when he was. "Please, Daddy, make stilts for us."

Consents

"All right," agreed Mr. Longears. "I will. That is I'll make stilts for the rabbit girls. The rabbit boys ought to be able to make their own stilts if I show them how."

"Sure we can!" declared Buster.

"I'm going to learn how to make stilts, too," said Baby Bunty. "I might forget mine some day and I might need them in the woods. So I'm going to learn how to make stilts."

The little orphan rabbit jumped down off her stilts and Uncle Wiggily got off his. The other rabbit children were told how Bunty had asked Mr. Longears if there were ever real giants, and how he offered to show her how to make herself look tall by walking on stilts.

Baby Bunty soon learned how to use the stilts which were blocks of wood for paw rests, nailed on long sticks of wood. The lower part of the long pieces of wood were the parts that touched the ground to be walked on. The high upper part of the stilts went up around the shoulders to lean against.

Soon the boy rabbits were making their stilts and Uncle Wiggily was making other stilts for the girl rabbits.

Tells How

"Lift up your stilts, one after another in turn, with your paws," said Uncle Wiggily. "Keep your hind paws on the wooden cleat or step, lifting your paws as you lift each stilt. In this way you can walk along quite fast and high in the air."

Soon all the rabbit children were stalking around on stilts. Baby Bunty could walk better than any of the others as she began first. And, being a very small rabbit, the stilts made Bunty seem as big and brave as Uncle Wiggily himself. The animal children had lots of fun stilting about.

One day Baby Bunty was out in the woods alone. All of a sudden she heard a rustling in the bushes. Then she heard voices. She looked between the bushes and saw the Fox and Bob Cat.

"Oh, if I only had a pair of stilts now I could scare these Bad Chaps into thinking I was a giant rabbit!" thought Bunty.

Quickly, she fastened some cleats for her paws on two long sticks, binding them on with honeysuckle vines. Then, before the Bad Chaps could reach her, Bunty started walking on her stilts.

She walked toward the Bad Chaps but they didn't know her because she was so tall. "Oh, it's a giant! Let's run!" they cried. Away they ran!

Ha! Ha! Weren't they fooled! And if the hair brush will hop to the barber's to get shaved, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's Surprise.

SAYS ANY WOMAN CONQUER ANY MAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (CP).—Man may be the hunter, but it's the woman who makes the running, believes Sidney Fox, diminutive star of "Having Wonderful Time."

"Any intelligent woman could make any man fall in love with her," she said. "Sometimes it's sub-conscious."

Demure, brown-eyed and five-foot two, Miss Fox plays a lovelorn stenographer in the show which was good enough to survive the doldrums of Broadway in summertime.

"It takes about half an hour to figure them out," she sighed.

"First no intelligent woman is going to let the man know what's happening. Men still think they're conquerors; they like to do the chasing. Never accept a man the first time.

"On the positive side, you have to make yourself his ideal woman. A good many men are surprised later to find out they've married a totally different person from the one they thought they were marrying."

IMPALED BY CAR HANDLE.

MEAFORD, Ont., Sept. 4 (CP).—Ray Heppenstall, 16, was impaled by the sharp handle of an automobile door when struck and knocked from his bicycle here last night. The handle still was in the boy's side when picked up after the accident.

Known as Kadira, King of the Kraals, Ceylon's most famous decoy elephant, who was without an equal in leading wild pachyderms into traps, has died at the age of 78.

New South Wales is spending $128,000 in a war on grasshoppers.

King's Highway Ramblings

News Notes From District Outskirts

CORDWOOD LOST

NORWOOD—Fire breaking out among the cord-wood piles on the property of Edgar T. Buck on the 8th line of Dummer during the past week destroyed between forty and fifty cords of valuable wood, which had been cut last winter.

Mr. Buck was notified late Friday evening and securing assistance drove back and fought the flames throughout the night. By morning the fire was well under control but a close watch has been kept on the property in case of fresh outbreaks during the dry weather. The cause of the fire is unknown.

BUMPER BERRY YIELD

CAMPBELLFORD.—Roy Oliver of Campbellford is believed to hold a Provincial, if not a Dominion championship in the matter of growing raspberries on a production basis.

The Campbellford man planted a half acre of Latham plants in 1934. No additional plants have since been added.

In an affidavit given by William A. Hogle and Company, nurserymen of Campbellford this year, the production was claimed to total 7,200 pint boxes of the berries.

Advised of the extraordinary yield, G. C. Chamberlain, plant pathologist of the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology at St. Catharines, declared it to be a phenomenal record. "I can't recall any production to come near this figure," he wrote in his letter.

EARLY DUCK SEASON

MARMORA.—Duck hunters will get an earlier start at their favorite sport, according to a statement just released by the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries.

Highway No. 7 this year will be the dividing line between the two duck hunting areas in the Central Ontario district. In territory north of Highway No. 7 the season will open September 15 and continue to November 15. In the areas south of Highway No. 7 the season will extend from October 1st to November 30th.

PARTRIDGES PLENTIFUL

BANCROFT.—Partridge are more numerous in the northern section of the county this year, according to Edward Venton, Bancroft district trucker, who during the past few weeks on his various trips through the north has seen them along the rail fences and in the hardwood bush. Favorable breeding conditions this year are held by the Bancroft man as being responsible for the increase in the birds.

Wild ducks, also, are stated by local fishermen to be plentiful in Bay of Quinte marshes where already the birds have started to congregate in flocks.

STILL ACTIVE AT 91

PORT HOPE.—John J. Hunt, well known Brown street resident, recently celebrated his 91st birthday but when he attempts to point this out to his friends they smile at him in disbelief for he carries his 91 years much more lightly than most men 20 years his junior. Long a trainer of race horses he has, he asserts, more than 80 wins with a high-wheel sulky to his credit and points with reasonable pride to the fact that the last of these was at the age of 83 when he drove a winner on the Canadian National Exhibition track at Toronto. He can drive just as well today, he declares, and enjoys nothing better than to recall his turf experiences.

GOOD PRICES REALIZED DOURO FARM AUCTION

DOURO, Sept. 4.—The sale of farm stock and implements on the farm of Mrs. Margaret Allen drew a large crowd and good prices were realized. Fat cattle sold from $46 to $49; cows, $28 to $42; year-old cattle, $26.50; pigs, $13; sheep, $9. Machinery brought fair prices. Household goods also brought fair prices, a radio $34, Alladin table lamp, $2.75, Alladin floor lamp, $4, etc. Mrs. Allen intends to reside in Detroit.

POLICE GET MEDALS

REGINA—(CP)—Several officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were presented with their Coronation medals by Lieut.-Governor A. P. McNab at an annual sports day program here. Assistant Commissioner D. Ryan, Supt. T. H. Irvine and Inspector A. S. Cooper, received their second Coronation medal, being presented with one in Buckingham Palace at the Coronation of King George V in 1911.

A Bundle of NERVES

How often you hear a woman say, "I'm just a bundle of nerves . . . I didn't close my eyes all night . . . I haven't had a good night's sleep for months".

It is dangerous to your looks . . . dangerous to your health . . . dangerous to your happiness to allow your nerves to get into a state like that. You MUST relax. You MUST sleep. You MUST rest.

Ovaltine is used in hospitals and sanatoriums as an aid to sleep. It contains no drugs.

Its soothing effect at bed-time is immediate. You sleep and awake refreshed. Try it. Phone your druggist or your grocer now.

A.F. OF L. OPENS DOOR TO UNIONS OF C.I.O. GROUP

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 4—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today the Federation would welcome back the 10 suspended C.I.O. unions if they returned without any conditions.

Their return, he said, would be the first step toward reuniting the United States Labor movement, divided into two bitterly warring camps since John L. Lewis started the committee for industrial organization in November, 1935.

If the C.I.O. unions took this step—and Green frankly said he doubted they would—the next move toward final peace, he said, would be appointment of a joint committee of A.F. of L. and C.I.O. leaders to work out a detailed settlement.

"I recognize that there would be many complicated problems to be solved," Green said.

Dual Unions Problem.

"The hardest of these probably would result from the C.I.O.'s recognition of dual unions in the radio and electrical and shipbuilding industries. Those unions never belonged to the American Federation of Labor.

"The Radio and Electrical Workers' Union (C.I.O.) is trying to organize the territory that belongs to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A.F. of L.). The Marine and Shipyard Workers (C.I.O.) is trying to enroll the workers who should go into various metal trades unions (A.F. of L.).

"On the other hand, we have organized textile workers, metal miners, ladies' garment workers, and have chartered the progressive miners of America, all in territory claimed by the C.I.O. unions.

Keep Fight In Family.

"There would be dozens of these problems, some hard and some easy. But I think there are men big enough on each side — John Lewis, Sidney Hillman, Matthew Woll and Dan Tobin, just to name a few—to solve those problems once the C.I.O. leaders decided to try.

"The issue of craft versus industrial unionism would still remain. But we could fight it out in the true democratic way within the family of labor—not between two warring groups as we are fighting today."

WARSAW MEETINF IS MUCH ENJOYED

WARSAW, Sept. 4.—The United Church W.M.S. met at Mrs. Harold Payne's home on Thursday afternoon, September 2. Mrs. Wilkinson presided. The subject for the day, "Drink and the Nation," was taken by Mrs. Robert Moore, who took a good deal from the Northern Messenger. Mrs. Moore read a short poem, "Absolute Unselfishness." Mrs. Arthur Payne sang "I Have Been Above With Jesus." The service closed with singing "Rescue the Perishing" and the Mizpah Benediction.

The quarterly tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. Harold Payne, assisted by Miss Clara McCracken, Mr. R. Moore, Mrs. Arthur Payne and Mr. Harry Digweed. Tables were set in the dining-room and Mr. Wilkinson joined the gathering.

Six Paralysis Cases In Town of Lindsay

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY, Sept. 4.—Lindsay was visited Friday afternoon by a violent rain and hail storm, causing damage in some sections of the town when the flood water entered cellars. Four catch basins at the corner of Lindsay and Russell streets were plugged and water flooded the roadway and nearby property. The Separate school campus was a miniature lake and the water entered the cellar of J. Burke's grocery, considerable damage was done the stock. The flood water was so high at the street intersection that citizens were obliged to detour.

Lightning Destroys Barn and New Crops

HASTINGS, Sept. 4.—Struck by lightning at 9.30 a.m. Friday a barn on the farm of George F. Stevenson, four miles east of here, was destroyed by fire with its crop of hay and grain and some machinery. The loss was estimated at more than $2,000 and was covered by insurance. When the blaze was discovered by Mr. Stevenson he managed to release the livestock and save the harness. A drive shed nearby caught fire, but the flames were put out by neighbors before any damage was done. Harvesters had just finished threshing and all the grain was in the barn.

YOUNG WRITERS SHOULD AVOID LONG SENTENCES

TORONTO, Sept. 4—(CP). — Young writers should avoid the use of long words and sentences, P. D. Ross, president of The Ottawa Journal, told a group of newspaper men at the Press Day luncheon on Friday of the Canadian National Exhibition directors. "The greatest end in writing is to make the meaning clear," he said.

"The English language has two arenas," Mr. Ross said. "In the arena of sciences, geography and kindred subjects, Latin is the basis of many words." The language of science is difficult and complicated due to the long words, Mr. Ross believed.

"Expressions of the spirit are derived from the Anglo-Saxon and short words are overwhelmingly dominant.

"In the English language the highest expression of the spirit is in the short word—word of one syllable. The English language is the most compact language of civilization.

"In translating the Gospel of St. Mark into European languages it was found 29,000 English syllables required 33,000 syllables in French and 36,000 in German, said Mr. Ross.

"In the whole range of English poetry there is not more than four or five per cent. of words of more than two syllables. Twelve to 15 per cent are words of two syllables and 80 per cent. of the words of English poetry are of one syllable.

RUSSIA, ITALY VERGE OF BREAK OVER SUB PIRACY

OTTAWA BUYING DROUGHT AREA FEEDER CATTLE

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—(C.P.)— A Government cattle purchasing policy has been instituted in Western Canada in a new attack on the drought problem, Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced here to-day. The minister returned to his office today after spending more than a month in surveying the worst conditions in the history of the West.

In the past three weeks, Mr. Gardiner said 50,000 cattle were taken from the drought areas, more than were moved in 1936. Of these, 30,000 were moved under the freight and feeder policy by which the Government pays half the feright and half the passenger fares of eastern buyers.

The remaining 20,000 were bought by the Government under the new policy and moved East. So far the department has had to depend on the ordinary channels in disposing of them. Hereafter, however, they will be taken to the 160,000-acre pasturage reserve set up by the Government near Carberry, Man., where they can be purchased by Eastern buyers under the half-freight plan.

100,000Acre Pasture.

"We have set aside a large pasturage of 100,000 acres in Manitoba," said the Minister. "We are having cattle assembled at shipping points throughout the drought areas and graders are being sent there to grade the cattle.

"We are taking delivery on the basis of the market price and paying cash on delivery.

"Canners and butchers are being shipped directly to markets. All the others are being taken to the pasture. Those shipped to pasture are being assembled in carload lots on uniform classification and sold in carloads.

"Farmers going from the East to buy carload lots on the half-freight plan can secure them at the pasture.

In the past three weeks we have handled about 50,000 cattle or more than the entire amount handled in 1936.

"The pasture was not ready until the end of last week and we have, therefore had to handle more than 20,000 through the ordinary channels."

From now, however, the supply will be fairly steady, he added.

It is not expected there will be any profit from purchase policy, the expense to the government being probably $1 a head.

"If there is any profit," he said, "it will be divided up."

70,000 Farmers With No Crop.

Mr. Gardiner's survey served to emphasize the enormity of the problem.

"In Western Canada there are 70,000 farmers with no crop and no feed," he said. "And there is no surplus to take care of any more."

Conditions were so severe the government would have to confine itself to assisting those in the drought areas. The scarcity of feed prevented the government from taking care of the others.

"Last year," he said, "we shipped in 250,000 tons of feed. This year we should have 1,000,000 tons. But only half that amount is in sight."

An effort would be made to see that every family in the West would be able to keep the minimum number of animals necessary — two or three cows, eight work horses and one bee, animal. For those who have more the best plan in the difficult areas was to have them disposed of in markets outside the prairies.

HITLER STRESSES NAZI SOLIDARITY

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 7.—(AP).—Chancellor Hitler stressed Nazi Germany's solidarity with Japan and Italy to-day against "Communist confusion" in East and West.

His annual proclamation, read to the Nazi Congress by Adolf Wagner, Bavarian Nazi leader, also reiterated Germany's demand for return of her war-lost colonies and called the attitude of other Powers toward this demand "incomprehensible."

Italy, Japan and Germany are bound together in a community of interest, he said, for all three are committed to "a defence of world civilization against attacks which break out today in Spain, tomorrow in the Orient, perhaps the day after to-morrow, somwhere else."

He added:

"The natural community of interests between National Socialist Germany and Fascist Italy has in recent months shown itself more and more an element in defence of Europe against chaotic imbecility.

"Our (anti-Communist) agreement with Japan serves the same fundamental mission—to stand together in defence of world civilization."

Reviews Accomplishments.

His proclamation was a review of the achievents of the regime since he came to power and an outline of the new objectives of the coming year.

The crisis troubling the world, said Hitler, is no more controversy of "boundaries between peoples and states, but a question of maintenance or destruction of mankind's social order and civilization itself," adding:

"If Germany, like Italy, is able in the midst of these disturbances to stand as a secure and mighty stronghold, then it is only because national Socialism itself has travelled along the road to social revolution without first violently destroying the existing order and thus transforming the basis of our political and cultural life into chaos."

Toronto, New York Markets Crash, War Scare

Nervous Selling Sees Stocks Drop From $2-$9 Share

European And Oriental Situation Also Combine To Send Wheat Soaring

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (CP).—Leaders of the Toronto stock market cashed down $2 to $9 on nervous selling today, trailing foreign markets. The new threats of war in Europe were apparently the unsettling influence. The big metals, nickel, Noranda and Smelters declined $4 to $7 and the preferred paper issues Great Lakes and Abitibi were off $7 to $9. Dom. Steel B, Brazilian and other industrial leaders slumped $2 or more. All the golds fell into line on the down grade.

The decline was slow through the early session but accelerated its pace in mid-afternoon with the big metals showing the way. Noranda clipped to 52 for a loss of 8½ points and Smelters at 71 was off 7½. Hudson Bay slipped back about $3 and Nickel about $5. Falconbridge and Sherritt boarded recessions of 40 to 65 cents each and Aldermac, Normetal, Pend Oreille, Waite-Amulet and Sudbury Basin weakened 20 to 35 cents each, Eldorado, around 2.20 was down 40 cents.

Among the big golds Dome dropped about 1½ and smaller losses were posted for Lakeshore, McIntyre-Hollinger and Buffalo-Ankerite and in the secondary group losses of 15 to 35 cents came out for Siscoe, Bralorne, Little Long Lac, Macassa, Paramour, Teck Hughes, Wright Hargreaves Central Patricia, Kirkland Lake, Moneta, Read-Authier, Oro Plata, Airways, Powell-Rouyn, Sladen, Stadacona, Premier, Perron and Macleod-Cockshutt.

Brazilian dropped about 4 points and other utilities included Montreal Power Beauharnois, Canada Steamships and C.P.R. sold down. Distillers- Seagrams showed a three-point decline and Walkers eased about 1½ points. Other beverages were heavy.

Implements declined. Massey-Harris Prfd. weakened about 5 points and the common a point. Cockshutt slipped a fraction. Except for a drop of about 2 points for Fanny Farmer, recessions were narrow in the foods.

Wheat Goes up

WINNIPEG, Sept. 7. (CP).—Disturbing European political developments and war in the Orient shot wheat prices sharply ahead on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with the market booming for the first time in more than six weeks.

Led by Liverpool's upturn, values closed here 4 to 4½ cents higher with October at $1.28¾, November $1.28⅝, December $1.25⅝-⅛ and May $1.26⅝.

Wall Street Jittery

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (AP).—Touched off by a fresh foreign war scare, stocks crashed through resistance areas in today's market for losses of one to 10 points generally. There were a few wider setbacks. It was the worst break of the year, with numerous issues plunging into low territory for 1937 or longer. Volume dwindled later and there were mild recoveries here and there.

Threats of a rupture between Italy and Russia over the latter's charges of "piracy" in the Mediterranean by the former's submarines, brokers said, were the principal cause of relapse.

U.S. Steel tumbled through par for the first time since July 2. Other steels were weak, along with motors, coppers, rails, oils, farm implements, rubbers mail orders and specialties. Transfers approximated 17,000,000 shares.

After 43 years a marked tortoise has just reappeared in the greenhouse of Countess Wedell Wedellsborg of Copenhagen, Denmark, from which it disappeared in 1894.

Popped The Question At Busy Corner, Jailed

Chicago, Sept. 7.

JOHN CARLISLE Jr., 17, and romantic, chose "the world's busiest corner" to hold hands and propose to Miss Lorraine Gore, 16. The girl complained to police, who arrested Carlisle for disorderly conduct at State and Madison Streets.

"This will be a lesson to him," the youth's mother commented refusing to post $50 bond. Her son spent the week-end in jail.

FOUR ARE KILLED WHEN TWO TRUCKS COLLIDE IN NORTH

Ten persons met accidental deaths in Ontario during the long holiday week-end with highway mishaps taking largest toll. Labor Day, despite crowded highways, was comparatively free of fatal crashes.

The week-end's most serious motor accident occurred early Sunday on the Capreol highway, nine miles north of Sudbury, when four persons died. Two trucks sideswiped and plunged into the ditch.

Victims: Miss Cecile Quesnel, 16; Fernand Lepage, 22; David Chevrette, 39, and Dennis Pitre, 19, all of Capreol. Six other persons were injured and are in hospital at Sudbury.

When a light car struck the rear of a sedan near Goderich last night Mrs. William Doherty, 25, Goderich, was killed. Her sister, Mary Lightly, suffered serious injuries. Harold Livermore, 25, Clinton, driver of the light car, was hurt slightly.

Struck By Truck

Frank A. Pohjankukka of Toronto died at Lindsay from injuries suffered when struck by a truck and Joseph MacDonald, 69, Toronto, was killed when hit by a radial car at Hogg's Hollow, near Toronto. Roger Langevin, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Langevin of Sudbury, died from injuries received when struck by a truck.

At St. Catharines John Lawlor, 40, died from a fractured skull he received in a 30-foot fall while working at McKinnon Industries Ltd. plant. Ralph Armstrong, young son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Armstrong of Hamilton, died at Hamilton after falling 50 feet from a ladder at the city asphalt plant.

TORY-LIBERAL MIX

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Sept. 7 (CP) —Through a misunderstanding both Liberal and Conservative Association executives entered the same hall for a meeting during the week-end. Each party had been granted use of the hall on the same night, at the same hour. The Liberals were found to have the prior rights and the Conservatives adjourned to another meeting place.

MUSIC LEADER DIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (CP)—Dr. Henry Thomas Fleck, 74, head of the music department of Hunter College from 1900 until his retirement in 1933, died yesterday.

A leader in the movement to popularize good music, Dr. Fleck was born in Buffalo and received his A.B. degree in 1883 from Upper Canada College at Toronto.

DREW WILL RUN AS INDEP. CONS. S. WELLINGTON

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (C.P.). — Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, former Ontario Securities Commissioner and organizer of the Conservative Party in Ontario, to-day announced he would run as an Independent Conservative candidate in the coming Ontario general elections in Wellington South.

Col. Drew recently resigned as organizer of the Provincial Conservative Party because, he said, he disagreed with the Party Leader, Earl Rowe, on the party attitude towards the Committee for Industrial Organization.

"I am a Conservative and I shall continue to support what I believe to be Conservative principles," Col. Drew stated.

So far only one candidate has been nominated in Wellington South, A. Bernhardt, Communist. The last member for the riding was Dr. J. H. King, Liberal, elected at a by-election on August 20, 1934, with 10,086 votes to 3,906 for R. B. Robson, Conservative. In the last general elections Wellington South returned Paul Munro, Liberal, who died. For three general elections before that the riding returned a Conservative.

"It has been proposed," said Col. Drew's statement, "that I should be a candidate elsewhere in what might be considered a safe seat, but although the sitting Liberal member was elected by a majority of 6,000 I prefer to place my case before my own people in the county where I was born and have lived all my life."

Quit Last May 6.

Col. Drew resigned from the chairmanship of the Conservative Party's Campaign Committee in Ontario on May 6 last, after the split with Mr. Rowe on the issue of the C.I.O. "I disagree with the Leader of my party in his attitude towards the C.I.O.," he said to-day. "On all other grounds

PLANE HITS LAKE OFF POINT PELEE 3 MEN GO DOWN

POINT PELEE, Ont., Sept. 7. — (CP).—Doubts as to the identity of occupants of a red biplane which crashed into Lake Erie approximately one mile off this Pelee Island Point yesterday were dispelled to-day with identification of a soggy package of matches discovered in one of three flying jackets found floating after the accident.

The package bore the label on a Detroit service station where two of three men, who left Detroit for Cleveland 40 minutes before the accident here, worked. The Detroit trio set out for the Cleveland air races and did not reach their destiantion.

The dead: Harry Corley, 38, owner of the plane and proprietor of a service station; Jerry Tessens, 30, attendant at the service station; James Munroe, 36, professional pilot and auto salesman was at the controls when the ship took off from Detroit.

The Point Pelee life saver said the plane, bound south, crashed into the lake about 9.40 a.m., E.D.T., yesterday. Robert Grant, park superintendent, sought trace of the plane by tug until late afternoon. His son Lawrence, said three plane jackets and a pair of goggles were found floating in the lake.

Rough water prevented a diver descending into the water, 28 feet deep at the point the plane was believed down. A tug, scow and two small craft were at the scene today to start search again as soon as the waters subside.

The tug, owned by George Cook of Kingsville, started dragging operations soon after the crash reports were heard. Rough water, however, forced the tug to take shelter.

Ersal Ashton, life saver, saw the plane as it pancaked on the lake. With E. . Bothwell, head of the life saving station, he left for the scene in a boat without finding any trace of the machine. Bothwell said it appeard to be a small one and it sank 15 minutes after striking the water.

Robert Grant, park superintendent, said he saw men leaving the plane after it crashed. One man reached the wing but the current swept him off, the superintendent said. He said as soon as calm is restored to the lake divers will descend.

Chinese On Offensive Shove Jap Lines Back

Recapture Much Lost Ground Around Woosung And Paoshan

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—(AP). — The Chinese army abandoned the defensive today and counter-charged at Japanese lines fringing the Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers on the Northern Shanghai battle front.

Mayor O. K. Yui, of Shanghai, said the sudden Chinese thrust had driven the Japanese from the Jukong wharf district midway between Shanghai and the confluence of the two rivers, splitting the Japanese front.

Twelve miles to the north, he said, the Chinese had recaptured much of the lost ground around Woosung and Paoshan and were threatening the Japanese forces within Paoshan's ancient walls. Other reports from Chinese sources said Paoshan had fallen.

Still further up the Yangtze, two Japanese destroyers and a Japanese cruiser, guarding troop ships were bombed by Chinese warplanes. Mayor Yi said one of the destroyers was in flames and one bomb had caused an explosion aboard the cruiser.

Japanese army spokesmen admitted their advance was meeting pressure on all fronts with Chinese entrenched in pill-boxes and dug-outs.

HE LOST CONTROL

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 7.—(CP)—Harry Noble, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Noble, Windsor, is in serious condition in hospital here today as result of an auto accident last night on the highway 13 miles south of here. The car he was driving left the road and crashed in a ditch.

Noble was travelling alone in his car. From marks discernible on the pavement, the machine skidded 204 feet off the road and into the west ditch. It again crossed the pavement into the east ditch and snapped off a telephone pole. The car was wrecked.

CLOSING THEIR SCHOOLS

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. 7 (CP)—The first case of infantile paralysis in St. Catharines during the present epidemic was reported today, and civic health authorities ordered schools closed until further notice. Warnings were issued to parents to keep children from theatres.

TREASON COSTS HEAD

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—(AP).—Herbert Krebs, a former soldier, was beheaded today for high treason. He had been sentenced by a Reich military court for desertion in 1936, selling military secrets to a foreign power and attempting to entice former comrades to commit treasonable acts.

Prize Optimist Startles Officer

Grand Rapids, Mich. Sept. 7.

A FEDERAL court probationer told officers who visited his farm, "Things are pretty fair," but they gasped when he explained:

His son was forced to undergo an appendectomy. The probationer borrowed $100 to pay the hospital and didn't know how he could pay it back.

His cow became ill. A veterinarian said it would die.

His bull wandered away, and as a neighbor was returning it, tied to the end of a truck, the bull stumbled and broke its neck.

Rome Gets Blame Denies Accusation In Heated Reply

Flare-Up Likely To End Any New Non-Intervention Talks

ROME, Sept. 7.—(AP).—A new approach to Spanish intervention, and Italo-Russian diplomatic relations hung by a thread to-day as a result of the presentation and immediate rejection of a Russian demand for redress for the sinking of two vessels in guerilla submarine warfare. The Soviet Union blamed Italy for the attacks.

Various Italian Fascist mouthpieces asserted Italy had been about to participate in the new non-intervention talks, aimed at ridding the Mediterranean of pirate submarines, but now would reconsider the situation in the light of the Russian move.

The belief circulated in many Fascist quarters that the already weak relations of the two powers scarcely could withstand this new blow.

Relations have not been more than a formality between the Fascist and Communist States but it appeared that even the semblance of diplomatic intercourse might vanish as result of the note handed to Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano by the Russian Charge D'Affaires in Rome.

Italian newspapers published attacks accusing Russia of "torpedoing" not only the "anti-piracy" conference, scheduled for Friday, but also European peace. The controlled Italian press said the Russian note would force Italy to draw back on the threshold of the conference.

Blame to Russia

An editorial for this morning's editions of Il Popolo Di Roma said "one thing appears clear, upon Russia falls the responsibility for this attempt to upset European peace."

Man's Leg Is Broken His Pet Dog Blamed

Beamsville, Sept. 7.

ROBERT CHADWICK, Clinton Township fruit-grower, is confined to bed with a fractured leg suffered in a most unusual manner.

He was standing talking to a neighbor when his pet dog, part collie and part police, while playing with a smaller dog, ran into him sidewise and knocked him down, breaking his leg in two places.

Dr. H. F. Granger set the fractures.

BRITAIN WILL HOLD NYON CONFERENCE EVEN MINUS ITALY

LONDON, Sept. 7 (C.P. Cable).—Great Britain plans to go ahead with the Nyon Conference whether Italy attends or not.

No replies have yet been received from the 12 Powers to whom invitations were addressed. But, stung by the Russian note charging Italian guilt, the newspaper Messagero of Rome declares it is "absolutely senseless to imagine Italy can appear in the role of the accused."

In the British view action against underwater pirates in the Mediterranean cannot be delayed. Continuance of the present situation would be intolerable.

British proposals for the conference are understood to include:

1—Registration of submarines in the Mediterranean;

2—Measures whereby submarines of all Powers shall be kept within defined zones;

3—An undertaking that the warships of all conferring Powers shall defend each other's shipping.

Foreign Secretary Eden will head the British delegation which intends to make a strong efford to secure collective action in defence of safety on the high seas.

But already doubt and fears hang over Nyon. If Italy either declines to attend as a result of the Russian note or imposes conditions on her attendance, Germany almost certainly will follow suit. Thus neither Italy nor Germany will be bound by any agreements reached at Nyon. Both charge Russia with torpedoing the conference.

In Russia huge rallies of young workers declare their readiness to rise for the Soviet Fatherland.

Seventeen Have Died Of Infantile Paralysis

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (CP). — The 17th Toronto death in the infantile paralysis epidemic was reported today by Dr. Gordon Jackson, chief medical health officer for Toronto.

Dr. Jackson said a 14-year-old girl died in hospital. Fourteen new cases were reported during the night, bringing to 303 the number of those stricken since early June. Fifteen cases and one death were reported in Toronto Labor Day.

225,000 CROSS BORDER

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 7. —(C.P.). —Nearly 225,000 persons entered or left Windsor by tunnel, ferry and bridge during the long holiday week-end, according to transporation officials. The inward and outward flows of traffic practically approximated the record of a year ago.

While scores of Ontarians motored to Detroit, other Michigan centres and points farther away from the border, the trek of United States citizens to this side of the river was far greater.

COUNTY HERD IS PLACED EIGHTH

Eighth place in competition in a field of ten herds was won by the Peterborough County Holstein herd at the Canadian National Exhibition Saturday. The contest required a showing of six animals from each county making an entry, three seniors and three juniors.

Although local Holstein breeders were disappointed in the herd competition outcome, they pointed to individual winnings in open classes as achievements of note in the face of the stiffest Holstein competition in the history of the Exhibition. A total of 356 of the Dominion's finest Holstein animals were in competition.

A second ribbon was won by a three-year-old bull entered by Archie Shearer. Joe Tully's entry in the senior heifer calf class won a fourth. In the aged bull class, "Hays Supreme," entered by Matchett Bros. and Mr. Tully, won a sixth ribbon. With its half-brother "Hays Sensation" owned by J. C. Freel of Thamesford, the bull won a third ribbon in progeny of dam.

In the three-year-old cow in milk class, an entry by Norman McConkey won 6th ribbon. In the dry two-year-old class, Stewart Nelson's entry won seventh and Joe Tully's entry won tenth. Joe and Fred Mann took two ribbons when twelfth place went to his entry in the mature cow in milk class and his senior yearling bull took eighth place. Joe Tully's calves were eighth in junior get of sire.

Oxford County won the inter-county herd competition.

Follow Your Heart, Act Says Lover

Connellsville, Pa., Sept. 7.

AARON NELSON LIEBERGER, who waited forty-four years to wed his first love, advised today:

"All young lovers should follow their heart's dictates—look before you leap, though—and then leap no matter what happens."

Nearly a half century ago Lieberger and Athalinda Stillwagon planned their wedding. They quarrelled, and Miss Stillwagon, pretty and 20 broke the engagement.

They separated, and Miss Stillwagon became Mrs. T. H. Edmonds, and reared two daughters. Her husband died.

Then Lieberger, who had married and become a widower, wrote to "Linda," apologizing for the quarrel.

Yesterday they were married.

Better Understanding Urged Constructive Side Of Unions

Canadian Labor Demonstrates Its Vigor With Labor Day Celebrations

(By the Canadian Press.)

Canadian labor demonstrated its vigor with Labor Day celebrations in almost every centre of population across the Dominion yesterday.

Parades, athletic events and speeches were the order for Trade Unionists from one end of the country to the other, while the rest of the population mainly relaxed.

Hon. Norman Rogers, Dominion Minister of Labor, sounded the keynote of countless Labor Day addresses when he urged a better public understanding of the constructive side of Trade Unions.

There was bound to be some conflict between unions and employers, dealing with wages and hours, since they were functioning within a competitive system, Mr. Rogers told labor leaders at the Canadian National Exhibition. That conflict, he said, invariably was featured prominently in newspapers.

"War is news, peace is not," he said. "Strikes are news; peaceful settlements are not. Peace hasn't the color or fire of war and strife. Perhaps not deliberately, but during the recent disturbances it has been suggested that unions are perpetual

Quintuplets Sing For Premier Hepburn

Callander, Sept. 7.

PREMIER Mitchell Hepburn was entertained by the Dionne quintuplets Monday, the children singing a French song for him and Emilie telling him a story about three little bears.

The Premier was accompanied by Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the quints' physician. Later in the day Mr. Hepburn officiated at the formal opening of a new highway between North Bay and Temiskaming, Que.

Cain-Abel Murder Theory Poo-Pooed, Just Sacrificial Rite To Help Soil

Nottingham, Eng., Sept. 7.

CAIN and Abel, two fellows who are supposed to have invented fighting, were absolved yesterday by Prof. S. H. Hooke at Kings College, London.

"I want to point out," he told the British Association for the advancement of science, "that Cain's slaying of Abel was not jealous murder but a ritual for increasing the fertility of the soil."

The professor said Cain and Abel had nothing to do with the Garden of Eden or Adam or Eve and he doubted they even were brothers.

"Recent finds in North Syria, dating from about the second millenium B.C., show that it was a ritual to kill a shepherd at the time of the summer drought and that Cain probably worshipped by killing Abel, thus presumably helping the soil," he said.

New "Hootch" From Oil Wells Makes Water Much "Wetter"

Discovery Solves Health Hazard in Dusty Areas—Great Wallpaper Lifter

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor.)

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 7 (AP) —Wetter water — answer to the prayers of millions for something to take dust out of the air like nothing else ever did—became a reality today.

This latest miracle of chemistry was announced to the American Chemical Society by B. G. Wilkes of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh, and J. N. Wickert of the Carbide and Carbons Chemical Corporation, South Charleston, West Va.

It's no pun, but "wetter water" is made that way with alcohol. There's nothing intoxicating about the stuff. The alcohol is a new "synthetic," something that does not exist in nature. It is made from waste gas of oil wells. The new feature of this alcohol is the giant size of its molecules.

They have a most peculiar effect on ordinary water. A few drops of this "oil well hootch" added to a gallon of water actually makes it "wetter."

That is, the water wets whatever

Henpecked Husband And His Problem

Portland, Ore., Sept. 7.

AN apologetic voice came over the police telephone at midnight:

"It's this way. My wife—she went out with another man. We have a baby, and—er—it's about time to feed the baby. I thought maybe you could tell me what to do."

The police couldn't.

EXPECT ITALY TO NOT ATTEND NAVAL MEET

LONDON, Sept. 7—(AP)—Great Britain and France moved to-day to save the Mediterranean "anti-piracy" conference from the still-birth threatened by a sag in diplomatic relations between the Soviet Union and Italy.

Moscow's protest to Rome, charging the Italian navy had sunk two Russian freighters, and Italy's brusque reply dealt a severe blow to the prospects of the conference.

Although it was considered doubtful whether Italy would attend the meeting, called to stop torpedo terrorism against Mediterranean shipping, London and Paris immediately turned to consideration of ways to smooth over the Italo-Russian impasse.

The Friday conference of powers affected by a long list of submarine and other outrages against merchant ships was the latest Anglo-French scheme to keep the nearly 14-months-old Spanish war out of the rest of Europe and the rest of Europe out of Spain.

British Ship Taken.

Great Britain met the tense diplomatic situation with a new incident on her hands—capture of the British steamship Burlington by a Spanish insurgent cruiser. The cruiser commandeered the tanker off Palermo, Sicily, yesterday, and escorted her to the insurgent naval base at Palma, Mallorca, where her cargo of 7,700 tons of Russian oil, consigned to the Spanish government, was confiscated.

The tanker was under charter to the Spainsh government but flew the British flag. She was owned by the same firm that managed the freighter Woodford, sunk by an unidentified submarine off the Spanish coast a week ago.

Great Britain protested the capture of the Burlington to the insurgent government.

Should Italy refuse to sit down on the council table with Soviet Russia, Germany was expected to follow suit. Great Britain and France might go ahead with the talks but they would be lop-sided, it was felt, without the presence of Italy.

Informed circles in London considered Moscow's blunt note of yesterday as "ill-timed" in view of the fact that Great Britain had entertained hopes that the conference might end quickly what is regarded here an "intolerable situation."

Twelve nations had been invited to the gathering.

REBELS NEARING LAST NORTH CITY

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 7 (AP).—Insurgent columns marching on Oijon and trying to bolster a sagging Aragon front below Zaragoza, reported fresh successes in the Spanish northwest and northeast today.

In the northwestern drive a coastal force was within 20 miles of Gijon, Biscayan seaport, and the last important stronghold that government forces still retain in Oviedo Province—the government's last foothold in the northwest.

On the Upper Aragon front the insurgent force driven out of Belchite last Friday was reported in its retreat northward to have captured positions at El Campillo and San Pedro and to have placed Mediana, midway between Belchite and Zaragoza, under pressure.

A defence Ministry communique of the Valencia government admitted the insurgent successes on both fronts. The defenders of Gijon, it said, had been forced to retreat to Barro, about 20 miles from Gijon, and lost positions southwest of Gijon to another insurgent column.

Mr. Allen Hayes spent a few days with his brother, Mr. Frank Hayes and sister, Mrs. John Blackburn, in Lansing, Mich.

Mrs. Roger Young of Thurlow, California, is visiting her sister, Mrs. William Heffernan and brother, Mr. John Smith and other relatives here. She was accompanied by Mrs. Robert Young, formerly of Lindsay, who is visiting her relatives there.

Mr. P. G. Towns was in Toronto on Monday.

Birth—On Monday, Aug. 30, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ayotte, a son.

Mrs. John O'Brien of Norwood, has been visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Condon.

Mr. Wilkinson of Novar, Ont., is visiting his sister, Mrs. R. Staples.

Mr. Bernard Quinlan has accepted a position on the teaching staff at St. Jerome's College, Kitchener.

Local schools opened on Wednesday. Numbers 3, 4, 7 and 12 retain the former teachers Misses Frances Leahy, Evelyn O'Brien, Mary Walsh and Loretta Cavanagh. New teachers have been engaged in S.S. No. 1, 6, 8 and 9. Miss Marian Foley replaces Bernard Quinlan in S.S. No. 1; Miss Madline Sullivan replaces Miss Rita McMurray in S. S. 8; James Maloney replaces Fergus O'Connor in S.S. No. 8 and Miss Mary O'Leary replaces Miss Mary Greenan in S.S. No. 9. Three local teachers resigned in June to give beginners a chance. Their work has been very successful and they could have retained their positions, and their kindly, unselfish actions deserve commendation. They lived up to the high standards of ethics usually associated with the teaching profession. They are Messrs. Fergus O'Connor, Bernard Quinlan and Miss Rita McMurray. Only one of the three has secured another position.

Mrs. Jeremiah Moher is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital.

GREEN YOLKED EGGS

TWIN ELM, Ont., Sept. 7 (CP)—Eggs with yolks as green as grass are being laid by a two-year-old leghorn hen owned by Bryson Foster. The eggs, of uniform size, present an ordinary appearance from the outside. Foster installed a trap nest to determine which hen was responsible for the unusual eggs and has gathered about a dozen from the same bird.

AKLAVIK PROGRESS READ TO MEETING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Sept. 7. — The Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Anglican Church held their opening meeting for the Fall term on Thursday afternoon, September 2, at the home of Mrs. Herbert Kennedy.

Several items were discussed quite fully, and a conclusion deferred until the next meeting.

The singing of the hymn which the society chose some time ago, and copies had been typed for use, was used at the opening of the meeting, for the first time. Mrs. H. Kennedy presiding at the piano as accompanist. The choice of tune had been selected also, when it was discussed to have an ode for the society. The tune "Bethany" was the choice of the meeting.

It was decided to have the secretary write to the Deanery president, Mrs. (Rev.) Howard of Bobcaygeon, to have the decision recorded. One of the members was requested to attach a copy in each of the W.A. prayer books; this was promptly accomplished during the meeting.

The weather being so very warm and interspersed with a thunderstorm, it was impossible to repair to the lawn for refreshments, which were served at the close of the meeting in the large dining room, and a social hour was enjoyed together.

Mrs. Monk invited the ladies to meet at her home for the October meeting, which was gratefully accepted.

The secretary read an item of the prompt progress which had enabled the rebuilding of the Aklavik Hospital, which was razed by fire a year ago and which seems to be so closely linked with the home society, as our missionary, the late Mrs. Geo. F. Paterson (nee Ruth Hamilton) did such heroic service in saving the lives of all the inmates and staff during that tragic morning.

MOTORIST FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

LINDSAY, Sept 7—As the result of an automobile accident on the Bobcaygeon highway on Sunday evening Harry Irvine of Weston will face a charge of driving a car while intoxicated. According to the police Irvine was driving to Lindsay and was on the wrong side of the road when he crashed into a car driven by Miss Hattie Bate of Lindsay. He then attempted to swing over on the highway and crashed into a car driven by Chas. Lamb of Lindsay. The three cars were badly damaged.

TRUCK DRIVER ARRESTED

SUDBURY.—Roger Langevin 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Langevin, struck by a truck yesterday, died in hospital today. Albert Laframboise, driver of the truck, was arrested on a charge of criminal negligence.

EXPECT 3 PLANES.

OTTAWA, Sept. 7—(CP).—Three 10-passenger Lockheed planes will be delivered to the Trans-Canada Air Lines this month, it was announced to-day by Transport Minister Howe. It is expected the planes will be put into operation on the air line this fall. They are all metal planes with a wing spread of 65 fet, weigh 6,325 pounds and are equipped with two-way radio.

198,000 ATTEND C.N.E. LABOR DAY 26,000 UNDER '36

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (C.P.). — An army of workmen cleared the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition to-day after the biggest crowd of the year yesterday swarmed through the parks and buildings for Labor Day. Officials reported 198,000 persons clicked through the turnstiles, 26,00 less than last week.

Guests of the directors heard Hon. Norman McL. Rogers, Dominion Minister of Labor, ask for better understanding between labor and capital as a basis for industrial peace. The Labor Government under proper guidance is a "bulwark of democracy," he said.

Dr. Rogers spoke shortly after 10,000 unionists paraded into the grounds in the biggest Labor Day demonstration Toronto has seen in a decade.

An international track meet and the Ontario swimming and diving championships headed the sport card. At the Coliseum the international dog show got under way and judging of cattle, horses, pet stock, poultry and fruit and vegetables continued.

Third Swim Record

Ralph Flanagan of Coral Gables, Fla. set his third Canadian record in three starts in a matched swimming race at the waterfront. His time of 21.34 fo the mile was 13 seconds faster than the former record of Bob Pirie, Toronto, who was second in the race.

Duncan Campbell of Moffatt won the E. J. Preyjeng challeng trophy for the best Canadian-bred shorthorn bull in the livestock show. Award for the best female also was captured by Campbell.

Chestnut Smile, nine-year-old chestnut mare of W. S. Munro, Embro, scored a double win. She took top honors in the model harness horse class shown on the line and teamed with Just A Girl from her own stable to win the pair of matched geldings or mares in the Canadian-bred harness class.

Robert Kerr and Son, Acton, won second in the harness class with Beatty and Nattrass, Peterborough, third.

CHINESE OFFENSIVE SHOVES JAPS BACK

The spokesman said neither Christian churches, Chinese temples, hospitals nor schools would be spared from Japanese artillery and air bombardment if the Chinese army continued to use them for troop concentrations and bases. He added it did not matter to the Japanese whether these institutions were Chinese or owned by foreigners.

Because of the serious situation along the boundaries of the international settlement, British and United States members of the Shanghai volunteer corps who were demobilized 10 days ago were ordered to return to immediate active duty along the barricades. Boundaries of the settlement were menaced by land and aerial combat.

Japanese were trying to get reinforcements to all points along the line.

Some reinforcements were being landed up the Yangtze at Woosung and Liuho but only at great sacrifice to the Chinese heavy artillery and machine guns.

Military experts of the United States forces here estimated Japan's position at Shanghai as virtually unchanged from that of Aug. 10 when she started operations by landing naval troops in the Yangtzepoo area. Japan has 60,000 troops and half her navy operating against Shanghai and is reliably reported to have 49 troop ships with an additional 60,000 men hovering off the mouth of the Yangtze ready to land if she can secure an adequate beach head.

Opposed to these, China has 14 full strength divisions totalling almost 200,000 men.

Couple Are Married At Entrance To Windsor-Detroit Tunnel

DETROIT, Sept. 7 (CP).—It didn't come off exactly as they had planned, but Kate Presenjak, 31, of Detroit, was married yesterday to Mike Verklan, 34, Windsor, at the United States entrance to the Windsor-Detroit tunnel which runs under the Detroit River.

Because Verklan had been deported from the United States in 1926, it was believed by the couple and their friends they would have to be married at the international boundary in the middle of the tunnel—one standing on either side of the line. Miss Presenjak explained she did not wish to be wed in Windsor because she was divorced in Detroit.

Immigration officials said a wedding in the tunnel would be practically an impossibility and decided to let her marry Verklan in the American immigration offices.

TWO ARE INJURED AS CARS COLLIDE

LINDSAY, Sept. 7.—A serious automobile accident occured on Lindsay street west last night when a car owned by M. Oughtred and driven by Miss A. Johnston crashed into a car driven by Harvey Coons who had with him his wife and baby boy. Mrs. Coons and child were removed to the Ross Hospital where it was found that the mother had sustained a fractured collarbone and body bruises. Both cars were damaged, it is alleged that the coons car carried no tail light.

MADOC

Miss Dorothy M. Nickle returned to her duties in Montreal on Sunday last after spending a two weeks' vacation in Madoc and Toronto.

Miss Jean W. Nickle returned home last Saturday after spending the past month with her sisters in Bethlehem, Pa., and Glen Ridge, N.J. She also spent a few days in New York City with her brother, Clinton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Houston and Miss Margaret Houston were Sunday visitors in Madoc.

In the Madoc Scotch doubles tournament on Wednesday, September 1, thirteen teams were present coming from Havelock, Norwood, Campbellford, Stirling, Kingston, and Madoc. First prize went to Campbellford, Locke and Linton, Stirling won 2nd. First consolation went to Kingston, and second to Madoc. The hard luck prize went to Cochran and Kellar of Madoc.

Madoc schools opened on Wednesday, with a full staff of teachers and a fairly full attendance of students.

So far not a single case of infantile paralysis has been reported in Madoc and vicinity, and the medical health officers are keeping close watch on any cases which might develop as such. The six rooms of the public school all report but few absentees.

The High School opens with a new principal in charge, Mr. Thain. Another new teacher is Miss Howard, while the other teachers, Mr. Cummings, Miss McDermid and Miss West, continue from last year.

Theatre's Baby-Adoption Night Has Everyone Greatly Worried

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 7—(CP)—Theatres have had "dinner-ware nights," "country-store nights," and many other varieties of prize-giving nights to encourage patronage, but it remained for a London movie house to have a "baby-adoption night."

But it was all in the spirit of good, clean fun, the management explained to investigating officials yesterday after the Ontario Department of Welfare and other provincial authorities, local police and the Children's Aid Society decided something should be done about it.

The theatre advertised last night a "baby-adoption night" would be staged and announced:

"The new parents for the baby girl will be chosen from the audience. Any eligible person in the audience may make claim for the child. However, the person or persons adopting the baby will have to promise the child a good home and will have to be of respected citizenry. The little girl is about four months old, has blue eyes, blond hair and has well-respected parents."

Telephones buzzed between London and Toronto. To the theatre went two investigators of the Children's Aid Society. Yes, the theatre was planning such a night, the management admitted, but everything was quite all right.

The "baby" was a four-months-old pig.

Family Relationships Tangled By Births Of Three Children

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Sept. 7.—(AP).—This is not a riddle—it's hospital history:

Three children were born at Margaret Hague Maternity Hospital within 65 hours.

Two of them, a boy and a girl, are cousins and are, respectively, nephew and niece of the third, whose mother is the same as their mother's mother.

The third, a boy, is also the brother-in-law of the other two's father.

The explanation:

Mrs. Louise Rutherford, 22, became the mother of her second child, a boy, at 1 a.m. Aug. 26.

Mrs. Loretta Rushman, 37, her mother became the mother of her fifth child, a boy at 2 a.m. August 27.

Mrs. Irene Hampton, 18, another daughter of Mrs. Rushman, became the mother of a girl, her first child, at 6.10 p.m. Aug. 28.

All live in Jersey City.

Car Is Ditched Three Are Hurt

LINDSAY, Sept. 7.—Missing a turn on the Little Britain road on Saturday evening a car driven by H. O. Smith, of Detroit, struck a couple of rocks on the side of the highway and took to the ditch. His mother who was with him sustained lacerations over one of her eyes and also on the left knee, Mrs. Sleep of eBagraves and a young boy were also in the car, the former had her left arm broken and the latter had several teeth knocked out. The car was badly damaged.

SHOREHAM, England—(CP). — Rev. J. F. G. Glossop, officiating at the funeral of Mrs. Louisa Minter and her son, Arthur, asked that "parents keep their children quiet or else kindly leave the church grounds."

This Insurance Plan Worked

"Sixteen years ago one of your representatives proposed a Plan of Insurance to me. At that time I was impressed because he seemed more anxious to help me to build up an estate than he was to sell me insurance. The result of the plan he suggested so appealed to me, that I started off with a $5,000 policy, which was all that I could afford at that time.

"Since then I have added five other Confederation Life policies, following substantially the plan originally suggested. I bought this further protection because as my family increased, my obligations increased. In the case of the last policy, I bought that because I learned, through some costly experience, that my Life Insurance was the one asset that was always worth one hundred cents on the dollar.

"Today I have a substantial cash equity in my policies which enables my family and me to enjoy a degree of financial security and peace of mind that nothing but Life Insurance could have made possible."

HYDRO IS YOURS . . . . USE IT!

Over lands and lakes, through bush and over rock, the power lines of Hydro are penetrating steadily Northward—into areas which, but yesterday, were a wilderness.

Gold discovery waits on power to supply mine and mill and smelter—electrical energy is essential to their development. It is these Mines which are developing new wealth in which all the people of the Province share—it is this new industry which was mainly responsible for our being able to maintain a reasonable standard of living throughout the depression.

Hydro is now supplying 116,000 h.p. and serving forty-six properties in this rapidly expanding territory.

Just as quickly as new communities arise in these areas, and Mines go into production, a demand is created by them for the necessities of life and living, and regardless of your occupation a share of the money thus expended comes directly, or indirectly, to you.

You should, therefore, be vitally interested in the efforts of Hydro, and the part it is playing, in the development of these new, rich areas of the North, and its continued efforts to extend the benefits of low cost power throughout the entire Province of Ontario.

HAROLD WELSH IS TORY CANDIDATE IN EAST HASTINGS

MADOC, Sept. 7— Back in Madoc for the first time since the East Hastings by-election of last December, Hon. W. Earl Rowe, Provincial Conservative Leader, on Saturday threw the school question back into the political ring with a demand that Premier Hepburn give a definite pronouncement of Separate School policy before October 6.

"He owes the people a definite policy on this all-important issue," declared Mr. Rowe. "What does he plan now?"

Throughout his speech the Conservative leader kept up a running fire of criticism of The Globe and Mail and its publisher, C. George McCullagh. "The management of the Ontario Government has been transferred from Parliament Buildings to the back kitchen of The Globe and Mail," he told a large nominating convention in the Masonic Hall here.

Dr. Harold Welsh, who captured East Hastings for the Conservatives during the by-election, was again nominated Conservative candidate. He rapped Premier Hepburn "for bringing on an election in the face of an epidemic of infantile paralysis."

C.I.O. Controversy.

Launching into his stand on the C.I.O., the Conservative Leader said:

"For six weeks Mr. Hepburn and his mouthpiece, The Globe and Mail, asked me my policy on labor, but refused to print it except in paid advertisements. The other night Mr. Hepburn finally discovered his own labor policy. It was mine, but he suddenly found it. It is the same policy that has been followed down through the years under British democracy—the right of free association.

"Sixty thousand Canadians died during the Great War fighting for those British principles of freedom. The right of free association is a British right, it is not a privilege or a concession that Hepburn and McCullagh can take from you.

"Yes, Mr. Hepburn now says: 'You can join the union of your choice, but first you must ask George McCullagh.'

"The management of the Ontario Government has been transferred from the Parliament Buildings to the back kitchen of The Globe and Mail.

Peaceful Strike.

"During the Oshawa strike, Mr. McCullagh and Mr. Hepburn stirred the emotions of our people with statements, in box-car headlines, that Communism was going to overrun the Province. Before his election is over you will see the billboards, the fence posts, and the cowsheds placarded with statements concerning the crimes committed in another country.

"But Mr. Hepburn won't tell you about the peaceful Oshawa strike, that there was no blood shed there. He called this Communism so he could frighten the people. He did frighten a few at first, but soon the people realized it was just noise and bluff, and they realized that 99% of those peaceful strikers were Great War veterans, not Communists.

"Mr. Hepburn had to keep up the fright. He fired Croll and Roebuck, then he called in the O'Connors, the Slaghts and the McCullaghs. 'I've got to have a headline,' he told them, 'but I guess I can manage it. I'm the greatest headline creator the Province has ever known. I'll call in the R.C.M.P. and tell the people democracy is at stake. If I can get to the people soon enough I'll stampede them off their feet.'

"Sent Own Soldiers."

"Mr. Hepburn said he'd keep up the scare headlines so long as Mr. McCullagh was with him. He saw the people were not with him, but he still had some millionaire friends who had forgotten his anti-British gestures, such as closing Ontario House and telling old England to mind her own business and pay her war debts.

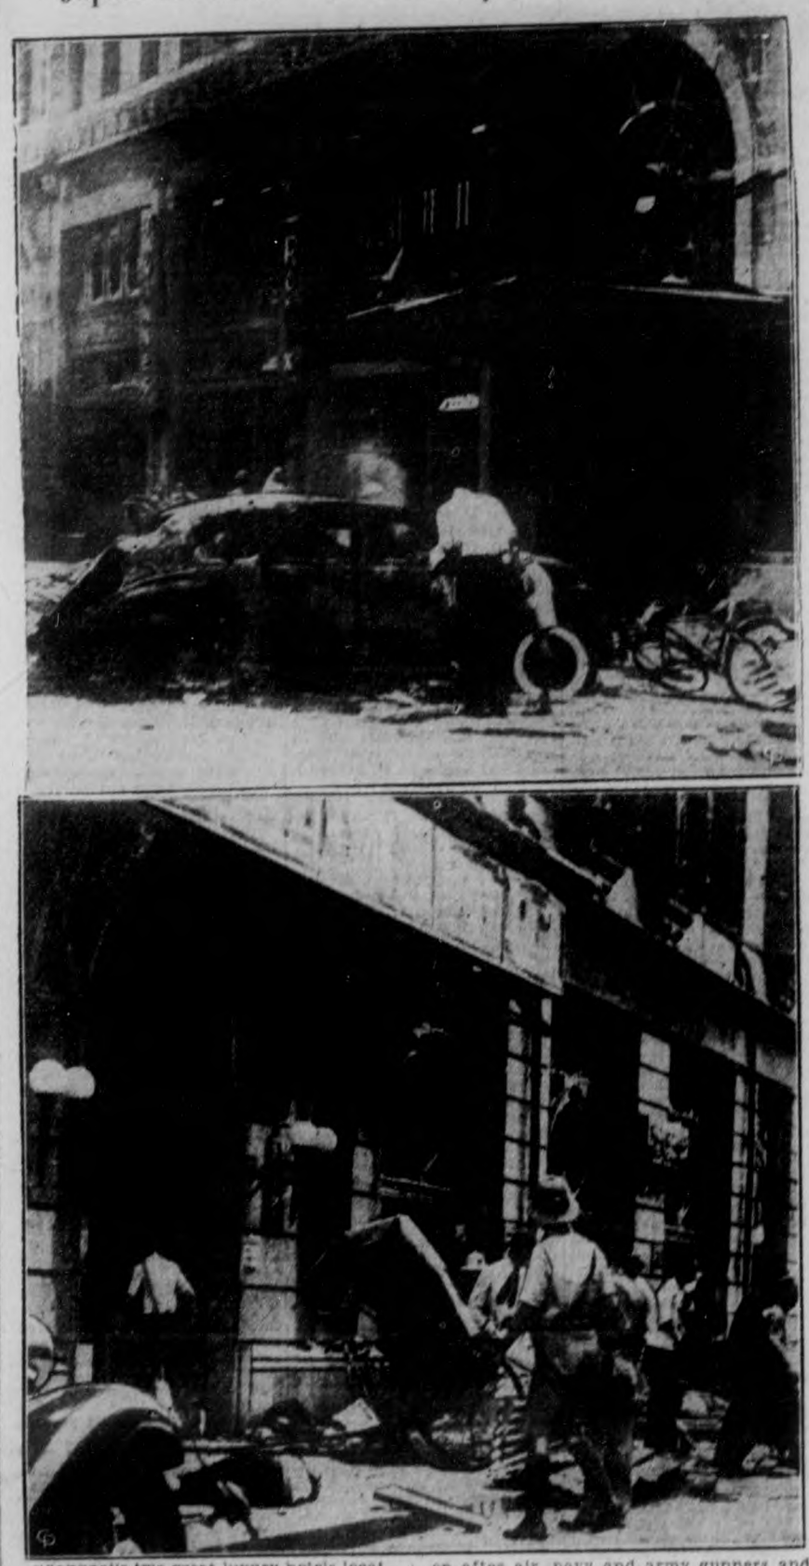
"When Mr. Hepburn couldn't get his 400 R.C.M.P., he had no one left but himself and George McCullagh. Just the two of them and a few other millionaires. He couldn't keep on frightening the people without headlines, so he sent out for his own soldiers. It was nothing but a McCullagh-Hepburn scare. To his millionaire friends he said: 'I'll trust you boys, but not the ones who are working in the grinding sweat of the factory.'

"But behind the Conservative Party is a greater force than an army — it is the force of public opinion demanding the traditional British right of free association. That's why Mr. Hepburn changed his tune on the radio the other night. But will The Globe and Mail now call him a hero of democracy, will they call his about-face on the labor question a triumph of statesmanship?"

Brighton Teacher Goes To Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Sept. 7 (CP). — Thomas W. Sampson, former mathematics master of the High School at Brighton, Ont., and graduate of Western Ontario University, has been appointed senior mathematics master of St. John's College, Winnipeg. When the fall term opens on Wednesday, Mr. Sampson and F. B. Maskell, honor graduate of Oxford University, will head the senior and junior departments of mathematics, respectively. John D. Little, son of Archdeacon Little, Athabasca, Alta., will take charge of the junior forms grades at the college.

Japanese Bombs Wreck Luxury Hotels In Shanghai



Shangnai's two great luxury hotels located in the International Settlement, the Cathay and the Palace, were both made targets for devastating aerial and ground bombardments as Japan's invading armies blasted away at their Chinese foes entrenched in and around the Queen City of the Orient, and subjected every important building either in the native city or in the area populated by foreigners to the fury of their guns. These two graphic pictures taken after air, navy and army gunners and bombers had hurled tons of explosives into the city on August 14, show entrances to the Cathay (TOP) and the Palace (BOTTOM), choked with debris and pock-amrked with shell and shrapnel scars, after both had been hit. Deaths of civilians in the International Settlement have risen into hundreds as the undeclared war rages on, with both British and United States warships also under fire.

HEPBURN PROMISES TO TAKE LIQUOR OUT OF POLITICS

RICHMOND HILL, Sept. 7—Complete reorganization of the Liquor Control Board on a basis which will, he hopes, remove the contentious liquor question forever from the field of party politics, was announced here last night by Premier Hepburn as promptly effective in the event of his Government's return to power on Oct. 6.

A Supreme Court Judge, as Chairman, supported by two elected representatives of the Legislature, one Liberal, and one other Conservative, as associate commissioners, will, the Prime Minister indicated, comprise the new administrative board. They will be given "a free hand."

Edmund G. Odette, present Chief Commissioner, who Mr. Hepburn stated, "has worked himself to the point where his health has broken under the terrific strain of administering what is probably the most difficult law to administer on our statute books today," is expected to retire immediately following the election.

Challenge to Rowe

The Prime Minister's announcement, which involves the most radical and far-reaching new policy enunciated to date in the Provincial ballot battle, was made last night at the North York convention of Morgan Baker, former M.L.A. and was put in the form of a direct, challenging proposition to Conservative Leader Rowe, who has been severely criticizing various phases of liquor administration all for the purpose, the Prime Minister alleged, "of making beer and wine a big issue in this fight."

Both assistant commissioners on the proposed new Control Board would be responsible, the Premier stressed to the Legislature and to their respective constituencies. With the Chairman over them, a Justice of the Supreme Court, efficient, non-partisan operation of the liquor law was assured, he believed, and there could be no repetition, he said, of any "toll gate" such as had "flourished" in the past.

Calls Proposition Fair.

"I think," he said, "that this is a most fair and honorable proposition to put up to Mr. Rowe, but if he doesn't agree with it—is not favorable to the form of administration I have suggested—then he can keep on trying to make beer and wine an issue, and let the public judge as to his sincerity of purpose."

Marriage Licenses Were Expensive But Tobacco Cheap 85 Years Ago

WHITBY, Sept. 7.—It cost $1.10.0, or about $7.50 for a marriage license eighty-five years ago, according to an old account book in the possession of County Clerk and Solicitor R. D. Ruddy.

The account book, dated 1852 and 1853, was used by one of the county's first officials at the time Ontario County was made an independent county, separated from the United Counties of York, Ontario and Peel by Lord Elgin in 1852.

With parasols fashionable, the worthy county official paid out for his lady $1.11.3, or about $7.81 for the decorated overhead, while for himself he paid only 2 shillings 9 pence, or about 68 cents, for an umbrella, according to the debit side of the book. Another expenditure for Milady's finery is the outlay of 2 shillings for two veils.

A letter from Whitby to Niagara cost 5 pence or 10 cents in those days, tea was 50 cents a pound and tobacco 30 cents. With files abounding, the worthy official paid out the sum of 7½ cents for "whiskey for fly powder," and 75 cents for a skeleton for his good wife's muff.

PACKS OF WOLVES KILLING SHEEP

(Examiner Correspondence)

TWEED, Sept. 7.—Wolves are again worrying farmers in Tyendinaga Townships and in the district of Marysville and concerted action is expected to be taken to end their depredations into sheep flocks and other domestic stock. Becoming bolder this year, the wolves have at times pursued fowl and sheep into the farm yards.

They have become organied to the extent that regular hunting packs of the animals are now sighted. Thirteen of the slinking animals were seen at one time by William Alexander of Marysville on the outskirts of his farm. As he was unarmed at the time, the killers beat a hasty retreat without being molested.

Barn Is Burned.

While threshing, a large frame barn owned by David Turkington of Maribank caught fire and was completely destroyed, together with a threshing machine belonging to John Kimmett, and the season's crops. The barn was partly covered by insurance but Mr. Kimmett's machine is a total loss.

Bathing Beach Closed.

In order to prevent an outbreak of infantile paralysis in this district, the bathing facilites have been closed at Stoco Lake by orders of Dr. G. M. Dales, medical health officer. The lake has been declared unfit for bathing, and as a source of drinking water. Only one case of this disease has appeared to date in this section.

While at work in his sawmill at his home near Maple Leaf, Daniel Nieman, well-known resident, suffered the loss of a thumb on the right hand, and received a severe gash in the hand, when it came in contact with the saw.

RACE DRIVER HURT

DRESDEN, Ont., Sept. 7 (C.P.)—Elmer McDonald, 25-year-old racing car driver from Sarnia, was injured during speed trials here yesterday in preparation for races at a Labor Day celebration. His car hurtled into the air and turned over twice before coming to the ground to take out five posts of the guard rail.

AGED MAN INJURED IN HASTINGS CRASH

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 7.—John Gay, of Campbellford, received severe cuts about the face Monday night shortly after dark when he was thrown through the windshield of his son's car, Harry Gay, who was driving, when it collided head-on with a Hastings car driven by Alfred (Derb) Lemoire, containing five occupants, two miles south of Hastings, at Cuffe's Corners. Both cars were proceeding toward Hastings when they collided at the corners, resulting in injuries to both occupants of the Campbellford car. The son's injuries were not considered serious, but his father, who is an aged man, was rushed to Dr. Campbell's office, where he was treated for his cuts, which Dr. Campbell termed as being of a serious nature. The Hastings car and its occupants escaped unhurt. Provincial Officer Gordon Campbell of Campbellford, was called to investigate.

NEW HIGHWAY IS OPENED IN NORTH

TIMISKAMING, Que., Sept. 7 — (CP).—Hardly an unemployed man is to be found in Northern Ontario said Premier Mitchell Hepburn as he started an election tour of the north country today.

The Premier, who begins his tour with a speech at Kapuskasing, took Labor Day to officially open the new highway connecting the city of North Bay, Ont., with the town of Timiskaming. The road provides the first highway contact for this Northern Quebec pulp-manufacturing town with the outside world.

Running for 40-odd miles through dense forests, it extends from North Bay to Ottawa River and Timiskaming. Before the summer is ended a Quebec government road will link Timiskaming with the mining centres of Ville Marie and Noranda.

Progress of pulpwood and lumber industries in Northern Ontario made it possible to give employment to the people, said Mr. Hepburn. These industries required careful attention, reforestation being needed among other things. The pledged attention of the Ontario government to the matter.

The international labor movement in Ontario was saved a few months ago by his actions, said Mr. Hepburn. The Premier said his advice to labor men "is to keep on fighting in the old fashioned British way and not to jump on the band-wagon of every quack that comes along.

Labor organizations, he said, had taken 50 to 100 years to build up the respect of the public they enjoyed. It was in th interests of labor to retain the respect of the Canadian public and not that of some foreign public, said the Premier.

DIES WHILE BOWLING

SEAFORTH, Ont., Sept. 7 (C.P.).—Andrew Taylor, 84, Wingham hotelman, died last night as he competed in a double lawn bowling tournament at the Seaforth Bowling Club. Mr. Taylor was telling his partner, Omar Hazelgrove, also of Wingham, how to play a shot when he collapsed.

SCHOOL CLOSED.

BETHANY, Sept. 7. — Manvers schools were ordered closed for a period of two weeks Thursday evening by Medical Health Officer Dr. J. J. Hamilton of Bethany, as a precautionary measure against the epidemic of infantile paralysis. A child developed infantile paralysis on Tuesday at Mount Pleasant.

ABOUT TRUSSES

This Truss represents one of twenty-one types we make and is the result of over 60 years of experience in making and fitting trusses. It is built on good, sound, legitimate commonsense principles and, when made specially to your measure, and fitted, securely closes the opening and allows Nature to thicken the parts so that the bowel cannot escape. With regular use, the Truss will soon permanently relieve the condition.

A Change Is Due

Premier Hepburn made the plain statement at Richmond Hill that, he planned to take the liquor question out of politics as soon as he is returned to power. He proposes a commission of three, the chairman to be a judge of the Supreme Court, and two other members, one a Liberal and the other a Conservative, to be chosen from the elected membership of the Legislature.

The Examiner believes the people of the province desire a change in the manner in which the Liquor Control Act is being administered. Whether naming a Liberal and a Conservative as assistant commissioners would lift the whole question out of politics is something which future operation would have to demonstrate. If the political atmosphere were what it ought to be then there would be no injury done by having the Liquor Control Board function as a political branch, but it is plain history that for many years the temperance question has been much booted in the political field.

We do not believe the people of the province want to see this province make an increasing amount of revenue from the sale of liquor, beer and wine. Producing revenue should be the least consideration. Control should be and must be the essential factor in operation. It would cause no grief whatever if it were to be announced that revenue from the Liquor Control Board was decreasing on account of decreased business.

There was a time in the operation of the Board when permits were scrutinized carefully. When it was found a permit was being generously used then a survey was made. That plan resulted in a good many interviews and a great deal of correspondence. If it were established the permit was being abused, then there was action taken. We do not see why such a plan should not be followed. It would be the same as having the Board of Control tell the individual plainly "You are drinking too much," "You have no business spending so much of your money on drink. If you cannot make curtailment then we will have to do it for you."

It does not require a great amount of political wisdom to realize that the higher go the sales under government auspices the more marked will become the feeling that prohibition or something approaching it should again be tried. No government can afford to risk its future existence by being associated with a form of selling which permits sales figures to keep on climbing. And no government can afford to rely for financial strength on the amount of revenue it takes from the sale of liquor.

If Hitler Wrote It

The London Daily Mail published a letter said to have been written by Adolf Hitler to Lord Rothermere, publisher of the Mail. The letter suggests the only way to world peace and security is for an alliance to be formed between Great Britain and Germany, and in that alliance Hitler is understood to have expressed the desire United States would join. He argues that with the strength of the British navy and the might of the German army there would be no chance of success if an attack came from any other source.

Hitler's aim appears to be the safety of the white people of the world, but if that letter is genuine the writer seems to have overlooked that all British subjects are not white people. Under the British flag there are men of nearly every race under the sun, and British India is an example of a vast territory where the whites are much in the minority. Whether the dictator in Germany has serious consideration for these folk we do not know, but certainly Britain has and will continue to have.

Dismissing A Government

Board of Trade in Lethbridge gathered together in regular session and passed a resolution to the effect that the Government of Premier William Aberhart should resign.

Reasons? Yes, two in number.

First—The Government does not possess the confidence of the people of Alberta.

Second—The Government constitutes a menace to the people of the province.

And having passed the resolution members of the Board of Trade may possibly expect things will happen. But they will not. The Government of Alberta is not primarily responsible to the Board of Trade in Lethbridge, but to the electors of the entire province.

Governments go out when the people vote them out. And not before.

Revival Of The Piano

The piano has had a long rest in many homes, but the change is coming. People whose business it is to know say there are more young people starting to study the piano now than there have been for a number of years. It is said that radio programmes have included some fine pianists, and listeners have not been content with remaining in that class. The desire has been created to come into possession of the ability to do the same thing in person.

It is a fact that pianos are being made in keeping with the size of the home today. In the large homes the grand piano could find ground room without crowding. In the smaller home it could not. Even the upright instrument as built for years was a large piece of furniture for the lesser home. Today they are building them smaller, and lighter.

For too long a time the piano has been a place where a framed photograph or a fine vase has found a place to rest. When some visitor approached the instrument it has been explained that the instrument is somewhat out of tune, and it has remained out of tune, and because it has not been used; therefore there was no incentive to tune it. When the young folk turn toward it again it will be tuned, and we are told the turning process is on the way right now, and the tuning process will follow. We hope all the information given out about the returning popularity of the piano is correct. We have never yet met the person who has mastered the piano who has stated it had been a waste of time. It is accomplishment which brings pleasure to the performer and to those who listen.

The Brain Of A Fish

Prof. James Gray, reader of Zoology at Cambridge University, declared at Nottingham that man has a brain like a fish. The English professor says man is apt to think that as a creature he stands somewhat alone; he has achievements credited to him which are different and more noble than those of the animal world. But the fish have rigid reflexes and the power to form associations between events, also the power to carry out highly complicated migratory excursions.

If the professorial mind of Professor Gray has clearly demonstrated that the fish has rigid reflexes then he surely has made a great find. We possess only a remote idea of what a rigid reflex is, but we are impressed by the sound of the phrase to the point of believing it must be significant. Nor could we find anything in the Canadian Almanac, the Revised Statutes of Ontario, or the Financial Statement of the city in which we live to tell us whether man in general possessed rigid reflexes.

But we do know a bit about fish in this district, about pickerel, bass and maskinonge. We have seen them when very small, about the time they were taking their first swimming lessons; have noticed them in shallow water when they had a six-month development, and as they become a trifle larger they continue to live close enough to shore to come under observation. We learn too that the mothers and fathers and aunts and uncles and cousins of these little fish will on occasion turn about and devour them. The larger fish in search of victuals does not ponder the question of eating a son or a daughter, a nephew or a niece. He just pops them down and allows the more serious question of cannibalism to remain one of the problems about which professors may worry. In that particular we are delightfully superior to the fish.

The professor at Cambridge might have made out a strong case had he cared to depict the similarity between man and fish, having regard to the way in which either or each will grab at bait to which is attached a barbed hook. During the hectic season prior to 1929 men had been taking the financial bait, line, hook and sinker and late in that season they were landed. And the catch was very great. Nor were there any game laws operating to limit the number which could be hooked during a fishing day. Had the professor confined his discussion to some such parallel he might have made out quite a case for the fish. But when he decided to moor his claim to the possession of rigid reflexes on the part of the fish he thinned his audience almost to the point where it could be stated the folk walked out on him.

Imagination And Cash

You either have it or you haven't. It can't be acquired or cultivated and it doesn't grow with age.

Such is the conclusion of a Boston psychiatrist with respect to the quality of imagination. He has conducted a lot of experiments on "100 superior men" and he discovers that imagination represents hard cash, or the basic differential between 100 men who made $100 a week all through the depression and 100 men who didn't make more than $35.

The experimenter is Dr. F. L. Wells of Boston, who has made a report to a professional association meeting in annual convention at Minneapolis. He defines imagination as "creative ability" and to demonstrate it he sprung questions on his subjects to elicit their ideas as to what should be done in particular emergencies. Here are two of the questions asked:

"What should be done if you knew that extensive oil fields were about to be discovered in Denmark?

"Suppose the Atlantic seacoast were going to sink 50 feet in the next year, what ought to be done?"

The $100 men cracked right through with suggestions. Dr. Wells, however, didn't publish their answers. As for us, if we knew in advance about that Danish oil, we'd sell our oil stocks, if we had 'em, or we'd print the fact and thus score a world news "beat," or we'd wonder whether there was to be a "gusher" at the castle of Elsinore, or we'd think about all the trouble that oil got Mexico into, or how it landed Albert B. Fall in jail, or we'd just go on reading about the war in China. And if we knew that the Atlantic Coast was going to sink 50 feet we'd keep away from it.

What would Dr. Wells think an imagination like ours is worth per week, depression or no depression?

Simplicity In Writing

P. D. Ross, president of the Ottawa Journal, and close ranking as the doyen of Canadian journalists, had something to say on Press Day at Toronto Exhibition. His text, although not stated as such, was "The Value of Short Words and Short Sentences." One can only regret that an address of that nature and by P. D. Ross could not have been reported at length.

Using too many words and conducting flights into the field of too long words is something which has to be continually combatted. Those who write much always come upon the hour when they feel inclined to be caught up in a barrage of words, great and ponderous words, words the meaning of which they have mastered only by looking in books and the meaning of which will not be clear to those who read. It is a dull but stubborn fact that few readers will take the trouble to consult a dictionary when they stub their toe upon a word the meaning of which they do not know. They will either pass it up or depend upon context to carry them along until they arrive at a place where the simplicity and sincerity of words causes them to feel once more at home.

Mr. Ross summed it up well in few words: "The greatest end in writing is to make the meaning clear." And the same goes for speaking.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There is a good deal of indigestion and other ailment which developed after folk quit leaning over a washtub or a buck-saw.

The discriminating hitch-hiker has developed to the point where he stands at ease until he sees approaching a radio-equipped car.

When it is a trifle cool on Labor Day some one is sure to mention the advisability of having a look to see that the furnace is in good shape.

U. S. merchant ships will be given naval escorts to protect them in Shanghai waters, working out something like the trailer idea.

This has been the hottest summer in Quebec province in 57 years. In years to come the grandchildren sitting on the knee will hear the story: "Now I remember in the summer of 1937....."

It is reported that "the far-sighted people of Japan do not want war." That may be so, but the crowd which sees no farther than the end of its nose seems to be running things at the moment.

Woman from Australia now touring this country thinks our roads are rotten. Wonder what she would have said had she been driving on the Tenth Concession in the spring when the frost was coming out of the ground?

Driver of a car in Hamilton who crashed into the rear of the car ahead informed court that his foot slipped off the brake pedal, and on that plea he was allowed to go. Just how often court will consider that plea is a trifle uncertain, but it is well worth drivers keeping it in reserve.

Premier Hepburn denies a charge made by a Conservative that there are a hundred men employed grading roads near St. Thomas. Possibly Mr. Hepburn recalls that there was a great movement toward filling in the ditches along the highways prior to the last election, and as a vote-getter the idea was a dud.

EXPERT

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I planted trees about my lot, they'd give me shade when days were hot, and there I'd sit at ease; my nieces, nephews too would come, and they'd find shelter from the sun, and sit upon my knees.

¶ The little trees were young and round, and I was sure they were quite sound, they'd wilted not at all; the man who brought them in had said, I'd made a splendid planting bed, they'd progress by the fall.

¶ And I used fertilizer too, did everything there was to do, and watered them each day; I put up stakes against the hour when storm might make them feel its power, and they would bend and sway.

¶ And yet my trees grew very slow, and they scarce topped great banks of snow, they had not gone ahead; and when the spring came once again, I sauntered out to look at them, and half my trees were dead.

¶ I wandered where the bush was dense, and where the trees were all immense, and they weren't staked or tied; but there they raised their lofty limbs, to meet the challenge of the winds, and tossed their heads in pride.

¶ At places out of rocks they grew, and they were solid through and through, the tall and graceful pine; so I admit they have been reared, nor cracked by summer's storm nor seared—by better hands than mine.

WHY DID Japan go to war against China? How long can Japan finance a great war? European experts are seeking the answer. From known sources of information it is stated that Japan has been spending $900,000,000 a year—which is $240,000,000 more than the treasury collects. The national debt is $3,150,000,000 and mounting. The adverse balance of trade—$240,000,000 for the first six months—is continuing. The yen, 50 cents at par, has fallen to 28 cents. And gold reserves have dropped well below the safety level. Food prices have been mounting to dangerous levels and taxation is terrific. Experts say Japan must win quickly—or not at all.

There will soon be a real test made of Japan's blockade of the Chinese ports of entry. An American ship the Wichita left Baltimore on the 28th of August and it is bound for Shanghai. What's more it carries a cargo of barbed wire and ammunition for the Chinese. Eventually it will reach the blockaded zone. Critics say: Then what?

Relief in United States.

ABOUT one-quarter of the states in the union have done nothing about supplying funds for direct relief. In the state of Massachusetts there has been no money raised, and the question of direct relief is left to the municipalities, and it has cost the city of Boston $3,648,440 thus far in 1937. The minimum monthly allowance is $41 for a family of four, plus fuel and medical costs. Maximum is $60.

"We have 50,000 already," mourned the French, "and it will cost us $37,000,000 this year." But as the Franco drive pressed on the number of refugees continued to increase.

Here Is Election Record of Ontario

Figures Interesting For Reference; Tells Swing of Fortune Since Years 1867.

Kitchener Record

OF THE 19 general elections which have been fought in Ontario since the time of Confederation, ten of them have been captured by the Liberals, seven went to the Conservatives, and the remaining two were divided between the John Sandfield Macdonald Unionists who were the first to assume control of the government of the province and Mr. Drury's U.F.O. ministry of 1919.

Here is the general election record of Ontario since Confederation was consummated:

1867—Hon. J. S. Macdonald, premier, Unionist supporters of Sandfield Macdonald, 54; Reformers, 28; Independents, 5.

1871—Hon. Edward Blake, premier; Reformers, 41; Unionists, 32; Independents, 7. Blake and Mackenzie going to Ottawa. Mowat succeeded.

1875—Hon. Oliver Mowat, premier; Liberals, 51; Conservatives, 33; Independents, 4.

1879—Hon. Oliver Mowat, premier; Liberals, 58; Conservatives, 29; Independents, 1.

1883—Hon. Oliver Mowat, premier; Liberals, 48; Conservatives, 36; Independents, 2.

1886—Hon. Oliver Mowat, premier; Liberals, 64; Conservatives, 28.

1890—Hon. Oliver Mowat, premier; Liberals, 54; Conservatives, 36.

1894—Hon. Sir Oliver Mowat, premier; Liberals, 49; Conservatives, 27; Patrons of Industry, 14; P. P. A., 2. Mowat resigned in 1896 to enter the Laurier cabinet, and Hardy succeeded.

1898—Hon. A. S. Hardy, premier; Liberals, 49; Conservatives, 43; Patrons of Industry, 1. Hardy resigned in 1899 and Ross succeeded.

1902—Hon. Sir George Ross, premier; Liberals, 61; Conservatives, 46.

1905—Hon. Sir James Whitney, premier; Conservatives, 69; Liberals, 29.

1908—Hon. Sir James Whitney, premier; Conservatives, 86; Liberals, 19; Labor, 1.

A Stupid Way to Split a Village

Half In France and Rest In Germany; People Cannot Cross their Main Street.

(Financial Post)

THE FRANTIC hates of Europe are concentrated into a capsule drama in a little frontier village on the edge of the Saar Valley. Once a happy little community, the hamlet has been split in two by an international boundary commission. Now one side of the main street is in Germany; the other in France. Those who once were neighbors, fraternizing across the street, have been turned into official enemies.

Edward Hunter tells about this village in Coronet Magazine. Those who live on the German side of the boundary may not now cross the road, as they did, to spend Saturday night in the cafe on the French side. They are, under German currency laws, forbidden to take money out of their country.

There is a creamery on the French side of the road. But the women and children across the street must go without butter because of the shortage of fats.

The tobacco store happens to be in Germany. But their neighbors on the other side have to walk a mile and a half to buy tobacco from the nearest French shop.

Housewives do not dare to cross the road for a visit with their neighbors without properly vised passports and the formality of entry as an alien entering a foreign country.

Half the children in the town are being brought up to speak German; the other half French. They are not allowed to play together. If a ball rolls across the street it is confiscated by the customs officers and the children may not run over and pick it up.

The account given by Mr. Hunter reads like sheer fantasy. But is there any reason to believe it is not true in every detail?? For what is happening in miniature in the village of Nasweiler-Roebruck (yes, it has two separate names now) is happening all over Europe. The strangler vine of international hate flourishes even more vigorously when allowed to grow at will on a large scale than when developed in a village test-tube.

Prefers Chances Under Democracy

"It Has Faltered But Never Failed" May Be Wasteful, But He Prefers It

Editor and Publisher

WHAT ATTRACTION that kind of living has for English and Americans who have tasted deeply of political freedom passes our understanding. While no public man in this country has publicly advocated a Fascist set-up there was plenty of Fascist muttering in the recent labor troubles. Much of the criticism of newspapers as irresponsible stems from similar longings for a state where uncouth events like strikes would be impossible. An exaggerated fear of Communism also underlies much of the Fascist leaning both in Britain and here, but we see nothing to choose between them.

Neither idea has a chance to work, even among peoples not used to democracy.

As an alternative, we'll take the wildest newspaper that was ever printed—and know that its wildness will be offset by its own moves for the public good and the good sense of its contemporaries; we'll take the strikes that tie up industry for weeks, and know that at their end, we'll have better paid workmen in factories that will suffer only temporarily from cessation of work; we'll take the experiments of Mr. Roosevelt, the cock-eyed laws that Congress and the State legislatures extrude, the oscillations of a Supreme Court that reads the papers, the grafts and the overstuffed payrolls that go with public works.

It's wasteful, sure, and it's exasperating. But we have gone ahead despite all the lost horsepower. We've had a lot of fun, we've gorged no castor oil, we've languished in no desert islands, we go to church, or don't, as and when we please, we have no cops hiding behind the potted palms in the restaurant, no dictaphones under our desk, and we can be refreshingly disrespectful to any of our political superiors, no matter what he wears on his upper lip. At the worst estimate two-thirds of our population is above poverty levels, and we are taking more thought for the remaining "forgotten men" than any of the proletarians or Fascist dictatorships. We see no reason to believe that the U. S. A. cannot still stand with Jefferson "firmly by the combined and recorded judgment of the people." It has faltered, but never failed.

IT BEGINS AT FIFTY.

(Ottawa Journal)

AN EXPERT on such things who made a survey of salesmanship in New York shops, and in other United States cities, has arrived at some interesting conclusions. He finds that salesmen and saleswomen in their twenties are the least efficient of all, those in their thirties begin to show some improvement, the forties are still better, but that the best selling of all is done by men and women who have passed fifty.

This is not as surprising a finding as it might seem at first glance. Salesmanship is a job that must be learned. The man or woman of fifty has acquired an experience of the world and a knowledge of people—the potential customers — that is not available to youth. The intelligent salesman uses this knowledge of the world to put himself in tune with the mood of the buyer. He knows whether the customer is most likely to be impressed by a brisk sales talk, or whether he is the type who asks only courtesy, the necessary information, and a minimum of conversation.

All of us have met the sort of clerk who says: "Yes sir, this is the very latest shirt—in fact, I wear one just like it myself." Invariably the clerk with that sort of an approach is young—fifty brings a greater measure of tact, if it brings anything.

To the Editor

WHAT TO WEAR

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I am a young man 30 years of age and my health is going against me. I want to ask through you as I do not know myself a question—that is, I work 6 days per week, I do not get much exercise and I want to know if there is any law to say that when I come home from work and had my supper that I can wear a pair of shoes and trunks—nothing else—and go for a good long run before going to bed. I think I would sleep better than I do. I have noticed boys going about town with only a little pair of pants on made out of real thin cloth, no skirts and quite short, shorter than trunks; also girls that wear shorts and a handkerchief on their chest. So I can't see why I can't go about in the evenings in a pair of trunks, shoes, no shirt. I think you feel better to leave the shirt off. You see the same on the beaches every day the only difference is that you would not be noticed at night as much as in day time and I don't think there would be as much sickness. I was in a town not far from here where all the boys up to 16 years of age went Indian style and no one seemed to say anything about that.

If the law says I can't go the way I like to, will you please print in your paper Tuesday night the least I can wear to go for a run. Thanking you for this trouble.

Yours truly,
J. FRANKS.

Peterborough, Sept. 6.

Ed. Note: It would be advisable to slip down and have a word with the Chief of Police. The law as printed might not be elastic enough to permit the costume you have in mind, and the wearing of little garment on the bathing beach does not necessarily become the law or custom of the community for all seasons. We are not particularly touchy on the subject, but the Chief and his strong men might have more adequate directions than could be given here.—Ed. Examiner.

A SILLY CROWD

(Toronto Star)

When Robert Taylor sailed for England, a thousand women saw him off on the boat and one who touched him shouted that she'd never wash her fortunate hand again. Has no one suggested deporting that crowd to the Scilly Islands?

New Huddle By Politicians

After their hurried cabinet meeting at Paris to deal with the bombarding of the French concession in Shanghai, these French cabinet ministers got together to discuss their recently-ended vacations. In centre, former Premier Leon Blum, now vice-premier and minister of state, exchanges pleasant words with M. Vincent Auriol (LEFT), minister of justice, and M. Max Dorothy (RIGHT), minister of the interior. The Chinese ambassador assured the French cabinet the bombings of the concession were accidental. The Japanese envoy said his land and air forces in the Sino-Japanese area had been given instructions not to interfere with any of the foreign concessions, especially that of France.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Sept. 7 — (C.P.). — Slow trading ruled the Toronto Livestock Market to-day with sales generally too few to establish prices. Fresh supply included 6,000 head from the West. On the cattle division bids were generally lower on all grades of killers. The calf market at 50 cents higher, recovered last week's decline. Previous closing price on off truck bacon hogs was $10; lambs were 25 cents lower and sheep also easier. Cattle holdover was 1,100 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Bureau were: Cattle, 8,900; calves, 2,380; hogs, 1,970; sheep and lambs, 1,780.

Good stockers and feeders sold steadily on the cattle market. Best stockers sold up to $5.50, and a few feeders reached $6.35. Plain stockers were slow at $3.50 to $4.50.

Choice vealers on the calf division went at $9.50 to $10. Good heavy Western calves brought $6 to $7. The few grassers offered went at $3.50 to $4.50.

Good ewes and wether lambs sold at $8.75, with other grades going at $7 to $8. Sheep were easier at $2 to $4.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Wheat futures almost sky-rocketted the full five-cent allowable limit on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today under a heavy wave of buying induced by political developments in Europe and Asia. Profit-taking near the close left final prices 4 to 4¼ cents higher, October at $1.28¼, November $1.28⅜, December $1.25⅝ to ¾, and May $1.26⅝.

Zooming Liverpool prices and moderate export demand for Canadian wheat estimated at 400,000 bushels were bullish factors. An unconfirmed report that Russia had refused to make shipments of wheat through the Mediterranean caused concern at Liverpool.

Winnipeg wheat opened more than three cents higher, advanced over the four-cent mark in the first hour and for the remainder of the session fluctuated nervously.

Other world wheat marts rallied behind Liverpool, which closed 2⅞d to 3¼d higher. United States markets were more than three cents up and Buenos Aires at noon was 1¼ cents higher.

SOUTH BURLEIGH SCHOOL FAIR IS POSTPONED

Postponement of the first of the annual series of Peterborough County rural fairs which was to have been held at South Burleigh this Friday as a precautionary measure in view of the infantile paralysis threat, was announced by Representative A. D. Runions today. Mr. Runions said he decided upon the action after consulting with medical officers of the district.

No further cases beyond the one reported from Smith township last week had been reported from the County to-day. Dr. J. A. Morgan, medical officer of health for Smith township, said to-day the young victim in Smith, a girl, was progressing satisfactorily.

Postponements of the school fair follows upon action by Smith health authorities in banning for the present Sunday school meetings and picnics. Mr. Runions said he has had instructions from the Chief of the Agricultural Representatives Branch to obtain the approval of medical officers before holding any school fairs.

The second school fair on the schedule is that of Douro on September 14. No action regarding possible postponement of the Douro fair has been announced but postponement will be necessary if any infantile paralysis outbreak occurs in Douro district, Mr. Runions said.

Mr. Runions consulted both Dr. Morgan and Dr. Fraser, Lakefield M.O.H., before postponing the South Burleigh fair. Both doctors were of the opinion it would be safer to postpone the gathering, he said.

LIQUOR IS STOLEN BY TWO YOUTHS

Placing a couple of local youths on probation for a period of two years each after both had pleaded guilty to three charges of theft, Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell forbid them to frequent beverage rooms as one of the terms of their bond. They were further ordered to report at stated intervals to the Chief of Police.

Listening to the plea of their counsel, A. L. Elliott, who urged that both youths were of good families and had never before been in any sort of trouble, His Worship told them: "You have each pleaded guilty to these charges and I don't know what in the world got into you, except perhaps that you were drinking."

He observed his experience on the Bench had led him to believe that young men often did things when in drink that they would not otherwise do, but he reminded the pair, "You are responsible for your own actions."

Taking into account their youth, the magistrate said he had decided to give a term of suspended sentence, as he hoped the disgrace the pair had brought on themselves would be sufficient punishment. He warned them to be careful about their future conduct.

Charges against the youths related to theft from South Beach Hotel of four bottles of liquor, four pairs of men's socks and a watch, and a windbreaker.

The youths were arrested late Saturday by Provincial Constable David Silvester and were released on bail of $1,000 each over the week-end.

War Is Demanded Over Postage Stamps

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Sept. 7—(AP). — Hot-headed Honduras yelled for a fight with Nicaragua over a postage stamp to-day.

University students were wrought up by a Nicaraguan stamp which Hondurans say shows part of the southern fringe of their nation within the border of their Central American neighbor.

The students here, in a manifesto, proclaimed "the decisive moment in our history had come in which we can break faith with future generations, or as Hondurans of to-day, we can fight against dismembering the fatherland . . . Deeds, not words, must be the Honduran motto. . . .

"To die for the fatherland is to open the doors of immortality and to maintain the strength of the right arm is to elevate and raise civilization."

PAIRS PROVIDE TENNIS THRILLS

Monday the Peterborough Tennis Club's Labor Day Central Ontario doubles tournament was run off in good style with excellent tennis shown throughout the entire day's play. There were outside entries from Port Hope, Uxbridge and Lakefield along with entries from Quaker Oats. The weather was great for tennis and everyone took advantage of it.

The final match was a battle between Bob Harris and Bun Willis of Uxbridge against Max Cotton and Howie Hammell of the Peterborough Club. The locals took the first set 6-3 and seemed well on their way to victory but the second set was a fight from start to finish with the Uxoridge lads posing out with a win 8-6. Then they proceeded to get going and won 4 straight games in the last set. With a final effort Cotton and Hammell playing very careful tennis tied it up to 4-all. But then Harris and Willis took the next 2 games winning the last set 6-4 and the match as well. A real final match for a good tournament.

In the Consolation finals which was between E. M. Wynn and D. Millson of Fort Hope and Harry Marsh and Andy Rutter of the Peterborough Club, the local lads, displaying much better tennis than they did earlier in the day won the match handily 6-3, 6-2.

Results of Preliminary Round

J. Kirkwood and G. Scott of Peterborough Club defeated E. Stewart and A. Stewart of Lakefield, 6-1, 6-1.

R. Tranter of Kawartha and B. Young of Quaker defeated A. Rutter and H. Marsh of Peterborough Club 6-3, 6-3.

Results of First Round

B. Harris and B. Willis of Uxbridge defeated H. Cutting and Don McPherson of Peterborough Club, 7-5, 6-3.

J. Kirkwood and G. Scott of Peterborough Club defeated J. Mark and H. Steer of Peterborough Club, 6-2, 6-3.

M. Cotton and H. Hamell of Peterborough Club defeated R. Tranter of Kawartha and B. Young of Quaker, 6-2, 6-2.

J. Cowling and Doug McPherson of Peterborough club defeated E. M. W., Wynn and D. Millson of Port Hope—6-4, 6-2.

Results of Semi-Final Round.

Results of Finals—H. Marsh and A. Rutter of Peterborough club defeated E. M. Flynn and D. Millson of Port Hope, 6-3, 6-2.

From Far Corners – Quakers All

Those who look upon Quakers as people simply garbed with the women wearing bonnets and plain dresses, might be surprised to learn that Quakers living in many lands dress in the prevailing costumes. Two fine examples of the modern Quaker are shown (ABOVE), as Arthur E. Clayton, of Canada and Ryumel Wamano, of Mito, Japan, chat during the Quaker conference in Philadelphia. The caption writer in Philadelphia apparently thought Canada was such a small place that we would know Mr. Clayton, for he gave his address only as Canada. Of the 300 delegates attending the conference many came from Japan, China (extremely friendly despite the current crisis) Denmark, Canada, India, South Africa and Austria.

DREW WILL RUN AS INDEPENDENT

my position has in no way changed.

"Subsequent events have only strengthened my conviction that the opinion I expressed at the time of my resignation as chairman of the Conservative Campaign Committee was consistent with the clearly defined policies of my party. I have seen no reason to change my opinion."

There are many issues vital to the future welfare of Ontario and the Dominion which are not being mentioned in the present campaign, he declared.

"Present conditions offer a challenge to every one of independent thought. They cannot be met by platitudes and the repetition of ancient dogmas. They must be met by some constructive plan.

"Holding these views and recognizing that the only place where they can be given effect is in Parliament itself, I am seeking the opportunity of presenting my argument to those who make our laws."

Drew Against the C. I. O.

The split between Col. Drew and Mr. Rowe came when Mr. Rowe said in an address at the Wellington North nomination meeting in Arthur, Ont., May 5, that the party "stands for the right of employees to bargain collectively, through their own representatives, chosen by the workers through the medium of secret ballot, free from improper influence, coercion or intimidation. . . I will trust the Canadian workman against the invasion of foreign agitators."

Col. Drew declared at the time, announcing his resignation, that "I believe a firm stand should be taken against the committee for industrial organization before it is too late." He was unable to understand, he said then, "the argument that because the C. I. O. has not generally adopted the same methods of violence in Ontario we should disregard its record of lawlessness and sabotage in the United States."

Second Playoff Game On Keene Diamond

The Southend Softball League finals for the league championship and Warne Cup get under way again to-night (Tuesday) between De Laval and Keene. To-night's game, the second of the series, De Laval having won the first game, will be played in Keene. Thursday night the third game will be played at the Brinton grounds.

If a fourth game is necessary it will be played Friday, and a fifth the following Monday. Both these last two games if they are necessary will be played at the Brinton grounds. All games to start at 8.45 p.m. and will be 7-inning affairs. Quite a few southend softball fans are making the trip to Keene tonight to see this game, which should be a great tussle, the Keene outfit needing this game as the remainder will be played in Peterborough.

Talks to the People — J. H. Burnham

There has been no misery with money but the history of the workers has been in the past one long agony. Yet both are of the same flesh and blood. Why have these conditions not received consideration at the polls? Whose fault is that? But the "closed shop" is not the way to do it, nor is Mr. Rowe's way of leaving employers and employed to fight it out themselves the way. We protect our health. Can we not protect our people in a sane and orderly way? It is not the churches' business, nor anybody else's business. Labour is to hold a nominating convention and why not? Why can't Labour have a spokesman? But a "closed shop" and a bloody field are now in prospect if they alone are to be the solution.

Miscellany Of Information Valuable In Canning Time

Can Make Your Own Pectin From Apples or Apple Peelings.

(By Mary Moore).

IN some households TIME is the most precious factor; in others MONEY is scarce as hens' teeth; in others ENERY is always at a low ebb.

If your household is one where there is more energy than money, and plenty of time to use it in you might like to make your own pectin from apples or apple peelings, or grapefruit and lemon peel.

Home-made Pectin

Apples Pectin—Slice thinly 4 lbs tart apples or use 4 lbs. apple peelings. Boil either of these rapidly with 9 cups water for 15 minutes, stirring often. Wring out of hot water some cheese cloth and fold into four thicknesses and strain the apples or peeling through it. If you wish to store this pour it while boiling hot into sterile bottles and seal with boiled corks and sealing wax or paraffin. If you do not have tart apples add the juice of a lemon and one white part from the rind to the apples while boiling.

Lemon and Grapefruit Pectin—(See note below).—Shave off all the yellow part so that only the white membrane and inner skin remains. To each pound of fresh white pulp and 2 quarter water, or to ¼ in. of cubed peel add 9 cups water and let soak 2 hours. Boil until reduced by half, stirring to prevent scorching. Strain through four thicknesses of cheesecloth wrung out in hot water. If to be bottled boil up and pour into sterile bottles and seal with sterile corks and sealing wax or paraffin. If grapefruit is used alone add 2 teaspoons cream of tartar when the boiling begins.

Purely Personal Palaver— There never is enough time in our house to do anything but the immediate job in hand, but one year an old auntie of mine who is ailing in her body, but as bright spirited in her mind as a bird, and who has spent her life being economical, stayed with us during some winter months.

It gave joy to her economical soul to save the grapefruit and orange and lemon skins from the garbage pail, grate the rinds from them all and dry them for use in flavoring puddings, cakes, icings, beverages, etc., and making pectin from the white parts of the grapefruit and lemons as described above. I merely mention this because you to might have a busy married old folk who might delight in helping you in this way.

If you want to know if a fruit will jell without actually making up the batch and finding out through bitter experience, you may mix 1 tablespoon of the heated and strained fruit juice with 1 tablespoon methyl hydrate (wood alcohol). Let this stand till cold—no longer. The juice will coagulate into a little mass if it contains enough pectin to jell. Throw the mixture away, as it is poisonous.

A restaurant owner that I know well had her very beginning of success with the excellent Mint Jelly she served as an accompaniment to lamb and as a garnish to salads. This is the genuine recipe.

Mint Jelly.

Two and one-half cups water, 6 cups sugar, juice of 1 large lemon, 1 cup pectin, 1 cup finely chopped mint leaves tightly packed, few drops of green coloring. Mix all except pectin, bring to boil, add pectin, boil half minute, strain and pour into jelly glasses, small ones being preferable.

Most farmers or their wives know how to dry apples, but many city folks would not know what to do with them if they had them, let alone know how to dry them.

Well let me assure you that they have a definite place in cookery—sauce of course, deep dried apple pie, yes, sir, (with Devonanire Cream don't speak to me for two or three minutes for I am not of this earth), as a hot sauce for a plain steamed pudding, and as the Apple Sauce part of Apple Sauce Cake. You may be in the habit of using them for Betty or other puddings, but if you'll have to tell us about it for I do not know.

What I want you to do is try your hand at drying some—the apples are so plentiful this week, and won't keep:

Dried Apples.

Peel the apples and cut into sixteenths. As the apples are prepared drop them into a brine of 3 tablespoons salt and 1 gallon water to prevent discoloration. Drain well and wrap in cloth for a few minutes to absorb surface moisture. Spread apples on wooden racks or trays or glazed heavy paper and stand in sun on screens covered with screens or mosquito netting. Many farmers make drying racks—being merely frames made bugproof by screening all round. It requires about three sunny days to dry apples properly—they are done when no moisture can be pressed from them and they are leathery and pliable.

Sweet Peppers or Pimientoes Canned Without Water.

Remove the seeds and stems from sweet peppers or pimientoes. Pack dry in smallest sized sterilized jars (half pins are best). But on top without completely sealing jars. Sterilize in hot water bath (having water come to within 2 inches of tops of jars) for 2 hours. The processings brings out a thick liquor. Seal and cool quickly after removing from boiling water.

Note: When only part of a can of peppers or pimientoes is used cover the remainder with cooking oil and keep cool in dark place. Canned peppers should be stored in dark place.

Salt Canned Beans.

String and cut fresh snap beans as if for immediate use; lightly pack a jar with alternate layers of the sliced uncooked beans, add salt allowing 1-2 cup salt to each quart of beans, then screw down airtight with some of the salt at the top. If enough brine does not form to cover the beans in a few days, slightly salted water may be added to over flow jars. These will keep crisp and green for months. When opened they should be soaked over night. Then parboil and drain them once in fresh water to remove salt, then cook as usual.

FRUITS and VEGETABLES

WE THINK we have the problem of there being so many vegetables we do not know which to neglect.

We solved it once by serving a vegetable plate, consisting of Carrot en Surprise (see below), mashed vegetable marrow with grated cheese and butter. Stuffed baked Tomatoes, and Corn on the cob. After bringing huge cantaloupe halves filled with sliced peaches to the tabel for dessert, Fond Husband quietly chewed to the finish, then remarked that he felt like a cow who had just munched a binfull of turnips. (He's not the best vegetarian in the world).

Carrots En Surprise

Two cups hot riced carrots, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, one-third teaspoon pepper, few grain cayenne, few drops onion juice, 1 egg yolk, ¼ teaspoon celery salt. Mix all those ingreditents and beat well, then shape into neats, brush top edges with butter or egg yolk and return to oven to heat through and brown a little—fill nest with hot buttered peas or creamed chicken or shrimps or mushrooms.

WEDDINGS

Campanaro—Brady

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of the Immaculate Conception at half past nine on Monday morning, when Stella Josephine, youngest daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Brady, and the late Bernard Brady, was married to Donato Campanaro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Campanaro. The Very Rev. Dean O'Sullivan celebrated the Nuptial Mass and ceremony.

Deep pink gladioli were placed on the altar. The wedding music was played by Miss Leone Hummel and the Senior Choir, of which the bride was a member, sang several hymns, including an "Ave Maria." During one of the hymns, a solo part was taken by Maurice Leonard, and in the "Ave Maria" a duet was sung by Miss Mary Murphy and Miss Louise Flynn.

Given in marriage by her eldest brother, J. Brady, the bride wore a lovely gown of forget-me-not blue suede lace, slim-fitting, with tiny bolero having leg o' mutton sleeves and high collar. A pink and blue sash falling in long streamers trimmed her gown. Her picture hat of fine mohair, silk gloves and moire silk slippers were of the same forget-me-not blue, and she carried a shower bouquet of Butterfly roses.

The bride was attended by her niece, Miss Dorothy Brady, who was charmingly gowned in pink suede lace, fashioned on princess lines with bolero jacket having long, close-fitting sleeves and high neckline. She wore a white picture hat of linen straw, white accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli.

Anthony Campanaro attended his brother as best man. The ushers were Clair Brady, brother of the bride and William Campanaro, brother of the groom.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, where Mrs. Brady received, wearing a gown of black and mauve crepe. Mrs. Campanaro, mother of the groom, receiving also, was gowned in navy blue crepe, with navy hat and accessories.

Later the bride and groom left for Toronto, the former wearing a becoming ensemble suit of brown taffeta with beige design in squares, a brown turban with quill feather trim and brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Donato Campanaro will reside on Douro street when they return to the city.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question: I feel glad that I can come to you for help. For many years I have tried to make Cream Puffs and every time I try they rise well enough but they are solid inside instead of hollow,—then I have to scoop them out in the centre to get room for cream.

I put 1 cup water and ½ cup butter on the stove and when it boils I add 1¼ cups flour and work till smooth. When cool I add one at a time, 5 eggs and drop by spoonfuls on a pan and bake in a quick oven.

Now If you can tell me what I do that is not right I shall be more than pleased. And as I live where we have very little cream I would like to know how to make a filling. Thanking you, Mrs. C. M. N.

Answer: Thank you for your letter.

While your recipe seems to be all right, you say "quick oven" for making your cream puffs. The oven must be extremely hot—600 deg. Fahr. for the first 5 minutes if possible. It requires heat to puff the eggs in the mixture and cook them so that they stay extended. Our recipe is as follows:

Cream Puffs.

One-half cup butter, 1 cup boiling water, 4 eggs, 1 cup flour. Put butter and water in saucepan and place over medium heat. As soon as it boils add the flour all at once and stir fast. Remove from heat as soon as mixed and add unbeaten eggs one at a time between each addition beating thoroughly. Drop by large teaspoonsfuls on a buttered cookie sheet, one and one-half inches apart, shaping as nearly circular as possible having mixture piled in centre. Bake 30 minutes in hot oven of 600 deg. Fahr. to begin with, reducing to 350 to bake puffs throug. If cream puffs are removed from oven before they are thoroughly baked they will fall. When cool slit and fill hollow centre with stiffly whipped sweetened cream.

Cream Filling.

(For Cream Puffs, between layer cakes, etc).

Three-quarters cup sugar, 1-3 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 2 cups scalded milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, or ½ teaspoon lemon extract. Mix dry ingredients, add eggs slightly beaten, and pour on gradually scalded milk. Cook 15 minutes in a double boiler stirring until mixtura thickens, and afterwards occasionally. Cool and flavor.

We hope you like these suggestions and that we may be helpful in the future.

Question—Could you please send me a recipe for Sweet Pickles, grape jelly, crabapple jelly and Chili Sauce? Thanking you, Mrs. J. S.

Answer—Kindly see cookery page of Tuesday, August 31 for recipes for Sweet Pickles and Chili Sauce.

Grape Jelly.— Grapes for jelly should be just barely ripe or slightly underripe—or they will not jell well.

Pick over grapes, wash them and remove the stems, and drain off excess water. Mash one layer in bottom of preserving kettle and put over low heat and add remaining grapes, mashing them and stirring to prevent them sticking until they make their own juice, then boil slowly for 30 minutes and strain through jelly bag. When drained, measure juice and bring to boiling point. Add an equal measure of sugar (heated if possible) and boil rapidly to jelling point—usually about 5 minutes—test jelly by dropping small amount on cold plate—if skin forms on top and wrinkles when tipped jelly will jell. Boil a little longer if it does not give jelly test in 5 minutes. Pour into sterile jelly jars and cover with paraffin.

Crabapple Jelly— Wash apples well, using ripe crabapples that are still sound and firm. Remove stems if desired, but this is not necessary—cut apples in halves to speed process. Barely cover the apples with water in enamel preserving kettle and simmer until they begin to soften, then mash well and simmer 5 minutes longer. Allow to drip through jelly bag. Measure juice and bring to boiling point and boil for 5 minutes then add ¾ cup sugar for every cup of juice (the sugar is better if warmed before adding). Boil hard for 5 minutes, skim and pour into sterile jelly glasses—cover with paper or tea towel until cool, then cover with paraffin—adding a second thin coat before putting jelly away—final cover should be wax paper or lids to fit the jars.

Question—Please send me a leaflet on canning fish. Send me all the different kinds you have.—Mrs. J. W. S.

Answer—Although we do not have any cookery leaflets for distribution I can give you detailed instructions for canning fish.

Canned Fish—Large fish should be filleted or cut into thick steaks—small fish would be filleted—all need to be washed, trimmed, and cleaned, and DRIED. Spread prepared fish out on platters and sprinkle with salt very lightly, using about ½ teaspoon for every pound of fish. Let stand for two hours, then rinse off salt and pack into sterlies jars and fill to overflowing with boiling hot brine in proportion of 1 tablespoon salt to each quart of water. Put on sterile rubbers, tops and rings and seal to within quarter turn of tight. Stand in pan about 1½ inches apart and pour in water to come two inches up sides of jars. Put in oven of 200 deg. Fahr. and increase to 275 deg. Fahr. and hold it at this temperature for 1½ hours. Tighten seal—do not loosen it.

Cautionary note—Fish and meat are hard to can properly. All directions must be followed to the letter. If you do not have thermometers or proper equipment do not attempt to can them. Boiling temperatures on top of stove is not high enough to kill the bacteria in fish or meat—they must have oven heat or steam pressure. Those who wish to can fish or meats in steam pressure cooker would use 15 lbs. pressure (250 deg. Fahr) for 75 minutes—using cans, not glass jars.

If there are any air bubbles in your jars when process is complete it must be repeated — for this means that unsterilized air is entering the jars.

Boil all canned fish and meats for 5 minutes befores tasting when jars are opened for use.

Your best method to acquire a file of cookery subjects is to clip this cookery page each week.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty, or give me death!" —Patrick Henry.

Dear Friends:

When I was in New York, I saw where they had restricted areas chained off, a street or a square, so that the children could play without fear of being run over. They could play as they liked in those areas, with no restrictions, unless for care of property.

And I thought how good it would be for all of us if we had restrictions with each other, especially in family life, so that each would have as much freedom as possible.

Once we had that, there would be no fear of being run over by unasked advice, by unwanted criticism, by interference with our liberty. As it is now, every last person in a family seems to think that by being related either by blood or marriage, leaves no restrictions whatever as to how they can talk, or how they can act.

Many's the one is chained and a slave to what their family will say or do in any event of their lives. I'll grant you that children must be guided until they can take care of themselves. That is as it should be.

But there should be a barrier up, just as there are barriers up in those streets in New York, so that none can care to pass them. Why should any member of a family feel free to judge of another's friends? There should be a danger sign of "Thus far and no farther".

And it is this lack of barriers that cause so much havoc in the family life. Some seem to think that when they were born, they got all the brains, the rest are sort of half-witted. So they poke their nose into other people's business, they raise their voice in condemnation of what the rest may do.

None of us like the same friends, nor the same food, nor the same clothes, so why should we all be made to follow a pattern set up by one or two? Some have given in because they wanted peace, but that kind is very dear at the price.

You find it in clubs, in factories, anywhere there may be groups. Those with breeding would never think of practising it, because they are just as ready to give freedom as to take it.

How then, could we put it in force? We would have to have rules and barriers so that none could come in to impose their will on us. In an office, no one would dare to go to the boss and tell him what he should or should not do. There is a cure for that kind of thing, and that is in losing their job. And the same kind of thing could apply in the home, so that anyone trying to break down the barriers would lose their standing with the rest.

And the barriers are first, good breeding, and mind your own business, and "do unto others", and I'll guarantee that if they were all used, all of us would have much more freedom. No doubt we would make mistakes, who doesn't?

But we would have more initiative, more chances to try our wings, more personal liberty. How many things that would be of interest to many, that would beautify living, have been nipped in the bud by the thought of what the family would say, or co-workers would say?

As children we used to play a game where others could tag us, but if we could get to a certain place ringed off with chalk, we could hop up and down and cry shrilly: "I'm on my granny's ground. No one can touch me." When we were all running aroud, one could trip us, one could run us ragged, anything could happen, but once we got inside that magic circle, we were safe. So let us have such a thing in our lives and no one can touch us. Let me know if you like the idea.

Your friend, ROBERTA.

Fashion Service

Here's a smart little quick change two-piece costume. The jacket blouse is wine-red velveteen; the skirt wine, blue and green wool plaid. It will make your school wardrobe seem more extensive than it really is. The separate plaid wool skirt affords opportunity to wear lovely sweaters and smart "tuck-in" shirt type blouses of cotton broadcloth or flannel. The wine-red blouse serves as a jacket over a black or a rayon-challis print dress. Use the same pattern for the print dress and again and again for separate skirts and blouses. Style No. 2008 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch material for blouse with 1¼ yards of 39-inch material for skirt.

HOW LONG CAN A THREE-QUARTER WIFE HOLD HER HUSBAND?

YOU have to work at marriage to make a success of it. Men may be selfish, unsympathetic, but that's the way they're made and you might as well realize it.

When your back aches and your nerves scream, don't take it out on your husband. He can't possibly know how you feel.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Miss Anna and Virginia Graiough, of Ohio, were recent guests of Miss Barbara Parsons.

Twenty-Fifth
Wedding Anniversary

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Crough, when thirty-five guests assembled in honor of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of the host and hostess. Dancing and sing-songs were enjoyed during the evening, music for dancing being supplied by Tommy Tobin, George Rendall, and Mr. Mumby. George Kemp played the guitar for the sing-songs, and George Downer entertained with some very neat step-dancing. Little Theresa Crough, another talented Peterborough child, sang and tap-danced for the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Crough were presented with many attractive gifts. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by Mrs. Tommy Tobin, Mrs. Frank Crough, Mrs. Clayton McIlwain, and Miss Edna Bowes.

Garden Tea
Lakefield United Church

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 7.—A Garden Tea under the auspices of the Women's Association of the United Church, Lakefield, was held Friday, Sept. 3rd, 3 to 6 p.m., on the lawn at Mrs. Charles I. Tanner's home. In spite of the threatened bad weather the sun burst forth and enabled the ladies to have a delightful afternoon.

Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Tanner received. Two couples, Mrs. J. Reid and Mrs. Geo. Welbourne, and Mrs. McKerchar and Mrs. Bruce Garbutt poured tea at a lace covered table centered with a large silver bowl of pink sweet peas. Tea was served at small tables set daintily and centered with silver bud vases of pink sweet peas.

Those in charge of the tables were Mrs. J. Payne and Mrs. John Hendren, Mrs. Hull and Mrs. (Dr.) Renwick, Mrs. Frank Erskine and Mrs. Sam Grylls, Miss Margaret Sanderson and Mrs. Andrew Miller, Mrs. George Spence and Mrs. Ed Hill.

The home cooking and candy tables were in charge of Mrs. W. J. Charlton and Mrs. J. Millage, respectively, and were laden with the generous contributions from the members.

Throughout the entire afternoon a program of instrumental and vocal music was rendered. Those invited to take part were Mrs. (Dr.) Moore, Mrs. Rev. G. F. Kelly, Mrs. Judson Hull, Miss Mary McKerchar, Helen Porter, Eva Hendren and Jean Miller.

The proceeds will be donated to the Building committee of the new parsonage and used to this end.

McIlwain—Parnell

The marriage took place at George Street United church with the Rev. M. C. Parr performing the ceremony on Saturday, of Cleota (Dolly) Parnell, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Parnell to Donald E. McIlwain, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McIlwain.

The bride wore a dress of navy blue satin, with matching accessories and a corsage of American beauty roses. The happy couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Leo Blodgett. Following the ceremony, a small reception was held at the Mayfair Cafe.

✧ ✧ ✧

Laing—Stuart

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Trinity United church on Saturday, September 4, when Helen Amelia, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stuart, was united in marriage to Clarence William Laing, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Laing. The Rev. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's church officiated in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. G. S. Easton.

The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Stuart, wore a suit of brown sheer, with matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses. The bridesmaid wore navy blue net, with blue hat and accessories and a corsage of Rapture roses. George Kiff attended the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, the happy couple left for a motor trip to Montreal and Quebec City.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mahoney—Wynn

A pretty wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock on Saturday morning by the Rev. Father F. J. Kelly in St. Peter's Cathedral, when Mary Wynn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wynn was married to Michael Mahoney, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mahoney.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white brocaded lace over taffeta, a small white turban with nose-veil, and white gloves and shoes. She carried a shower bouquet of Briarcliffe roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Florence Murphy, who wore a gown of pink chiffon over taffeta with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of red Briarcliffe roses.

The best man was Simon Mahoney brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was held for immediate relatives at the Elite, after which the happy couple left for Toronto, the bride travelling in a navy blue costume. When they return, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mahoney will live at No. 4, of the Braund Apartments.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl rosary, to the bridesmaid a beaded evening bag and to the best man a cigarette lighter.

✧ ✧ ✧

Tyndall—Lowden

The wedding was quietly solemnized in All Saints church on Saturday at three o'clock, of Dorothy Eleanor, daughter of Mrs. E. Lowden of Rubidge Street, to Andrew Tyndall, son of Charles Tyndall of Donegal Street and the late Mrs. Tyndall. The Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson officiated.

The young couple were attended by Miss Helen Hetherington and Frank Sanders. Only immediate relatives and friends attended the ceremony, after which refreshments were served in buffet style at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tyndall left later for Toronto and other points. They will reside on Rubidge Street when they return to the city.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dobbin—McDonald

A wedding of local interest took place Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in Trinity United Church, Thornton, Ontario, when Agnes Kathleen, youngest daughter of the Rev. William and Mrs. McDonald of Thornton, formerly of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Gordon Lambert Dobbin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Dobbin of Stewart Street. Amid a setting of palms and vari-colored gladioli, the ceremony was performed by the bride's father, the Rev. William McDonald.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Leslie McDonald, was charming in a long Elizabethan model gown of turquoise blue chiffon, with matching fitted taffeta jacket. Her halo hat was of stitched taffeta and she carried a shower bouquet of Butterfly roses, bouvardia and white heather—a gift from relatives in Scotland.

Miss Jean McDonald, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She was becomingly gowned in a princess frock of Dubonnet marquisette over taffeta, with matching braided turban and sandals. She carried a sheaf of cream and gold shaded gladioli.

Jack Dobbin of Toronto attended his brother as groomsman, and the ushers were Jack Maxwell of Toronto and Robert Allin of Peterborough.

The wedding music was played by Mervin Corbett of Thornton and during the signing of the register, Miss Sade Squires of Toronto sang "Still As The Night."

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. McDonald received the guests wearing a gown of dark blue flowered sheer with black accessories and a corsage of Premier roses. Mrs. Dobbin, mother of the groom, assisted her, wearing a gown of beige and mulberry lace, with matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dobbin left by motor for the eastern states, the bride travelling in a frock of navy crepe with attached shoulder cape lined with pale blue and white polka dot, and an off-the-face hat of navy felt. On their return the young couple will reside in Peterborough.

Myles—Marshall

LINDSAY, Sept. 7. — St. Paul's Anglican Church was the scene of a quiet wedding when Hazel M., daughter of Mrs. Robert Marshall and the late Mr. Marshall of Lindsay, was married to Wilmot B. Myles, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Myles, Lindsay. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. A. J. Goldring. The bride was attired in a gown of Alice blue silk, with matching accessories. The bridesmaid, Miss Edna Weatherup, Lindsay, was in flowered chiffon. Both carried Sweetheart roses. The groomsman was Russell Rutherford of Fenelon Falls.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Myles left on a trip to Walkerton and Wroxeter, and on their return will reside in Lindsay.

✧ ✧ ✧

Longman—Bailey

MARMORA, Sept. 7.— A very pretty wedding took place in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, on Saturday at 12 o'clock noon, when Annie Douglas Bailey, of Marmora, daughter of James Edgar Bailey and the late Mrs. Bailey, became the bride of John Langman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Langman, of Aurora. The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin, with veil drawn back with orange blossoms. She carried roses and lillies of the valley. Mrs. Margaret Smith, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was very charming in a rose coloured taffeta gown with halo hat and matching accessories. Margaret Anne Smith, the bride's niece, made a dainty little flower girl in powder blue point d'esprit. Mr. E. Langman of Aurora, attended his brother.

Donald Bailey, brother of the bride, and Roy Smith, acted as ushers.

The church was nicely decorated with gladioli, asters and other fall flowers. Rev. Dean A. B. Caldwell officiated. The bride's aunt, Mrs. McNeven, of Saskatchewan, played Lobengrin's Wedding March during the signing of the register.

A delightful wedding breakfast was served at Marble Point Lodge, Crowe Lake.

The bride, handsomely attired in a black suit, left with her husband for a wedding trip to Montreal and points east.

✧ ✧ ✧

Robertson—Kennedy

LINDSAY, Sept. 7. — Decorated with ferns and late summer flowers, St. Paul's Anglican Church was the scene of a wedding Monday afternoon, when Vera Gladys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Kennedy of Lindsay, was married to John Howard Roberson, son of Mrs. Robertson and the late Mr. James Robertson of Ops Township. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. A. J. Goldring, and the music played by Miss Muriel McGill of Bethany. During the signing of the register, Miss Kathleen Beall of Lindsay sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin, with lace. Her veil of French net fell from a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley. Miss Vera Robertson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in peach lace over taffeta with brown accessories, and she carried a bouquet of peach-colored gladioli.

The bridegroom was supported by Earl Kennedy, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Charles Kennedy, brother of the bride, and Lloyd Vanstone, of South Ops.

A reception was held at the summer home of the bride's parents, Sturgeon Lake. Later Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left on a motor trip to New York.

✧ ✧ ✧

DeCarlo—Basciano

On the groom's birthday, this (Tuesday) morning at eight o'clock, in St. Peter's Cathedral, Rose, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Basciano, became the bride of Fred DeCarlo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Florinto DeCarlo. The Rev. Father Masterson officiated for the Nuptial Mass and ceremony.

The altar was beautifully decorated with pure white gladioli. The wedding music was played by Miss Veronica Scollard; Miss Loretta Giardino sang the "Ave Maria."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a beautiful gown of Duchess satin, falling in slim folds to a long train, fastened with a pearl ornament, the collar and insets across the shoulders were of lace and the long, close-fitting sleeves came to points over her hands. Her veil of embroidered silk net with long train and short overveil, was arranged on her hair with a Princess Marina coronet trimmed with orange blossoms. She wore white kid gloves, white slippers and carried a bouquet of white lillies and lillies-of-the-valley.

Miss Annette DeCarlo, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore a lovely gown of pale yellow taffeta, fashioned with bouffant skirt and tiny bolero jacket with Peter Pan collar and short puffed sleeves. Mauve silk ribbon trimmed the collar with a bow and girdled the waist, falling in very long streamers at the back. Self-covered buttons trimmed the skirt to the hem. She wore a small turban of mauve velvet petals, with tulle trimming, mauve lace mittens, mauve slippers and carried a bouquet of yellow Souvenir roses and mauve Scabiosa.

The best man was John Basciano and the ushers were Leonard Basciano and Rocco DeCarlo.

In the evening a reception for a large number of guests was held in the Legion Hall. Mrs. Basciano, mother of the bride, was gowned in wine-colored chiffon, with hat of black velvet and black accessories. Mrs. DeCarlo, mother of the groom, wore a gown of navy blue chiffon with pearl button trim, navy hat and accessories.

The happy couple left later for Ottawa and Montreal, the bride wearing a wool suit in a mustard shade, trimmed with colored wool embroidery on the vestee. She wore a close-fitting hat with beige and brown streamers, brown gloves, shoes and purse. When they return Mr. and Mrs. Fred DeCarlo will live at 122 Maude street.

Clothes For Little Girls

By LISBETH.

LITTLE GIRLS are joyfully helping mother to select school clothes right now in anticipation of school opening shortly.

Clothes that wear well, clean easily and look dressy are what the little girl likes, with emphasis, I fear, on the latter.

Separate sweaters and skirts are practical and make for variety of costume. Soft zephyr wool known as pullovers with matched or contrasting cardigans worn with lightweight wool flannel or tweed skirts may be chosen from a vast selection in the shops.

The sunburst pleated umbrella gored skirt and the paneled swing skirt have been cleverly adapted from grown-up styles for the little girl. Ribbed suspender skirts with adjustable straps are also practical. The skirt is many-gored suspender style in deep brow wool flannel, worn with a bright green sweater edged with white at the neckline and front closing. The flannel straps of the suspenders fasten adjustably with metal buckles.

Knitted Dresses.

Two-piece knitted dresses of fine zephyr wool yarns, often blended with angora or cashmere, are simple and classic in style, as is the one pictured. It is in soft wool in deep blue, with fine self-striping effect in the spaced rib knot. Flat-knit bands make an interesting yoke on the round-necked sweater blouse, and a self-belt of flatknit wool ties in a little bow at one side.

Big and little sister, hand in hand, may be dressed in twin frocks, possibly of gray wool, a row of tiny "silver" ball buttons down the front, with Buster Brown collars and cuffs on short puffed sleeves of crisp white pique bordet-stitched in red.

A three-piece bolero dress uses a gay wool plaid cut on the bias to make the swing skirt that buttons on to the white pique blouse with large silver buttons. Completing this outfit is a cunning short-sleeved bolero jacket of monotone sheer wool, which repeates the plaid in the skirt by means of cuff and pocket piping.

Two-piece knitted dress of zephyr wool yarn with hand-knitted look.

CAMPBELLFORD SWIMMER WINS HASTINGS RACE

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 7. — With just a slight tinge of autumn in the air, Hastings first Labor Day celebration was held on Monday, sponsored by Frank Gilbert, well-known radio artist, who makes his summer home in the village. A girls' softball tournament with six teams competing, and a men's one-mile swim were the feature events in their class. Among the spectators were three political figures in the persons of Roy Wilmott, Conservative candidate for Northumberland, T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P. for East Peterborough, and Harold N. Carr, M.P.P. for Northumberland.

The field and water sports drew large crowds. Events began at ten in the morning and finally wound up with darkness halting some of the finals in the girls' softball tournament. Mr. Gilbert was the originator of the sports day, which proved to be a huge success. He gathered an amount well over $100 from different donors which was used to buy prizes for the different events. A dance in Lynch's Hall in the evening, with Doug. Hutchison's Orchestra of Havelock furnishing the music, wound up a lengthy day.

Jack Tinney, fifteen-year-old Campbellford youth, copped the five-dollar prize for the one-mile swim. Doug. Nichols, a close second, also of Campbellford, was the winner of three dollars. A third Campbellford youth, Joe Elliott, was third for a two-dollar prize. Roy Wilmott was the donor of the prizes for the girls' 200-yard swim which was won by: First, Patsy Calberry; second, Helen Coughlan; third, Jessie Kirk. All three were Hastings girls. Harold N. Carr, M.P.P., was the donor of prizes for the boys' 200-yard swim. Winners were: First, Harold Edwards; second, Carlos McCoy; third, Jack Coughlan, all of Hastings.

Win Softball Honors.

Lindsay Supremes were victors in the girls' softball tournament when they defeated the Uxbridge girls 10 to 9 in the last game. Teams were entered from Warkworth, Castleton, Uxbridge, Cambray, Hastings, and Lindsay. In the first draw Hastings played Cambray, Uxbridge played Castleton, and Lindsay played Warkworth. Lindsay then played Cambray in the semi-finals, and by virtue of their win they advanced to the finals against Uxbridge.

At 10 in the morning the first game got under way when Uxbridge shellaced Castleton 27 to 10. The Uxbridge girls really went to town on E. Spencer, the Castleton twirler, and pounded her offerings all over the lot for 24 safe hits. Cambray and Hastings then tangled. The Cambray girls swamped Hastings by a 17 to 0 score. This time M. Thompson, the Hastings twirler, was the victim of a terrific onslaught.

To open the afternoon's events Lindsay Supremes made their debut and beat Warkworth 17 to 5 in a lop-sided contest to gain the semi-finals. Lindsay defeated Cambray 8 to 6 in a closely played game. It was featured by the smooth fielding on the part of the Lindsay outfit, while poor base running lost game for Cambray. The final game for first place and the $20 prize between Lindsay and Uxbridge was very close. There was no score till the third when Lindsay sent 5 runs across. They added another in the fourth before Uxbridge came across with 3. Lindsay scored 3 more in the fifth to take a 9 to 3 lead, only to have Uxbridge come back with 6 in the seventh to tie the game. They lost out when Lindsay sent over the winning run in the last of the seventh. Uxbridge received $10 for second place when they reached the finals.

The consolation tournament was postponed due to the early arrival of darkness, and will be staged on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

AUTO PLUNGES THROUGH BRIDGE

BOWMANVILLE, Sept. 7—Five United States tourists narrowly escaped death here yesterday when their car plunged through the guard-rail of a Canadian Pacific Railway overhead bridge and dropped thirty feet to the tracks below.

The car landed on its top and was almost demolished.

The injured: Mrs. M. Guth, Niagara Falls, N.Y., both arms and one leg broken; her daughter, Dolores, suffering concussion; and her husband, who escaped with lacerations and bruises; Mr. and Mrs. C. Guth of Buffalo, N.Y., also escaped with bruises.

According to the police the Guth car and one ahead of it turned out of traffic on the bridge to pass the cars ahead. They had to pull back into line and one cut sharply in front of the Guth car. The driver, Mrs. C. Guth, swung over to the right and plunged through the rail.

They were treated by Dr. C. W. Slemon and Dr. J. C. Bell. Traffic Officer Harry Caldwell investigated.

pate in the coming Mediterranean conference," Il Popolo said. "It cannot have other effect than to force the Fascist government to a complete re-examination of the situation."

A suggestion that Britain and France, authors of the "anti-piracy" conference plan, make the next move to have the conference was voiced by Il Messagero.

"It is senseless to imagine that Italy could present herself before the Mediterranean conference in the role of the accused," Il Messagero said.

A typewritten communique of the press ministry late yesterday afternoon carried the disclosure of the Russian protest and Italy's reply. The torpedoed Russian ships were not named but the Timiryazev and the Blageov were the most recent to be sunk in the Mediterranean. The Soviet union demanded indemnity and punishment of the guilty persons.

An official termed foreign minister Ciano's reply "extremely severe language." The reply denied responsibility for the attack and rejected "en bloc" the demands of Soviet Russia, the press communique stated.

Actual texts of the exchanged notes were not disclosed.

CONTRACT MAIL PLAN TO STAND

WHITBY, Sept. 7.—Delegates to the second annual convention of the Rural Mail Carriers' Association at their banquet in the town hall last night were told by G. Herring, chief superintendent of the Land and Air Mail Branch of the Post Office, that their demands for the abolition of the contract system could not be brought about so long as the law governing contracts remained as it is at present.

The speaker, representing the Postmaster-General, said further that the proposal for a flat rate of $55 a mile could not be inaugurated as it would mean that a contractor to work a full day would have to cover 75 miles, and 75 miles at $55 a mile would mean over $4,000 a year.

The speaker further pointed out that to give carriers routes of 75 miles would mean that others would be ousted from their jobs, a result much opposed by the association.

The contract system would remain, because it was the best system devised and the Postmaster-General had given no little consideration to the problems of rural mail couriers and their request for permanent appointment.

The delegates, some 200 with their wives, were welcomed to Whitby by Mayor A. Jackson and Gordon B. Whitfield, Secretary of the Canadian Postmasters' Association, extended greetings from that organization. The convention will come to a close on Tuesday with the election of officers and recording of resolutions.

it touches almost instantly. Things like yarns that would take an indefinite time, many minutes as a rule, to wet through in water, soak in a few seconds in "wetter water."

Most spectacular was a dust laying experiment. In a work room where the dust was hazy thick and breathing risky, an ordinary water spray fell through the air without relief.

"Wetter water" Wilkes said, made the air almost clear, and solved the health hazard. The wet water simply soaked instantly every dust particle it touched where ordinary water drops had been "glancing off."

Old wall paper is said to give up the ghost and start peeling when wetter water hits it. It is also a good remover of the poisons left on fruits from insect sprays, Wilkes reported.

ALL PROFITS FOR POLICYHOLDERS

Are Women Better Shoppers Than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electric refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicous entrees and desserts that surprse and delight her family? And where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them — and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads the advertisements too!

EVIDENCE TAKEN OF ONE WITNESS

When Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell expressed the intention of adjourning a hearing in court here because he had an appointment at Cobourg, the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., defence counsel, obtained leave to have recorded the evidence of a witness who had come from Northern Manitoba.

The witness was William H. Ketcheson, who gave his address as Rich Rock Mine, Flin Flon. He testified on behalf of his brother, D. V. Ketcheson of this city, who is charged that on May 2 last he caused wilful damage to property under construction by Albert E. Taylor, Toronto contractor, at Albertus and Weller streets.

Witness said he was visiting his brother here on the date in question and was with him throughout the entire day. In the afternoon, he testified, he and his brother Dave went to the head of Weller street where the house was under construction to see how the work was progressing.

"Did you or he go into the building," Mr. Gordon queried.

"No."

"What do you say as to your brother destroying plaster or lathe?"

"Why, No. He had his good clothes on," witness said.

There was no cross-examination, and the hearing was then adjourned to September 17.

The present charge against Mr. Ketcheson is one of a series of charges and counter charges involving himself and the contractor arising out of a dispute connected with the erection of a new house.

WEDDINGS

Jones—Gaffney

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, Sept. 7.—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Sacred Heart church, Marmora, on Monday, September 6, at 9 o'clock, when Helen Gaffney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Gaffney, Deloro, became the bride of Arnold M. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jones, Norwood. The bride was very charming in a white taffeta gown cut in princess lines with matching accessories.

Mrs. J. McCraden, matron of honor, sister of the bride, wore a dainty gown of pink chiffon with blue accessories. Mr. John McCraden acted as best man.

After a delicious wedding dinner served at the home of the bride's parents, the happy couple left for Toronto. On their return they will reside in Marmora.

Residents may be interested in learning that among the new varieties of gladioli is listed the "Marmora". It is described as a large petunia, purple blotch and grey with 8-10 perfectly placed blooms.

Bolton—Bibby

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 7.—Ann Madeline Bibby, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bibby, became the bride of Joseph M. Bolton in St. Mary's Church at 9 a.m. on Saturday. The bride, who was gowned in ivory satin made on princess lines with full length sleeves and trimmed with rose buds, wore a veil which fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and fern, and was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Glenn Forestall, of Detroit. Miss Margaret Bibby, Reg. N., was the maid of honor and wore aqua marine net over taffeta with halo hat and matching accessories. Miss Frances Bibby was bridesmaid. She wore pink net over taffeta with halo hat and accessories in matching color. Mr. Edward Bush was groomsman and ushers were Everett Kelleher and Edward O'Connor.

Following the nuptial Mass which was sung by Father J. V. MacAuley, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where dinner was served to about thirty-five guests. For travelling the bride wore a brown taffeta suit with brown hat and accessories. After a honeymoon trip to Detroit and Cleveland Mr. and Mrs. Bolton will reside in Campbellford.

Fitzgerald—Heffernan

DOURO, Sept. 7.—A pretty September wedding took place on Monday morning at eight o'clock at St. Joseph's church, Douro, when Eileen Heffernan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Heffernan, of Douro, was united in marriage to Michael Fitzgerald, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald of Otonabee. Rev. E. Welsh performed the ceremony and said the nuptial Mass. The organist, Miss Mary Quinlan, played the wedding march.

The bride wore a Wallis blue wool suit with matching blouse, a small blue velvet touque, blue shoes and white gloves. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli. The bridesmaid, Miss Teresa Heffernan, sister of the bride, wore a dress of hunters green crepe with trimmings in golden shade, a green felt halo hat, green shoes and gloves. Her bouquet was of pink gladioli. The groom was supported by his brother, Fergus Hogan of Otonabee. After the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served at the Elite Cafe, Peterborough, only immediate relatives being present.

The groom's gift to the bride was a travelling bag; to the bridesmaid a purse, and to the best man a scarf.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will reside in Peterborough after a short honeymoon to western points.

Mason—Clazy

WARKWORTH, September 7— A wedding of much interest to Warkworth friends took place in the church parlors of the Central Presbyterian Church, Rochester, N. Y., when Marguerite Gene Clazy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Clazy was united in marriage to Robert G. Mason of Lewiston, N. Y. Rev. Dr. Sherman Haven officiated.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin with pearl trim and a finger tip veil with a coronet of old rose point lace. She carried a satin bound New Testament which her uncle, Sergeant Will Carruthers had kept with him through the world war.

The maid of honor, Miss Musa Cox of Peterborough, Ont., wore a redingote of turquoise net over taffeta with pink accessories and a large picture hat. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses with satin streamers. Ross Hind, cousin of the bride acted as best man. The ushers were Percy Baker, Charles Wilson and Clifford Young. The wedding march was played by Professor W. DeWitt Brown of Syracuse, N. Y. Immediately preceding the ceremony Professor Gustav Lehman sang two appropriate solos.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the adjoining parlor. The bride was assisted in receiving by her mother also the groom's mother, each wearing navy sheer with orchid corsages.

After the reception, the immediate family and relatives gathered at "The Redfern" on Monroe Avenue, where a wedding supper was served. After which the bride and bridegroom left for a trip to points in New England.

The bride was a former Warkworth girl and her many friends wish her much happiness.

Bate—Morrison

A charming early fall wedding took place in Knox United Church on Monday at one o'clock, when Beatrice Matilda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Morrison, became the bride of Richard Herbert Bate, son of S. G. Bate of Elmvale, and the late Mrs. Bate. The Rev. V. E. Zufelt performed the ceremony against a beautiful floral setting of gladioli, ferns and palms.

Given in marriage by her brother, William Morrison, the bride wore a distinctive gown of white taffeta fashioned on princess lines and falling into a slight train. With high neckline and leg o' mutton sleeves, it was trimmed with tiny self-covered buttons both front and back to the waist. Her veil of embroidered silk net was held in place on her hair with a coronet of fine tucking and bridal blossoms, being arranged at the back in fan effect, from which it fell in graceful folds to a long train. She wore white accessories and carried a bouquet of white lilies.

Mrs. C. P. Edwards, as matron of honor to her sister, was attired in a lovely gown of taffeta in a deep hyacinth shade, similarly made to the bride's, but with short puffed sleeves. She wore a large matching poke bonnet, trimmed with a wreath of pink petals below the brim. Her gloves and slippers were white and her bouquet was of light pink Briarcliffe roses and gypsophila. The bridesmaid was Miss Gladys Chambers, whose tafetta gown and bonnet of similar design were in an attractive shade of pastel green. She wore white Coronation gloves of net and lace, white slippers and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and gypsophila.

Robert C. Swait of Toronto attended the groom as best man. The ushers were Newton Hamilton, Gordon Beavis and Don Menzies, all cousins of the bride. The wedding music was played by W. G. Porter, organist of the Church, the choir, of which the bride was a member, being in attendance also and singing twice during the ceremony. During the signing of the register, Miss Jean Crozier sang "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Walkerfield House, where Mrs. Morrison, mother of the bride, received with the bridal party. She was wearing a gown of Persian ruby silk velvet, with matching hat trimmed with a soft grey mount. Her corsage was of light pink Briarcliffe roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. C. Swait, aunt of the groom, also received, wearing a gown of black silk lace over satin with American Beauty trim, a large black hat, black accessories and a corsage of red Briarcliffe roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Bate left for a motor trip in the States, the bride wearing for travelling a smart suit of wine-colored wool, trimmed with lamb collar and pockets, a matching turban with doll leather trim, wine shoes, grey purse and gloves. When they return from their honeymoon the happy couple will live in Toronto.

ROBERT ABBOTT CAPTURES TITLE

The club championship for the Peterborough Golf and Country Club was settled over the week-end with Robert Abbott getting top honors by one point. Dr. J. C. Green was his opponent in the final round and gave the former champion quite a battle before succumbing.

In the morning round Abbott did not seem to have the feel of his putter and Green won the first hole, repeating in the initial 18 holes to finish 4 up.

Green	444443454—36		74
	463454354—38
Abbott	544444454—38		79
	554444456—41

Right at the start of the second 18 it looked as if the Doc was going to finish the match quick by winning the 1, 2, and 3th holes, he was now 7 up and 13 to play. Bob won the 7th hand 8th holes, his opponent the 9th to gain a 6 stroke lead with nine to play. Fighting all the way, Abbott took the 10th, 11, 12th halved the next and won the 14th. The Doc being 2 up and 4 to play. They halved the next. Bob then went to town by squaring the match on the 17th and both had nice drives on the 18th. The Doc played his second to the left of the greens. Bob put his on, Jack's chip was short, both took two putts, Bob winning by 4 to 5 to finish one up. The scores:

Abbott	544454455—40	79
	453444344—35
Green	434444344—39	81
	564454455—42

ROWE IS COMING WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Conservatives from all over the riding are expected to fill the Legion Hall on Wednesday evening when a candidate will be nominated to represent the party in the coming Provincial election. Proceedings will get under way at 7 oclock, Standard Time, and the gathering will be featured by the presence of Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Provincial leader who will pay his first visit to Peterborough since his appointment to that position. This will be one of the big Conservative gatherings of the election, and from every section of the riding delegations are coming to hear the Provincial leader.

Street gossip seems to indicate the re-nomination of T. P. Lancaster of Havelock, who represented Peterborough in the last Legislature, and before that was the member of Peterborough County.

Trio Of Workers At Douro Festival.

A record-breaking crowd of 1300 people sat down at the Fowl Supper in connection with Labor Day festivities at Douro, and maybe the picture reveals one of the reasons why. The smiling trio, representative of the large staff of volunteer workers needed to handle the large crowd, are (left to right) Agnes Hayes, Agnes Condon, and Anna Tobin.

COUNCIL MEETS.

The city council is scheduled to holds its September meeting this evening at 7.30 while the Board of Education is also to meet.

TO CLOSE LOCKS.

The locks on the Trent Canal at Burleigh and Buckhorn are to be closed to all boats, no matter how small, after September 30. Construction work on the bridges is given as the reason for the closing.

WON SIXTH PLACE.

The entry of the Peterborough Vegetable Growers' Association at the Toronto Exhibition won sixth place in competition with entries from eight other associations. First place went to London and second to Toronto.

STOVE URGENTLY NEEDED.

A woman with a small family living at 376 ½ Water street, is urgently in need of a cook stove. At present she has not heat whatever in the house and with the cold weather coming on she badly needs a stove. Any person having a stove which they could give her it would be greatly appreciated.

PREACHES AT COOKE'S.

Rev. Dr. Robert Pogue, former elder and assistant to Dr. William Paterson of Cooke's church, Toronto, and later minister of St. Paul's church, Peterborough, returned on Sunday to his old congregation in Cooke's church and conducted the services.

GIRLS' JUDGING TEAM.

Three girls will form a judging team to represent Peterborough County in domestic science judging at the C.N.E. Wednesday. They are Laura Taylor, Alma Robinson and Rita Torpey, all of Otonabee, and were selected at the Girls' Achievement Day here in June. Agricultural Representative A. D. Runions will assist in the junior farmers' judging competition at the C.N.E. Wednesday. No Peterborough boys are entered.

PURCHASES HOLSTEIN CALF.

A stock purchase of note was made by N. J. McConkey of this city when he took delivery of "Illebee Segis Nig," a distinguished Holstein calf, from J. M. Fraser of Streetsville, at the C.N.E. Saturday. The calf won fourth ribbons at both Ottawa and Toronto in senior bull calf classes. It is believed by local Holstein breeders that the animal will make a valuable addition to Peterborough herds in competition in future years. Mr. McConkey has one of the leading Holstein herds in the county.

RIVER LEVELS LOW.

The Otonabee River from Auburn as far down as London Street dam was at an extremely low level over the weekend. Owing to repairs being undertaken at the Quaker Oats, Limited, London Street dam water levels were reduced ten feet, exposing for the first time in a period of many years, mudbanks and crib work. Fred T. Tuggey, a former alderman, said he had noticed that repairs were needed at Smith Street bridge, the abutments being in what he considered a dangerous condition due to the action of the water.

PLAINTIFF GETS JUDGMENT.

Judgment went to the plaintiff in the case of T. H. Squire against Sheldon Huffman at the current sittings of Division Court. The plaintiff claimed he gave a gun and $15 to the defendant in a trade for an outboard motor and found the outboard motor to be in very poor state of repair. Judge Smoke directed return of the gun and payment of $15 or a straight payment of $30 to the plaintiff. G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted for Mr. Squire and A. L. Elliott for Mr. Huffman. Further cases on the September Division Court list will be heard this Thursday.

HEAVY MOTIONS.

Judge Sheldon Smoke was busy this morning hearing a number of motions under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act in his chambers.

TO ADDRESS YOUTH.

Dr. Peter Shih, young Chinese Christian principal of Nanking Theological College, is to address an inter-church youth rally at George Street United Church this evening.

CATCHES BIG BASS.

Tom Metcalfe of Port Hope, while fishing in Upper Stoney Lake over the weekend, caught one of the biggest black bass reported this season. The huge fish was 22 inches long and weighed six pounds.

56 DEGREES CHANGE.

Official Weatherman A. O. Phillips remarked to-day that the range in local temperatures during the past week has been distinctly unusual. From a high of 96 degrees last Wednesday, the thermometer sagged to a low of 40 degrees, just 8 degrees above freezing, Sunday.

SEEING LIFTLOCKS.

The Labour Day holiday brought a heavy movement of tourists to the vicinity of the Lift Locks to observe the great structure and watch it in action. The predominence of American license markers on cars in the vicinity suggested the bulk of the tourists were visitors from across the line.

ARE STAYING ON.

The infantile paralysis scare has been a good thing for the folk who supply goods and services for summer residences. As a result of the late opening of Toronto schools, the Queen City colony at Stoney Lake and other resorts in the district are staying on longer than usual, and the season is as a result lengthening out unexpectedly.

NOT AS BIG AS USUAL.

While there was a large Peterborough contingent in Toronto on Labor Day, the delegation from here to the Canadian National Exhibition fell below the usual figures, largely because of the infantile paralysis outbreak. Neither railway nor motor traffic to Toronto was as large as usual. On the other hand, there was a record rush back to lake points for a weekend holiday.

FURTHER REMANDED.

Percy M. Middleton and John Francis Willington Freeman, both of Harvey Township, were further remanded when they appeared in custody before Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell this morning on joint charges of unlawful possession of illicit spirits contrary to provisions of the Excise Act. On a previous appearance Middleton entered a plea of not guilty to the charge while the other accused pleaded guilty. On application of Corporal T. J. Woods of the R.C.M.P. Lindsay detachment, the pair were remanded to September 14.

ALLEGES CUTTING-IN.

Cutting-in was officially blamed for an accident at Kendry Hill on Highway 28 around nine o'clock on the evening of Labor Day, which involved a motor truck and two motor cars. No personal injuries were involved but the vehicles were all more or less badly damaged. J. E. Adams of Charlotte street was reported to have been driving a truck in the direction of the city when a car driven by Stanley Austin, Port Hope attempted to pass in the same direction, apparently failing to notice the approach of a third vehicle driven by Henry G. Simpson, Woodbine avenue Toronto.

MAN.

"Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, Ont., on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. Selections from the Bible included the following: "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness; I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness." Correlative citations from the Christian Science text book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," included the following: "The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. . . Man is idea, the image of Love; he is not physique."

Judge Smoke Is Called Upon In Case To Pass On Fit Of Suit Of Clothes.

Many and varied are the duties of a county judge but rarely is he called upon to judge the fit of a suit of clothes. When Judge Sheldon Smoke found himself faced with such a duty at the current sittings of Division Court, he discharged it with the assurance of a sartorial expert.

The case at trial was an action by Anthony Pepe, local tailor, against Jack Cox for $35, the price Pepe claimed Cox owed him for a suit of clothes he tailored. Cox contended he was not obliged to pay the $35 as the suit did not fit him properly.

Principal exhibit in the case was the suit in question, a brown ensemble with a handsome stripe. At the direction of G. N. Gordon, K.C., who acted for the plaintiff, and W. J. Arthur Fair, who acted for the defendant, Cox pulled the suit on and off several times for prima facie demonstrations to the court of the fit of the clothes. Peering gravely down from the bench, Judge Smoke adjudged the suit to be a satisfactory fit and judgment went to the plaintiff.

HUNT REMANDED TO SEPTEMBER 14

Charged with unlawful wounding, Harry Hunt, 21, of this city appeared on bail before Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell and was further remanded until September 14 at request of the Crown. Bail was renewed in the sum of $1,000. On his original arraignment a week ago, Hunt pleaded not guilty to the charge. He is represented by A. L. Elliott.

It is alleged that Hunt discharged an air gun in the garden at the rear of a house on Westcott and that the pellet from the gun struck and wounded B. E. Morrison, a C. N. R. brakeman from Lindsay, who was riding on top of a freight car as a train passed at the rear of the house.

It was reported that two inches of bone in Morrison's left forearm was shattered by the pellet. He was admitted to hospital here, and was attended by Dr. A. Moir.

The Crown asked a further adjournment today because the medical witness was not able to be present. It was stated, however, that Morrison was out of hospital.

OBITUARY

ELIZABETH MORRISON

The death occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital on Sunday, September 5, of Miss Elizabeth Morrison, of 144 Brock street. Miss Morrison was in her 86th year and had been ill for some time. She came to Peterborough six years ago from McCracken's Landing and had been a resident here ever since.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from Nesotti's funeral home to Little Lake Cemetery with Rev. Canon Robertson of St. John's church officiating.

WILLIAM GIRVIN

The death of William Girvin, one of the oldest native residents of this district, occurred at his home, Lot 4, Concession 10, North Monaghan township, Sunday. In failing health of late, he was 87 years of age.

He was born in Otonabee township, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Girvin, and spent his entire life in this district. He was widely known in his community as a successful farmer. He was a member of St. James' United Church.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Hannah Perrie, five sons, James, Robert John, Edwin and Wilfred; one daughter Mrs. Robert Rutherford of Brandon, Manitoba; and one brother, Thomas Henry Girvin. One son, Franklin, was killed in action at Passchendale.

The funeral was held today at 2 p.m. from Comstock Funeral Home to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. Fred Craik officiating.

MRS. WILLIAM BENNETT

Taken suddenly ill Sunday evening Mrs. William Bennett, Jr. passed away at her home, 94 Gladstone avenue, Monday afternoon. She was in her 40th year.

Formerly Alice Edith Jenkins, she was daughter of Mrs. Sarah Ann Jenkins and the late Robert Charles Jenkins. Born in Kent County, England, she came to Canada with her parents 30 years ago. She was educated in Peterborough schools and attended all Saints' Anglican church.

Surviving are her husband, her mother, her stepfather, two sons, Allan Charles and Gerald Raymond at home, one brother, Harry, of Toronto and two sisters, Mrs. H. Sickler of this city and Lillian of Toronto.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. from the residence to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. Canon Paterson officiating.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, September 8

A DAY in which there may be something accomplished in the way of selling new ideas, putting over new projects or otherwise taking a step forward in fulfilling certain ambitions is forecast by the aspects between major planets. There may be trivial anxieties in employment or some petty vexations or dissension, but matters are promising especially in connection with writings, advertising or promotions.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of promising prospects, particularly in connection with new plans and projects. There is sign of expanded opportunities and of helpful contacts, all leading in the direction of fulfilled ambitions. Writings, publishing and promotion are especially encouraged, with individual initiative playing an important part.

A child born on this day may be versatile, capable in many things, of fair ambitions and personally popular, despite tendencies to criticism, conventionality and hints of self-righteousness. It may be clever in writing.

With the Boy Scouts

Twelfth St. Paul's South-end Cub pack will be in full working order next Monday and all the Cubs are requested to be on hand at 6.30 p.m.

Sacred Heart Scouts, Attention! At 7 p.m. Friday all old Scouts and any boy of Scout age wishing to join the troop are requested to be present as the troop will renew its activities at that date.

Scouter Mike Crough would appreciate your co-operation.

Up north, the Plaid Necks of the 11th Troop will meet on Thursday at 7.30 p.m. Scouter Chivas is looking forward to welcoming all the old faces around the camp fire. Don't disappoint him.

St. John's Troop is preparing for a grand renewal of the fall and winter activities, and all members should put in an attendance. Let's make this a banner year for Scouter Ford.

St. John's Wolf Cubs held their first fall meeting on Friday last at St. John's with a large attendance. The meeting consisted chiefly of games, songs and a story told by the various leaders. All Cubs are urged to be with the pack next Friday, when a special gift will be given to each boy who is present at the parade circle. Akela wants every one to bring along an empty cocoa or baking soda tin. Don't forget. Come along next Friday.

Patrol leaders and seconds. Please take notice. The success of the coming patrol leaders' conference depends entirely on you. Every single one of you is responsible to your Commissioner, Lew Grant, who as chairman in charge of the conference seeks your co-operation to bring about a real climax to the biggest P.L.'s conference attempted this side of Toronto, and we believe the biggest planned in Ontario.

Please let us know about billeting out-of-town guests. Don't forget: Bed Friday night with breakfast and dinner Saturday.

Chief Not Retiring.—A rumor has been circulated that the Chief Scout, Lord Baden-Powell, intends to retire from Scouting activities. There is absolutely no foundation to this rumor. The Chief Scout is in excellent health and has a long list of Scoutin activities ahead of him. This winter he plans to visit South Africa and Rhodesia.

Rovers, attention!—The next world rover moot will be held in Bonnie Scotland in 1939.

Don't forget the Scout craft work for window displays on Scout Apple Day. Prizes will be awarded for the best of the following: Knot Boards, Model Bridges, Model Camps, Model Airplanes and Map Drawing.

Also will be considered: Pencil Sketches, Pen and Ink Sketches, Water Colors, Woodcraft and Handicraft.

Let's make it the best yet. Show the public what Scouting really means to us.—"The Skipper."

TWEED LINEMAN IS ELECTROCUTED

TWEED, Sept. 7.—John Stokes, 50, hydro lineman was electrocuted here today. Mr. Stokes was changing wires on a pole when suddenly he came in contact with a live wire and fell to the ground. First aid was given for over two hours. Veteran of the world war he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stokes of Tweed. He is survived by a wife, one daughter and one brother, George, of Belleville.

Club Champion.

Staging a garrison finish, Robert Abbott (above) regained the club championship of the Peterborough golf club by defeating Dr. J. C. Green in a close contest.

TWO ARE HURT IN MINOR CRASHES ON CITY'S STREETS

James Size, 197 Brock street, injured when thrown from the cab of a motor truck owned by Boorman's Beverage Company, when the vehicle was overturned on Monday at noon, was discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital this morning.

He was driving his truck south on Armour road with the intention of turning west on Douro street, when the vehicle was involved in collision with another truck coming from the opposite direction and driven by J. M. DeLong, 450 Park Hill Road.

Broken glass was scattered about the intersection and soft drinks flowed in a stream when the Boorman truck turned over, and cars owned by James Moher, 236 Caddy street and Alex Carlo, R. R. 2, Indian River, parked on the north side of Douro street were damaged.

After being attended by Dr. W. S. Fitzpatick, Size was removed to hospital. His injuries were not of a serious nature.

Defective steering gear was blamed for another accident on Water street just south of Murray street Saturday afternoon. George E. Garbutt, R. R. 2, Lakefield, was driving a coupe south on Water street when the car suddenly pulled over to the left side of the road and collided with another car that was parked at the curb.

James McKiever, R. R. 10, Warsaw, owner of the parked car, was accompanied in the car by his wife and family and a Mrs. John Sullivan, when the impact took place. As a result of the collision, it was alleged, his 5-year-old son John was pitched through the windshield sustaining cuts about the face and head, while George, 3½ years was thrown from the car to the roadway and was bruised and shaken up. Dr. J. A. Morgan attended both children.

Richard Alfred, of Lakefield, a passenger in the Garbutt car stated the speed at which they were travelling was around 15 miles-an-hour at the time something appeared to go wrong with the steering gear, and the car pulled over to the wrong side of the road.

WOMAN IS KILLED ROADSTER CRASH

GODERICH, Ont., Sept. 7.—(CP).—Mrs. William Doherty, 26, Goderich, was killed and her sister, Mary Lightly, 23, critically injured last night as a result of a traffic crash on No. 8 highway, two miles east of Goderich.

Harold Livermore, 25, Clinton, said to have been the driver of the car containing the two sisters, is in hospital with extensive but not serious injuries.

The two women were with Livermore in a roadster when it struck the rear of a sedan driven by Harry Bradley, Goderich, which is alleged to have backed from a farmer's driveway on the highway.

The roadster hit the left rear end of the sedan and turned over several times on the highway before landing with its four wheels in the air. The occupants were thrown out and the two women badly crushed by the rolling car.

The Rambling REPORTERS

TWO CLOCKS, NEITHER RIGHT.

Peterborough citizens going to work this morning believed that the city was again back on standard time, but they became worried that they had possibly made a mistake when they looked at the Post Office clock, for by it they were an hour late. A hurried rush to see the Market Square clock revealed that it was twenty minutes to eight. Well, what time is it, they said—one clock twenty to ten, the other twenty to eight. However, the correct time was twenty to nine, for the Market clock was stopped, and the Post Office one had not been put back. —C.

Seeks Descendants Of Marshall Broo

John, William and Thomas Marshall came out to Peterborough from Ireland some time between 1825 and 1850, and now H. A. Marshall of Box 96, Selkirk, Manitoba, is desirous of getting in touch with some of the descendants of these three brothers.

Mr. Marshall, in a letter to The Examiner, writes: "I am desirous of tracing the descendants of three brothers, John, William and Thomas Marshall, who emigrated from Ireland some time between 1825 and 1850, and settled in Peterborough County."

ONE-HIT GAME IS NOT GOOD ENOUGH TO TRIM THE CUBS

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Justa about everything that can happen in baseball happened for 245,000 major league fans who saw Labor Day's 16 games.

Lefty Lee Grissom of the Reds pitched a one hitter—and lost. Ray Phebus, of course you don't know who he is, hurled a one-hitter and won. Joe Dimaggio slapped Homer No. 40; Hank Greenberg powdered No. 33.

And when it was all over the Giants had won two and the Cubs had split. The New Yorkers start an 18-game trip to hostile ballwicks to-morrow with a three game lead. The Cubs, for the present at least, are sunk.

Supported by the stalwart arms of Cliff Melton and Hal Schumacher, the Giants drubbed the Phillies, 6-2 and 9-3 as honest John McCarthy hit two home runs, Harry Danning got another.

In Chicago the last place Reds came close to trimming the Cubs twice. They won the opener 7-3 behind Paul Derringer.

Grissom checked the Cubs until the eighth when Phil Cavarretta's pop fly double, a sacrifice, a wild pitch and a long fly plus some shoddy infield play handed the Chicagoans two runs and the ball game, 2-1.

The Giants leave home with a three game bulge in the standings:

Giants—Won 76, lost 48. Games behind — Games to play, 30.

Cubs—Won 74, lost 52, games behind 3. Games to play 28.

Cardinals Split.

The Pirates and Cardinals, the only other clubs even faintly in the race, split. The Cards won one behind Bob Weiland, 4-1, and Arky Vaughan's homer took the second for the Bucs, 5-4. The Dodgers won behind Luke Hamlin 2-1 in 10 innings and then bowed before Lou Fette as he won his 17th victory.

Young Mr. Phebus, a 26-year old right hander from Cherryvale, Calif., by way of Albany, brought his talent to the attention of the American League by blanking the Red Sox with one hit after the Sox, behind the venerable Lefty Grove, had won the opener 6-2. Phebus fanned four and walked seven.

The Yankees had little trouble with the Philadelphia Athletics, taking two, 6-3 and 2-1. Signor Dimaggio and Ivy Paul Andrews, who pitched a three hit game, figured prominently in the proceedings. The Bronx bombers kept pace with their competition (heh, heh) as the Tigers shock down the Browns, 10-9, 5-2 with Greenberg and Pete Fox leading the way.

Bob Feller fanned nine, allowed four hits and tripled to give the Indians an even break 2-1 after Ted Lyons halted the Tribe in the morning game for the White Sox by the same score.

SPORTS DAY by DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

THE PETES faded out of the picture for the season Labor Day at Oshawa when the General Motors crew won the rubber game of the series 7 to6 and earned the right to meet the Kingston Ponies in the final round for the Central League title. Manager Collins' team after a season in which they played in-and-out ball, winding up in third position well behind the leaders, made the series with the Ontario champs a most hectic argument. They almost grabbed the first game in Oshawa and were unlucky not to have got better than a draw, came back home and were beaten 5 to 3 in a tight battle, invaded Oshawa on Saturday and outplayed the Motors by a wide margin to win 5 to 1 and even the series and then were finally trimmed in the decisive fixture by 7 to 5.

* * * * * *

THE PETES' showing in the playoff series with Oshawa was better than their season's record gave any reason for expecting. When it is remembered that they only won two games out of eight from the Motors during the regular schedule and but a solitary game out of the eight from the Ponies the dope did not indicate that they would be able to win a series from either club in the play-offs but they came close to doing that very thing; in fact they threw a scare into Oshawa that the second place team will carry with them into the league finals. The Petes, at the top of their form, are tough opposition for any man's team; the trouble has been however to keep them at their peak and probably the explanation for that is found in the fact that they are the youngest team in the loop and the steadiness and greater experience of the veterans of the Ponies and Motors gives those clubs the edge.

* * * * * *

RIGHT here we pause to hand a little bouquet to manager Fred Collins, the Petes' jovial pilot, for the manner in which he has stuck to his guns all season. He has been at the job at every practice since early spring, giving all kinds of time to the task of trying to lead the Petes into a title and on the whole must be given credit for making good use of the material available. There were obvious weaknesses in the squad—they would have been more apparent if it had not been for the ability of Calladine and Whatley to fill in at several positions—and under the circumstances it was perhaps about all that could have been expected to get into the playoffs and make a respectable showing when they got there.

* * * * * *

OBVIOUSLY the present squad will have to be reinforced if the 1938 Petes are to be a serious pennant threat. In the first place with most of the batting strength of both the Oshawa and Kingston teams swinging from the first base side of the plate a smart left-handed pitcher is the first need of next year's team; somebody to smother the Bucks, McQualdes, Compeaus, Joyces, Foleys, Mays, Matthews and Wallaces of the League. Then an outfielder who can consistently pour the pine when he is up at the plate and a fast-fielding infielder with a little hitting ability would be welcome additions. Toss a trio like that into the present Petes' squad and the Ponies and Motors would both be on the spot.

* * * * * *

A FEW words of congratulation to the Westclox gals upon the gallant fight they tossed in against the Ottawa squad here Saturday and we almost added for getting bumped off before that trip to Sudbury ruined the treasury for years. The girls from the big clock factory have had a great season, winning their own loop and cracking down on the Oshawa outfit before being beaten in an eyelash finish by the Ottawa fems. They won the first game here Saturday to even up the series with the Easterners and they went on and made a real fight of the third and final battle. All in all it has been about the best year the Westclox girl softballers have had and they have earned a hand from all and sundry.

* * * * * *

AND now the Westclox men's softball outfit is the only Peterborough ball club left in the running. Today they were billed to tackle the Kingston crew in the second game of their series after trimming the outfit from the penitentiary area 8 to 6 here on Friday. Ted Naish who stopped the Belleville team twice in a row was slated to do he gunning for the Peterborough squad and with any luck should tuck the Kingston outfit away and end the series in two straight. The winner tangles with the Toronto winners in the Queen City on September 14 with the return game in Peterborough or Kingston on September 16.

* * * * * *

IT BEGINS to look more and more like another nickel world series so that if you are planning to see the annual classic you will have to take a trip to New York. Monday the Cubs slipped another game behind the steady-going Giants and right now the Terrymen have a three-game lead over the Chicago outfit. The Giants behind smart pitching by Melton and Schumacher took two games from the Phillies while the best the Cubs could do was split a double-header with the Cincinnati Reds. And they were really lucky to do that too for Grissom held them to one hit in the game they did win. The Yanks are in in the other loop and it looks like their fellow New Yorkers will be their opponents in the world series.

* * * * * *

THEY take their baseball seriously and do not pull their punches either in the Inter-county loop. In a playoff game at Stratford with the London Club Pitcher Earl Craig of Stratford dropped First Baseman Tony Bonk with a right swing to the jaw after the Cockney first sacker had tried to ride him for being taken out of the game. On top of that both manager, Irish Miskimmons of Stratford and Gil Forgue of London, were chased out of the game. It was all good clean fun, of course.

* * * * * *

THE lacrosse fans are all excited over the playoffs between the local Auburns and the Oshawa outfit which are expected to prove about the most interesting clashes of the season so far as the local crew is concerned. The two teams play in Oshawa Wednesday night and come together here on Friday night in the second fixture. You can write off some of the early games between the two clubs and look to this series to produce a real argument. Oshawa has been steadily improving as the season developed and the Auburns will have to be at the top of their form to get the nod over the Motor City gang in the coming series. The biggest crowd of the year is expected here Friday night.

* * * * * *

THE cooler weather is welcomed by the football squad and from now on they are expecting the training conditions to be a little more seasonable. It takes a real lover of football to get enthusiastic over early season practices when the thermometer has been flirting with the 100 mark all day and the humidity is kicking goals from the 50 yard line. The enthusiasm of the local players is turning out for workouts under such conditions augurs well for the team's chances this season. There will be plenty of fight in the Orfuns squad when the first whistle blows in the campaign.

* * * * * *

JUST a quick Glance Around: Bill Calladine gave the Petes a great start at Oshawa on Monday afternoon when with Kingdon on the runways in the first inning he cuffed one of Turner's choice offerings for a terrific smash over Foley's head for a homer . . . Most local fans and the players as well call the Ponies to take Oshawa in the loop finals . . . Rumor has it that Ken Long is leaving Peterborough in the near future . . . The Auburns will practice tonight at 7 o'clock in preparation for the Oshawa series . . . The Petes had the tieing runs on the bases in the last inning at Oshawa Monday. The series was just that close . . . Joe DiMaggio hit his 40th homer Monday. The boy is getting to be quite a hitter . . . Herb. Boynton, Argo football executive is one of the summer colony at Crowe's Landing. Orville Roulston, Detroit Red Wing defence player is another . . . And that seems to be the issue for the day, customers.

The draw for the ladies' doubles is now posted up in the clubhouse. Players are advised to take notice of who they play with and when. The series of six games commences on Thursday, September 9th, and will continue on the days posted on the cards. The games will be of 12 ends. The men's schedule and postponed games will be played tonight (Tuesday).

Forty-three rinks participated in the annual Labor Day Scotch doubles played at Cobourg. W. Whittey and J. Soames of Stirling won the primary and the Bickle Memorial Cup, defeating R. Downey and A. Gillies of Peterborough, 14-5.

In the semi-finals Downey and Gillies defeated Delaney and Perry of Cobourg, 21-9, and Whittey and Soames defeated Moore and Brennan of Haveiock 20-6.

The consolation series was won by Renaud and Cuddiffe of Norwood, who defeated Toppin and Green of Kingston. Kirck and Slater of Norwood won the Hard Luck trophy, defeating Alger and Stacey of Oshawa, 12-9.

San Martin, Argentina, has just opened one of the most modern cock manufactories in the world.

LONDON RETAINS CHAMPIONSHIP OF INTERCOUNTY

(By the Canadian Press.)

London held the Inter-County Senior Baseball Association title today, wrested from the Stratford Nationals in a hard-fought best-of-five game series. Losing the first half of a double-header 11-6 at Stratford yesterday morning, London took the nightcap 10-3 when a pair of veterans came to their aid to win the series in four games.

Fred Quick, who has devoted most of his time to coaching this season, took over the mound duties while behind the plate was another veteran, Irish Bennett, and they held the Nationals powerless by their combination play.

Errors were responsible for the three runs scored on Quick, while Bennett poked out a double and a single to aid his mates out-hit Stratford 10-8. In the morning game that threatened to develop into a brawl, Nationals scored six runs on six hits in the sixth inning when the London team blew up.

Schoolmaster Earl Craig took a one-punch decision over Tony Bonk, London's first sacker, when Bonk jeered the Stratford hurler as he was benched. Gil Forgue, London manager, was escorted from the park by a policeman after he objected to a ruling by Umpire Bowes.

Irish Miskimmons, Stratford manager, was also banished along with Van Horne, London left fielder, when their argument wound up in a fight that threatened to develop into a free-for-all.

Things were more peaceful in the Central Ontario Senior Baseball League and Oshawa, last year's Ontario champions, won the right to meet Kingston for the loop title by trimming Peterborough Ponies 7-5.

Three in First.

Peterborough took a three-run lead in the first inning when they bunched four hits, including a home run by Bill Calladine. Oshawa came back in the next inning when they shelled Joe Jakafby for five hits to tie the score.

Jake Biddle, who relieved Turner in the sixth, held off the Peterborough attack until the eighth when two runs were scored, but his mates had scored in the fourth and fifth and brought in two runs in the sixth to give Oshawa a safe margin.

Hamilton Tigers slapped a 4-1 defeat on Merritton Alliance in the second game of their series with the Niagara District Senior Baseball League champions. Whether a third game will be played or whether Tigers will advance into the second round of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association was not decided.

Tigers came out on top mainly through the southpaw pitching of Speed Cotter, club manager, who coasted to a victory after his mates broke a one-all tie in the sixth with a three-run rally.

The big guns of the Alliance crew that smashed their way up to the top of the Niagara loop from a bad start at the season's opening were silenced by the smart play of the Tigers.

OTTAWA GIRLS WIN DECIDING TILT 6-5

Westclox girls were eliminated Saturday evening here in P.W.S.U. playdowns when the Morrisburg Sailors of Ottawa took the deciding game by a 6-5 score, after each team had won a victory. A big crowd of fans at Riverside saw a good softball contest in the last part of the twin bill. Neat pitching, some good fielding and more timely hitting in the clutches gave the visiting squad their narrow edge. The locals also had steady twirling and nifty defensive play in spots but lacked the punch at critical moment sto score markers.

Baro Blade and Lois Hudson pitched on pretty even terms, the latter allowing one more hit but having three more strikeouts. Their support was quite even, also, and all the runs but one for each side were earned. R. LaBelle led the hitters with a perfect evening, getting a homer and three singles in four times up. W. Bonneville had two safeties and O. Harrison hit a home run. For Westclox, G. Mortimer and M. Ferguson had two hits apiece, one of the latter's being a homer and one of the former's a triple and M. Snowden conked a triple and M. Hawthorne a double. The winners pulled off a nice double play and M. Ferguson roped in a neat grab.

Sherman Was Wrong Schoolboys Think

Shanghai, Sept. 7.

THE warfare between China and Japan kept schools closed throughout nearly all of China today, although normally this would have been the opening of the fall term.

In Shanghai foreign and Chinese education authorities alike, with hostilities ringing the city, decided the hazards of travel and assembling large numbers of children in one place were too great for their 200,000 charges.

Four Year Tennis Sway Stopped By New Couple

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, Jr., of Beverly Farms, Mass., and Alice Marble, of Los Angeles, second seeded U.S. women's tennis team, ended four year sway of the doubles titlists, Caroline Babcock, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. John A. Van Ryn, top seeded United States duo, by defeating them in straight sets 6-4, 7-5 in final round of the United States tennis doubles tournament at the Longwood Cricket club, Brookline, Mass. Babcock and Van Ryn are in the near court here, with Miss Babcock's return going wild to add another point to the Fabyan-Marble championship score.

WESTCLOX GIRLS WIN FIRST GAME

Westclox won the first game of their P.W.S.U. double-header here Saturday over the Ottawa girl softballers, 10-9, before a good crowd. Their win forced the series to go an extra game, which was played here Saturday, also. The local pushed over the tying and winning runs in the last half of the ninth. It was a loosely-played contest with plenty of disputes over umpires' decisions. Play was quite even most of the way with the homesters weaker defensively but stronger at the plate and pitching.

Marg Snowden hurled good ball, giving nine hits and no walks as she fanned three. D. Deevey was hit hard on the other mound and finally gave way to L. Hudson, who went better but lost in the ninth. M. Ferguson led the hitters with three for five, while I. Pavy, M. Hawthorne, G. Mortimer, B. Blade and M. Snowden each got two safeties. O. Harrison, I. Grenon and G. Poulin collected two hits apiece for the losers. A double play for each squad were the only defensive features in a poor fielding game.

Oshawa Motors Gain Finals With 7-5 Victory Over Petes

Locals Fail To Get Win After Holding Three Run Lead In First Frame

OSHAWA, Sept. 7.—(CP).—Oshawa General Motors qualified to meet Kingston Ponies for C.O.B.L. title and the right to advance into the O.B.A.A. Senior play-offs when they handed Peterborough Petes a 7-5 defeat at Alexandra Park yesterday. The game was a thriller throughout with Peterborough taking a three-run lead in the first frame when they bunched four hits including a homer by Bill Calladine.

Oshawa shelled Joe Jakaiby, Peterborough starting hurler, from the mound in the second frame when they tied the score on five hits. Russ Kitchen, who relieved, while not frequently, was steady throughout. Johnny Turner, who started for Oshawa, was removed in the sixth frame after the first two men to face him hit safely and walked respectively.

Ken (Jake) Biddle, who relieved, was helped out of impending trouble by an unassisted double play by Doc Rowden. Biddle handcuffed the Petes for the balance of the game with the exception of the eighth frame when they ganged him for three hits and two tallies. In the ninth frame after two were out Biddle walked two men in a row and then pulled himself from trouble by throwing Burton out as he endeavored to steal third.

Soccer Notes

The City Council has given the local association permission to use Riverside Park for the field day on Saturday afternoon, September 25. The local association will now get busy to make this venture a success.

The result of the draw at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon resulted as follows: 1, Mike O'Learr, Mark Street, 299; 2, T. Stewart, Rubidge Street, 62; 3, J. Collins, Armour Road, 298; 4, Alexander Beggs, 206 Lansdowne Street, 181; 5, M. Bocock, 580 Payne Avenue, 143.

The local juvenile boys left here on Saturday afternoon to play the Deloro boys in an exhibition game. Under the care of Eric Jones, Alex McKinley, and W. Downer, the fourteen players left the city in cars under capable supervision. They won by 4 goals to 0.

Calgary Bronks On Top Of League

REGINA, Sept. 7 (CP).—Victories over Winnipeg's Blue Bombers and Regina Roughriders tucked safely away, Calgary's hard-hitting Bronks were atop the Western Canada Rugby Football Conference today.

Travelling homeward after downing Winnipeg 13-8 last Friday, the Bronks stopped off here and handed the Roughriders a 4-1 setback under floodlights last night.

The home squad swung into a 1-0 lead in the first quarter when Ray Osen, Bronks halfback, was rouged and Bronks tied it up in the third quarter when a kick from placement failed and Paul Kirk of Regina was rouged behind his own line. Ed Rorvig booted from placement for Calgary's three winning points.

NEWARK BEATS GIANTS TWICE

(By The Associated Press)

You hear lots of talk about Baltimore and Montreal in the International Street, but where Broad and Market intersect in Newark the watchword is "Don't sell the Bears short."

Loyal Newark fans feel that this year the Bears will take to the playoffs like a chorus girl to a mink coat. In four of the Governor's Cup series the Bears have never finished better than third. But this year, look out.

The Newarks sharpened their claws for the coming struggle yesterday on those perennial whetstones of the league, the Jersey City Giants. The Bears took both ends of the holiday twin bill, 4-2 and 1-0, with Marius Russo and Phil Page doing the hurling.

Baltimore jumped into third place with two victories over the Syracuse Chiefs. The rampane Orioles outslugged the Syracusans 10-9 in the opener despite two homers by Spike Craft. Ab Wright got one for the flock. Harry Matuzak shutout the Chiefs in the nightcap 4-0, with Wright and Roy Schalk hitting for the circuit.

Buffalo and Montreal split two hard-fought games, the Royals winning the opener in 11 innings 4-3 behind Ed Chapman and then falling before Fabian Kowalik in the second 5-2.

Nate Andrews and Tony Kaufmann combined to blank Toronto for Rochester 7-0 in the firts game of a double bill, but the Leafs recovered to win the nightcap 5-2 behind six-hit hurling by Earl Caldwell.

PETES TIE SERIES IN SECOND TUSSLE WITH 5-1 VICTORY

OSHAWA, Sept. 7.—Peterborough Petes tied up the C.O.B.L. semi-final series at Alexandria Park Saturday afternoon when they handed Oshawa General Motors a 5-1 defeat. Last year's Ontario champions were impotent in the pinches, while Gunner Whitehill and Russ Kitchen, who hurled for Peterborough, were accorded steady and at times brilliant support throughout the game. John (Doc) Ogden started for Oshawa and was the losing pitcher, although he never allowed a hit. He walked three Peterborough players, however, and then threw wild before he was removed in the second frame. Jake Biddle, who relieved him, was touched for seven hits, striking out the same number but in the pinches hurled supremely. Whitehill was removed in the sixth frame after Rowden and Matthews both singled, and although Kitchen walked the next batter to fill the bases with none out, he rallied to retire the side without a score. Barton paced the Peterborough attack with three singles in four tries.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Tommy Farr is nothing less than a riot on the air. You should see the guy's fan mail after last week's debut (pronounced by Tommy "deboo")... Clover fields are ahead for the gritty Welshman. Our scouts at Forest Hills report this Bobby Riggs has plenty on the ball... Baseball gossip has it Tony Lazzeri of the Yanks is definitely headed to manage Cleveland Indians and that Lefty O'Doul (you know, the man in the green suit) will leave San Francisco and move into Burleigh Grimes' job in Brooklyn.

What'll you offer now against another subway world's series?... Everett Marshall, recognized in some 30 states as heavyweight burping champ, says the mat game needs a dictator like Judge Landis. Everett is partly right, anyway—the game needs something and definitely.

After looking at the Farr-Louis flic pictures, several Texas sports editors unanimously voted Louis earned no better than a draw... The recent row between Burleigh Grimes and Umpire Larry Goetz was brought to a head when Grimes remarked he once knew a guy who ate garlic for a purpose... Now he may have to call on President Ford Frick and explain exactly what he meant and why.

DILLON MAC SETS LONDON RECORD

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 7 (C.P.).—The track record for trotters and pacers at Queen's Park was broken by Dillon Mac, owned by Dr. Meldrum of Norwich, in a free-for-all race on the Labor Day program here on Monday.

Dillon Mac, driven by Harry Fields, covered the mile in 2.06 in the first heat of the race, beating the track record of ten years' standing by 1½ seconds. The old record of 2.07½ was established by Grattan Bars in 1927.

ELECTRICS BEAT POLITICIANS 5-3 IN PHELAN FINAL

The Canadian General went into the final of the Father Phelan Charity Cup on Saturday afternoon when they defeated the C.C.F. by the score of 5 to 3 before a meagre attendance owing to the holiday, a number of players being away on vacation. Next Saturday afternoon C.P.C. meet the winners in the final.

Goals Aplenty.

After five minutes of play the C.G.E. took advantage of a fullback infringement when Keith rapped home a free kick that hit an opponent to bounce back to the waiting foot of McCracken to bulge the net. Within the next minute, the C.C.F. were at the C.G.E. territory with the forwards introducing the close-passing game that terminated with Dyer missing the upright by inches. Then Smelt dribbled his way through his opponents to test the custodian with a low grounder. Quickly Dyer carried the play back again to rattle home a drive, but the referee awarded a penalty kick. From the spot Leggett drove for the corner of the upright to witness the custodian fall upon the ball in the nick of time. On the next visit, the Politicians forced the play to finally be rewarded when Castle sent a drop shot that completely baffled the custodian. The C.G.E. got another tally from a free kick in a three-way action that McMaster completed to beat the custodian. Quick as a flash the C.C.F. got the equalizer when Smelt headed a beautiful goal from a free kick taken by Lawrence. On the next raid by the Politicians Dyer hit the top of the cross-bar with the goalie right under the ball. The Electrics transferred the play to other end where Castle, at fullback, and Eddie Jobe, in goal, outplayed the attack. Keith repeatedly broke through and once sent a perfect pass into goal where the custodian saved with outstretched arms below the cross-bar. The next goal got the better of the winners when Latham centered a loose ball across the goalmouth to find the rigging from the foot of Smelt as he went in between the goalie and the post. The C.G.E. pressed steadily before the interval. Half-time—C.C.F. 3, Canadian General 2.

Half-time.

On resuming the C.G.E. team settled down to business in an endeavor to get the equalizer and got the corner through Alexander Mitchell when he sent a twenty-yard drive in below the uprights. Hard and fast tactics prevailed thereafter with the players giving all they had to get the lead and Willie Beggs arrived to assist the C.C.F. to make the teams ten players each. But it fell to McMaster to give his teammates the lead with an unsaveable drive. Not long after the winners about felt disaster when Dyer hit the sticks. Smelt gathered up the ball quickly to test Chamberlain with a left foot drive which conceded a fruitless flag-kick. Time and again the Politicians would carry the play within shooting distance to finish with efforts over the bar. A mis-kick by McDonald sealed the issue when McCracken gave the custodian no chance to save. A little later McMaster made the score read: Canadian General 5, C.C.F. 3.

C.C.F.—E. Jobe, goal; H. Castle, back; H. Latham, W. Beggs and F. Lawrence, halves; S. Leggatt, McDonald, F. Dyer, R. Smelt, and W. Denisen, forwards.

Canadian General — J. Chamberlain; goal; J. Mackenzie, back; H. Stewart, A. Mitchell, and F. Earl, halves; H. Keith, W. McCracken, Ben McMaster, A. Ross and J. Goodhue, forwards.

Referee—W. Jories.

THE EXAMINER
Extends Best Wishes for the Year 5698

Jewry is now observing Rosh Hashannah, the Jewish New Year. This festival, marked more by attendance in synagogue than by celebration, starts with the most important holy day in the Jewish calendar. It is second only in importance to the Day of Atonement, in which Jews fast for twenty-four hours and pray for forgiveness.

The New Year, according to Jewish history, is 5698. Rosh Hashannah literally means "the beginning of the year" and is the first of the Ten Days of Penitence, the most important religious season in the Jewish calendar. These ten days are an invitation to all men to judge themselves as they are being judged by the Deity. The season's climax is reached on the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, when, according to tradition, the judgment is sealed.

The observance of this season has ancient origins and finds its basis for Judaism in the Biblical command, found in many places in Sacred Writ. It appears in the Book of Leviticus: "In the seventh month, in the first day of the month, shall be a solemn rest unto you, a memorial proclaimed with the blast of the trumpet, a holy convocation." The first of the month of Tishri, the seventh month of the Hebrew calendar, coincides this year with Sept. 6, the day in the Jewish calendar being reckoned from sunset to sunset. That the religious year is counted from the seventh month of the civil year has been traced to the interplay of different ancient systems of calendation.

The universalism of this Jewish holiday is reflected in the fact that Rosh Hashannah is referred to in the prayer book as "the birthday of the world." The blowing of the ram's horn, which is part of the synagogue service for this day, calls Israel to the three-fold duty of penitence, prayer, and righteous action.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SURPRISE

"Hold it! Hold it!" grunted Mr. Twistytail, waddling after Uncle Wiggily.

"That's what I'm going to do!" said the rabbit gentleman.

He was running toward a hill in the woods. Down the hill was rolling the carriage of Squeakie, the baby pig.

"Catch the carriage before it upsets!" squealed the pig.

"That's what I'm going to try to do," said Uncle Wiggily.

"I thought my boy Curly was supposed to be watching Squeakie in her carriage," said Mr. Twistytail.

"So he was, while Floppy went to play ball with my rabbit boys," said Uncle Wiggily. "Then Floppy was to take his turn. But I guess something happened and neither Floppy nor Curly watched the carriage. So it ran away down the hill."

Bounced Around.

"A carriage couldn't run away by itself," said the daddy pig.

"No, but perhaps Squeakie awakened and began bouncing about like a rubber ball and that jiggled the carriage. And if it was at the top of a hill it would start to roll down by itself as it is doing now."

"Well, it's rolling down all right!" shouted the pig. "We must save Squeakie!"

"Yes, indeed!" cried Mr. Longears, as he made a jump and caught Squeakie's carriage just as it was about to bump into a tree.

"Ha! Now Squeakie is saved!" grunted Mr. Twistytail. "But I'll have to punish my piggie boy for not watching her."

"Oh, but see here!" cried Uncle Wiggily in great surprise as he looked in the carriage.

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Twistytail.

Then he was also surprised as he looked in.

"Baby Squeakie isn't here!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily.

"What can have happened to her?" asked the daddy pig. "Oh! Oh!"

"Perhaps your wife took Squeakie out of the carriage and let both Curly and Floppy go to the ball game," said Mr. Longears.

"I hope it is that. I hope none of the Bad Chaps took my baby pig!" squealed Mr. Twistytail.

Search Begins

"We must find out at once!" declared Uncle Wiggily. "Come on,

Twisty, we'll go look for Squeakie. We'll go up hill where the carriage rolled down. Maybe the baby pig might have bounced out on the way."

"Maybe. Oh dear! Poor Squeakie!" said the daddy pig.

Leaving the empty carriage at the foot of the hill, Uncle Wiggily and the fat gentleman pig friend began to walk up. It was hard for Mr. Twistytail. He was very fat. Every so often he would have to stop and rest so his breath wouldn't run away.

Every little while, also, there would be popping sounds as buttons burst off Mr. Twistytail's coat which was too tight.

Up and up the hill toiled the two friends. They looked along both sides of the path but they did not see baby Squeakie. At last they reached the top of the hill.

"Hark!" suddenly cautioned Uncle Wiggily.

"What is it?" asked Mr. Twistytail as loud shouts were heard.

"I don't know, but we're going to find out," said the rabbit. They began to run fast on top of the hill.

And if the lawn mower will give the dusting brush a hair cut so it can go to the vacuum cleaner's party, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's home run.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 27

Victoria being told that she was to be the Queen of England!

Another girl—not so young as Victoria had been—folded her hands quietly and tried to look into the empire that was offered to her.

It was an empire—the far-flung reaches where her name would be known, where her subtleties in creation would rule the fashion worlds of two continents.

It was a dream about to come true. A fearsome, awesome dream too big to comprehend, too big to disregard, too big to embrace without awe. To be one of 10! Only 10. Rulers of the dressmaking world. And beneath those 10—hundreds, thousands beyond count, to labor—copyists of a master. And Mari Barat a master!

"The power!" The satisfaction! The thrill!" she had said to Tony Castle once.

Now she thought only of the responsibility, the tremendous burden, the need for more than talent or knowledge. And she felt very small, very unworthy. And only a little afraid.

Out beyond, in the dimness of the showroom at midnight, she saw a procession of figures— nebulous shadows of the future— challenging her with the task of keeping that procession endless as long as she lived.

She knew that fashions were born and died with the seasons and that the season were many. And that there was no respite for the artist.

She straightened then, thinking of herself as an artist. She was an artist, she told herself fiercely. But she had believed it more deeply when she had told Tony Castle that she was. Then she had been thinking of the joys of creation, not of the unending urgency of constant production.

Her fingers reached out and touched silk and her heart warmed to the touch. She could never touch fabric without wanting to make something beautiful of it, something to add to beauty. It had been, and was, an inarticulate love. Now it awed her.

She picked up a cigaret, put it down unlighted.

To think that this had come to her. Why? How? At that moment she couldn't believe that the magic lay in her hasty sketches. Now that her art was recognized, she couldn't believe it was art.

Slowly she turned the pages over, seeing only frocks. Lanvin, Vionnet, Worth, Paquin. These were artists. And she had the thing they had. She tried to find it, translate her lines into articulate analysis.

She got up then and went into the shadowy workroom. In the dim light of the night lamp she looked at the figures on dummies. The ill-shapen, unfinished models. Surely there could be no art in these with their pins and basting. Her eyes wandered over the machines, the heavy irons, the cutting tables, the debris on the floor. Softly her fingers touched them one by one. Her kingdom!

She sat on a stool and picked up a muslin pattern.

Automatically she corrected a pencilled line on the muslin. A curve at that point would make a bulge. She straightened the line and, holding the muslin, looked back to the past.

Just so she had sat on another night in a dim workroom, looking at herself not in triumph but in defeat. Her future finished, her dream ended, her heart a mound of ashes. A hurt, perplexed and wounded girl.

And now she was a woman with a waiting world ready to lay tribute at her feet. Still she saw not her tomorrows but her yesterdays.

She heard again the words that had struck deep into her heart. First, Tony's angry, excited words. And then the model saying, "She has been his best girl for years."

She knew now what the future held for her if she became the success that others expected her to be. She sensed, if she did not know, the rewards there were for her. The worlds for her to enter, the globe for her to travel, the upward steps to wealth and glory, the inestimable distance from obscurity to fame.

And she knew the full measure of loneliness.

"I have a single heart," she murmured. Her heart knew sadness, the deep well of pain that is no longer edged with the sharpness of grief, yet too deep to hold within the control of the spirit.

There is no joy, no triumph that touches the heart and is still whole if that heart is alone. She could savor the triumphs of her ambition and enjoy them, but she could know no happiness without someone to share them.

"I'm getting sentimental," she said to the gray crepe on the headless dummy. "In a moment I'll be sorry for myself because I haven't a little white cottage and a clean bungalow apron to put on when the husband I'll never have comes home."

She thrust the muslin away from her and got up. But when she got to the door, she turned back to the gray crepe.

"Who's to say that wouldn't be better? I'd take it in exchange for this! But I had no choice!"

She closed the door and went back to the office.

She had one more thing to do before she left. She had Miss Higgins' transcribed notes to read. Letitia had taken notes of everything that had been said there that morning.

It all seemed clear on the typed pages to Mari now. It hadn't in the morning when she had been too surprised, too overwhelmed to comprehend it.

The capital was to be supplied by the owners of four textile houses, four fur importers, the makers of what, in America, Mari had called "novelties." The suggested plans were for rebuilding a mansion on the rue de la Paix— four floors— and all plans for architecture, decorating and organization were to be controlled by Mari and the Countess Anetka Illovitch.

The terms were comprehensible. The notes were to be of long standing duration.

Anetka, Mari knew, would agree to whatever Mari suggested. For all these four hours, Mari had tried to decide if she dared to embark on such an ambitious project.

Before her lay, she knew, great success or ignominious failure. Hers and Anetka's. For once a dressmaker had failed, it was the end. There was no coming back. Would it be better to progress slowly....

The thought arrested her, and another came.

She made a quick note. Miss Higgins must summon the committee.

Mari Barat was ready to expand but she was prudent; for her there would be no grand house on the rue de la Paix. There would be no formal opening and no season showings like the grande coutour.

She would take a larger establishment, expand, but she would wait a year or two until she was ready and proved to take her place.

That night when she left the shop, she had decided.

And she had won a victory over herself. Because her first thought when she was alone that day had been that curiously inexplicable one of women who loved and lost: I'll do it and Tony will see!

She had wanted to triumph over him, hurt him.

And yet she would have given her heart to spare him the slightest hurt.

"Of course they mean it"

Overheard between innings

First fan: . . . what? Oh, yes . . . I've been reading them. It was a good solid point they made in that last advertisement.

Second fan: I'll admit that . . . but I was just wondering if even now the whole story is being told?

First fan: You mean, are the Brewers just being selfish? Well I'd say of course they are. But I also think that this is a case where private interests and the public good are one and the same thing.

Second fan: How can you figure that?

First fan: This way: it's to the public good to promote moderation, to foster true temperance, to keep a few agitators from trying to block an adequate trial of a soundly written law.

Second fan: Of course, but . . .

First fan: And at the same time, even on the most selfish basis the Brewing Industry must support temperance education . . . because the drunkard and the bootlegger are their most dangerous enemies!

Second fan: But aren't there regular temperance organizations?

First fan: Yes, but the worst of it is that instead of teaching true temperance, which is self-control . . . instead of realizing that properly supervised beverage rooms are the best defence against the excesses everybody wants to avoid . . . the prohibition extremists clamour for changing the rules to force people to be "good". Which is not only un-British and undemocratic . . . but it won't work!

Second fan: At least it seems like a good thing that both sides of the story should be told.

• This advertisement is inserted by the Brewing Industry in the interest of a better public understanding of certain aspects of the problems of temperance and local option.

WARSHIP ATTACKS BRITISH TANKER OFF AFRICA

PAOSHAN FALLS FOR THIRD TIME IN JAP ADVANCE

SHANGHAI, Sept. 8 (AP)—Strategic city of Paoshan, 12 miles north of Shanghai, was wrested from its Chinese defenders for a third time today after Japanese engineers had blasted a way through its 40-foot high walls with bombs strapped to their backs.

A Japanese officer who witnessed the attack against the key city on the northern Shanghai front said the eight engineers resembled nothing so much as monkeys as they scampered up the city's wall under a rain of rifle fire and hand grenades.

Ladders were placed stealthily for them to climb and the eight, risking almost sure death with 48 bombs strapped on their backs, mined the walls under the protection of Japanese machine gun fire.

The walls burst asunder with a terrific detonation and the eight, miraculously unhurt save for minor wounds, returned to their regiments and then helped fight their way into the city alongside their comrades who hailed them heroes.

Their officers said the engineers' daring had made the capture possible and saved the day for the Japanese.

300 Civilians Slain.

At least 300 Chinese non-combatants were killed and 400 injured today in one of the worst disasters caused by Japanese air bombs in the three months of fighting in China.

Five railroad cars, packed with Chinese refugees, were blown from their tracks by Japanese bombers at Sungkiang Station, 30 miles from Shanghai. Fifteen hundred chinese were wedged into every inch of the train when the bombs burst.

Two densely crowded second-class coaches and three third-class cars were shattered by the blast, lifted from the wrecked roadbed and turned over. Many of the occupants not killed by the explosives were crushed to death in the wreckage.

The bombs fell without warning as the train was standing in Sungkiang Station, on the line to Hankow. Bodies of the dead were scattered in all directions, some catapulted many yards from the wreck.

The Japanese, counter-attacking after a day of trip-hammer blows from the Chinese, were reported to have advanced nearly a half-mile along the banks of the Whangpoo River from the Jukong Wharf area toward Woosung. The total distance from Jukong, midpoint of the line from Shanghai to Woosung, to the Japanese concentrations at Woosung and Paoshan is six miles.

In a forward thrust, the Japanese claimed they had reached the Far Eastern Race Course, blasting their way through concrete pill boxes, machine gun nests, and barbed wire entanglements.

Tanks were used to smash the strong Chinese lines north of the International Settlement. Some of the pill boxes were said to contain as many as 60 men.

Fail To Unite Line.

Chinese insisted—and Japanese statements would seem to bear them out—that the Japanese had not been able to effect a junction between their forces at Woosung and in the outskirts of Shanghai. This has been one of the most important aims of the last 36 hours of fighting.

Although Japanese gains along

FATHER OF 2 SLAIN LOVE NEST AFFAIR

ISELIN, N.J., Sept. 8.—(AP).—A 20-year-old school girl admitted after hours of questioning to-day, Police Chief George E. Keating announced, she fatally shot Paul Reeves, 28 year old father of two children, when he attempted to assault her.

The Chief gave the girl's name as Margaret Drennan. She was the "lady in red," Keating said, seen running from the bungalow where Reeves was shot to death in his bedroom last night.

Reeves, a laborer employed at an Elizabeth Copper Products plant, was found nude and dying in his room. His children(Paul, five, and Emma, two, were whimpering and cowering under the sheets in the adjoining bedroom.

Russian Jailed, Montreal, For Torturing Boy

Toronto Lad Found Soles Feet Seared Acid Burns Mouth

Victim Taken From Home By "Friend Of Family" To "Better Education"

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (CP)—Alexis Wislow, 33-year-old artist, pleaded guilty today to causing grievous bodily harm with intent to maim, disfigure or disable fatherless Freddie Brown of Toronto when he appeared before Judge J. C. Langlois. Arrested after police found the nine-year-old boy bruised and burned yesterday, Wislow pleaded not guilty to a second charge of gross indecency.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (CP)—Fatherless Freddie Brown of Toronto, his young body splotched with burns and bruises, recovered under medical care today as police prepared to arraign a Russian on charges of torturing the nine-year-old boy.

The youngster's feet had been seared with a heated fork, police said, and his tongue and mouth burned with acid while he lived with Alexis Wislow, "friend of the family" who brought him here from Toronto a few weeks ago to "better his education."

Wislow, 33-year-old native of Kiev, Russia, was held in jail on charges of gross indecency and causing bodily harm with intent to maim, disfigure or disable the boy.

Police said Wislow had made a statement to them after his arrest, in which he told them Freddie had been "too noisy" and "wouldn't do what he was told."

The Russian was arrested yesterday after police raided the apartment where the man and boy lived. A neighbor, who heard the youngster's muffled groans through the apartment wall and later talked to him, called officers.

Bruises Over His Body

In the home, police said, they found Freddie whimpering from fresh wounds. Later, police doctors found burns and bruises over his torso, arms and legs, besides burns on the soles of his feet.

In the house, too, according to the raiding policemen, were found a bent fork with its prongs blackened by heat, several kinds of acid, a pen with its nib bent and blackened and a letter from the boy's mother in Toronto. The letter asked when her son would be back.

While police sorted these exhibits and laid charges against Wislow, Freddie was taken to hospital. Authorities there said his throat was so inflamed that it was not possible to feed him solid food. He was placed on a diet of milk and other liquids.

No Private Lakes Taboo To Sailing

Quebec, Sept. 8.

SAILING on water is not trespassing on land, Judge Lactare Roy ruled yesterday during a court case.

Dismissing a trespassing charge against Aguilas Rodrigue of Val St. Michel, Judge Roy decided that in boating on an artificial lake Rodrigue passed over water and not over land.

"It is true that the bottom of the lake belongs to the complainant," said the judge, "but not the water."

THOMAS EPHGRAVE IS APPOINTED TO COURT OF REVISION

Appointment of Thomas C. Ephgrave, well-known Peterborough contractor, to fill the vacancy on the Court of Revision left by the recent death of W. F. Johnston was announced by Mayor George Macdonald to the City Council at its September meeting last night.

The appointment was made personally by the Mayor in accordance with statutory provisions that the Mayor shall appoint one member of the Court, and the City Council one member. The Council appointment is Fred Finnie. Sheriff J. A. Harstone is the third member of the Board by automatic statutory provision.

Announcement of the appointment by the Mayor aroused comments of approval from the Council circle. Mr. Ephgrave has executed a number of outstanding local construction contracts including the extension to the Y.M.C.A., the Martin-Hewett building, the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company, the DeLaval Company, St. Andrew's Sunday School and the Canadian Canoe Company. He has had extensive experience as an adjuster.

The appointment is effective for life. A salary of $100 a year accompanies the position.

Reply to Council.

Pointing out that the maintenance of law and order is in the hands of the Peterborough Police Commission, a body beyond the jurisdiction of the Council, the Council directed a reply to the Peterborough District Trades and Labor Council request for an investigation into the importation of special Provincial police during recent strike disorders. A resolution on the subject, sponsored by Aldermen Stocker and Wilson, and accepted by the Council read:

"That the Peterborough and District Trades and Labor Council be informed that the Municipal Act sets out that a city must have a Board of Commissioners of Police consisting of the County Judge, Police Magistrate and Mayor of the city, that this Board has its own authority under the Act and its responsibility is the maintenance of law and order in the municipality, and that it is not subject to the City Council, therefore this council cannot proceed as requested by the Trades and Labor Council."

That the recently-passed by-law to restrict parking on all city streets to a limit of three hours and among other things, to provide for restriction against left-hand turns at the corner of George and Charlotte streets during certain hours had hit a snag was indicated in a letter received by the Council from the Department of Highways. The Department reported the by-law would

PLANE CRASHES IN SMITH FIELD

SELWYN, Sept. 8. — Clarence Northey suffered facial injuries and R. C. Crapp of Hamilton was shaken up when the airplane in which they were taking off failed to clear some trees and crashed to the ground. Mr. Crapp, an old Smith Township boy, spent the weekend in this district visiting friends and relations. He left his plane which he flies out of the Hamilton airport in a field on the farm of Stewart Sanderson. Before returning home on Tuesday afternoon he was taking Mr. Northey up for a ride. The plane struck some trees on the edge of the field and crashed to the ground.

Rois Glatt, a 14-year-old Boy Scout of Geneva, has climbed the Matterhorn and is believed to be the youngest lad to conquer the 14,782-foot peak.

OPEN HEARINGS TEXTILE PROBE ARE OPPOSED

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP)—The Ontario Labor and Industry Board today opened an Queen's Park an inquiry into wages and working conditions in the textile industry. Both employees and employers were represented by counsel.

J. L. Cohen said he represented the Trades and Labor Congress and the National Textile Council, as well as the Cornwall and Peterborough Locals affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress. Delegates from the Workers' Locals included Alex Welsh, active in the long Peterborough strike.

E. J. Young, presiding over the inquiry, said: "A strike was in progress in the cotton mills at Cornwall and the Woollen Mills at Peterborough. The Prime Minister told the workers that if they would go back to work peacefully the Board would investigate salaries and fix the wage rates and classify employees. As a result the men went back to work.

"It is the task of this board to determine what is a proper wage for the entire industry. That is a hard task, and we must have your aid and assistance."

Scope of Probe

Mr. Cohen remarked it appeared from public announcement that the opening conference would deal with scope and procedure. The chairman said the scope would be proceeded with first.

The Board reserved until a later date the question of making the hearing a public one.

The questionnaire to be submitted to employers regarding pay and classification of workers, it was agreed, would be drawn up by Cohen, R. L. Kellogg, counsel for the Primary Textile Institute, and A. W. Crawford, representing the board.

Mr. Cohen argued in favor of a public hearing, particularly when the board sits in Peterborough and Cornwall, and Mr. Kellogg objected to any public display of payrolls which would enable competitors to have this information, so the Board reserved opinion.

After the preliminary hearing the Board adjourned, without setting a date for resumption.

U.A.W. HEAD MOVES TO SUPPRESS REDS

DETROIT, Sept. 8 (AP)—Reports Extremists were to be removed from the payroll of the United Automobile Workers of America gained credence today as Homer Martin, president, said Communists are entitled to membership "only in the rank and file and not as U.A.W.A. organizers."

The reports represented Martin as being determined radical activities and "wildcat" strikes should not imperil contracts between the union and automotive manufacturers.

The executive board chosen at the recent convention in Milwaukee will meet today. It will issue credentials to organizers and office employees for the ensuing year. Martin will recommend which employees shall be retained.

Asked if he would recommend that credentials will be withheld from Communists, Martin replied, "You'll see."

"The Communist party would have made me its hero if I had given in to the party at the convention," he said. "I have no sympathy for or with the Communist party or its principles."

Planes Fail Find Trio In Sailboat

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—(CP).— An air search for three Toronto men missing since they left here Saturday to cross Lake Ontario in a 16-foot dinghy was abandoned today after pilots returned without any clue to the disappearance of the boat.

"I am confident that the boat is not on the lake," said G. E. Melville who accompanied Pilot Jimmy Cairns in one of the three planes used on the search. Meanwhile, a Toronto life saving crew was making a search of all inlets between here and Burlington, where the men, Fred Phillips, William McGavin and J. C. Heim, were to put in on their sail.

Embarking on the first of two voyages they will take within the next few weeks, Elizabeth Smith Warren and Emile E. L'Africain (ABOVE), were married at Oakville, Ont., aboard the sailing yacht, Sea Fever. The young couple, together with two other married couples, will shortly begin a world cruise in the sailing ship on which they were married, which may take them from one to ten years.

Farming Must Be Enjoyed If Farmer To Succeed

Want Only Youth Who Realize Opportunity Afforded Says Duncan Marshall

TORONTO, Sept. 8—(CP).—It is important that the men in agriculture should enjoy the business, Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, told an Agriculturists' Day luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition directors today.

"The people we want on the farm are the youth who realize the value and opportunity afforded by the land, who wish to till their land a little better than the neighbors around. Many of our failures in agriculture are due to the fact that the men in these instances did not belong there," he said.

There should be more attention paid to the selecting of boys to stay on the farm. In Great Britain, he said, a farmer decides which of his boys has brains enough to become a farmer. "The others will get along in business or one of the professions."

Mr. Marshall referred to the development of agriculture in Ontario and said he wished to pay "high compliment" to the industry. Thrift, carefulness and ability of the present day Ontario farmer.

"The great thing about farming is the land and the condition of the land is a clear indication of the kind of agriculture we have. In Great Britain men are devoted to the land. To say 'I've done my duty by the land,' is the proudest boast an English farmer can make."

County agricultural societies and county councils have co-operated splendidly with the Department of Agriculture in killing weeds with chemicals, he continued. "The results are astonishing," he said. "In some counties there are practically no weeds."

Farming is not an exact science and many theories are not so useful in actual practice, said Mr. Marshall with reference to education for agriculture. The best lesson farming youth can learn at schools and colleges was to realize their student days had only begun.

The stimulation provided agriculture by the Exhibition's interest in promoting boys' club competitions drew praise from Mr. Marshall.

MOSCOW—The Red Army's official newspaper to-day served notice that the Soviet Government will use force "to call Italian sea pirates to their responsibility" if peaceful moves fail.

SPANIARDS MEET IN NAVAL BATTLE

LONDON, Sept. 8. CP.—Three British destroyers and three French warships sped today to the scene of a Mediterranean clash between Spanish insurgent and Spanish government ships.

The British destroyers were ordered to the scene off Tenes, west of Algiers, by the naval command at Gibraltar.

The Admiralty in London did not explain the move but other sources said the ships were ordered to patrol the area "so as to be near possible trouble."

ALGIERS, Sept. 8 (CP-Havas).—A sea scrap between insurgent cruiser Canarias and seven Spanish government naval units was reported today from Tenes, on the Algerian coast 100 miles west of here.

Gunfire was heard in Tenes but outcome of the clash could not be ascertained.

Sub Halts Second; Italy Gets Another Fiery Soviet Note

Britain Calls Cabinet Session As Mediterranean Situation Darkens

LONDON, Sept. 8 (C.P.). — The Soviet Union despatched another bitter message to Italy to-day and widened the rift between Europe's Communist and Fascist states.

Moscow instructed her Embassy in Rome to tell Italy the Facist reply to a Soviet note charging Italian submarines with sinking two Russian freighters was "entirely unacceptable."

At the same time Moscow demanded in effect the Mediterranean conference scheduled for Friday should convict Italy of piracy.

The British Cabinet met to consider the situation.

Meanwhile, any belief in London the mystery vessels which have terrorized Mediterranean trade routes had ceased their activities was shattered by a torpedo attack on the British tanker Harpa.

The 3,000-ton vessel was attacked last night by "an unknown battleship" off the coast of North Africa, an agent of Lloyd's, the maritime underwriting firm, reported from Tunis. The Harpa was en route from Port Said, Egypt, to Tunis, the message said, when a torpedo slithered toward her waterline.

The torpedo missed its mark and the frightened crew drove the Harpa into La Gouletta, not far from Tunis.

In another corner of the Mediterranean, near the fortified Italian Island of Rhodes in the south-eastern part of the Aegean Sea, the British tanker Pegasus reported it was halted by a submarine.

After the challenge yesterday, the tanker was permitted to proceed, an oil company announcement said at Istanbul.

Incident Confirmed.

The Admiralty confirmed the Pegasus was halted and said the tanker reported the submarine was flying the Spanish insurgent flag.

These incidents served only to increase Britain's determination to reach a speedy and practical agreement at the "Anti-Piracy Conference" to be held in the peaceful Swiss surroundings of Nyon, a town near Geneva.

Twelve nations were invited to the conference but there was doubt as to Italian and German participation.

The heated diplomatic note-writing of Russia and Italy threatened to result in an Italo-German boycott of the conference.

Britain's policy, as one of the authors of the conference plan, was to avoid expression of sympathy for either the Fascist or Communist camp.

The British delegation to the conference will be headed by Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent foreign office undersecretary. He will be accompanied by three Admiralty experts, an Admiral, a Vice-Admiral and a Captain.

Dominions Secretary Malcolm MacDonald called on Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday. It was

Blast Scares Thieves Leave $1,000 Behind

Sturgis Sask., Sept. 8.

BECAUSE robbers used too much nitro-glycerine to open a safe in a hardware store here, $1,000 belonging to three elevator companies remained untouched. The explosions awakened the entire town yesterday morning and the thieves hurriedly picked up $259 from inside the safe, overlooked the $1,000 in a smaller vault ,and rushed away.

IMPROPER TACTICS BY ENUMERATORS CLAIM, HAMILTON

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP)— Affidavits alleging improper questioning of electors by enumerators in Hamilton East and Wentworth ridings have been placed before the Hamilton Election Board.

Official complaint, charging enumerators questioned householders in regard to their religious beliefs and party inclinations, was placed before a meeting of the board yesterday, under chairmanship of Judge George C. Thomson.

Information has been forwarded to I. A. Humphries, chief election officer for Ontario, who at Toronto said no action would be taken by him pending a full report from J. H. Truesdale, returning officer in Hamilton East.

"We are taking several affidavits, sufficient to show that the form of questionnaire which bluntly asks electors whether they are Protestant or Roman Catholic, and how they are going to vote, is being generally employed," said Orville M. Walsh, Conservative candidate in Hamilton East.

Similar complaints were also made to Sam Lawrence yesterday and today the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate said.

Thinks It A Rumor

J. H. Truesdale, returning officer for Hamilton East, under whose instructions the 136 enumerators in the riding work, said:

"Immediately upon receiving a complaint yesterday an investigation was undertaken and I communicated with Mr. Humphries, the chief election officer in Toronto.

"After checking the matter up as carefully as possible I came to the conclusion that it was only a rumor.

"There was not a specific elector named and it was impossible to trace the complaint.

"As returning officer I instructed each of the enumerators solely as provided for in the election act and provided them with literature prescribed by the act."

R. E. Young, returning officer for Wentworth said that he had heard of the Hamilton East complaints and attended a meeting of the election board yesterday afternoon but had heard nothing of similar complaints from electors in the riding under his charge.

Henry Will Run Again In East York

TORONTO, Sept. 8.— (CP). — George S. Henry, former Conservative Prime Minister of Ontario and House leader of the party in the last Legislature, announced today he had decided to run for re-election in York East, the constituency he has represented for many years.

There had been reports Mr. Henry, who succeeded G. H. Ferguson in the party leadership, would retire, but he said: "I guess I have at least another fight left in me."

Bear Wounded In B.C. Orchard Kills Man, Claws Another

Friends Prepare Hunt To End Menace Of Further Raids

NELSON, B.C., Sept. 8 (CP). — While 30 - year - old William Matthews fought for his life in nearby Kaslo, ranchers of that West Kootenay district contemplated an armed foray against bears whose marauding of the past two weeks sent the Bowser, B.C., orchardist to hospital, claimed the life of his brother Harry and caused heavy damage to tree fruit crops.

The brothers freed a bear in their orchard, 50 miles north of here, a week ago and shot it. As the animal tumbled from its perch they walked toward it and turned it over. Apparently only slightly wounded, the bear reared in its feet and attacked the pair, badly mauling them before they could bring their guns into action again.

They were taken to Kaslo Hospital, where Harry died.

LICENSE HAIRDRESSING SCHOOLS.

TORONTO.—An order requiring the licensing of all hairdressers' schools in the province was made today by the Ontario Industry and Labor Board. An annual fee of $5 will be required.

Most U.S. Scrap Iron Going To Japan

Washington, Sept. 8.

JAPAN bought more than half of the United States record-breaking scrap iron and steel exports during the first seven months of this year, the Commerce Department said today.

All shipments during the period totalled 2,690,707 gross tons valued at $51,957,619 the highest level in history. Japan took 1,529,511 tons.

U.S. NOT GIVING UP ANY RIGHTS, CHINA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (A.P.)— Officials said to-day the State Department was holding to its earlier policy in the Sino-Japanese conflict, and that while the United States Government wishes Americans to get out of danger zones, it has no intention of surrendering any rights in China.

The Department sent assurances to United States business men at Shanghai who pleaded in a cablegram against any abandonment of American position in the Far East.

Officials said the United States Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai apparently had mistaken the intent of a statement by President Roosevelt to the effect Americans remaining in areas where there is shooting and bombings did so at their own risk. The Government, it was said, has urged Americans to leave dangerous sectors.

State Secretary Hull refused direct comment on the President's statement or the protest. He said merely that American policy has been clearly outlined and that there has been no change.

Senator Connally (D-Texas) commented that Americans in China are duty-bound to flee danger zones. He said they owe it to "fellow citizens in the United States who would have to do the fighting and the sacrificing and the suffering if war should come."

"The people in the United States do not want another war and are determined not to have one."

Coal-Fat Cloth Dope Assures Dry Lap After Coffee Spill

Will Allow Water To Go Through Fabric Under Pressure But Not Wet It

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor.)

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 8 (AP) —Spilling the breakfast coffee in the lap does not even wet clothing treated with a new chemical made from coal and fat, which was exhibited at the American Chemical Society here today.

Straight whiskey is different. It soaks in. But anything made of water runs off like falling on a duck's back. The new chemical is an attempt to find the all-round water "repellant," something which can be used on all fabrics, and that will neither wash out nor be affected by dry cleaning.

The new stuff does all these, said Du Pont chemists who exhibited it. It is a new laboratory product, not ready for the market they said. It has been used on cotton, wool, silk and rayon.

All of these fabrics become softer to the touch when treated with the coal-fat chemical. It does not coat the fabric like paint, but sinks into the fibres. As a result the goods that shed water do some unusual tricks.

A man sitting down in a pan of water would get wet to the skin, but his pants would be dry. Water can be squeezed through cloth treated with this solution, but the cloth remains dry. It takes a hard squeeze or a lot of weight to force the water through.

The water can pass through the cloth because the "repellant" leaves the ordinary openings in the weave of the cloth unfilled. Water passes through them, under pressure, but does not soak into the threads as it goes by.

On a hot day pockets could be filled with ice, and the person inside would feel the coolness, without getting wet.

Mud splashed on these treated fabrics mostly slides off like water, with little spotting.

POSED AS A MUTE

PITTSBUROH, Sept. 8 (AP) — Henry Cook wasn't so dumb—or, for that matter deaf.

County Detective Samuel Graham, who arrested him on a charge of peddling without a license, said Cook posed as a mute to increase sales of razor blades and shoestrings. Left in a cell for several hours, he startled attendants by shouting:

"Bring me a drink of water."

Discoverers Of Insulin Got Nothing Others $400,000 First Year

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 8.

THE discoverers of insulin did not receive one cent personally for their invention which paid others profits of $400,000 its first year.

This fact was made know yesterday in a symposium held by the American Chemical Society here on what to do about medical patients. Morris Fishbein, M. D., spokesman of the American Medical Association, said that Sir Frederick Banting of Toronto, the medical man in the discovery, received $1.00 for the patents, not being allowed by medical ethics to accept more.

He said Sir Frederick's four associates "who were not physicians have had the advantage of such royalties."

Dr. E. L. Hutchinson, new "rector of the institute which was founded as a result of the discovery, replied Sir Frederick was offered the dollar, but didn't take it. Also, he said the other four did not take a cent either.

Some of the royalties he said, were assigned to each of the five solely for further research work.

Liquor Interests Aiding Hepburn, Rowe Charges

Rejects Coalition Beer Policy —Outlines His Election Platform

(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

BARRIE, Ont., Sept. 8 (C.P.).—In a lengthy pronouncement on Conservative policy, Hon. Earl Rowe last night placed before the electors the aims of his party if placed in power at the Ontario elections on October 6. Coupled with his platform announcement was a demand Premier Mitchell Hepburn deny his Liberal campaign was helped from liquor sources.

At his own nomination meeting in the Simcoe Centre Riding, the Conservative Leader gave in detail his platform planks after challenging the Premier to deny his campaign was financed by a gallonage tax levied on hotel keepers. He charged "a gang of racketeers" had "bedevilled" the liquor administration, and if elected, Mr. Rowe said, his party would return the principle of control to sale and distribution of liquor.

He announced the Conservatives would co-operate with the Dominion Government in obtaining a treaty with the United States "for the development of power sites on the St. Lawrence River, thereby insuring an adequate supply of power for the future industrial development of Ontario."

Care For the North.

Two special Government departments would be set up, one to attend to Northern Ontario's problems and the other to encourage the tourist industry. Law and order would have to be maintained by labor organizations, but the worker would be free to join any association he chose.

"I am not concerned what labor organization you belong to as long as you maintain law and order," Mr. Rowe said.

Mr. Rowe said he would establish a non-political Provincial Commission to attempt reaching a simplification of provincial and municipal administration. Another objective would be to relieve the taxpayers' burdens.

He pledged co-operation with the Royal Commission to study Dominion-Provincial affairs and co-operation with the Dominion administration. Other points in the platform:

A determination to collect all succession duties "justly owing" the province.

Hydro would be free from "political control."

The Public Schools would be defended and rights of the Separate Schools supporters respected.

Ontario House in London would be re-opened and agriculture stimulated.

Keep Work At Home

The province's forest, water and soil resources would be conserved, and the Conservatives would insist upon processing and manufacture

WOULD BAN COWS

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP).—A recommendation that a by-law banning "cows, goats, swine, or other animals except horses and mules" within the city limits, be passed, was referred back to the public works committee at a council meeting last night.

The recommendation followed an investigation by City Engineer Ray Deamarais. It was found there were 86 cows and 14 goats in Ward One.

HEPBURN IS SURE LABOR WITH HIM IN FIGHTING C.I.O.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

COCHRANE, Ont., Sept. 8—(CP)—Under a Liberal government Canadian labor could enjoy the right to organize for collecting bargaining and the right to strike, but if Conservative Leader Earl Rowe had his way Labor would not even enjoy the right of free assembly, Premier Mitchell Hepburn said here last night.

Mr. Rowe posed as a friend of Labor, but as a member of the Conservative party while a member of the Dominion Parliament he had steadily opposed repeal of Section 98 of the Criminal Code, Mr. Hepburn said. The section, now repealed, prohibited unlawful assembly.

"I want to tell you the fair-minded Labor men are with us in our battle against invasion of John L. Lewis and his thugs from the United States," Mr. Hepburn said. "We can settle our own problems in Canada."

The Premier carried his appeal for re-election into Northern Ontario for the first time yesterday, with addresses at Kapuskasing and Cochrane. To-night he speaks at Timmins and tomorrow at Kirkland Lake and New Liskeard.

All Working in North

Forestry and mining policies of the Ontario Government successfully overcame the jobless problem of the north, the Premier told a Liberal convention at Kapuskasing that selected Joseph Habel as Liberal candidate in Cochrane North for the October 6 Ontario elections.

"In contrast to widespread poverty and misery there is now scarcely an employable man out of work in all the north," Mr. Hepburn said, after charging the Conservative leader with "wasteful and shortsighted policies."

At Cochrane, the Premier said he expected soon to be charged with responsibility for the war in China as the Conservative leader made a "desperate effort" to find ground for criticism.

Mr. Rowe had accused him of causing the infantile paralysis epidemic and starting last year's forest fires in Northern Ontario, although it was the driest year in history, the Premier said.

An "inaccurate statement" had been published by Mr. Rowe, criticizing the government financial record, Mr. Hepburn said. "At the end of it he said: 'You can trust Rowe'. Why Rowe can't even trust himself if he is going to publish that kind of thing," he added.

Dry And Wet.

"Mr. Rowe talked dry in dry ridings and wet in wet ridings. He talked of children's saloons and licensed hot dog stands. There are fewer licensed hotels in Ontario now than in 1916, when the population was 1,000,000 less than now, and we had no great number of American tourists.

"There are no children's saloons. There are no licensed hot dog stands. If Mr. Rowe can show me a hot dog stand with a beer license I will eat

BEATTY FINDS TOURIST FLOW SHOWING GAIN

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8—(CP)—Sir Edward Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, gave interviewers last night a quick summary of conditions in Canada when he arrived here on an inspection tour of the west.

Sir Edward said tourist traffic Canada, particularly in British Columbia and Alberta, had been appreciably better this summer.

He said business conditions in Ontario and Quebec were "decidedly improved," and that there has been substantial appeasement of labor restlessness in the two provinces.

While it is impossible to minimize the serious effect of the drought, particularly in Saskatchewan, other conditions on the prairies are "reasonably satisfactory," Sir Edward commented. He said the C.P.R. was not contemplating the transference of farmers from the drought areas to British Columbia lands.

RUSSIA REJECTS ITALY'S ANSWER

ROME, Sept. 8—(AP)—Soviet Russia told Italy to-day that the Fascist answer to charges that Italian submarines had sunk two Russian ships in the Mediterranean was unsatisfactory and repeated the grave accusation made in her original note.

The second Soviet note in the Mediterranean crisis growing out of the Spanish civil war was handed to Count Glaeazzo Ciano, Premier Mussolini's Foreign Minister and son-in-law.

The terse communication was considerably briefer than the first and was considered much sharper than the original demand the "intolerable" situation be ended and the Soviet be paid reparations for the two lost vessels.

Italy had rejected the Russian charge and refused to accept the demands "en bloc."

Diplomatic circles indicated there was considerable doubt of either Italian or German participation in the conference called by Great Britain and France to meet Friday to devise means of stamping out the "piratical" attacks on commercial shipping in the Mediterranean.

Mussolini's mouthpiece, the newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia, said in a dispatch from London that Italy would find it impossible to attend the conference at Nyon, Switzerland, "If Russia attends." Diplomatic circles considered the dispatch was a practical declaration on Italian policy despite its supposed London origin.

Russia, in accepting the British and French invitation, repeated its charges against Italy, indignantly asked why Germany — without a Mediterranean seacoast—had been invited, and urged the invitation of the Spanish Valencia government.

These Soviet moves, coupled with to-day's note, made it increasingly likely, diplomats believed, that neither Italy nor Germany would accept.

GETS THREE YEARS TRYING BURGLARY

CORNWALL, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP)—Three years in Kingston Penitentiary was the sentence awarded Albert Perry, a transient, by Magistrate P. C. Bergeron yesterday. Perry was found guilty of attempted burglary. An accomplice, Alex. McGee, Kitchener, was given a month in jail.

The two were arrested by city constables on August 16, when they were leaving the home of Mrs. William R. Mack. They were in possession of numerous valuables. The arrest was made when a neighbor telephoned police of prowlers in the Mack residence, and the information was flashed to the police radio patrol car.

China's War Echoes In U.S.

Fifty pickets bearing banners lined the sidewalks before the Japanese Embassy at Washington, protesting Nippon's aggressions in China. The efforts of the pickets were frustrated, however, when police shooed them away. No arrests were made.

622 PARALYSIS CASES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—(AP)—The public health service said today there were 622 infantile paralysis cases reported in the United States during the week ended August 28, a peak for the year thus far. This compared with 499 the previous week, 164 the same week last year.

"C.I.O." IS JAILED

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP) — "CIO," a dog, was jailed today for union activity.

Half collie and half chow, "CIO" was arrested with his owner, Henry Lustig, during a strike demonstration before an automat restaurant.

"CIO" was trotting back and forth carrying a placard denouncing the restaurant when police took him into custody.

ALCOHOLISM IN U.S. GROWING MENACE

BOSTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Concluding that alcoholism in the United States had assumed the proportions of "a great chronic emergency," a medical study today suggested special hospital wards and general education, to combat the problem.

Fifty thousand cases of alcoholism, admitted to the Boston City Hospital since its founding in 1864, formed the basis of the study. One of the findings was that, while more cases were admitted to the hospital during prohibition than ever before, the number has increased still further since repeal.

The findings, the authors of the study say, indicate alcoholism is a disease requiring treatment "as a major scientific problem."

Findings of the study were released in the New England Journal of Medicine. Dr. Merrill Moore, associate in psychiatry, Harvard Medical School, and Miss Mildred G. Gray, research fellow in neurology, Harvard Medical School, supervised the work.

The authors have not reached a final conclusion on remedies for the problem but, they say, indications point to a staff and wards in a hospital designed solely for alcoholic patients. They also advocate an educational campaign.

Fundamentally, say the authors of the study, alcoholism may be increasing because "people today are possibly not built to stand the type of life they are having to live, and excess strain causes something to go wrong with the human nervous system and the mind."

Among the facts the Journal listed from the study:

Deaths from alcoholisms are increasing out of proportion to the increase in alcoholic admissions.

In the years since repeal of prohibition, the annual deaths from alcoholism at the hospital doubled.

The majority of alcoholism patients treated are males, who outnumber females seven to one. Men are treated in largest numbers between the ages of 36 to 40, women between 41 and 45.

COL. WM. McBAIN DIES IN WHITBY

WHITBY, Sept. 2.— Lieut-Col. William McBain, Aide-de-Camp to Sir Sam Hughes, National Defense Minister during the war, was buried this afternoon in Scarboro' Lawn Cemetery. Colonel McBain died here Saturday after an illness of two years.

Descendant of an officer who fought with Wolfe at the battle of the Plains of Abraham, Colonel McBain was born in Valcartier, Que., and was commissioned during the war to purchase the site of the Valcartier military camp.

He went to Regina at an early age and became right-of-way man for the company constructing the Canadian Northern Railway. In 1912 he went to Toronto and returned to live there for a number of years following the war.

Personal friend of Hughes.

He was a personal friend of the late Sir Sam Hughes and made several trips across the Atlantic with him during the war, although he was attached to headquarters staff as an Honorary Colonel and was never in the Expeditionary Force.

For a time after demobilization at the end of the war, Colonel McBain resided in Ottawa, before resuming his real estate business in Toronto, in which he was actively engaged until ill-health forced him to retire two years ago.

ROSENEATH W. I. PLEASING HOSTS

(Examiner Correspondence)

ROSENEATH, Sept. 8. — The members of the Baltimore and Fenella branches of the Women's Institute were guests of the Roseneath society on Thursday afternoon when the regular meeting of the latter society was held. The meeting was held in the Town Hall, which was tastefully decorated with early autumn flowers. The president, Mrs. B. Thackeray and Vice-president Mrs. J. W. Pacey welcomed the guests at the door.

In an address of welcome Mrs. A. Halstead spoke of the first organization, and its far-reaching influence, stressed good citizenship, and extended a cordial welcome to all. Present also was Mrs. Eldred Lean of Camborne, president of the district. Mrs. Lean in an interesting address, spoke on Institute Work from several angles, touched on the contributions made to the work by former members, mentioning the late Mrs. Watt, Mrs. Hoodless, and Miss Guest, and was glad to see the members still responding to the call for service to home and country which service was just as necessary as it ever was. Mrs. Lean touched on the meeting at Washington of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, their interest in the Peace Garden, and in conclusion said "If all women of the world stood firm for any one cause, they could win."

The following interesting program was presented by the visiting branches. Miss Donna Lonsberry, Fenella, sang "The Quintuplets' Lullaby"; Mrs. N. C. Leacn, Fenella, read a paper "Making the Most of Life"; Miss Marguerite George, of Baltimore, read "The Art of Being Happy"; Miss Hilda Minifie, Baltimore, sang "The Rats in Lizzie's Hair"; Mrs. Gordon Sandercock, of Fenella, read a poem, "Do You Just Belong?"; Miss Bernice McNaught, Fenella, sang "The Hills of Old Northumberland"; Miss Marjorie Grey, Baltimore, contributed a humorous reading, "Samantha's Visit to the City"; and Miss Dorothy West of Baltimore played a piano solo.

Mrs. R. Grey, Baltimore, and Mrs. F. George, Fenella, expressed the appreciation of the guests for the hospitality of the local branch. Mrs. J. W. Pacey of Roseneath responded.

The singing of the National Anthem closed the meeting and refreshments were served. There was an attendance of over 100.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charlton Grigg, when the grandmothers will have charge of the program.

IS YOUR BABY GETTING A TOOTH?

YOUR BABY must "get a tooth". But he need not get a fever with it.

If Baby's mother is wise he won't.

Here is what one wise mother, Mrs. B——, of Consecon, has to say. "We have not lost one night's rest through teething as I always use my old standby, Baby's Own Tablets. They are worth their weight in gold."

And Mrs. P——, of Glenalmond, Que., says: "My baby has five teeth and has never been sick since his birth, thanks to Baby's Own Tablets."

Give these safe, little tablets at the first sign of fever. Sweet-tasting, easy to take, prompt in their action and can be given to the most delicate baby. Analyst's certificate on every package.

Equally effective in other of Baby's ailments. Constipation, Simple Fever, Diarrhoea, Upset Stomach, Colic, Simple Croup and Fretfulness all respond promptly to Baby's Own Tablets. 25 cents a box.

Hepburn's BROKEN Promises

Honourable Mitchell F. Hepburn's record of broken promises is the greatest betrayal of the Electorate in the history of Ontario. Here is only a partial list of his promises easily made and easily broken:

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 1

"I definitely am going to cut the cost of administration by fifty per cent.," Toronto, April 25th, 1934.

To pay for his reckless expenditures, Mr. Hepburn found it necessary to collect in taxes for the year 1937 $92,221,809.00, which was an increase of $40,838,905.51.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 2

"If we are elected we will peg the debt where it is," Sarnia, May 14th, 1934.

Mr. Hepburn's own budget speech gave the public debt at $656,588,000.00 plus the $33,598,107.71 he took from the Hydro treasury and the $25,000,000.00 now being spent in gigantic pre-election road-building program, makes the actual Ontario debt $715,209,696.28. This is an increase, under Hepburn's regime, of $100,817,371.56.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 3

"We will pay as we go," Kingston, May 24th, 1934.

The figures above show that every working day since he assumed office, Premier Hepburn fell more than $100,000 short of keeping this promise.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 4

"A string of cold storage warehouses across Ontario would go far to solve agricultural problems," Barrie, May 25th, 1934.

Not a single warehouse was ever built or projected.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 5

"Relief for the farmer was promised here today by Mitchel F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal Leader." — Canadian Press report, Sharbot Lake, May 23rd, 1934.

Following the election, Mr. Hepburn told the farmers they "must stand on their own feet". Then he wiped out livestock bonuses, grants to aid farmers and stopped loans to farmers.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 6

"If we are going to have an industry (agriculture) that is sound, we must widen our markets," Westport, June 4th, 1934.

Following his election, Premier Hepburn closed Ontario House in London, England, which had created markets thereby increasing Ontario farmers' annual income by $10,000,000. He also closed the Marketing Agencies at Montreal, Winnipeg and in the Maritimes.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 7

"A special session of the legislature to deal with farm relief problems immediately after the election," Windsor, June 15th, 1934.

No special session of the legislature was called.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 8

"We are going to have a minimum wage for men," Windsor, May 4th, 1934.

Three years — and nothing yet.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 9

"He promised a parade of dismissed civil servants from Queen's Park that would pale any Toronto twelfth of July march."—Globe report, Toronto, February, 16th, 1934.

In his first 21 months a total of 1,947 civil servants were dismissed by Mr. Hepburn. They included clerks, messengers and cleaning women. But in the same period 1,930 Hepburn henchmen were hired to step into their jobs. In his present vote-catching campaign, Mr. Hepburn has materially increased the civil service staff.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 10

"If he (Hepburn) and a Liberal Government be given power next Tuesday, one of his first acts will be to call a meeting of the legislature to deal with unemployment," Windsor, June 16th, 1934.

No special meeting of the legislature was called and no constructive program has been applied to the reduction of unemployment.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 11

"I won't let them interject a religious issue into this campaign." Hepburn statement, June 13th, 1934.

Within a few months of his election to office, Premier Hepburn broke faith with both the Separate and Public School supporters by passing a clumsily-drafted and unworkable piece of school legislation which he subsequently repealed.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 12

"The Tory administration is not giving fair preferences to the returned men at all," Beamsville, April 23rd, 1934.

On attaining office, Mr. Hepburn dismissed 552 war veterans and replaced them with Hepburn followers.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 13

"If the Liberal Party is placed in power a vast colonization policy in Northern Ontario will be put into effect to take care of the unemployment problem," Ottawa, June 7th, 1934.

None has been put into effect or projected.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 14

"We won't have to charge six cents a gallon gasoline tax," Perth, May 10th, 1934.

"Wouldn't it be a relief if the gasoline tax were cut from six cents to two cents," Vankleek Hill, June 5th, 1934.

No reduction has been made in the gasoline tax.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 15

Mr. Hepburn declared there would be "forced conversion of Government loans in order to lighten the burden of interest charges," Ingersoll, April 5th, 1934.

No forced conversion of loans has been made.

HEPBURN'S Broken Promise No. 16

Mr. Hepburn, protesting employment of lawyer friends of the Government, said: "There were plenty of Provincial salaried legal men available," Renfrew, Toronto Globe, June 8th, 1934.

Within eight months of the election, Arthur G. Slaght, Liberal lawyer, alone received $32,125 of Ontario taxpayers' money. Other payments made to lawyer friends of the Government in this same short period of time were as follows: Lewis Duncan, $16,571; N. F. Newton, $5,395; J. C. McRuer, $4,147 and J. C. M. German, $1,848.

HEPBURN HAS BETRAYED EVERYONE!

This is only a partial list of Honourable Mitchell F. Hepburn's promises made and broken. Mr. Hepburn has broken faith with labour and capital — farmer and city dweller — employed and unemployed — Protestant and Roman Catholic — returned man and civil servant —

Mrs. Fred McCarthy of Aylmer street was hostess at a "double shower" on Tuesday evening in honor of two brides-to-be, the Misses Emma McCarthy and Marie Collins, whose double wedding is taking place on September 14. Miss Collins is to marry Miss McCarthy's brother.

Pink streamers and white bells were the charming decorations in the rooms. The many lovely gifts for the brides were drawn into the room in a basket placed on a wagon, by little Patricia and John McCarthy. Both basket and wagon were gaily decorated in pink and blue. Miss McCarthy was presented with her gifts and then Miss Collins' presents were brought in.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with an exceptionally lovely cloth of Italian lace. The centrepiece was composed of cosmos in shades of pink placed in a silver basket, pink gladioli and asters being arranged in the rooms also. Tea was poured by Mrs. Fred Maybee and Miss Carmelita Crowley, who were assisted by Mrs. N. McCarthy, and the Misses B. O'Brien, M. Shannon, Marguerite McMahon, Josephine and Helen McCarthy.

During the evening Mrs. Maybee and Miss Alma Duffy entertained with piano selections, and Miss Viola Herlihey was heard in several much-enjoyed solos.

Tea For Miss Nancy Hopwood

A most delightful tea was given by Mrs. Hopwood of Water street on Tuesday afternoon for her granddaughter, Miss Nancy Hopwood, who leaves on September 20 for Trail, B.C., where her wedding to Alex Williamson, formerly of Peterborough, will take place shortly.

A large number of friends of the bride-to-be were present, the guests including Mrs. Jewett and the Misses Margaret and Gertrude Jewett of Toronto.

The tea table was arranged with a lace cloth and small pink zinnias in a silver bowl as a centrepiece. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. W. Frank, who was assisted by Mrs. J. W. McDermid, Miss Gertrude Jewett and Miss Betty Hopwood. Mrs. McBain also assisted in looking after the guests.

McCamus—Robertson

On Saturday, September 4, a quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the Manse, Dunderland, Ontario, when Sibyl Rhoda Ruth, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson of South Monaghan Township, was united in marriage to Thomas Allen, son of Mr. Robert McCamus and the late Mrs. McCamus of the Township of Cavan. Rev. R. M. Patterson being the officiating minister.

Promptly at twelve o'clock the bridal couple took their place in the living-room which was tastefully decorated with gladioli, petunias and ferns, where they took upon themselves the vows which made them husband and wife. After the ceremony and signing of the register which was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson, the company were invited to the dining-room where a very appetizing dinner was served by Mrs. Patterson assisted by Mrs. Thompson.

The bride's wedding costume was of orchid chiffon with navy colored hat and accessories to match. Her travelling suit was of grey tweed with wine colored velvet hat and accessories to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a lovely five-piece silver tea-service.

After dinner the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for an extended honeymoon to Toronto, Hamilton and other Western points. On their return they will reside on their farm near Cavanville, where their many friends join in wishing them a most happy and prosperous wedded life.

Welsh—McCausland

At the home of the bride's parents on Bathurst Street North, Toronto, Saturday afternoon, Miss Norah, younger daughter of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. J. Alan McCausland, Toronto, was married to Leslie W. Welsh, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welsh of Peterborough. Rev. Nicholas Stout of Gananoque, cousin of the bridegroom, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was simply gowned in mousseline de soie with draped bodice and full skirt. Her fingertip veil was held in place with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and bachelor buttons. There were no attendants. Mrs. McCausland wore black triple sheer, and the bridegroom's mother was in mauve crepe. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Welsh left for a motor trip to the United States, the bride travelling in a rose wool suit, with black accessories. They will reside in Peterborough.

Mackenzie—Hawkey

WARKWORTH, Sept. 8. — Elm Bluff Farm, Warkworth, Ontario, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, September 4, when Opal Maude, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Blake Hawkey, was united in marriage with Roderick Findley Mackenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Mackenzie, Toronto. The bride wore a gown of white satin, fashioned on princess lines, with short train, and carried pink roses and bouvardia. The tulle veil was held in place with a coronet made of tiny shells, an especially designed gift from Nassau, Bahamas.

The wedding music was played by Miss Frances Jones of Cardinal, Ont. At the conclusion of the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Dr. J. R. R. Cooper, a reception was held on the lawn.

The bride's mother wore a gown of black satin, with corsage of red roses. Mrs. Mackenzie, mother of the groom, was attired in black sheer, with corsage of roses.

Later in the afternoon the bride and groom left on a motor trip, the bride travelling in a brown tailored suit, with matching accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie will reside in North Toronto.

Traynor—Shine

LINDSAY, Sept. 8.—The marriage took place at St. Mary's Church on Labor Day of Leo Traynor, son of Mrs. Joseph Traynor, of South Ops, and Miss Mabel Shine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shine of Emily. Rev. Father Houlihan of Huntsville, cousin of the bride, celebrated the Nuptial Mass. The bride was assisted as bridesmaid by her sister, Miss Viola Shine, while Norbert Traynor brother of the groom, was best man.

Warrie—Bishop

LINDSAY, Sept. 8.—St. Paul's church was the scene of a wedding, when Edna Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Bishop, Lindsay, was married to Mr. Joseph Warrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Warrie, Toronto. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. A. J. Goldring.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Lee Bishop, Oshawa, was gowned in blue lace over satin and carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Grace Bishop, sister of the Bride, wore tea rose crepe and carried Talleman roses. The groomsman was Cyril Warrie, Toronto. Following a motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Warrie will reside in Toronto.

Gregg—Blodgett

A very pretty wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Father J. C. Maloney in the Church of the Sacred Heart a seven o'clock this (Wednesday) morning, when Rosemary, eldest daughter of Ambrose Blodgett and the late Mrs. Blodgett was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Emmett C. J. Gregg, son of Mrs. Jane Gregg and the late Michael Gregg of Sudbury.

The bride entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by J. L. Armstrong, the organist. She wore a gown of white satin with a lace yoke. Made on princess lines with a short train, her gown was trimmed with a row of satin self-covered buttons down the back from the neck to the waistline and ending with an ivory buckle. Her lovely veil was held with a wreath of orange blossoms in Princess Marina style. She wore white kid gloves and pumps and carried a bouquet of white Killarney roses.

The bride was attended by her only sister, Miss Julia Blodgett, who was beautifully gowned in a pink taffeta jacket dress, a wide pink picture hat, and matching lace mittens and sandals. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses.

The groom was attended by his younger brother, Wilfred Gregg of Sudbury.

Miss Alice Collins sang the "Ave Maria," "On This Day," and "Thou For Whom," during the celebration of Mass and signing of the register.

Following the ceremony, a reception for immediate relatives and friends was held at the home of the bride, where the rooms were gaily decorated in pink and white. The table, decorated in the same color scheme, was centered with the beautiful four-tiered wedding cake. Later the young couple left for Montreal, the bride wearing a becoming ensemble suit of brown taffeta with yellow chiffon blouse, a brown hat and matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Gregg will reside in Sudbury.

The groom's gift to the bride was a silver tea service, to the bridesmaid a pearl rosary, and to the best man a cigarette lighter.

Humphries—Waters

DONEGAL, Sept. 8.—A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at High Noon on Wednesday, September 1st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Waters of Seymour West, when their only daughter, Dorothy Mae, became the bride of Lear Wellington Humphries, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. George Humphries of Asphodel. Rev. Gordon Gardner of Brechin, cousin of the groom, officiated.

The drawing-room was beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers, and a large white wedding bell in the centre. The arch, placed in one corner of the room, was beautifully decorated with hydrangeas, entwined with pink and white ribbon while chrysanthemums, hydrangeas, and foliage made a very suitable background for the ceremony.

The bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father to the sweet strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Wesley Wildman, and took her place under the arch. She looked charming in a gown of white sheer over taffeta, floor length, fashioned on princess lines with short puffed sleeves, her veil of silk net being worn in cap effect and held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms, her long lace gloves and kid shoes were also in white, and she carried a bouquet of red Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern and wore the gift of the groom, a yellow gold wrist watch with white setting.

The bride was attended by Miss Helen McKay, who wore a dress of pink Swiss organdy with matching accessories; she wore the groom's gift, a monogram pin set with rhinestones, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and maiden hair fern. Little Miss Ina Coon of London, Ont., as flower girl, was attired in a dress of white frilled net over pink taffeta, and wore the groom's gift, a yellow gold necklace. Lorne Sexsmith, of Trenton, acted as ringbearer, while Everett Waters, brother of the bride, supported the groom. During the signing of the register, Mr. Wildman gave a piano solo, "Basket of Roses."

After the young couple had received hearty congratulations, the bride led the way to the dining-room, where a color scheme of pink and white was effectively carried out in the streamers from the large white wedding bell immediately over the table, while pink candles in silver holders adorned the table, centred with the handsome three-tiered wedding cake. According to the time-honored custom, the bride placed the knife in the cake, and the toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Mr. Gardner, to which the groom made a suitable reply.

The waitresses were Mrs. Wesley Wildman, Misses Madeline McConnell, Leitha Davidson, Helen and Hazel Waters.

The young couple were the recipients of a large number of gifts, both useful and beautiful, including several sums of money, ranging from $5 to $20.

Mrs. Waters, mother of the bride, received wearing a brown crepe dress trimmed with cut velvet, and was assisted by the groom's mother, Mrs. Humphries, who wore manoa blue sheer.

Among the many guests were friends from Trenton, Frankford, Belleville, and London. The groom's gift to the best man was a yellow gold collar pin and tie chain; to the ring-bearer, a white gold pen knife; to the pianist, yellow gold collar pin and tie chain.

After photos were taken, the happy young couple left on a honeymoon trip, amid showers of confetti and good wishes, for Gravenhurst, New Liskeard, and other Northern Ontario points, returning by Toronto. For travelling the bride chose a navy blue sheer dress, blue tree bark coat, with grey squirrel collar, navy felt hat with nose veil, and navy accessories.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Humphries will reside in Trenton.

Powderley—O'Brien

In St. Peter's Cathedral a pretty early fall wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock on Wednesday morning when Kathleen Mary O'Brien, youngest daughter of Mrs. Michael Scott and the late Denis O'Brien was married to Herbert Powderley, son of Mrs. Powderley and the late John Powderly of Luton, England. The Rev. Father Carroll performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, Michael Scott, the bride wore a beautiful gown of white chiffon velvet, with tight-fitting bodice pointed into the skirt in front. The full skirt was toe-length in front, a sight train being formed at the back. The square neckline and "baby puff" sleeves were trimmed with silver sequins. She wore a tea rose fitting velvet jacket, with long full sleeves banded at the wrist. Her Juliet cap was fashioned of silver sequins, and she wore silver and white satin sandals and white lace mittens. Her bouquet was of Briarcliffe roses.

Miss Anne McAhoney, cousin of the bride, attended as bridesmaid. She was attired in a charming jacket gown of shell pink triple sheer over taffeta, slim fitting and with flaring hemline. She wore a pink taffeta halo hat, elbow length gloves and silver sandals. Her bouquet was of yellow roses.

The best man was Roman Whibbs. The wedding music was played by Miss Veronica Scollard and Miss Phyllis Corrie sang "On This Day" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony, the wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Scott wearing a Coronation blue triple sheer dress and coat, with matching accessories, and a corsage of roses. Coronation colors decorated the house, and the table, centred with the bride's cake, was arranged with asters in coronation colors placed in crystal vases. Four white tapers in crystal holders surrounded the cake.

The young couple left later for a trip to Toronto the bride travelling in a brown English tweed suit, trimmed with brown squirrel, beige lace blouse and beige accessories. They will live at 183 Reid street, when they return to the city.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque, to the bridesmaid a silver and white evening bag, and, to the best man a Parker pen and pencil set.

The Cuffe-Smart Bridal Group

One of the recent interesting weddings was that of Miss Jennie Smart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Smart, to Gerald Cuffe, son of Mr. and Mrs George Cuffe. The bridal group are shown outside the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, where the reception was held following the ceremony in St. James United church. Reading from left to right, they are; Norris Williamson (usher), the Rev. Reginald Howden, of Toronto, best man, Miss Margaret Smart, bridesmaid, the bride and groom, Tom Smart, (usher).

42,000 Miles Covered in North By Red Cross Outpost Nurses

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP)—Forty-two thousand miles were covered by Red Cross outpost hospital nurses in Northern Ontario last year, bringing aid to more than 15,000 isolated sufferers from sickness, accident and childbirth, it was reported by the Red Cross today.

Dr. W. S. Caldwell, assistant director, said: "Although the nurses used motorcars where they were available and the roads permitted, and even airplanes in some cases, a great many of the 42,000 miles were travelled either on foot through lonely forest trails or by canoe over northern lakes, and horse and buggy over back-country roads."

In winter, dog-teams, snowshoes and skis were commonly used. "By braving cold-numbing blizzards, or suffocating heat, or any other climatic conditions in their efforts to reach and relieve suffering patients in isolated districts," he added, "Red Cross outpost nurses are creating a standard of courageous nursing service which is becoming almost legendary throughout the northern parts of the province."

The Trouble And Its Cure

For more than a year the Raw Materials Committee of the League of Nations has been making search to see what weight could be attached to the claims of certain nations that they were being denied access to needed raw materials which they were not able to secure in needed quantities. The reason why they could not secure such materials is because they exist in other countries and have to be purchased or exchanged for other goods.

The Raw Materials Committee did not mention the names of the countries whose claims it had been investigating, but the world knows Japan, Italy and Germany are the nations to which reference is made. The answer after a year of research is that there would be no difficulty in securing raw materials and paying for them in cash or traded goods were it not for the enormous amounts of these nations' reserves which are being drained for the purpose of piling up great armies and fleets and munitions of war. So much of the wealth of the nations is being poured down that sink hole that there is not sufficient left to purchase other raw materials.

Is there a way out? The committee thinks so and says so. Says so in plain words which are readily understood. Just these:

> "The difficulties now experienced by certain states in paying for raw materials would be alleviated immediately if a political settlement were forthcoming which would permit them to reduce their present armaments expenditures."

That finding is significant on account of the further argument which is speciously advanced to show that these heavy-armament nations must have granted to them greater colonies in order that the natural products of such colonies can provide them with raw materials which do not otherwise exist within the boundaries of the nation. Under the guise of claiming the right to become possessed of more raw materials they actually cover the real purpose of seeking more land for the sake of having greater possessions. The cure is simple enough—quit spending so much on armaments and pay for the raw materials desired.

In Search Of Death

Within the last day or so we have seen a number of people whom we are accustomed to meet here and there in the course of a day's work; some of them one sees on the street, in stores, while at work and elsewhere. They were here before the Labor Day holiday and they are still here. They look and act much the same.

The reason for saying that is that the National Safety Council of United States predicted there would be 1,000 deaths in that country during the Saturday, Sunday and Monday holiday period. The records are fast piling toward the figure named. Automobile traffic took the stiffest toll, and airplane accidents, shootings, drownings and even suicides were all working to drive the figures still higher. Even the trailer is beginning to play a sombre part in unhappy lives. There were two cases reported where people had turned the trailer into a lethal chamber by closing doors and windows and then connecting the exhaust pipe from the engine to provide the death fumes.

But there would be only a fraction of one per cent. who wanted to die. We are certain all the others wanted to live. They would desire above all else to return to the homes they left only a short time before. Possibly they all anticipated they would be working again on the morning after Labor Day.

But they will not return. They drove too fast; they took chances in airplanes, they went splashing into water when they were not swimmers, and they went toward the bush with firearms they did not understand. Almost a thousand of them. The weather was well-nigh perfect; it was possible to see the road ahead, and there was no excessive heat to drive people into water to seek relief. If a plague were to sweep into a city and take one thousand lives at a week-end there would be consternation. When the accident list runs to such a figure on a double-holiday week-end there are reports about it in the paper, and next day we proceed as though nothing unusual had happened.

Much To Be Said For It

Zion cemetery it is called, and the location is on the Seventh Line of West Nissouri in Middlesex county. Eighty years ago one of the early settlers set aside a piece of ground for a cemetery, first having cleared it. A few days ago there was an annual gathering of the folk in the district, and they decorated the graves and paused for a service in which they paid tribute to the memory of the pioneers.

Most of those who were present were in some way related to the early settlers. Through the years which ran between there had been preserved a continuity of family ties. In Zion cemetery there rest successive generations of the same family. Some of the younger people have left, but others have remained, so when it comes decoration day in the cemetery on the Seventh Line even the younger people who attend to much of it have definite and kindly knowledge of what it is they are doing.

Far-away places beckon of course to the young people of West Nissouri and elsewhere and they are minded to follow promotion or opportunity regardless of distance and direction, and that will always be the case. But they do not all go. Some of them generally stay home in West Nissouri as they do in all other rural communities. They marry and they settle down and West Nissouri is home to them. They have never been called upon to go through the experience of being in a strange community; when they go to church on Sunday they probably occupy the same pew where several generations of the same family have been seated; when they attend social functions they seldom have to be introduced to any one. When sickness comes upon them it is a matter of concern in a number of homes, and there are friends who if needed will come and sit up nights; there are other friends who will see that the work on the farm is not neglected. That is all typical of our rural communities. So it is when they gather for the annual decoration day of the cemetery the ties of family to family and of the families to the land are such that the ceremony is not merely a formal observance of a kindly gesture, but rather the tribute which one generation pays to another. And for that method and manner of living there is much to be said.

Tommy Farr Is Learning

Tommy Farr from Wales had a fight with Joe Louis in New York, and as a result Farr became possessed of $72,000. The fight itself was worth $60,000, and from training camp, motion picture and radio receipts there was another $12,000.

Farr has a manager, Ted Broadribb, and together and separately they say they are going home on the 25th of September because if they remain long in United States they will have so little left they may not be able to make the trip at all.

The explanation is there are too many chiselers in United States who want to get a portion of the money which the man from Wales earned. There were plenty of offers to have Farr appear here and there as referee, or to walk across the stage and say a few words to the audience, but the promoters of such events desired to take so great a cut of the money that Farr might better employ his time packing and preparing to leave for home.

Those who know the situation well say so-called promoters, publicity men, managers and assistant managers and all that tribe trail in turn each new celebrity making an appearance in New York. They give virtually nothing in return; they are strangers to work, but in order to live they must find new contributors to their purse.

It looks as though Farr and Ted Broadribb, his manager, are not in the business of buying popularity by dealing with the chiselers. And probably Farr will succeed in reaching home with more of his money intact than is the case with those who are not able to place an ocean between themselves and the chiselers.

That Word "Obey"

The General Synod of the Church of England in session at Halifax is considering the revision of the marriage vow, with the idea of producing an identical vow for men and women, and that of course would call for the deletion of the last word in "Love, honor and obey" in the woman's vow.

In a good many marriage ceremonies which have been performed the word "obey" has been left out, and the custom might well be made general. The reason for that belief is that the word adds nothing of solemnity, sacredness or importance to the ceremony. At best it indicates something which is not going to take place; it suggests a superior power on the part of the husband which is not going to be exercised. So there is no good purpose served in having a woman promise to do something which the husband is not likely to demand of her.

Small Dollars Cost More

United States began making its one-dollar bill smaller before the plan was followed in this country. There are virtually none of our large-size old-fashioned bills in circulation now.

One of the arguments was that it would be cheaper to make the smaller bill. A special paper was used and in making large numbers the saving on paper alone would amount to considerable.

But it did not work out that way.

In June of 1935 Federal Reserve notes cost $86 per thousand sheets.

According to the last return made the same thousand sheets now cost $97.

So the present-day cost of producing the lesser dollar is greater than the old-time cost of producing the greater dollar.

When Is A Man Educated?

In the current issue of one U. S. magazine there are several pages filled with rather brief business announcements of schools, and several references are made to the benefits of education. Such institutions are handicapped when it comes to advertising their stock-in-trade. They have not the freedom nor yet the directness of the merchant who gives adequate description of a pair of shoes and then says they are on sale at $4. The difficulty arises in trying to tell just what education is. It is harder still to point the finger at an individual and say "There is the educated man."

One may possess a deal of knowledge, but in order to demonstrate that such knowledge is adequate education it is necessary to be so situated that full advantage can be made of that learning. There are places where it does not serve its purposes because it cannot be applied.

Let us illustrate: A gentleman with a good education passes his summer months in the Northern part of this province. His home is in Pittsburg and we will refer to him as Mr. A. During his working months he is a teacher of classics. In the summer he stated to an Examiner man he found himself in surroundings with which he was only now becoming familiar after several years of experience. He stated his case about like this:

"I have depended a great deal on Joe." (Joe is a guide and trapper, a woodsman and a good speciman of the outdoor life.) "I love the bush, the hills and rocks, the lakes and rivers and all connected with it. I had been studying maps of the district for some time and told Joe there was a little-visited section I should like to see. He agreed it could be done. We drove over an indifferent road for 18 miles, then left the car and started through the bush. I had only a vague lead of the direction we were taking, but Joe seemed quite sure we would come back the same way and find the car. I had a little lunch in my pocket and so did Joe. We stopped to eat at noon, but there was no water. Joe said by the looks of the white stones on the ground we should find some soon. We walked for half an hour toward low ground and then up a hill. Half-way up there was a spring. Joe told me the names of all the birds, of all the trees, and the habits of all the animals in the district. When it was time to start back Joe went ahead and we covered miles; there was no path or trail and much of it was thick underbrush, but finally we came back to the exact spot where we had left the car, and we had been a good six hours in that dense growth. If Joe had left me in there I might have remained almost indefinitely. It was the same on days when we fished. Joe knew where to go, was aware of the kind of bait to use and the time of day to catch fish. In his own line, that of outdoors, he was a graduate who had no degrees to place after his name, but he had earned them. When I was in Joe's field of life and work I was like the kindergarten pupil and he was headmaster of the school. I consider he is a greater master in his own field than I could ever hope to be in my chosen work."

Education? Yes and a great deal of it. Secure it and keep on securing more. The supply will not run out, but remember always that men in other fields are going great distances in work and activity about which you know virtually nothing at all.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Six Soviet officials who indulged in a wild party have been executed. First liquor—then liquidation.

It is said that the five Dionnes make as much noise as seven ordinary children. At all events they seem to have been heard pretty much around the world.

Professor DeSilva of Harvard rating women as bad auto drivers claims their weakness for rear-end crashes is due to their failure to use the rear vision mirror. Tut, tut professor. You don't expect us to believe that one.

In one small town in Germany the best rifle shot gets exemption from taxation for a year. Others might get similar treatment if the tax collector happened to be near when the contest was going on.

Beverely Baxter, Toronto man in the British House of Commons, says it is possible that Toronto may become capital of the British Empire. Not feeling inclined to become embroiled in argument, we merely register that we don't believe it.

In Oxford county there is a new organization known as the Democratic Association, and it may enter a candidate in the Ontario contest. If they could sign up all the people in that county who own black and white cows the new organization might make quite a showing.

CHANGED

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Uncle Eben feels the cold, as he is getting fairly old, he dreads the colder air; as soon as comes a little change, he searches out the kitchen range, and there he parks his chair.

¶ When I was but a little guy, why Uncle Eben ranked up high, he told me tales with glee; and I would coax him for some more, he'd string the old ones o'er and o'er, while I sat on his knee.

¶ My Uncle Eben told me then, of how he lived with strapping men, of how he fought with bears; of wild men coming to his shack, how he would take them by the back, and pile them down the stairs.

¶ 'Twas cold where Uncle Eben dwelt, and yet the frost he never felt, 'twas never cold enough; he never covered up his snout, when he went working round about, for he was strong and tough.

¶ He never wore no mittens then, nor froze his ears like other men, he laughed at zero days; for Eben was all muscle then, and stronger than a dozen men, and hardened in his ways.

¶ Now Eben seeks the kitchen range, when weather blows a bit to change, and there he parks his chair; and he won't have much peace of mind, until he'll search a while and find—his winter underwear.

Now the cat-owners are protesting about the howling of dogs at night.

All is fair in love and war. Moors are joining up with General Franco's forces in Spanish Morocco. They look like good soldiers until they are served with a rifle and ammunition, after which they desert. They then sell the rifle and ammunition to the wild tribesmen in the Riff mountains. There was trouble enough for the French in 1925 when these tribesmen revolted and it was difficult to get the situation in hand. It is feared the same thing may happen again.

Washing Their Own Dishes

A GROWING number of English housewives of the moneyed class are washing their own dishes because of the shortage of domestic servants. Although 20,000 foreign girls have entered the country to fill the gaps only 44 per cent. of the vacancies have been filled. Ernest Brown, Minister of Labor is touring the country this month investigating the situation. Meanwhile the free three-month domestic course is turning out fewer graduates each term notwithstanding better jobs and higher wages assured for the graduates. At the same time an increased number of employers are making applications to the Home Office for permits to bring in foreign girls.

GOVERNMENT PROFITS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: An erroneous opinion, based on an incorrect government system, that the liquor traffic is very profitable to this province, is widely prevalent, and has induced many persons who really dislike the traffic to support it. The trouble is that in former years the indirect expenses of the traffic were absorbed by the government and charged up in the various departments under such headings as law enforcement, upkeep of penitentiaries, jails, etc. Then when government sale was introduced the mistake was made of continuing the old system, so that the liquor accounts receive credit for the proceeds of the sales while the indirect expenses are absorbed by the various departments. We glory in the profit that we are making on the peanut while we entirely overlook what we are losing on the "banan." If our object is to boost the liquor traffic and make it appear in a favorable financial light then we have a very nice system indeed. But if we wish to ascertain the true net financial result of our liquor business we cannot change the system too soon. I am very careful not to make a statement that I cannot prove, and I therefore hesitate to name a sum that I think would cover these expenses. But Sir George Paish, speaking of England says that if the traffic were stopped, and the $130,000,000 liquor tax lost, the revenue would quickly recover far beyond this amount, clearly showing that he believes the indirect expense of the traffic to be enormous.

It is very difficult to get the details. For instance, to decide what court costs are correctly chargeable to the liquor traffic. But the officials of the various departments could surely make approximate estimates, and the total amount of all these indirect expenses should be charged against the amount of the so-called profit. Of course this would not affect the amount of the government surplus, which is quite handsome, by one cent, but it would show the true gain or loss to the government of our liquor business, which I think would be a great revelation to the people.

It is amusing to find prominent politicians, who are supposed to be leaders of public opinion, saying that the government surplus is composed almost entirely of liquor profits.

The present would appear to be a good time to insist upon an adjustment of these government liquor accounts.

This letter only refers to expenses that are contained in the government books.

A Plea For Youth Hostels in Canada

Movement Spreads Widely Through Britain Encourages Healthful Trend in Wholesome Way

(From the Montreal Star.)

ONE OF the most popular movements of the past decade in Europe has been that of the Youth Hostels. The idea originated in Germany, where it has been developed to a degree that makes it one of the most important and significant in the eyes of the younger generation. The Germans are the greatest hikers in the world; but they do not thumb their way. They walk in groups, singing as they go. And they stop at the various Youth Hostels for food and lodging. The rates are such as those with the smallest purses find themselves able to pay. The food is wholesome; the fare plain, but ample. Those who wish to cook their own food are afforded facilities for doing so. A spirit of camaraderie is developed that unites youth of all classes and both sexes in friendly intercourse. The hygienic side of the walking tours needs no commendation. That has been established beyond any doubt long ago.

In England, the movement is of rather later growth, but it has already spread up and down the country, and the Youth Hostels have sought on with the British public, which likes the idea very much. They have given a great impetus to health pastimes, and both for cyclists and hikers they have proved an inestimable boon. In the opinion of some people, they have gone a long way to recapture the atmosphere of The Canterbury Tales.

It seems a pity that we cannot have something of the sort here. Unfortunately, however, not only has the idea of walking tours never become popular in Canada, but the general topography of the countryside in some provinces does not lend itself to this form of recreation. The widespread use of automobiles and the absence of walking paths on the sides of the road are two other grave obstacles. In this Province, however, it seems to us that it might be a fairly easy thing to develop something of the walking spirit.

If we are about to embark upon a new roads policy, then one thing that might be done is the construction of walking paths by the sides of the roads, to provide the pedestrain with a reasonable margin of safety against automobiles. Particularly throughout the Eastern Townships, there are innumerable walks through country of exceptional beauty which offer a wide choice to the holiday-maker. The Youth Hostel is not an expensive undertaking. A few as a trial would not involve any heavy expenditure. And if the idea did catch on it would undoubtedly spread. There is no finer exercise for growing youth of either sex, and just because it has not been a Canadian habit in the past is no reason why, in some directions at any rate, it should not be fostered now.

A Museum For Relics of Other Days

Suggestion Made That Durham County Should Preserve Historic Things in Central Place

(From the Bowmanville Statesman)

THE DISPLAY of curios and relics of bygone days on display at the House of Friendship during the Reunion proved one thing we have always contended that Durham has a wealth of such valuable remembrances of pioneer days which could form the nucleus of a museum collection. We are still hopeful that some citizen or former citizen will some day see fit to erect a museum for Durham County where these antiques may be kept and protected for posterity.

In London, England, stands the British Museum, with a million feet of floor space, devoted to displays of relics dating back thousands of years. The museum is not a dreary place, but a place that will give us an idea of how our civilization was built up by the continual expansion of the human mind into new fields of endeavour.

A few hundreds years from now our present automobiles, our radios, even our modern dial telephones will be curiosities of the past. The generations that are to come will see science produce inventions of which the present human mind cannot conceive. One hundred years ago, had anyone addressed a public meeting and suggested that within the space of 100 years there would be radios and airplanes, and telephones, and electric lights, electric trains, motion and talking pictures, that man would have been instantly removed to a mental institution, if such existed. One hundred years from today it will be a very different world from now, but we hesitate to suggest what wonders are possible in that era for fear we too be removed to some institution.

It is to be hoped that those people who loaned these treasures for the reunion display will protect them for future. Some day we will have a museum in which these things may be placed on view for the general public. School children can learn quicker of the past by looking at these relics, than they can in the classroom.

It Remains the Same Fall Fair Yet

Even Although Trucks and Expensive Sedans Have Replaced the Former Waggons and Buggies

(From the Kitchener Record).

SOME of the leaves are already turning dull brown, fluttering from swaying limbs like invitations to a preview of autumn. Indian Summer with its hazy atmosphere can't be far away.

And with the fall come school days, chilly mornings, gridiron contests, bonfires and rural fairs—most of all rural fairs.

Few things are as remarkable in this age of rural development, radios and fast transportation as the survival, even the steady gain, of the rural fall fair. Basically it hasn't changed very much from the first event of its kind held in this country.

A show that began as a display of livestock broadened to take in other products of the farm and eventually grew into that item of Canadian life that is probably better known and more typical than any other today.

It spells demonstration buildings with pens of grubbing hogs, mooing milk cows and proud percherons; also cages of strutting roosters and inquisitive hens. It recalls whitecovered tables with heavy cargoes of cake, layer, chocolate, angel and the inevitable marble; open pies and closed pies and pies with crusty lacing over the top.

Two decades or so ago it was waggons and buggies with enough cold fried chicken to last several days while the hapless hired hand stayed at home to do the chores and steal a nap at high noon. Now it is bulky trucks and shiny sedans, with a 30-minute drive home in the evening. But it's practically the same fair, then and now.

A LESSON IN PAROLE

(Chicago Daily News)

TOWARD the end of 1935 the case of Albert Zuris came before the Illinois Parole Board. He had been sentenced less than a year before to 14 years in Joliet for robbery. Moreover, he was a second offender. In 1918 he had served a year in Pontiac for burglary. But that did not impress the parole board. Its expert criminologists, who profess to be able by their science to read the humane soul, had examined Zuris and had certified him as safe for society. So the board paroled him.

Last Saturday night the Chicago police arrested Zuris. How many robberies he had committed since the board let him out nobody can say. But he confessed to having committed seven in a single week.

KILLING WEEDS

(London Times.

WHAT is claimed to be the most efficient weed-killing train in the world has been evolved by the Southern Railway. It consists of eight vehicles, contains enough chemical concentrate for 128 miles and water for 40 miles.

By means of two pumps the water and chemical are mixed in a central chamber, the solution passes to a series of nozzles at a pressure of approximately 30lb. to the square inch, and the train runs at a speed of about 28 miles an hour. About 1,000 miles of the company's track have to be cleared of weeds every year, and with the improved apparatus it can all be cleared in a fortnight.

IT'S NO RIDDLE.

(Belleville Intelligencer)

IT SEEMS a riddle that most accidents occur when the driver is going straight ahead. It isn't a riddle at all. Can you solve it? Here's a clue: That's the only time when the driver can really "step on the gas." Last year, in 628 accidents in which people were killed, 621 cars were "going straight," and so were 8,002 of the cars involved in 10,486 non-fatal accidents. Highway deaths can be eliminated if drivers will mix brains, as well as air, with their gasoline.

Market Moves Stronger Position

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—(CP.)—The Toronto market worked laboriously into a slightly stronger position today with the base metals leading the upturn. Prices churned about throughout the session. After an early pick-up on short covering the market had a weak turn to show losses in all groups at noon, followed by periods of strength in the afternoon. The close was steady with the tape slow. About a million shares changed hands.

Brazilian, British American Oil, Distillers-Seagrams, and some of the building shares held substantial gains at the close. Brazilian added two points. Most of the other utility, oil and beverage issues were soft. Loses of ⅜ to ⅝ came out for Beauharnois, Canada Steamship Lines, C.P.R., Dominion Coal Pfd. and Burlington Steel. Most of the steels slumped to show wide net losses for the Bridge stocks. Steel of Canada, Page-Hersey, Dominion Foundries and Canadian Car and Canada Cement dropped two points.

Cockshutt Plow was down sharply to 11¼ and Massey Harris common weakened a minor fraction. In the paper group, the Abitibi issues held their ground while the Great Lakes issues ruled higher. The food group broke about even on gains and losses and the Banks were lower.

Some of the widest gains in the Base Metals were 2 to 2½ for International Nickel and Noranda. Smelters and Hudson Bay added fractions and final prices were up 6 to 25 cents for Sherritt, Waite-Amulet, Normetal and Aldermac. Ventures and Sudbury Basin closed down.

The most active golds closed with a preponderance of gains. Buffalo-Ankerite, Dome, O'Brien, Central Patricia, Kerr-Addison, East Malartic, Kirkland Lake, Hard Rock, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Toburn, Powell-Rouyn and Bidgood-Kirkland registered gains.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Buying of commodities inspired by war fears struck the grain pits yesterday and shot wheat prices upward more than 4 cents.

War threats in the Mediterranean and Orient snapped the wheat market out of a lethargy of almost a month's duration. Buying was heavy at all the major world marts where dealings in the bread cereal are conducted.

Prices at Liverpool, first of the international wheat markets to open, rose sharply before trading in Chicago began. At the opening bell here values leaped more than 2 cents in some cases, and at noon touched highs of $1.09¾ for September wheat, $1.11¼ for December, and $1.13⅞ for May, up more than 4 cents from Saturday's close.

Profit-taking cut these prices to $1.08⅝ to $1.08¾, $1.10⅛ to $1.10¼, and $1.12⅛ to $1.12⅜ respectively before the market closed. Winnipeg wheat soared almost 5 cents at one stage, and grain for October delivery in that market was quoted up to $1.29.

September delivery of corn rose almost 5 cents a bushel at one time to a high of $1.02⅝. Rye futures soared more than 2 cents.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK

Calf and hog prices suffered slight setbacks during dealings on Montreal livestock markets yesterday, while sheep and lambs held steady at unchanged levels. Cattle receipts increased heavily, but offerings were exceptionally light and prices were unquoted.

Receipts: Cattle, 1,432; calves, 1,998; sheep and lambs, 2,908; hogs, 2,449.

Good veal calves made $8.50 to $9, with mediums mostly $7 to $7.50 and medium goods up to $8. Common lights and drinkers sold down to $5, with grassers from $3.50 to $4.50.

Good ewes and wethers brought $8.25 to $8.50, while culls and bucks were out at $6.25 to $6.50. Sheep went from $2.50 to $4, with a few yearlings up to $5.

Bacon hogs fed and watered, made $10 with selects at the usual $1 premium. Lights were cut from $1 to $2 a cwt., while sows sold from $6.75 to $8.

ONTARIO HOG PRICES

TORONTO, Sept. 8 — (C.P.). — An upward trend was indicated in hog prices on Ontario markets today. Barrie took precedence over Hull in dressed-weight prices, quoting at $13.15 after an increase of 30 cents. Peterborough, however led dressed-weight advances with a rise of 35 cents to $12.75. In liveweights Brantford reported an advance of 25 cents and Peterborough the same.

Liveweights. — Brantford, $9.85; Hull, $9.50; Peterborough, $9.65; London, $9.50; Chatham, $9.

Dressed-weights.—Barrie, $13.15; Hull, $13.10; Kitchener, $12.70; Peterborough, $12.75; Stratford, $12.70; Chatham, $12.25; London, $12.70.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Profit-taking and increased hedging pressure in late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day cut four-cent gains in wheat futures. Reluctance of Chicago to follow Winnipeg's advances attributed to setbacks resulting in final prices 1¼ to ⅝ cents higher. October $1.29⅝, November, $1.29⅛a. December, $1.26¼ to ⅝, and May, $1.27⅝.

Earlier the market forged from opening fractional advances to the day's top levels, four cents higher. It climaxed a two-day rise of more than eight cents before investors and farmers began unloading their wheat.

Deliveries yesterday totalled 2,543,000 bushels.

Good mill and fair export buying coupled with speculative dealings from Eastern and Southern interests provided the principal support. Canadian wheat sold for export was estimated at 200,000 bushels.

NO AIR COMMENTS ON MARKET PRICES

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—(CP).—Certain subjects, such as commentaries of market prices, will be banned over the radio in future, Gladstone Murray, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said in an interview here to-day.

Mr. Murray was in Toronto to attend a meeting of C. B. C. directors to discuss control by the corporation of all broadcasting stations, and to set forth certain codes. Restriction on recorded programs also was to be discussed.

Other subjects to come under the ban will be radio liquor advertising and broadcasts on birth control, Mr. Murray said. To encourage "live" talent in Canada, recorded programs will be banned between 7.30 p.m. and 11 p.m., unless special permission is given by the C.B.C.

Ban on market price broadcasting was to be made because "we've had too many complaints from people who've taken advice from some of these commentaries. They told us they lost money by it."

F. G. Mann Reports Rough Crossing

Death of a passenger when the ship was a few hours out of Liverpool; a severe storm that kept passengers under battened hatches for three successive days; and the mysterious disappearance of another passenger, presumed drowned just before the ship reached Father Point, featured the recent crossing of the C.P.R. liner "Montrose" according to Frederic G. Mann who has just returned to the city from a trip to England.

Mr. Mann who claimed the crossing was the roughest he has ever experienced stated the ship was a day and a half late in docking at Montreal.

While in the homeland he spent the greater part of his time around the ancient cathedral city of Norwich and also in London. When in Liverpool just before embarking, he chanced across Miss Alyce M. Price, former superintendent of Queen Mary Isolation Hospital here, who is at present assistant matron at a nursing home in Llandudno, North Wales.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM S. McDOWELL

(Examiner Correspondence)

SELWYN, Sept. 8. — Early on Sunday morning, September 5, there passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, one of Selwyn's oldest residents, in the person of Mrs. William S. McDowell, in her ninety-first year, who before her marriage was Abbigal Pearson.

The deceased was born on the farm now occupied by Reginald McConkey, but then owned by her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William Pearson, and when a young woman she spent thirty-five years in United States, where she married her husband, the late William McDowell. After his death she came back to Selwyn to be with her brother Robert Pearson, who is also of the ripe old age of eighty-five. She resided in Selwyn twelve years before her death. The deceased was of a sweet and gentle nature, always very active, and only a week before had been spending Sunday with the Nicholls family at their cottage, when she had the misfortune to trip over a 'step and fracture her hip, from which she never recovered.

Although she was always spoken of as an old lady, yet in her ways she was very much the reverse. On March 26 last, she celebrated her ninetieth birthday, and when a number of her relatives and friends called upon her she was very much the charming hostess and conversed mainly of the modern times.

The funeral was held on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from her home to St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church at Lakefield, of whose faith she was a devout member. The Mass was solemnized by the Rev. J. J. Garvey, rector in charge.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. John Pearson, William Pearson, William Harris, Gordon Fitzgerald, Herbert McConkey, and Samuel Northey. Interment was made in the Lakefield Cemetery.

Born of a family of six boys and six girls, all of whom have predeceased her except two brothers, Joseph Pearson of Michigan and Robert with whom she lived, there are left to mourn her loss a large number of nieces and nephews and other distant relatives.

At Home 20 Weeks With Rheumatism

Wife Feared Husband Would Never Work Again

When her husband had been at home 20 weeks with rheumatism in his back, this woman began to think he would never work again. At last, she said to him: "Let's try Kruschen." and the change that took place was, in her own words, "like a miracle." Here is her letter:

"My husband is subject to rheumatism and suffered terribly with his back. Some time ago, I had him in the house 20 weeks with it. I really didn't think he would ever work again. We tried all the different kinds of salts you could mention, but none of them did him any good. Then I said, 'Let's try Kruschen.' Since then, we have proved Kruschen Salts to be worth its weight in gold. My husband is back at his job, thanks to Kruschen. The change it made is like a miracle."—(Mrs.) B.

Two of the salts in Kruschen are the most effectual solvents of uric acid crystals known to science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals and convert them into a harmless solution, which is then expelled through the natural channels.—(Advt.)

TOURIST REVENUE AND GOOD ROADS KEEP CANADA UP

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., Sept. 8. — (C. P.). —Highway development and concrete pavement were discussed to-day at the opening session of the Canadian Good Roads Association 23rd Annual Convention.

Municipal speakers were T. J. Mahony, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Good Roads Association and C. A. Robbins, district engineer for the Ontario Department of Highways. The convention lasts three days.

Equal Provincial expenditures on highways under uniform and long-term programs were recommended by Mr. Mahoney. Stabilization of highway taxation enabled the Provinces to estimate closely their prospective revenues from this source, he said. Increased taxation coincided with road improvement and the Provinces to date had collected more than $500,000,000 from motor car users. In 1936 these revenues were slightly more than $56,000,000, an amount about equal to Provincial and Municipal expenditures on roads the same year.

Debt For Roads.

At the end of 1936, the total Provincial debt for Highway purposes was $402,000,000, distributed as follows: Prince Edward Island $1,000,000; Nova Scotia $30,400,000, New Brunswick, $45,400,000; Quebec, $70,800,000; Ontario $217,000,000; Manitoba $17,700,000; Saskatchewan $33,-900,000; Alberta $35,800,000; British Columbia $40,100,000.

Offsetting this the Provinces collected at least $275,000,000 in motor taxes and diverted it to other services while Dominion Government benefitted by some $800,000,000 in duties and excise charges on automobiles and parts.

At the end of 1936, said Mr. Mahony, Canada had about 100,000 miles of improved roads. Some 12,-000 miles were hard-surfaced and the remainder of gravel or macadam. Another 314,000 miles had had no surface treatment.

Mr. Mahony said the $2,500,000,-000 tourist revenue received since 1912 had helped largely to maintain Canadian solvency under burdens of the war cost and debt, annual railway deficits, two major depressions and repeated crop failures. Maintenance and increase of this revenue depended on good roads, and early completion of the Trans-Canada Highway would be a big factor.

Train Jumps Curve Kills 1, Hurts Five

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Sept. 8 (AP). —Derailment of a Wabash Railroad train, bound for St. Louis from Detroit with 200 passengers, on a curve near here today, left one dead and five injured, one critically. The cause of the crash was undetermined.

David Karicofe, 65, of Detroit, engineer, was killed when the locomotive plunged into a ditch, dragging five cars off the tracks.

Those hurt were Robert E. Miller, 39, of Detroit, fireman; Louis Prough, 40, of Detroit; Ora Jacobson, 33, of Fergus Falls, Minn., a transient; Clayton R. Brosher, 23, of Fort Wayne, mail clerk; and Ralph Hoffman, 34, of Fort Wayne.

Peaches For Particular Folk

Believe it or not, "shaved" peaches may now be bought. William Wade Heritage of Richwood, N.J., is the enterprising peach grower who has answered a common complaint about peaches, by an ingenious device that "shaves" the fuzz from the fruit. Heritage has a series of brushes attached to his sorting machine which strip the peaches of their fuzz, dropping the residue in baskets. In the upper photograph, Harold Heritage, son of the farm owner, feeds the peaches on the belt that carries them through the brushes and into a basket, without fuss. Below, Albert Hidgeway selects the peaches for size after they had gone through the "shaving" machine.

Dominion Coupled In World Plans For Commercial Lanes

Round-The-Globe Flights Of Future Will Take In Canada

OTTAWA, Sept. 8—(CP)—A 10-year dream that Canada may become the hub of a giant intercontinental air transport wheel appears nearer realization this year than ever before.

It probably will not be long before giant flying boats are plying between Southampton and Montreal and tentative plans have been made for an air service between Australia and New Zealand with the intention of linking it eventually to Vancouver.

Trial flights will be made this summer between the Quebec metropolis and the great British naval seaport. Planes will fly by way of Foynes, Irish Free State, and Botwood, Nfld. By next year, it is likely, a commercial service will be moving passengers and mail in record time across the Atlantic.

Operations will be carried out by Imperial Airways in co-operation with Pan-American Airways of the United States whose planes already are spanning the Pacific. Pan-American will operate out of New York, using Montreal or Shediac, N. B., as intermediate air harbors. Safety and comfort will be the keynote when the commercial service starts and speed will be the third consideration.

In winter, if fog and ice render flying the northern route impractical, planes will go via Bermuda and the Azores through an international arrangement. Already, after trials lasting only a few weeks, Imperial Airways and Pan-American are flying commercially between Bermuda and Port Washington, just outside New York.

Between Montreal and Vancouver, the jumping-off point for any future Pacific service in which Canada would have a part, lies the not fully-developed trans-Canada airways. By the end of this summer at the latest the western half of the airline, from Winnipeg to Vancouver, should be in operation. By next summer, it is expected, planes will be flying commercial from Halifax to Vancouver.

For Trans-Pacific

That service completed, the next step is between Vancouver and the Antipodes. Already plans have been placed before governments of the United Kingdom and the dominions for a projected service from Australia to New Zealand and later across the Pacific to the British Columbia city.

Here again an international arrangement will be necessary to permit planes flying under the British flag to land at United States possessions, a concession that does not appear impossible in view of the amicable arrangements already made for the Atlantic air route.

Pan-American Airways have ports of call at Honolulu, capital of the Hawaiian Islands, Midway Island, western outpost of that group; Wake, in mid-Pacific, Guam in the Marianas group, and at Manila, Philippine capital.

British ships might not need more than one resting place on United States territory, Honolulu. From there they could drop sharply south about 1,000 miles to Fanning Island, a British possession, over to the Phoenix group, less than 1,000 miles more, into the Samoan Islands, 700 miles further south, and then one more long jump of about 1,200 to New Zealand.

The hardest over-water leg would be the 2,800 miles between Vancouver and Honolulu, but that could be shortened 300 miles by obtaining use of San Francisco air harbor.

Schoolboys Trek B.C. Hinterlands

EDMONTON, Sept. 8 — (CP). — Thirty-seven bronzed boys from Upper Canada College have left Edmonton for a trip that will take them into the wilds of northern Alberta and British Columbia.

Headed by N. Ignatieff, master of the college, the lads plan travel by pack horse from Wembley, Alta., to Mount Alexandra, to the Fraser River Valley, to Prince George and Summit Lake, then by boat down the Parsnip River to Finlay Forks and Fort St. John.

Accompanying the party are Dr. C. V. Thompson, resident surgeon of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto; Jim Worral, Olympic hurdler, and a master at the college; and Walter McBroom, master of Lower Canada College, Montreal. Two sons of Dr. D. E. Robertson, who was imprisoned in the mine collapse at Moose River, N.S., are in the party.

Equipped with all the needs of the prospector and geologist, the party will make surveys of the territory they pass through and will seek gold and other precious metals where they can find them.

The trip is being undertaken to give the lads training in prospecting and survey work, and not with any intention of making mineral discoveries.

They will carry radio equipment to keep them in touch with the outer world, and also small portable sets which will enable the different field parties to communicate with each other.

Woman Gets Medal For Work On Gas

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 8 (AP). —A gold medal for a woman scientific genius was awarded today by the American Chemical Society to Dr. Emma P. Carr, head of the chemistry department of Mt. Holyoke College.

The award was the Francis P. Garvan gold medal and this the first time it has been given. Dr. Carr got it for seeing what no other scientist had spied, the shapes of two of the molecules in gasoline.

The names of these molecules, the award citation said, are 2-butene and 2-pentene. Since most all the good or bad performance of gasoline is supposed to be connected with the shapes of its molecules, Dr. Carr's studies are of importance to petroleum chemists.

AMERICAN COLONY IN SHANGHAI FEELS U.S. DESERTED THEM

SHANGHAI, Wednesday, Sept. 8 (UP). — American business leaders said to-day that United States prestige in the Orient has reached the lowest point in a century.

President Roosevelt's Block Island statement to the effect that American remain in China at their own risk aroused almost furious resentment among scores of business men, who argued that they have devoted their lives to building up American trade in this country, have their homes here, and always have considered the foreign policy of the late Theodore Roosevelt — that Americans anywhere will be protected—akeystone on which their fortunes rested.

Lashes At Roosevelt.

Indicative of American business feeling was this telegram sent by Mark L. Moody, formerly of Lansing, Mich., who has spent twenty years developing United States trade in China:

"Tell President Franklin D. Roosevelt to get off this yacht, get his feet on the ground and some guts above them, get a foreign policy, adopt a strong front, and keep the flag waving if America wants foreign trade. Shanghai Americans are not quitters."

Moody's telegram was sent the heads of Packard, Chrysler, De Soto, Reo, and other automobile manufacturers for which he is the distributor here.

A full report of the President's Block Island statement did not reach Shanghai until yesterday. It stunned this American community, which has interests here estimated at around $150,000,000.

Heads of American firms feared that their American employees would flee Shanghai, resulting in virtual abandonment of American business to the Japanese and Chinese. It was pointed out that mobs of penniless Chinese would strip American-owned factories, power plants, warehouses and homes the moment American supervisors overseeing Chinese employees leave.

The United States Chamber of Commerce cabled Secretary Hull that it "strongly deprecates any official statement which could be interpreted here as indicating withdrawal or abandonment of American business interests in China. American prestige would be seriously injured thereby."

PLAN GREAT DAM AT CYPRUS LAKE

REGINA, Sept. 8. (CP).—Hope work on Cypress Lake dam would start shortly was expressed today by John Vallance, senior rehabilitation officer, as reports were issued showing 2,290 small water conservation projects have been completed in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta to combat drought conditions.

Mr. Vallance returned yesterday from Cypress Hills area, 200 miles southwest of here, where he made an inspection and discussed labor supply for work on the dam.

An office was opened at Consul where labor registrations are being made. L. V. Hymphrey is in charge. Construction of the project is expected to be about $300,000 and will provide work for 300 men and 500 teams of horses for 100 days.

Bringing 40,000 acres under irrigation, the project will divert water from Battle Creek into Cypress Lake for storage purposes. Cypress Lake is drained by the Frenchmen River on which are irrigation projects, including East End and Val Marie.

N.Z. REORGANIZING AIR, LAND FORCES

WELLINGTON, Sept. 8 (C.P. Reuters). — The New Zealand Government has decided to reorganize and place on a proper footing the Territorial Air Force, which consists of a headquarters and four squadrons.

It is starting this year with a Wellington Squadron of 1 Baffin aircraft, ordered for reconnaissance and patrol work in the Cook Straits area.

A thorough reorganization of New Zealand's Territorial Forces has also been announced. The strength of the force will be 8,000 men, a reduction of 4,000 on the existing establishment.

There will be four mounted rifle regiments, six infantry battalions, 10 field, four medium and two light batteries, three engineer field companies, three signal depots, and three ambulance units.

The coast defence troops at Auckland and Wellington will consist of three infantry battalions, two batteries, and two anti-aircraft groups.

WOMEN SLOWER IN DRIVING TESTS

TORONTO, Sept. 8 — (C.P.), — While wives, sisters and sweethearts stormily denied the statement, actual figures compiled in the safe-driving clinic in the Automotive Building in the C.N.E. bear out the assertion of Prof. H. R. DeSilva, that women are more dangerous drivers than men.

"Women drivers average about seven one-hundredths of a second slower than men in responding to an emergency brake signal," stated Ralph Channell, in charge of the clinic.

"That time represent four or five feet when a car is travelling at normal speed. In emergencies, that would often be the margin of safety," he stated.

In the steering test, women are almost 25 per cent. poorer than men in the average results. This means that women should be unusually careful in driving in heavy traffic, around curves and passing cars travelling at high speeds.

Mr. Channell confirmed the Harvard University expert's statement that women taught to drive in their teens are the equal of male drivers.

"The results," Mr. Channel qualified, "only apply to the average women. Many young women who have learned to drive early score higher than the average man. And almost all women test higher in eyesight examination."

Since the opening of the clinic in the Automotive Building, statistics show five times as many men as women are color blind.

COLEMAN BROS. OPEN SMART NEW DECORATING STORE

Coleman Brothers Enter New Store On Thursday

Business Was Started In Peterborough Thirty-One Years Ago

A business that was founded here thirty-one years ago is on Thursday starting out on another lap of progress, with its removal to new premises on George street.

It is the business of Coleman Brothers, decorators and painters, which was established in 1906 by George R. Coleman, and which now includes in its personnel his two sons, Harold and George Coleman.

Keeping in step with the onward march of progress the members of this firm, long recognized as one of the outstanding in its line in the city, have housed their business in new premises.

The old store, one door south of the new is to be renovated and will be available for rental. It was in that location where for the past thirty-one years since coming here from England, Mr. Coleman had built up his wide connections in the trade and had established for himself an enviable reputation for quality and service.

Erected during the early summer by Thomas Ephgrave as general contractor the new premises are attractive and spacious. The new stock includes a complete line of paints, lacquers, varnishes, and enamels; artist supplies; and floor waxes, electric lamps, and other household needs and appliances. Coleman Brothers have the local agency for Benjamin Moore paints, etc., and Moore's muresco.

A spacious apartment, modern in every respect, is on the upper floor at the new premises, and is available for occupancy.

The contract for the plastering was handled by J. A. Wolstenholm, and plumbing and heating by Regan and Shaughnessy. For the opening of the premises flowers are being supplied by Turnbull's Flower Shop.

During their lengthy period of business here Coleman Brothers have handled several large interior and exterior painting contracts. Among some of the more recent are included, George Street United Church, and Queen Alexandra School.

Liberal Candidate

Lionel Conacher (ABOVE), the "Big Train" of sport, announced he would take part in no more sports as a competitor following his being nominated as Liberal candidate for Bracondale riding in the forthcoming Ontario provincial election. Conacher was given an acclamation. In accepting the nomination he announced he had been assured by Premier Hepburn that a program for youth would receive consideration.

MOST ACCIDENTS LAID TO SPEEDING ON STRAIGHT RUNS

ST. ANDREW'S, N.B., Sept. 8.—(CP).—Meeting here for the second day in annual convention, the Canadian Good Roads Association planned a half-day business session. This afternoon the delegates will sail across Passamaquoedy Bay to Campobello Island, where President Franklin D. Roosevelt has a summer home.

Highway safety was sounded yesterday as the keynote for the convention. "We should give this matter very, very serious consideration," said the president, Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Nova Scotia Minister of Highways. Most accidents were due to high speed on straight stretches of road, he said.

Hon. A. A. Eysart, New Brunswick Premier and Minister of Public Works, said the tragedy of highway fatalities was a challenge to the C.G.A.

Enforcement of speed laws and other road rules might reasonably be considered a matter for engineering jurisdiction, stated another speaker, E. C. Lawton, assistant commissioner in the highways division of the New York State Department of Public Works. Law violators would have their licenses suspended or revoked and in ... be prohibited from menacing lives on the road.

INDIAN BAND PAYS ALDERVILLE VISIT

(Examiner Correspondence)

ALDERVILLE, Sept. 8. — On Saturday and Sunday Alderville was visited by the Six Nations Band, the famous Haldimand County Regimental Band which won the title and trophy for being the best Indian Band in the Dominion of Canada; also for having gone overseas in the World War. With the band was their comedian and entertainer, Chief Red Jacket. The bandmaster is Percy Caquga, and the leader is Norman Staff.

On Saturday night the band presented a concert in the Alderville hall, numbers played were marches, waltzes, and overtures. On Sunday afternoon at Vimy Ridge Park, Rice Lake, the band held a sacred concert, and during the divine service held in the park led in the musical numbers. There are nineteen members in the band, which was originally organized sixty-five years ago.

On October 10 and 11 the centenary of Alderville Reserve will be celebrated in a fitting manner. All details of the celebration are not completed as yet, but on Sunday divine services will be held and on Monday following an entertainment or supper will be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McKeel and daughter, formerly of Campbellford, and now of Maywood, California, visited Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marsden recently. Mr. McKeel is a son of Alfred McKeel, Campbellford, who erected the war memorial at Alderville some years ago.

MOTION VOTED DOWN

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 8 (C.P.). — Attempt of two aldermen in City Council here last night to suspend the by-law governing the rental of the Market Building so all political parties could have free use of the building during the provincial election campaign was frustrated. When the suspension resolution was voted down 8 to 2 only Alderman Clarence Seibert and Alderman John Walter, sponsors of the motion, voted for it.

NEWSPAPERMAN FINED OVER STORY

STOCKPORT, Cheshire, Sept. 8.—(CP).—Ernest D. G. Lewis, newspaperman, has been convicted under a section of the official secrets act of withholding information in his possession and fined £5.

The charge was laid after the Daily Dispatch published a story by Lewis giving information contained in a confidential police circular about a man sought on a fraud charge.

Questoned by police, Lewis declined to explain how he obtained his information and was charged under section VI of the Official Secrets Act.

J. C. Jolly, counsel for the newspaperman, said if the Act gave the police the right of interrogation in such a case it was "reminiscent of the old procedure of the 'Star Chamber.'" He contended it involved "the most serious questions relating to the principle of the liberty of the subject which one is accustomed and brought up to regard as a corner stone of the constitution."

The magistrates who heard the case held the document in question was a confidential document and that there was "reasonable grounds for suspecting" it was confidential.

BRITAIN DEMANDS TOKYO SPEED UP ITS EXPLANATION

LONDON, Sept. 8. — (AP). — Great Britain's dissatisfaction with a "Japanese "interim" reply to her portest against the airplane attack on the British Ambassador to China resulted to-day in intimations to Japan that a final reply "should not be long delayed."

It was no secret an unfavorable impression was created here by Japan's non-committal note, side-stepping the British charge that a Japaneses plane machine-gunned Sir H. Knatchbull-Hugessen while he was motoring from Nanking toward Shankhai.

The Cabine will review the issue to-morrow.

The text of the Japanese Foreign Minister's "interim" reply (300):

The Japanese government, on receiving news of the event in question, took a grave view of the incident and hastened to convey expressions of profound sympathy to his Britannic Majesty's Government and to Sir Hughe through myself and the Ambassadors to the Court of St. James, ispectively, and, at the same time, they sent urgent instructions to authorities on the spot to investigate the case thoroughly.

Although the results of these investigations have so far failed to produce any evidence to establish the shooting was done by a Japanese airplane, the Japanese Government is taking measures for further investigations by authorities on the spot in order to spare no efforts to ascertain the facts in the case.

Still Probing.

In these circumstances, it is still impossible to determine whether or not responsibility for the incident rests with Japan. Nevertheless, in view of the traditional ties of friendship which binds Japan and Great Britain, the Japanese Government expresses their profound regret that Sir Hume should have met with such a misfortune incidental to hostilities that actually were in progress in the region of Taitsang that particular day. In this connection, I wish to assure your excellency that Japan forces always take the fullest precautions against causing injuries to non-combatants and it certainly was very far from the desire of the Japanese Government that such an unfortunate event should ever occur in the future through any fault of their own.

Fresh instructions consequently have been sent to thei authorities on the spot to exercise the strictest caution in this regard.

With the view of forestalling a recurrence of a similar event it is held advisable to take such necessary measures as giving notice in advance to Japanese authorities on the spot when entering a zone of danger.

SELWYN

PLANS ARE LAID FOR FOWL SUPPER

(Examiner Correspondence)

SELWYN, Sept. 8.—On Thursday afternoon, September 2, the monthly meeting of the Women's Association of the Selwyn United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Edward Preston. Owing to the severe heat, there was a very small attendance present. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. H. McIlmoyl, and the topic from the "Living Message" by Miss Emma Elliott.

Mrs. E. Preston read a beautiful poem, entitled "Others."

The main business of the meeting was the planning of the fowl supper which will be held on October 5th. The various committees were appointed to attend to the great amount of work connected with this annual affair.

The treasurer was also appointed to order a supply of Christmas greeting cards, to be sold by the members the same as in past years. Bundles of quilt patches are also to be ordered to begin the work of patching quilts throughout the winter months.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Norman Stockdale on Thursday, October 14th. This date is one week later in the month than the W.A. is accustomed to, but they have chosen this date owing to the fowl supper the week before.

Fair Dates Changed For Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8. — Dates for the Campbellford Fall Fair were changed to September 29 and 30 at a meeting of the Seymour Agricutural Society held on Friday afternoon last. This change was decided on after it was found that nominations were to be held on the date originally set for the Fair.

The Coronation Year Rosette Ribbon supplied by the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies will be awarded to the best foal exhibited in the Foal Club at the Fair, on motion of S. L. O'Hara and J. Watters.

J. J. Hay addressed the board regarding the insurance, and on motion of Messrs. Milne and Abernethy the policy was accepted at a premium of $26.00.

Correspondence regarding entertainment for the Fair was laid on the table.

Girl Is Stunned By Electric Bolt

(Examiner Correspondence)

APSLEY, Sept. 8.—On Friday afternoon during the electric storm which passed over this section Wellington Lean had a valuable cow killed in the field. At the same time lightning hit the chimney on Bert Trotter's house, shattering the chimney, stunning his daughter Ruby and hurting a cow in a nearby field.

"SLEEPING BEAUTY" SICK

OAK PARK, Ill., Sept. 8 (AP)—Grave complications today imperilled Patricia Maguire, the "sleeping beauty" who has lain in a coma for 5½ years.

"She is a very sick girl," reported her sister, Mrs. Gladys Hansen. New causes of concern were an abdominal tumor and phlebitis—an inflammation of the veins that has resulted in a painful swelling just below the kneecap of the patient's left leg. Mrs. Hansen disclosed her 31-year-old sister had been "quite sick" since last Friday.

not be approved without changes. Abolition of the section providing a three-hour limit was directed, the regulation being termed "unduly restrictive". The prohibition of left turns during restricted periods would be confusing to those using the intersection only at infrequent intervals, the letter said. The Department also directed that the section prohibiting parking closer than 8 feet to a hydrant be changed to read 10 feet and that other sections be deleted on the ground they are adequately covered by existing regulations in the Traffic Act.

The communication was referred to the Legal Committee for attention.

Charles Holland.

Dog Catcher Charles Holland was given a hearing before the Council. He complained that statements appearing in the Toronto press, said to be those of a Council member and alleging he lured dogs to capture with bones and bits of meat were untrue. He declared that if anyone had any proof of such a charge, the proof ought to be demonstrated.

"If I am guilty, I deserve a term in jail," he said. "I am ready to take my medicine if anyone can prove it. I stand pleading not guilty to those present."

The matter was referred to committee.

The Council passed with little discussion a by-law forbidding the posting of placards or posters on Peterborough trees or poles. Alderman Dutton approved the by-law but suggested that a need for regular bulletin boards about the city would exist.

On the motion of Alderman Glover, seconded by Alderman Hamilton, it was directed that a message of the Council's sympathy be sent the family of the late Daniel Holland in view of the former alderman's recent passing.

Sanitary Inspector.

Receiving the resignation of Charles Stapleton from the position of sanitary inspector, the Council directed that the Property and Health committee be instructed to advertise for applications for the office.

"You are not referring it to the Board of Health?" asked Alderman Stocker.

"It is strictly a Council affair," Mayor Macdonald said.

"The Board of Health is most closely concerned," Mr. Stocker replied.

"Mr. Stocker is on the Property and Health committee, is he not?" asked Alderman McIntyre.

"Yes," replied the Mayor.

"I'm satisfied," Mr. Stocker said.

On the motion of Alderman Hamilton, the City Engineer was instructed to plow up top soil at the quarry in order that it may be used next Spring in finishing off the Crescent street embankment.

of forest products within the province.

Mr. Rowe said he would seek a newly organized civil service commission under which qualifications for employment in the public service "will be merit and ability rather than political allegiance."

In his rejection of the premier's proposal for a new liquor board to be headed by a supreme court judge assisted by an elected Liberal and Conservative member, Mr. Rowe said: "I know where there is a gallonage charge being levied. I hope Mr. Hepburn tells you tomorrow that his campaign is not being financed by the galonage tax and I tell hotel keepers not to pay as we will find out who is getting it."

When the Liberals took over the government reins, liquor was controlled by a former judge and two high class commissioners, said the Conservative leader. However, Mr. Hepburn "kicked them out and put into office a politician, who has been closely connected with liquor interests all his life, as a one-man control."

Now the premier "asks me or intimates I might join with him in a coalition beer policy to clean up the mess his own recklessness has created."

Mr. Rowe who speaks at Peterborough today opposes Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education in the Simcoe Centre voting. He left his Dufferin-Simcoe constituency, which he represented in the House of Commons, to test his strength in the stronghold of Dr. Simpson.

OBITUARY

MRS. R. H. GARDNER

NORWOOD, Sept. 8.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Russel Gardner, which was largely attended was held on Saturday from the family residence on Peterborough street.

Mrs. Gardner's death came as a great shock to the community as she had been in usual health until only a few days prior to her passing. Since coming to Norwood three years ago, by her kindly and genial disposition, she had gained for herself many friends.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Barton of Bowmanville, who before her marriage was in the teaching profession, holding positions at Waaler and Bowmanville.

The funeral services was conducted by Rev. A. S. Cleland, pastor of the United Church of which the deceased was a member. She also was a willing worker in the Evening Auxiliary.

Those left to mourn her loss are her sorrowing husband and ten months old daughter, Gloria Elizabeth, also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barton, one sister Olive and one brother Joseph of Bowmanville.

The many beautiful floral tributes were silent expressions of sympathy which showed the high esteem in which Mrs. Gardner was held. The pall-bearers were Messrs Bert Sexsmith, Oliver Sexsmith, Tom Sexsmith, John M. Connell, T. A. Barton and Hamilton Humphries. Interment was made in Norwood Cemetery.

Mr. Hepburn said he had been held responsible for all the unpaid bills of the Henry government that had preceded his government. Shortly before the Henry government went out of office it sold about $64,600,000 in bonds below par at an interest rate of about 5½ per cent., he said.

The bonds were purchased by a few Toronto firms which held them a few weeks, then sold them at a profit. The financiers had dictated terms to the government and the same financiers had tried to dictate to the Liberal government but without success, he said.

MUSKOGEE, Okla.—"I've never done this before," said 77-year-old Charley Smith as he took out a license to marry Mrs. Alice Brown, 75. "And I'll never do it again," said the bride—"it's too much trouble, all this running around."

Turtle Found In Soft Drink Cooler

BELLEVILLE, Ont.—When Jack Doyle reached into the interior of a soft drink cooler he found a mud turtle, frozen solidly in the centre of a block of ice. The reptile was thawed out, and seems little the worse for its experience.

Dr. Peter Shih Once Condemned To Death By Reds In China

Chinese Christian Minister Addresses Audience In George Street Church

His address spiced with humor, and well sprinkled, in true Oriental fashion with proverbs and sayings of the Great, Dr. Peter Shih of Nanking, China, spoke to an attentive audience in George Street United Church on Tuesday evening.

Dr. Shih, a Christian minister and principal of the Theological Seminary at Nanking, is the son and nephew of Christian ministers, his father, a great scholar, and his uncle now completing a century of service between them. It is interesting to note that this ardent Christian, who is at present taking post graduate studies at Columbia University, completing a three-year visit to America, is the descendant of one of the seventy-two favorite stewards of Confuscius, and the owner of manuscripts written in 500 B.C. and bearing the seal and signature of Confuscius.

Quoting often the farewell words of his father over two years ago, when he asked his son to remember that "seeing the best and doing the second best is the beginning of spiritual decay," Dr. Shih showed how his own family and other earnest Chinese Christians tried to live up to the example set them, even though it might mean absolute self-sacrifice. As a young student, the speaker had not felt a call to the ministry, though it was the desire of his family, he being the only surviving male descendant of three Christian families. But in 1927 an experience befell him which made up his mind. He had graduated from the Theological Seminary and was still at college, when the Communists came and all fled before them, but Dr. Shih stayed with three ill comrades, and was consequently found by the Reds. Given a chance to deny his faith and refusing, he was locked in a room to be put to death in the morning. Oriental superstition keeping his captors from killing him at night. He spent the night in meditation and writing letters to his father and others, finally falling asleep to wake late in the morning and find the Reds gone, having forgotten him. He was ordained the same year. For three years Dr. Shih was a minister in Hankow, going in 1930 to Nanking.

New Movement.

Dr. Shih told of the new Christian spiritual movement in China to endeavor to strengthen the faith and bring all together in unity. (Apropos of which the speaker made some candid remarks about the number of Christian denominations—over 700—he has found in America). Even in China there are 140 denominations among 400,000 Christians. The new movement is endeavoring to unite all, following the maxim, "We agree to differ, but resolve to love and unite to serve.' Another quotation of Dr. Shih's at this point is worthy of mention: "In essentials unity, in non-essentials liberty, but in all things charity." Every member of the new movement must do four things. First, he must engage in daily meditation—Dr. Shih deplored the lack of quiet meditation in prayer he has found in America, and digressed a little to wonder at the inclination of our people to go to bed late and get up late.

Share Experiences.

The second rule of the new movement is that every member must share his experiences with others at least once a week, every day happenings as well as spiritual experiences, and the third provides that he must go to church regularly and take at least one other person with him. The fourth rule makes him promise to bring one non-Christian person a year to Christ. The speaker told of the hardships awaiting the Christian in China these days and ended his address with the prayer of John Wesley, "Lord, give me new vision and new power and a strong will to stand alone for Thee."

It had been intended that Dr. Shih's address should be heard in the Sunday School auditorium, but the unexpectedly large audience made it necessary to move upstairs to the church. The short previous service was conducted by Adjutant Warrander, president of the Ministerial Association, who introduced the speaker; the Rev. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's, and the Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor of George Street United. A duet was sung by the Misses Mills.

Toro, in a statement, said he had resigned to give the army a free hand in rendering an expression of confidence in his regime or choosing another leader. Busch is but 33 years old and is a veteran hero of the Chaco war with Paraguay.

JANITOR IS NAMED FOR CITY SCHOOL

To fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of R. W. Wilson as janitor at Prince of Wales School, the Board of Education last night adopted the recommendation of the property committee and confirmed the appointment of P. E. Telford, formerly assistant janitor. The Board further endorsed the appointment of A. H. Mander as assistant janitor at a salary of $76 per month.

Also on recommendation of the committee the Board instructed the secretary to send a letter of appreciation to C. A. Salmonsen, manager of the Canadian General Electric Company for the valuable service rendered in connection with the installation of the wiring at Queen Mary and King Edward Schools, and also for the valuable services rendered by R. S. Cotton who assisted in inspection of the work on completion.

On motion of D. G. H. Melton, a vote of appreciation was tendered to Harold G. Walker, chairman of the property committee and to Fred L. Finnie, maintenance manager for their work in connection with the upkeep and renovation of school property.

Mr. Melton commented he had recently had an opportunity of visiting the various schools just prior to reopening and had been greatly impressed by the excellent work which the property committee was doing. The motion was seconded by Dr. A. Moir and carried unanimously.

Adopting the recommendation of the supervision committee the Board awarded the tender for the text books and supplies and for Collegiate and Vocational supplies for the school year to Trebilcock Brothers, theirs having been the lowest tender submitted. The report was submitted by Dr. Moir as chairman of the committee.

990 ENROLLED AT THE COLLEGIATE PRINCIPAL SAYS

Declaring he was looking to a successful year, Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, reported to the Board of Education Tuesday night that the enrollment on the first day of the new term was 960 pupils, a decrease of 30 as compared with the corresponding period of the year previous, while on Tuesday the enrollment had increased to 990.

In the school "Announcement" for the year 1937-38, Dr. Kenner comments on the revised course of studies, and states: "The school year 1937-38 will mark an important milestone in educational progress in Ontario. Not since the days of Egerton Ryerson have so many outstanding developments been made as are taking place at the present time. Never before have educationists interested themselves so extensively in the investigation of the school system. Never before has there been such a testing of values, and at no time in the past has there been such a concerted interest on the part of all classes of persons in the promotion of the cause of education".

"The education of the past has been tested and found wanting. New conditions demand new methods. What was adequate for yesterday is not sufficient for today. The educational system in this province, it is generally agreed, has gone sufficiently far in the process of standardization. The present trend is away from moulding all pupils in the same groove and is directed towards greater diversity and increased attention to individual interests and potentialities.

"It is recognized that culture and utility must walk hand-in-hand in any well-balanced form of education. Generally speaking an attempt is being made to retain the best of the past and on that foundation to build wisely to meet the needs of the future. It is an evolution that is taking place in education, not a revolution.

"Now the curriculum is to be made to fit the child. The new course of studies is based on the assumption that children have different aptitudes, and that it is the business of the teacher to discover the direction in which a child should go".

The revised course of studies is to go into effect gradually, one year at a time. This year all first form pupils, henceforth to be known as Grade IX pupils, whether they desire to take an academic, commercial, industrial arts or household arts course will study the same subjects.

In the second year, the principle of voluntary selection is to be introduced, and it is proposed that four courses shall be open to the high school student, namely general, commercial, industrial arts and household arts.

SOLEMN SERVICES MARKED NEW YEAR

At sundown Tuesday Peterborough's Jewish community of 125 men, women and children completed celebration of the advent of the Jewish New Year 5696. Solemn religious services had been in almost continuous progress at the Synagogue since sundown Sunday evening.

Services were conducted by Rabbi Katz of Toronto, here specially for the occasion. He was assisted by Rabbi Fine of this city. The first service commenced at sundown Sunday and continued until 8.30 o'clock. On Monday services began at 9 a.m. and continued to 8 p.m., with a two-hour recess from 2 to 4 o'clock. Similar services were held Tuesday.

Significant was a special prayer offered for King George VI and for the welfare of the British Empire during the rites. It was the first occurrence of the Jewish New Year since the Coronation. In the symbolical blowing of the ram's horn during the services, Rabbi Katz was assisted by P. Black of this city.

A number of the Jewish places of business in Peterborough were closed Tuesday.

FISH HATCHERY IS PROMISED NORTH

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY, Sept. 8.—As a result of an accident on the highway south of Lindsay on Friday night when a truck crashed into threshing outfit, Cecil Downey, of Reaboro, the owner of the truck faced a charge of reckless driving in police court on Monday. He was fined $15 and costs.

Hon. Harry Nixon, Minister of Game and Fisheries, met a large deputation in the village of Haliburton on Saturday evening, and assured his hearers that if the Government was returned to power a fish hatchery would be established in the north.

Ellis, the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norton Dawson, of Eagle Lake, was badly burned about the feet and legs the other day when he unconsciously walked into the embers of a chip fire. The lad was removed to the Haliburton Hospital.

Harry Ward, an employe of Bailey's sawmill at Eagle Lake was seriously injured on Saturday. He was struck on the arm by a heavy chain, breaking the member, and also received cuts and bruises about the head. He was rushed to the Red Cross Outpost Hospital at Haliburton.

No new cases of infantile paralysis have developed in Lindsay during the past four days. One case was reported at Little Britain on Monday.

"JOYS OF GRANDMOTHER."

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8.—"The Joys of Being a Grandmother" will be the roll-call on Grandmothers Day at the Seymour West Women's Institute meeting on September 16. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. O. O. Stephens at 2 p.m. and points are to be given each of the members bringing a thrift exhibit for the Fall Fair.

Spanish Government Ship Victim Of Submarine

The Spanish government ship, S. S. Armuru, carrying food for the government forces, is pictured after being beached on Tendos Island, near the Dardanelles, in a sinking condition. The ship was torpedoed by a mysterious submarine, in the Mediterranean. British and French warships are at present scanning the waters of the Mediterranean, in quest of these "pirate" submarines, which have attacked more than 20 ships in the last few weeks. According to reports reaching London the determination of General Francisco Franco, leader of the rebel forces in Spain to cut off all oil supplies from the loyalists, is allegedly the cause beneath all these mysterious submarine attacks. Incensed over two attacks on Russian merchant ships the Soviet government has sent a curt note to Italy formally charging Italian submarines with the attack on the two Soviet ships.

City Will Submit Brief To Royal Commission

Hope To Obtain Some Share Of Gasoline Tax Paid By Peterborough Car Owners

In the hope of obtaining some share of the Ontario gasoline tax paid by Peterborough motorists, truckers and bus operators to put toward the maintenance of Peterborough "connecting link" streets, the City Council agreed to prepare a brief for submission to the Provincial Royal Commission during its expected sitting here during October, at its meeting Monday night. Moving through the Province, the Commission is to inquire into all phases of the regulation of highway traffic and the allocations of revenues derived from users of the highway system.

Request for preparation of the brief was made to the Council by D. E. Bell, C.N.R. agent here, who addressed the meeting as representative of 115 C.N.R. and C.P.R. employees in this city. A written brief submitted to the aldermen by Mr. Bell read in part:

Brief Presented.

"This deputation, representing the railway employees of Canadian National-Canadian Pacific is waiting upon you tonight to enlist your support in presenting data and statistics to the Royal Commission on transport problems recently appointed by the Provincial Government.

"As railway employees and as citizens of this community, we are vitally interested not only in the regulation of highway traffic but also in the allocation of the revenue derived from the users of our highway system.

"We realize that for many years the municipal councils of separate towns and cities have endeavored, without success, to secure assistance from the Ontario Provincial governments towards the cost of the construction and maintenance of those sections of municipal streets forming the connecting links in the Provincial highway system. Such municipalities have been required to levy heavy taxation on the ratepayers to finance the construction and maintenance of these connecting links.

"When these streets were laid they were never intended to be used as an avenue for large and exceedingly heavy commercial vehicles. The Ontario Government has seen fit to enfranchise such vehicles. From these vehicles they derive a certain revenue in license fees and gasoline tax. The revenue so derived has not been used to compensate, even in part, the municipalities for the use of, and the damage to, their municipal streets."

The brief presented by Mr. Bell continued, asserting that a severe injustice exists in a situation which requires railways to build and maintain their own rights-of-way and provide year-round services consistent with the needs of the public while at the same time they and their employees are required to contribute large sums in taxes to municipalities, considerable portions of which are used to build and maintain the right-of-way of a competing agency of transportation. The Royal Commission, in its recommendations, will point the way to the correction of abuses in the transportation system and require each agency to bear its whole cost of transportation, the brief said.

Connecting Links.

The Council was asked to prepare its brief with particular regard for data concerning the relative costs of building and maintaining connecting link streets and streets other than connecting links, the numbers of vehicles locally registered and their gasoline consumption.

Aldermen Cotton and Stocker sponsored a motion that the request for a brief for submission to the Commission when it sits here be prepared.

"We have three streets which are connecting links—Charlotte, George and Water," Mayor Macdonald commented.

Alderman Dutton said he favored the preparation of a brief on the chance that it might gain the city a share of the gasoline tax, but that he had little hope for such a result. With the recently-announced reduction in license fees, the Government will not likely be able to afford a split of its gasoline tax revenues, Mr. Dutton said.

Mayor Macdonald said the brief would be prepared by City Solicitor J. R. Corkery and returned to the Council for approval before submission to the Commission.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE REMBLE

For Thursday, September 9

PECULIAR PLANETARY vibrations, involving factors of the occult, mysterious, subtle and intriguing, as well as disruptive, are dominant in the affairs of this day. Great caution, vigilance and wisdom are necessary in order to circumvent situations that might prove devastating and curiously detrimental to future plans and wishes.

If This is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which sudden and quite unforseen situations may prove a detrimental and devastating force unless met with vigilance and sagacity. Strange and subtle influences seem to menace not only business but secret affairs, and an element of strife, jealousy and intrigue may affect the intimate or sentimental relations.

A child born on this day may have a restless, unsettled, erratic and unfathomable nature, which might be due to inventive or artistic genius, romantic urges, or psychic idiosyncrasies which, properly developed and directed, might be expressed in unusual adventures or novel trends in art, music or literature.

The Rambling REPORTERS

NO SYMPATHY EXPRESSED

Apparently no strong sympathy for Nazi Germany is to be found among members of the Peterborough City Council. A resolution from Kitchener citizens of German descent asking that Canadians show greater respect for Germans and the German nation received summary treatment at the hands of the City Council Tuesday night.

Teachers Will Not Be Required To Record Time Of Arrival At School

No longer will the public school teachers of the city be required to record the time of their arrival at school in a book that was kept for that purpose.

The rule that required them to do so was rescinded by the Board of Education Monday night on the suggestion of K. S. Wightman, public school inspector.

Inspector Wightman who believed it would be a better plan for teachers to be responsible to their respective principals in regard to punctuality, declared that under the old system of recording the time of their arrival, the practice had been carried out by the majority of the teachers, but supernumerary teachers had not been required to register.

He thought it should be a case of all or none.

Agreeing with the inspector, members of the Board were of opinion the teachers could be relied on for punctuality, without any further necessity of insisting on any record being kept.

MORRIS ACKERMAN PRAISES HIGHLY TOURIST CAMP

Peterborough's tourist camp in its new location at Riverside Park won the full commendation of Morris Ackerman, widely-known outdoor editor of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain, on a visit to the city this morning. Mr. Ackerman declared the camp to be one of the finest he has seen.

Accompanied on an inspection visit to the camp by city officials, Mr. Ackerman suggested that tourists would readily pay a nominal fee for the privilege of using the camp if the city should desire to make the camp self-supporting in future summers. Up to the present, no fees have been levied on visitors for the services extended them by the city.

Other suggestions made by the veteran outdoor writer were that the site be laid out in the design of streets in order that available space could be used more economically, and that Hydro wires be strung with frequent outlets for convenience of campers. Mr. Ackerman said he was impressed with the tidiness of the camp and with its waterside location so close to the centre of the city.

OBITUARY

MRS. RUSSELL H. GARDNER.

The death occurred on Wednesday, Sept. 1st, at Mrs. Cummings' Nursing Home, Havelock, of Dorothy Helen Barton, beloved wife of Russell H. Gardner of Norwood, at the age of 29 years, following a short illness.

Deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Barton of Bowmanville, Ont. The first part of her life was spent near Consecon, where she attended Public school, and then moving to Bowmanville, where she completed her Public and High school education. In 1929 she graduated from Peterborough Normal school, after which she taught for two years near Wooler. In 1931 she accepted a position on the Bowmanville Public school staff, which she maintained until her marriage to Russell H. Gardner in September, 1934.

She was a member of St. Paul's United Church, Bowmanville and vice-president of the Young People's Society. Later she became a member of the United church, Norwood and of the Young Women's Evening Auxiliary.

Besides her sorrowing husband she is survived by one daughter, Gloria, nine months old, parents, one sister and one brother.

The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. from the late residence, Peterborough street. Services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. S. Cleland. During the service, Mrs. Stewart James, her teaching partner in Bowmanville Public school, sang "God Will Take Care of You."

Floral tributes included a "pillow" from husband and little daughter; "wreath" from father, mother, sister and brother; "wreath" from Mrs. Robert Gardner; "cross" from Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. John Miles; "sprays" from Mr. and Mrs. S. R. James, the Brown family, Mrs. Wilking, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brown, all of Bowmanville; uncles and aunts of Port Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Sexsmith, Miss Mary Bebee, and the Misses Jessie and May Hawthorne, all of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Barton and Mrs. Doupe. Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Keefer, Miss Berdun Jones, Mr. W. A. and Dr. R. B. Richardson, Young Women's Evening Auxiliary of St. Paul's United Church, Bowmanville and Young Women's Evening Auxiliary, United Church, Norwood.

Pall-bearers were six cousins, Oliver, Tom, and Bert Sexsmith, T. A. Barton, John McConnell and Hamilton Humphries. Honorary flower bearers were Sydney Ward, Armar Weir, Joseph Humphries, Percy Gardner, Wm. Parker and Frank Brown.

Friends were present from Galt, Bowmanville, Newtonville, Port Hope, Trenton, Stirling, Smithfield, Brecklin, Peterborough, Havelock and Hastings.

Interment was made in Norwood cemetery.

19 FIRE ALARMS

Only 19 alarms were received by the Fire Department during the month of August, Fire Chief George Gimblett reported to the City Council last night. The total fire loss for the month was $67.70. Fire apparatus travelled a total of 42.7 miles. One call for the inhalator was answered.

REQUEST IS GRANTED

On the recommendation of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, the City Council Tuesday night approved a request of John Matthews, a member of the Fire Department, that he be permitted to live in his house outside the city while a member of the department.

BUILD ADDITIONAL BASIN

Construction of an additional catch basin on the east side of Downie street between Brock and Murray to facilitate removal of surface waters will be carried out by the Board of Work. To halt a flow of surface waters over the roadway, a concrete pipe is to be laid on Rogers street opposite Dufferin street and the gutter on the north side of Dufferin street deepened. The two jobs will cost about $65.

OPEN FALL MEETINGS.

On Thursday night the Kinsmen start a new term with an open "stag" meeting at Park Hotel, Burleigh Falls. Dr. M. Crough is in charge of arrangements, and announces he expects Dr. A. R. Richards, vice-president of the National Association of Kinsmen Clubs, here from Cobourg, together with a number of visiting Kin from the lakeshore town.

MONIES RECEIVED.

Monies received by the Board of Education during the past month totalled $19,763.46. The amount was itemized in a report to the Board as follows: First Church of Christ Scientist (use of auditorium), $10; Nicholls Hospital (use of auditorium), $10; city treasurer, municipal grant, $19,660; provincial treasurer, refund of amusement tax, $93.46.

APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED.

Appointment of Mrs. Catherine Jamieson, temporarily, for the term ending December 31, 1937 at the initial salary for teachers holding first class certificates, less a reduction of 10 per cent. owing to the fact that Miss McKinley declined an appointment to the public school staff, was confirmed at a meeting of the Board of Education last night. The Board approved of the appointment in adopting the recommendation of the committee on appointments and also granted the request of Miss Edith Murphy of the Collegiate staff for a year's leave of absence on account of ill health, appointing Miss Shirley L. Muir to substitute in her absence to the term ending June 30 next at a fixed salary of $2,500.

Schools Closed In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8.—The first case of infantile paralysis was reported here today, a young lawyer being the victim. The patient has not been in good health for some few days but his case was not diagnosed until today. Orders went out from the M.O.H. immediately to close the schools indefinitely.

KIWANIANS PLAN TO HOLD CARNIVAL IN THE ARMOURIES

"Produced in Peterborough" is the theme of the Carnival to be held under Kiwanis Club auspices in the Armouries on Thursday and Friday of next week.

The effort which is designed to raise funds for the carrying on of Jackson Park Health Camp throughout next summer, and for use in connection with other Kiwanis service activities among under-privileged children, will again meet with generous public support that has been accorded it in the past, President Al Sharpe confidently predicts.

As chairman of the general carnival committee A. B. Gates announces the show is to be different than any of the previous events of its nature sponsored by Kiwanis. The main difference will lie in the fact that the majority of the exhibits will be in actual operation and will present in a graphic manner several features connected with the city's manufacturing and industrial life.

Working exhibits, complete with operators, are being installed by Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough Canoe Company, Western Clock Company, Campbells Dairy and DeLaval Company, and others.

Kiwanian Leslie Unitt, organist and choirmaster of a local church will present for the first time to a Peterborough audience one of the new electric organs, which is being brought here direct from the Canadian National Exhibition through arrangements made with the Heintzman Company.

Harold R. Scott, another active member of the club and a past president is putting in an exhibit. Connected with the lumber trade here he will put in an operator who is planning to construct a log cabin child's playhouse during the Fair. The playhouse when completed before the eyes of the patrons of the effort, will be raffled off and will go to some fortunate boy or girl.

Peterborough Lumber Company are also planning a working exhibit, while Peterborough Business College are to feature a display of business machines.

On the last night of the 2-day Carnival the drawing for the motor car, for which tickets are now being sold, will be made probably by Mayor George A. Macdonald, and the popularity contest for young women in the city will be decided.

Fun aplenty is promised and instructive entertainment too.

YOUTH SUFFERS FRACTURE OF LEG

Lawrence Beresford, 429 Bethune street sustained a compound fracture of the right leg when struck by a bicycle while at play near his home on Monday evening, but it was not until last night that police learned the identity of the cyclist. Reporting the matter at the station Arthur Murphy, 356 London street claimed he was riding his bicycle on Bethune street when the lad darted from behind a parked car. The cyclist offered assistance to the injured lad carrying him into his home nearby. He was attended by Dr. Robert Young and was ordered removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

In another street accident involving a collision between two autos at the intersection of Princess and Aylmer streets Tuesday afternoon, Leslie Casey, 577 Bolivar street sustained cuts about the right side of his head. Windy City Team Downs Cardinals To Gain On Leading Giants

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Cubs are going to give the Giants a little party soon and, if neighbors do their bit, the city slickers from Gotham will go home in a barrel.

Counting heavily on the aid and abettance of the Cards, Pirates and even the lowly Reds, Charlie Grimm's men see the three-game series with the New Yorkers, starting on September 21 as they entree into the World Series. It is their last chance. The gaudy lead of midsummer has faded to a 2½ game deficit, the once matchless infield is stumbling.

The schedule shows nine more games for the Cubs with the Cards, and, as they proved yesterday, the Mississippi Mudcats are the Chicagoans' cousins. That may help. But Boston and Pittsburgh are tough for the Cubs, and there's the inevitable series with the Giants. As they start a whole string of "crooc ial" series the Giants have a neat but not gaudy edge.

Gets His 13th Victory.

Cubs showed signs of coming from the slump yesterday when Bill Lee staggered through to his 13th victory of the season, defeating the Cardinals 8-5. Phil Cavaretta pumped in four runs with a brace of doubles and a single.

In the only other National League game, the Brooklyn Dodgers trimmed the Boston Bees 6-1 in the rubber game of a three-game series. Cookie Lavagetto's homer was a big factor in the Dodger attack.

The once-proud Red Sox bowed twice to the Washington Senators 11-5 and 5-4 in the only American League games.

BELLEVILLE MEN WIN TWO EVENTS

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 8. — Thirty-two teams competed in the annual Scotch doubles of the Belleville lawn bowlers, winning two of the three events of the day. The primary play, the major event of the day, was won by the local team of R. J. Wray and Harry Stock.

Teams were in competition from Madoc, Tweed, Hamilton, Warkworth, Brighton, Stirling, Kingston, Campbellford, Deseronto, and Belleville. Play commenced early on the holiday and did not terminate until early on Tuesday, so keen was the competition throughout. Aside from the Wray-Stock team winning the Primary event, the Belleville team of Mitchell and Houston was triumphant in the Hard Luck series, defeating their clubmates, Harden and Edwards 16 to 11 in the finals, while the Warkworth team of Phillips and Allen was victorious in the consolation round.

In the primary class third round Wray and Stock (Belleville) defeated Wonnacott and Symons (Belleville) 13 to 11, while Wyper and Kellar (Madoc) trumpned over Phillips and Allen (Warkworth), 12-9. In the finals of the major event, the Primary, the Wray-Stock team defeated Wyper and Kellar 12 to 10, in a last end count.

In the consolation semi-finals the team of Lock and Coon (Campbellford) defeated the Belleville pair of Symons and McLean 15 to 10 as Phillips and Allen (Warkworth) triumphed over Catcher and Dewar (Belleville) 12-7. The Warkworth pair went on to win this serieg in the finals.

HOOK LARGE MUSKIE

PORT HOPE, Sept. 8.—With the advent of cooler weather, better fishing conditions are expected at Rice Lake. On Labor Day, three local fishermen, William Howard, J. Trenouth and P. Butler landed the largest Maskinonge of the current season. The fish, which weighed 25½ pounds was hooked off the village of Bewdley and a long and stubborn battle was put up before it was successfully landed by Mr. Butler.

Monday's Sweep.

A sealed holes contest was held Labor Day and some fine golf was played. Ken Wilson, playing his first sweepsmake of the year, took top honors, his total on the sealed holes being 44-15—29. A four-way tie for second place saw R. Abbott, R. E. Cutting, H. J. Bradburn and O. A. Degraw all with 32 nets.

Scores were: G. Manlece 37, W. J. Hardill 33, J. F. Strickland 34, Dr. Weldon 37, J. L. James 34, L. Reid 38, R. Thornton 33, R. Thornton, Jun., 35, W. A. Elliott 38, Terry Hall 37, H. C. Sootheran 34, H. Tudhope 35, Eric Westbye 39, J. F. Strickland 39.

In spite of threatening weather a large field of players competed for the various prizes in the ladies' field day over the week-end. The best net prize went to Mrs. R. Turner whose net of 77 was just low enough to win.

The best net on the first nine holes went to Miss C. Mason, her score of 35 was too good for the others.

The driving contest saw some lusty drives against the wind, Mrs. C. Sootheran won the silver division, her ball being 177 yards down the fairway. In the bronze division first group, 19-28 handicap, Mrs. B. D. Hall drove her ball 145 yards from the tee. Mrs. Belleghem won the 29 and over section of the bronze division, socking her drive 130 yards against the wind. The sealed-hole prize went to Miss L. Lyle, with a total score for three holes of 15. Mrs. A. G. Howson had the least number of putts on the first and won that prize.

SPORTS DAY by DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

WITH the Auburns doing battle in Oshawa tonight the eyes of Peterborough sport-lovers will be turned toward what promises to be a hectic final series for the group honors. The Peterborough squad is all keyed up for a terrific argument from the Oshawa gang who have steadily improved since their dismal showing early in the season and enter the playoffs in better shape than at any time since the campaign began. The Motor City outfit started without such stars as Barron and Degray and the return of those doughty players to the lacrosse wars has immeasurably strengthened both the morale and the playing strength of the crew. They beat Auburns the last time the two met in Oshawa and reports from the scene of tonight's battle indicate that they are supremely confident of repeating the defeat. The Peterborough crowd of course have different ideas.

THE second game will be played here Friday night and there are indications of a record crowd, with many out-of-town fans coming in for the doings. Norwood, Havelock, Millbrook and other district lacrosse centres will send large delegations and the clash should be one of the acrosse classics of the year. There is keen rivalry between the two teams and when the cheques are down in this final series there should be fireworks aplenty.

THE intimation that Ken Long, first baseman of the Peterborough Central Ontario League team was leaving town can now be amended to read "has left town." Long paid a week-end visit to his old home town of Dundas and was offered a good job with the Bertram people. It had to be accepted at once so the first-sacker decided to pull the stakes immediately. The big youngster made a lot of friends during the season and will be missed. He had a lot of tough luck during the Central campaign and was probably "robbed" on more well-hit balls than any player in the League, especially when playing against the Oshawa club. Long was counted on as a possibility for the rugby club but the Orfuns will have to struggle along without his services.

* * * * * *

GOLFERS are still talking about the hectic battle between Bob Abbott and "Doc" Greene which saw the former regain the championship of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club by coming from far behind to nose out the dentist golfer at the wire. The Raybestos executive looked to be as far out of the running as Toronto Maple Leafs are in the International loop when he suddenly found his strokes and finished like a world champion. Incidentally his victory was not the only exciting one recorded recently for Ford Strickland came through to win the "B" flight championship after a memorable struggle and interestingly enough his opponent was also a dentist Dr A. M. Weldon. Ford was dormie, two up but Weldon squared the match at the 18th hole to have Strickland come through and win the extra hole to carry off the fine new trophy.

WHILE Coach Bamforth's Collegiate squad has lost a number of stalwarts from last year's colorful garnet and gray machine the Confederation Square mentor has enough good material in sight to prevent him losing any sleep worrying about the outlook. With the Clark brothers, Kelly, Hendren and other stars of the 1936 P.C.I. outfit still available and new players added to the roster the Bamforth-taught squad can be counted upon to supply a lot of interesting sporting entertainment during the next three months.

THIS evening down at Kingston the Ponies and Oshawa Motors tangle in the first game of their best three-in-five series for the Central Ontario League honors and the initial contest will undoubtedly see Tony Paczkowski, Kingston's ace right-hander battling with Lefty Biddle. Early in the season Oshawa's left-hander had the Ponies' number, but reports are that Biddle's southpaw flipper has lost some of its cunning and in that event the odds will favor Kingston who should have no trouble with Turner. The second game of the series will be played on Thursday at Oshawa and the teams move back to Kingston for the third fixture on Saturday. If further games are necessary the fourth will be at Oshawa on Monday, Sept. 13, and the fifth at Kingston on Wednesday, September 15.

A LETTER from Eugene J. Dopp, secretary of the Ontario Lacrosse Association clears up the lacrosse situation. Gene reports there are still seven teams in the running in the intermediate series as follows: Cheltenham Inglewood, Roden A.C., of Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines Peterborough Oshawa and Owen Sound. The draw for the semi-final round will be as follows: Owen Sound at St. Catharines or Hamilton September, 15, St. Catharines or Hamilton at Owen Sound, September 17, Roden A.C. or Cheltenham Inglewood at Peterborough or Oshawa, September 15, Peterborough or Oshawa at Roden A. C. or Chetenham Inglewood. Goals count on the round. The finals will be staged on September 21 and 23, best two out of three games to decide the winner.

THE Oshawa sports scribe admits that the Petes were tough opposition in the late lamented series. "Oshawa had plenty of trouble with Peterborough just as we predicted and full expected," he writes. "The Petes came right back here Saturday, took advantage of a shaky start by Doss Ogden and were never headed. 'Gunner' Whitehill and Russ Kitchen took turns at making the GM-men look weak at bat and the Petes certainly showed the better team on Saturday. Three on bases and nine out and still Oshawa did not score. That's the way the breaks were going on Saturday. Yesterday it was Oshawa's turn. The totals scored one run when three Peterborough players argued and held the ball in the outfield. On another play Hurst scored from second on an infield hit. The Petes were just a little lax in the tight spots and it so happened that an error by Clark on a grounder by Mathews with two out and two on meant the game. It was Peterborough's first error since Thursday and it meant the series. Peterborough put up a great battle before being eliminated and we have it from the Liftlock City moguls that next year the Petes will have about five imports and all together a bang-up senior ball club"—At all events George, that is an idea.

* * * * * *

APPARENTLY it is not possible for Peterborough and Kingston ball teams, either hard or soft variety, to get together without staging a riot. Tuesday evening there were rare doings at the Cricket field in Kingston when the Kingston Dukes and Peterborough Wesleios tangled in the second game of their series and the thing wound up with Umpire Herb Payne of Peterborough forfeiting the game to the Wesleios gang after a Kingston attempt to force the calling of play before the 10th inning was completed after the Peterborough gang had taken the lead in the extra frame. The strategy of course was to make it necessary to revert back to the ninth inning and leave the score tied. The Dukes started stalling and then when the crowd got out on the field Umpire Payne did the only thing he could have done, that is order the diamond cleared in two minutes with forfeiture as a penalty. The Kingston club was at fault in having no police available and as a result the game went to Westclox who now move into the semi-finals.

* * * * * *

LOOKING Them Over: Tom Parsons had a world of speed against the Kingston Dukes in last night's game.... They are picking all-star teams in the International League. Just write down the Newark Bears as our selection.... Westclox will endeavor to have the first game of their series with the Toronto winners played at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon.... Oshawa 222 team won the round from the Norwood Terriers 38 to 24 which sounds like a cricket score.... Belleville Kiwanis juniors, conquerors of the local juniors, absorbed a one-sided beating from the Toronto winners.....Crowe and Ned Vitarelli are both on the hospital list and will be absent from the Auburns' lineup when they tackle Oshawa tonight.....And that, friends, is about enough today from a pinch-hitter.

CANADIAN PROS ARE BEATEN 8-4 BY U.S. TEAM

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP)—No financial success and scarcely an event at this budding stage to create great international excitement, the United States-Canada professional golfers team match was regarded today as a contest with a future. The old hands-across-the-border feeling was present among the pros.

Yesterday Ed Dudley and his American professional stars, an outfit as strong as that which won the Ryder Cup from Great Britain this summer, defeated a team of eight selected by the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association. The score was eight matches to four.

"We had real competition here—I think this event should become an annual one," said the burly Dudley, himself a victim of the golf produced by Bobby Alston of Ottawa, Canada's star of the day who participated in half of the home team's victories.

Open Starts Wednesday

As a prelude to the 72-hole Canadian open championship which starts its run tomorrow over St. Andrews, where the team match was played, the U.S.-Canada contest was a success.

Bob Gray, Jr., of Windsor, Ont., honored by being named the No. 1 Canadian player, boldly conquered Ralph Guldahl, U.S. open champion, 4 and 2, in their 18-hole singles engagement. Alston downed Dudley 2 and 1 and little Ernie Wakelam of Ottawa popped the biggest upset of all by beating Jimmy Hines, one up.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 8. — Behind the superb chucking of one "Lefty" Mingo, who is one of the best junior pitching prospects seen around these parts for some time, Toronto St. Cyprians, junior balltossers, eliminated Belleville Kiwanis kids from any further participation in the O.B.A.A. playdowns at the Fair Grounds Monday by a 14-3 count. The win marked the second straight victory for the Queen City champions, they having defeated the locals last week in a hectic eleven innings game by a 6-5 score.

Montreal Girl Golfer Rated High Among Canadian Women Entries

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8 (C.P.). — Thirty-two linkswomen gathered from British Columbia to the Maritimes moved into the first round today of the Canadian women's close golf tournament with Nora Hankin of Montreal rated the most dangerous sharpshooter in the field.

Miss Hankin, 22 years old, and never before a national golf figure, won the qualifying medal and the Ella Murray Trophy for low aggregate yesterday from a field of 43. The card was nine over par, but scoring was generally high over the 6,499-yard, par-76 Niakwa Country Club course.

Miss Hankin was second to Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, with an 82 in the Canadian women's open qualifying test at the St. Charles Country Club last week and though she was beaten 3 and 2 by Mrs. H. W. Soper of Montreal in the quarter-finals of that event her play was consistently good throughout.

The open champion, Mrs. John Rogers of Winnipeg, and the runner-up, Mrs. Eric Phillips, Toronto, qualified automatically for the close.

Mrs. E. E. Jackson of Victoria, British Columbia champion, fired a fine 88 yesterday to take second place.

Westclox Eliminates Kingston From Softball 'A' Playdowns; Game Forfeited In The Tenth

Umpire Calls Game When Fans Refuse To Clear The Field—Petes Leading 7-5

Westclox, Peterborough's representatives in the Ontario Intermediate A softball series, will carry on into the semi-final round as a result of their having been awarded the second game of their series with the Kingston Dukes in the Limestone City on Tuesday night when Umpire Herb Payne forfeited the game to the Peterborough squad in the tenth innings when Kingston fans refused to clear the field and no police protection was available. Westclox after being up the game in sensational styles with two out in the ninth had scored two runs in the 10th and were in front 7 to 5 when the blowup came and the fixture was declared forfeited to the Petes. Technically therefore the final score was 9 to 0.

It was a scrappy game all the way. Westclox started out by jumping on Stan Scrutton's offerings for three runs in the opening session and the Dukes came back with one in their half. There was no change until the fifth when Westclox sent another counter across and were in front 4 to 1. The lead did no last very long however for the Kingston gang staged a four-hit rally in their end of the same frame to sew up the game with three runs. Two innings later the Dukes went out in front for the first time when hits by Ready, Rawley and Stan Scrutton gave them a run and put them in the lead 5 to 4. There were two out in the ninth when Westclox rallied to save the game. After O'Leary and Starr had both filled out Ellis came through with a hit and when Ross Curry followed with another timely blow Ellis slid home head first in sensational fashion to carry the tieing run over.

In the tenth when Stanger was safe on an error and after Persons had filed to Ready and Dormer to Grattan, Pat Calladine and O'Leary produced in the clutches with two hits to send in a pair of runs. Then the crowd invaded the diamond and Umpire Payne gave them two minutes to clear the field. No police were available and when the fans refused to leave, Payne forfeited the game to the visitors.

There had been trouble in the previous innings when Rawley, Kingston's centre fielder was banished from the field by Umpire Payne for allegedly using some off color language to the official. The Dukes had no sub available and Manager Grattan had to get into the lineup himself to fill the vacancy.

Nalish had been expected to do the twirling for the Westclox but Tom Parsons was a last minute choice and the former Onemee boy turned in a neat card. He struck out seven of the Kingston gang, gave only one walk and outside of two frames was well ahead of the batters most of the time. His support was good despite the fact that Westclox were without the services of Bill Calladine and Chuck Kearns and both infield and outfield had to be shifted. Scrutton pitched a steady game for the Dukes after a bad start.

Fielding features were supplied by Mike O'Leary for the winners and Catlin, Kingston hockey star, who ran back and made a great one-handed catch of a fly in short centre.

The lineups:

Kingston Dukes — Bruce, lf, rf; Ready, 3b; Rawley, cf; S. Scrutton, p; J. Catlin, 2b; Chambers, ss; Collins, c; N. Scrutton, 1b, lf; Hurley, rf; Buck, 1b, cf; Grattan, 1b.

Peterborough Westclox—Dormer, 2b; P. Calladine, c; Starr, ss; O'Leary, lf; Ellis, 3b; Curry, rf; Playford, cf; Stanger, 2b; Parsons, p.

Umpires — Payne, Peterborough and Sullivan, Kingston.

When the game was forfeited the score stood Peterborough 7 runs, 10 hits and 2 errors and Kingston, 5 runs, 10 hits and 2 errors.

Farr And Broadribb Draw New Contract

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Tommy Farr, the Welsh heavyweight, who gained his greatest fame by lasting 15 rounds with Joe Louis, will pursue his ring career in the future minus the advice of Ted Broadribb, his manager.

At odds for months, Farr and Broadribb broke legally yesterday when Broadribb turned over his managerial rights to Babe Culnan of New York. In the new contract Broadribb gets 25 per cent of Farr's earnings, but Culnan holds the power of attorney to act for Broadribb. For this Culnan will receive 50 per cent of Broadribb's share of the take, or 12½ per cent of Farr's earnings.

Toronto Kenwoods Win From Electrics In Soccer Battle

Locals Beaten 6-2 In Queen City—Player Presentation Made

Toronto Kenwoods won the return soccer fixture by the score of six goals to two, on Labour Day, in Toronto, against the Canadian General, on Earlscourt Park.

Alderman Gremall kicked off and at the banquet in the Legion Hall presented some of the Toronto players with marriage presents. The local party that travelled in a large bus from the city, reports a first class outing.

Richardson, who was injured in the second half of the game had his injury X-rayed Tuesday and the doctor reports that there are no bones broken.

First Half in Deadlock.

Captain McMaster won the toss but was forced to go on the defensive through the aggressive combination play by the Toronto forwards which Wilson missed by inches. The local full-backs—N. Downer and K. Mitchell—frustrated their efforts by punting clear up-field where Richardson made himself a favorite by his systematic dribbling to finish with shots that brought out the brilliant qualities of the custodian. Exchanges continued thereafter with the half-backs dominating the situation. Ross and McMaster endeavoring to open the scoring, but it was left to Goodhue to put the Canadian General boys ahead when he accepted a timely pass out on the wing from Richardson, who had drawn the defense out of goal. With a left wing drive from the touch line the C.G.E. left winger landed the ball in the corner of the net. The Toronto aggregation replied with a steady bombardment on Chamberlain's charge who had to concede the equalizer just before the interval. Canadian General 1, Toronto Kenwoods 1.

On resuming, the Toronto forwards indulged in the long swinging style of play that baffled the local half-back line for awhile until they got acquainted with the method of defense. A break-away on the right wing resulted in Hubbard putting his team ahead and Grant added the third counter a few minutes later. Then Davidson added another to make it four to one. At this point Richardson was injured and had to be attended to and his effectiveness became lost, thereby giving the Toronto team the opportunity to increase the count through the efforts of Hubbard and Grant. Toronto Kenwoods 6, Peterborough C.G.E. 2. Goal scorers—Goodhue (2) C.G.E. Toronto—Grant (2), Hubbard (3), Davidson (1).

Toronto— Brennan, goal; McKean and Nichols, full-backs; Parsons, Leslie and Neil half-backs; Hubbard, Wilson, Grant, Davidson and Nichols, forwards. Sub—Bromley.

Number 79

The player who has not made a careful study of the game is often bewildered by things that happen to him on the course.

For example, he may be hitting the ball exceptionally well and come to the last hole with an easy chance of breaking his all-time record. On a short approach shot his ball may get a kick that sends it into a deep bunker which causes him to take an eight or a nine on the hole and blasts his hopes for a new low score.

In telling his friends about it later he uses the popular phrase, "I should have had." No matter how plausible his story, it is a mistake to claim anything the score card doesn't show. No matter how much he felt entitled to a good break instead of a bad one, the fact remains that he got a bad one. Tough as this seems it isn't really bad when you know your golf. In the long run every player will have an equal number of good and bad breaks.

When a bad break hits you, rest assured that you have a good one coming which will make up for any damage done. Furthermore, it is wrong for you to be neglectful of the essential points about the game and expect to bring in a good score. Yes, I know that you didn't expect to or feel entitled to, but such results tend to give the wrong idea about the game.

CHIEFS-ORIOLES IN VIRTUAL TIE FOR 3RD PLACE

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—(CP)— It looks like the precentages are against the three International League clubs battling away for the two remaining play-off berths.

The three-cornered fight going on among Baltimore, Syracuse and Buffalo for the third and fourth positions in the post-season series is certain to find one of the teams out at the end of the regular season with one of the two other clubs finishing third—faced with almost as certain elimination by the champion Newark Bears in the first round of the Governors' Cup series.

It isn't a very pleasant outlook for the Orioles and Chiefs, who are two games in front of the fifth place Bisons. Both teams can't afford to give an inch to the Bisons, and though Messrs. Crouse and Schaik, managers of the Orioles and Bisons, respectively, would rather finish fourth, than third and face the Bears, they've got to keep their clubs hustling or find themselves out of the play-offs altogether.

Gain Virtual Tie.

The Chiefs brought the situation to a head last night when they nosed out the Bears 7-6 while the Orioles went down 1-0 to Jersey City to put the trams in a virtual tie for third place.

Harry (Spike) Craft, slated for promotion to the Cincinnati Reds at the end of the season brought the Chiefs their victory when he belted out a homer with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning.

Old Ollie Carnegie kept the Bisons in the running when he connected for two homers and drive in six runs to lead the Herd to a 12-8 victory over Toronto.

Young Oscar Judd won a pitchers' duel from the veteran Harry Smythe when the Rochester Red Wings trimmed the Montreal Royals 3-2.

WHITAKER'S GET CRICKET VICTORY

The Whitaker's vs. Scarborough (Toronto) match was played at the Oval on Labor Day, and resulted in a win for Whitaker's in a low-scoring game by 28 runs, the final score being: Scarboro 34, Whitaker's 62. For their win the local men are indebted to two players, Jefferson, who made the day's high score of 24, and Wild, who took 7 wickets for 12 runs, and afterwards took part in a partnership with Jefferson which won the match for their side.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press).

Howie Morenz returned to Canadiens after two years with Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers, a year ago to-day. Playing in his 14th National Hockey League season, Howie was in top form until his leg was boken in Montreal. The sport world was shocked March 8, 1937, when the "Stratfod Streak" died in Hospital.

IDE, Edward.—At General Hospital, Toronto, Tuesday, September 7, Edward Ide, formerly of Peterborough, and husband of the late Violet Preston.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hopwood wish to announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Nancy Ann, to William Alexander son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Williamson, Toronto. The marriage to take place in Trail, B.C. October 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Coveney of Hastings announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Agnes, to Gerald B. Condon, son of Mrs. Agnes Condon and the late Morris Condon, of Douro. The wedding to take place September 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilford, 160 Morrow street, Peterborough, wish to announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Clara Florence, to Keith Pratley Wills, only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bruce M. Wills of this city, formerly of Three Hills, Alberta. The wedding will take place the latter part of this month.

IN MEMORIAM

WILSON. — In fond and loving memory of our darling little son and brother, Jackie, who fell asleep in Jesus one year ago today, September 8, 1936.

He was only a little white rose,
But a sweet little flower from birth.
God took him home to Heaven
Before he was soiled on earth.
Another sweet flower has withered,
A gem from the casket set free;
A lamb in the fold of the Shepherd
Who said "Let them come on to Me."

—Sadly missed by his Father, Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

Station Robbery Only Nets 9 Cents

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8. — A few coppers and some stamps were all that was in the cash drawers at the C.N.R. Station here, but preferring not to go away empty-handed after going to the trouble of breaking a window in the office by which entrance to the building was made, the thieves got away with 9 cents. The theft occurred between the hours of 9.30 and 10.30 on Saturday evening, and was discovered by M. S. Mowatt, local station agent, at that time. Returning to the station at 10.30 on Saturday evening he saw the broken window and on investigation revealed the loss. Canadian National Detective Ray Morgan and Provincial Police are investigating.

London is extending its ban against political parades.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 28.

Anetka was adamant. All of Mari's pleas for help, her insistence on Anetka sharing her glory were to no avail. Mari must go on but Anetka was going to retire.

For Mari there was fame; Anetka would have marriage to her Serge who had, at last, found a position as a wine salesman.

Anetka was tired. She had enjoyed working with Mari, was grateful for what the girl had brought her and firm on the stand that she would take only her share of profits to date. It was only fair, she pointed out, that Mari should enjoy the full fruits of her labor. And only right that, having served he purpose, she should go out of the picture.

"But now I'm afraid," Mari insisted. "I leaned on you so much. I'm afraid to undertake this big thing."

Anetka smiled. "I am what you call the morale support. I will always encourage you, Marie. You have the head as well as the talent. Those bankers, they are no fools. They knew as much of what you have accomplished as we do. If they trust you and you trust yourself, you have nothing to worry about. With this money, you can hire the people who will advise you. You have the American lawyer, the American secretary and your own, wise little business head. Me, I am scatter brain, yes?"

"You are not! Sometimes you hold me back when I wanted to charge more for a frock but that is the very thing I need you for. That is the quality of prudence which I do not have Tony.....a man I once knew in America.....told me that I was too impulsive. He was afraid that someday my impulsiveness would get me into trouble. And, Anetka, my trouble is that I don't know when I'm being impulsive."

Anetka shook her head. "Perhaps he meant in affairs of the heart—"

Mari smoothed the fingers of her glove. "He didn't know anything about my heart," she said tonelessly.

"Oh," the other woman answered in a soft voice, "so that is it! I have wondered often....."

Her voice trailed away and Mari knew that she expected her to say something. She had never told Anetka, or anyone else about Tony.

Anetka said very softly, "You loved him, cherie?"

"And you think you do now. That was long ago and you were very young. In every woman there are many women, Marie. Perhaps that was another woman from the one you are today. Many things have happened to you; you are not the same girl you were in America. The man we love and know and want when we are 20 is not always the man we'd know and love in later years."

Mari's eyes lifted to hers were dark pools that mirrored the reflection in her heart. She made no verbal denial of all that the older girl said, yet Anetka read it in her eyes.

Anetka's frail hand reached out to cover Mari's. "I know," she said. "Once when I was 20, there was Paul. We were married only a month when....when he was killed. I thought that was the end, cherie. But that was many years ago and now I have my good Sergei. For us now there is happiness. You will have it, too."

"But I don't want anyone, Anetka."

"It isn't natural, petite. A woman needs a man, at all times. Now you need a man to advise you. You need someone close to you who will understand your problems. You must take a European attitude toward marriage. It is convenient, sensible and good." She sighed, "But you are a romantique!"

Mari laughed. "A romantic! Oh, Anetka, how little you know me! All of my romance goes into fashioning clothes. I work out all my dreams that way."

"You cannot fashion clothes 24 hours a day. Nor can you dream of them all your life. They do not live. And you are young, beautiful. You are ambitious but when you have all the things that ambition brings, what else have you?"

"I'll tell you what I'll do, Anetka. I'll get me a manager when I have my fine shop. And when I'm training him to be a fine manager, you can train him to be a fine husband. Then, when I have time and inclination, I'll marry him. Will that convince you that I am not a romantic"

Anetka shook her head violently: "I do not want that for you. I want you to forget needles and pins and silks and satins. I want you to meet more people, more men. You are not like these nice, gay American girls I have met. You do not have fun. You must go away from Paris. You must have a vacation and do these things, dance and play tennis and....."

"Anetka! You talk of vacations and tennis and dancing when I must decide if I am to become what we call at home, a Big Business Woman! Later, perhaps, but now I must be away to maj decisions."

"A woman must always consider business secondly, Marie. You must celebrate, you must be gay now for you have made your decision. Now you must think of parties. Did you not have parties when you were happy in New York?"

Mari shook her head. "No, darling, I have never been a gay girl. Mark is the only man I've ever known that I ..... well that made me feel party-ish."

"Do you live him?" Anetka asked directly.

"Heavens, no!"

"He is a good friend," Anetka replied knowingly, "and you must send a wireless to him at once."

"Anetka, Mark isn't a good friend. He likes to take me out when he comes to Paris but his feeling for me is superficial. I know Mark well."

"Did you know that when he brought you to me, he gave me a blank check to pay your salary until you could earn it?"

Mari gulped hard.

"Oh, Anetka! You should have told me!"

Anetka shrugged her shoulders. "Why?" she asked blandly.

"Because . . . because I wouldn't have taken it!"

"Perhaps your friend in America was right, Marie. You see how you would have hurt yourself? You would have been like the ladies in books who say, 'How dare you?' and you would not be where you are today. And why shouldn't you have taken it?"

Mari felt uncomfortably like an ingenue in a Sunday school play. Nevertheless, she said primly, "Mark didn't do it out of the kindness of his heart. We both know why he did it."

Anetka's eyes lifted to the ceiling in a gesture of despair. "Marie you are a child. Do not act like one! You must be a woman of the world and you must learn to give the benefit of the doubt to the other person." Those were almost the same words that Tony had said to her so long ago. "And why must you think that Mark is not kind because he is not serious in his manner?"

Mari thought about that after she had left Anetka. She wondered how many times she had not given the benefit of the doubt to others. Perhaps Mark had meant to be kind. She meant to be fairer in her attitude toward him.

When she sent him a wireless to his hotel at Nice that night telling him about the capital that had been offered her, she felt a thrill of anticipation hoping that her wire would bring word that he was coming to Paris.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HOME RUN.

"Wham it now! Wham it!"

"Knock the cover off!"

"Wow! That's a high fly!"

These were among the shouts Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail heard as they reached the top of the hill down which the carriage of Squeakie, the baby pig, had rolled.

"Do you think the Bad Chaps have my baby pig?" asked Mr. Twistytail, who was looking for the last button that had popped off his coat which was too tight for him.

"Certainly not!" laughed Mr. Longears.

"But what are all those shouts for—and that talk about a high fly? Do you think some one is flying away with Squeakie?"

Has An Idea.

"Nonsense!" laughed the rabbit. "There's a ball game going on over in that field and the animal boys are shouting for joy. Some one knocked a high fly ball. Come on! We're going to the ball game."

"But what about Squeakie?" asked Mr. Twistytail. "We must find her. Curly or Floppy was supposed to watch her in her carriage. But we found the empty carriage rolling down hill and no Squeakie."

"I think we shall find Squeakie," chuckled Mr. Longears.

"Where?" asked his fat gentleman pig friend.

"At the ball game."

"Oh, my goodness!" grunted Mr. Twistytail, flicking one ear on which a fly was trying to get a ride. "I never thought of that!"

Surely enough, when Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail reached the ball ground on top of the hill, there, sitting on a bench between Curly and Floppy, her brothers, was Squeakie, the baby pig.

"Oh, hello, Daddy!" grunted Floppy. Curly said the same.

"Look here, Piggie boys," grunted their father. "Why didn't you stay watching Squeakie in her carriage by Uncle Wiggily's camping tent as you were told?"

"Well, you see, Daddy," explained Curly. "It was my turn to watch Squeakie first. After a while Floppy was to come back from the ball game and take his turn."

"Yes, I know," said Mr. Twistytail.

"Well," went on Curly, "when Squeakie woke up she asked me to take her to the ball game and so I did."

She Asked?

"You mean baby Squeakie, who can't yet talk, asked you to bring her to this ball game?" asked the daddy pig. "Nonsense!"

"Of course she did!" said Curly. "She said: 'Bah! Bah! Bah!' That's how she says 'Ball! Ball!' So I lifted her out of the carriage and brought her here."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "That's good! Squeakie was crying 'Bah!' but it might have sounded as if she said 'Ball! Ball!' I suppose we can't blame Curly."

"No," agreed Mr. Twistytail. "But who pushed the carriage down hill?" he asked Curly.

"Oh, I guess the wind," said the piggie boy. "Now it's your turn to hold Squeakie," he said to his brother. "I'm going to play."

So Curly played ball and so did Floppy. Then the animal boys asked Uncle Wiggily if he and Mr. Twistytail didn't want to play.

"Of course I do!" said Mr. Longears." I'm going to knock a home run." And when it was his turn at bat that's just what he did. He knocked a fine home run and brought in Curly and Floppy on bases.

So everything happened for the best. And if the teapot doesn't put talcum powder in the waterpistol so it can pretend to be a pop gum, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the careful robin.

FIVE HURT IN CRASH

WALKERTON, Ont., Sept. 7 (C.P.). — Five persons suffered severe bruises and lacerations in a collision of two motor cars on the highway eight miles from here yesterday. The injured, brought to Walkerton Hospital, were: Bert Irwin and Arthur Duddle of Paisley, Mrs. John Clouston, and Mr. and Mrs. John Urstadt, of Elmwood.

A motor bus in Stettin, Germany, has been equipped with special seats, upholstered in satin, which can be reversed to form comfortable beds.

T. P. Lancaster Tells Institute Of Functions At Legislature

Member For County Heard By Lakefield And Warsaw Women

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 8.—T. P. Lancaster, M. L. A. for Peterborough county, addressed the gathering when the Warsaw Branch of the Women's Institute were guests of the Lakefield Institute members, at the home of Mrs. J. H. Moore, of Douro, on Wednesday afternoon, September 1, for the regular September meeting of the Lakefield Branch. About twenty members were present from Warsaw, with a total attendance of over fifty. The Junior Institute held their meeting the same afternoon and joined the Senior Branch for the program and Mr. Lancaster's address.

After the opening ode, Mrs. A. Davis, convenor of the Relief Committee, reported sending ten yards of flannelette to a needy family in the village.

Mrs. S. Higgins and Mrs. A. Dunford moved and seconded, respectively, a motion to send money for fees to the convention nares. Carried.

It was decided that the usual subscription should be sent to the Crippled Children's Fund. Two donations of talent money were received, the society having decided at a previous meeting that instead of holding a social, the women should each donate 50 cents earned by them, this year.

The District Rally is to be held in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield, September 29. The ladies decided to hold a Pot Luck Dinner on that occasion, at which all members of the different Institutes gathered at the Rally will be welcomed.

Grandmothers' Day

On Wednesday, October 6, the ladies will hold their annual "Grandmothers' Day", when Grandmothers of the district will be honored. It was moved by Mrs. Foster and seconded by Mrs. Windsor that Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Gillman be appointed a committee to look after prizes and entertainment, and that the district directors be responsible for inviting the grandmothers in their district.

The roll was then called, the response being a suggestion for a by-law for the betterment of our community. Among the suggestions were:

1. A by-law to close the beer parlors.
2. A law to prevent people who have been drinking from driving cars.
3. A law to take away permits from those who have been found driving the worse for drink.
4. A law to make driving safe by making drivers abide by the speed limit.
5. To make it compulsory for all drivers to carry insurance.
6. Pass a by-law to put traffic lights on the canal bridge.
7. Not to allow any booze parties in our tourist park.

After the roll call the president turned the meeting over to Mrs. Ridpath, who took the chair for the program.

Mrs. J. R. Hull sang a solo. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. E. Moore.

Mrs. Davis then delivered an enlightening paper on current events. Mrs. Doris Shewen rendered a violin solo being accompanied on the piano by Miss Winnie Payne.

Mrs. Ridpath then introduced the guest speaker, T. P. Lancaster, of Havelock, who is member of the Legislative Assembly for East Peterborough riding. Mr. Lancaster addressed the meeting on the subject "The Legislature", saying in part that 'very frequently people call the 'Legislature the Provincial Parliament, there is only one Parliament, the National Parliament at Ottawa, the capital of Canada. All provincial bodies are Legislatures, and so members of the Legislature should always be designated as M.L.A.'s or members of Legislative Assembly, and not as M.P.P.'s.'

'Among affairs under provincial jurisdiction are: the promotion of agriculture, mining, forestry, social welfare, public health, labour education, highways, the management and sale of public lands, northern development, care of afflicted—physically and mentally—administration of justice, protection of game and fish, municipal institutions, generation and distribution of electrical energy, incorporation of companies, and generally, all affairs of a province-wide nature. Civil law may vary from province to province, but criminal law is uniform throughout Canada.

Getting In All Revenues

"An important function of the Government is the collection of the provincial revenues, derived from a wide variety of sources, such as the Federal subsidy coming from the Dominion as one of the conditions of Confederation; the lands, forests, mines, and water powers; the public service rendered by the province, the upkeep of which is mainly borne by those who enjoy them; the taxation of corporations, amusements and luxuries, and now the very latest, the income tax taken from the municipalities by legislation put through the House last spring.

"The Department of Health administers the affairs of our twelve Ontario Hospitals for the treatment and confinement of the mentally ill; and supervises the Sanitary Engineering Branch, the Preventable Diseases Branch, the Child Hygiene Branch, the Laboratories Branch, the Industrial Hygiene Branch, the Dental Service Branch, the Public Health Education Branch and the inspection of the Training Schools for Nurses.

"The Department of Public Welfare controls social legislation such as the Mothers' Allowance Act, the Children's Aid Society, the Old Age Pensions, Training Schools, Industrial Schools and Orphanages, Soldiers' Aid Commission, and of late years the administration of relief. During the past few years public welfare legislation has been marked with a modern trend of activity for the benefit of the ever-increasing attention to the social well-being of the people. Unless careful attention is given to assisting the socially inept to adjust themselves to the ever-improving social standards, the value of other legislation is, to a large extent, nullified.

The Welfare Department.

"This fact led in 1930 to the establishment of a department of public welfare, which gives attention to social legislation, studies social problems and organizes executives for effective administration.

"To aid the child there are the activities of the Mothers' Allowance Commission recently amended to take care of a mother with only one child, instead of two or more, as formerly, and the Children's Aid Society, the training schools and the industrial schools and orphanages. For the aged adult there is the old age pensions scheme.

In conclusion, Mr. Lancaster urged a greater interest on the part of the people, in municipal, Provincial and Federal political affairs and interests.

At the conclusion of Mr. Lancaster's address, Mrs. T. W. Chaplin gave a humorous reading, after which Mrs. Ridpath and Mrs. Davis moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and to all who had helped to make the program a success.

Mrs. Bullock then issued a cordial invitation to all present to remain for a cup of tea and a social hour. Tea was served in cafeteria style, at the conclusion of which Mrs. Weller of Warsaw moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Lakefield branch and to Mrs. Moore, for their kind hospitality. Mrs. Moore replied, saying it was indeed a pleasure to have the Warsaw group present, most particularly since she is a former member of the Warsaw branch and a former neighbor of many of the group present from Warsaw.

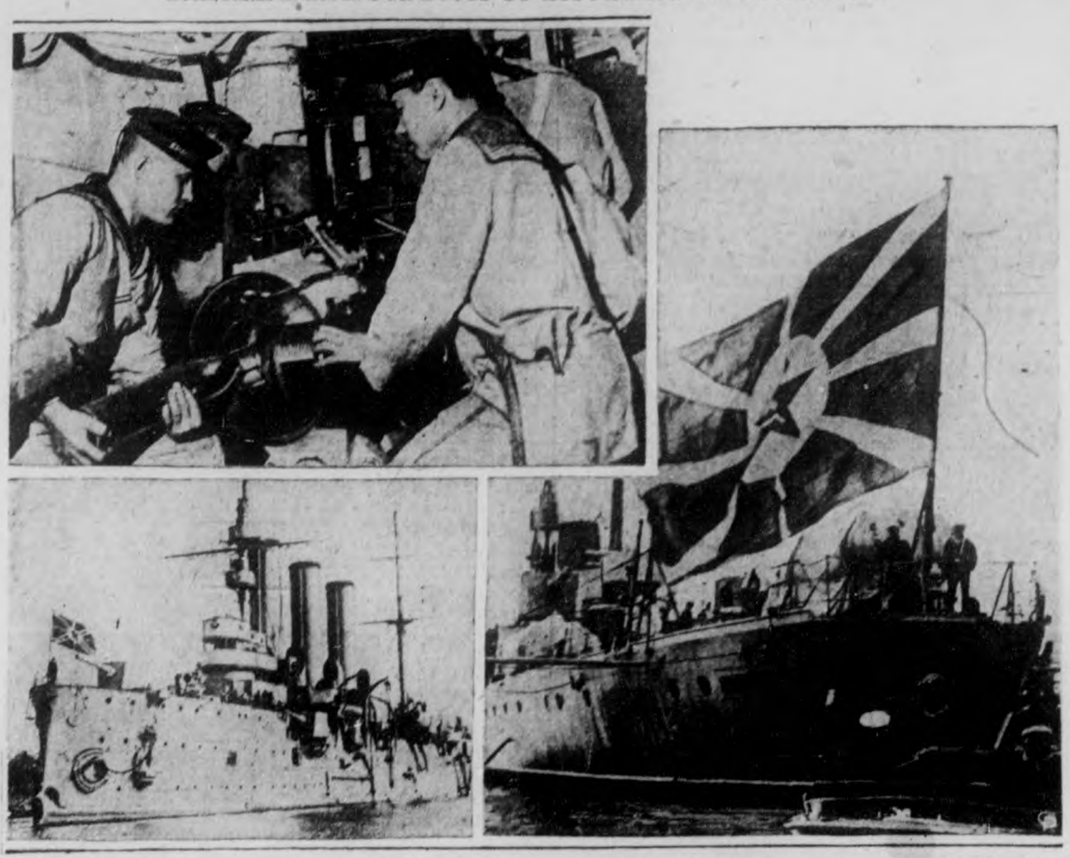
Russian Black Sea Fleet Or dered Into Mediterranean



While Great Britain and other Mediterranean powers prepared for a conference at Geneva to discuss the attacks on merchantile shipping in the Mediterranean by an unidentified submarine, Soviet Russia prepared to dispatch her Black Sea fleet to the trouble area. Two Soviet merchant ships were sunk within four days following attacks by a submarine. The Soviet press has alleged "Italy's Fascist dogs and cut-throats" are responsible for the attacks and Pravada, official Communist organ, suggested that the Soviet government might not wait for agreement of international reprisal. Typical of the ships and men Russia is dispatching to the Mediterranean are those shown ABOVE. At the UPPER LEFT Soviet sailors are shown loading a gun aboard one of the Soviet ships. The photograph at the LOWER LEFT shows the cruiser Aurora in a photograph taken as it visited Germany some years ago. The photograph at the LOWER RIGHT shows another of the Soviet Union's huge cruisers.

WESTWOOD W.M.S. HOLDS MEETING

(Examiner Correspondence)

WESTWOOD, Sept. 8.—The September meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday afternoon with a fairly large attendance. The meeting was in charge of the first vice-president, Miss Jessie Davidson. The devotional period included a Psalm read by Miss Davidson; a reading, "The Unchanging Christ" by Mrs. J. Clysdale and prayer offered by Mrs. J. Hope.

During the business discussion, it was decided to hold a quilting party in Wesley Hall on Thursday afternoon, September 9.

Arrangements were made for the dinner for the sectional rally which will be held in Westwood United Church in the near future.

Miss Miriam Newell sang a very pleasing solo with her mother as accompanist. A reading on "The World's Day of Prayer in Korea" was given by Mrs. R. J. Douglas, and a Temperance reading by Miss Mary Cameron.

Several readings of particular interest were taken from the annual report and dealt with the Associate Helpers' Work by Mrs. S. Elmhirst; Supply Work by Mrs. Don Cameron, and an account of a trip to the Pacific Coast by the travelling secretary, Miss E. Mitchell, who is expected to be present as guest speaker at the sectional rally, was read by Mrs. E. W. Sargent.

The hymn, "The Morning Light is Breaking" and prayer by Mrs. Newell brought a pleasant and profitable meeting to a close. The third quarterly tea was then served and a neat sum realized.

BRITAIN'S LARDER IS READY FOR WAR

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The Cabinet has put an end to fears that Britain would be in the grip of famine if war broke out suddenly. Even a wartime blockade of six months, cutting off all supplies from abroad, would not deprive one British family of any essential article of food.

This reassuring news is revealed in the Cabinet's food-rationing plan, which has now been completed in every detail. Draft rationing cards have been prepared. They will enable each household to obtain supplies of bread, tea, sugar, meat, bacon and butter from registered dealers. Rationing systems for coal and petrol have also been prepared. All goods will be supplied at fixed prices to prevent profiteering.

Fixed quantities of food will be supplied to wholesalers from the nearest port or market, and they will be distributed to the registered retailers. There will be severe penalties for hoarding or misuse, as in the Great War.

During the last six months the Cabinet has been directing the enlargement of the country's cold-storage accommodation. Many new grafaries have been built, and schemes are under consideration for laying aside a big reserve of canned foods.

The food plans provide for the Government taking control of the railroads, road transport and shipping, so that all transport can be co-ordinated and used to the best advantage.

DUMMER TAX RATE SLIGHTLY LOWER

(Examiner Correspondence)

COTTESLOE, Sept. 8.—The Dummer Council met at Warsaw on Thursday at one o'clock in regular session. Mr. Brady's (of Detroit, Mich.) purchase of a lot on Eagle-mount, Stoney Lake, was endorsed by the council.

The tax rate was struck at a slightly lower rate than last year.

The reduction along with the Provincial subsidy of one mill will make the tax bill for township and county purposes down 1.8 mills.

LIQUOR PROBE IS DEMANDED BY TORY LEADER

Lancaster Is Choice Of Party

Representative in the Ontario Legislature for two terms past, T. P. Lancaster, Havelock publisher, was unanimously chosen to contest the forthcoming Provincial election in the Peterborough riding by Conservatives in the Legion Hall last night.

Acclaimed by a gathering of 400 men and women who packed the hall, Mr. Lancaster's was the only name which went to the convention. Three who declined nominations were J. F. Strickland, K.C., former M.P.P., Peterborough; E. J. Leason of Havelock, and Herbert I. Bradburn. A nomination of Roland Denne was not seconded.

Election of G. K. Fraser of Burleigh to the presidency of the Liberal-Conservative Association for the coming year was another signal event in the rally, which was concluded with an address by the Provincial Conservative leader, Hon. Earl Rowe. He succeeds Col. R. E. Birdsall to the post.

Platform Outlined.

"If you want me you can have me," Mr. Lancaster said accepting his nomination after a tumultuous cheers for him subsided. He said he had allowed his name to stand, believing he had accomplished much for the riding during his past term, particularly in the matter of roads.

"I want to finish up an adequate road system to serve this county," the candidate said, outlining his platform. He said he would press an improved road from Bobcaygeon to Kinmount, would urge strongly the proposed Buckhorn to Gooderham road, and would press completion of the Burleigh to Bancroft road. Another road project he would follow up was the construction of a road north from the highway at Havelock to connect with the Burleigh road, he said.

Reforestation.

"I'm also advocating an adequate reforestation plan," he continued. "Mr. Hepburn has a plan but it is only for the reforestation of Northern Ontario. I don't agree with him. I think we need it right here in Peterborough County."

He said he would urge reforestation in Northern Peterborough County. The great Kawartha forest should be preserved by active reforestation, he declared.

"My third point is to maintain the right of the laboring man and the industrial worker in accordance with the sound British policies which have been tried through the centuries. I want to couple with that the tradition of the rights of labor which the Conservative Party has always followed. I think the time is ripe for Canadian workmen to run their own affairs."

He said he approved Mr. Rowe's stand that the right of labor to organize should be recognized. He proclaimed further the Rowe plan to provide the Ontario workman an opportunity to record his will in labor disputes, whether in a union or not, by secret ballot.

Restoration Grants.

The candidate stated he would urge restoration of agricultural grants he claimed had been cut off by the Hepburn Government. He would urge restoration of bonuses for breeding stock and grants to agricultural associations. He would strive for provision of government loans to farmers and grants to vegetable and fruit dealers, he said.

"I am in favor of restoring to the

ONTARIO TOBACCO WORTH $12,000,000

TORONTO, Sept. 9. — (C.P.). — The Ontario Department of Agriculture reported to-day it had been informed the record Ontario flue-cured tobacco crop of 15,000,000 pounds is valued between $12,000,000 and $14,000,000, almost double the value of last year's crop.

The estimates were made to the department by J. K. Perrett, Simcoe, secretary of the Flue Cured Tobacco Marketing Association of Ontario.

The Burley crop was estimated at slightly more than 7,000,000 pounds of a value of $750,000, and the bark tobacco crop at 2,500,000 pounds, providing a total Ontario tobacco crop of 60,000,000 pounds, compared to 35,500,000 in 1936 and 48,492,220 in 1935.

No tobacco has been purchased yet in the growing districts along Lake Erie. About 85 per cent of the crop has been harvested.

C.I.O.-Labor Man Out In Waterloo

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 9—(CP) —John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization has figured largely in the present Ontario election campaign, with Premier Mitchell Hepburn adamantly opposed to C.I.O. "invasion" of Ontario, and to-day a candidate appeared with C.I.O. affiliation.

He is Alfred Mustin, local rubber worker and president of Local 87, United Rubber Workers of America, a C.I.O. affiliate who announced he will contest the riding of North Waterloo as an Independent Labor candidate.

Mustin's nomination was decided upon at a meeting at which John Walter, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate and William Walsh, Communist candidate, were present.

This brings the total of candidates in Waterloo North to five.

Gold mined in Australia in four months of this year is valued at over $18,000,000.

North Bay Man Shot At Huntsville Station

Believed Victim Of Gang Robbing Beer Warehouse

Asks For Probe

HON. EARL ROWE

Leader of the Conservative party in Ontario who in an address in the Canadian Legion hall here last night asked for a Royal Commission to probe the alleged "toll-gate" in which hotel-keepers were being assessed for political funds on the gallonage basis.

Picked Up By Police Combing Nearby Area Following Burglary

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., Sept. 9 (CP). —Dalton Foster of North Bay, shot and seriously wounded, was picked up by police near the local railway station early today while they were searching for men who broke into the local beer warehouse during the night.

Foster said he had been shot by someone who attacked him in the dark, shortly after his arrival on a train from North Bay. Police thought the shots may have been fired by the suspected robbers.

Provincial and town police had rushed to the warehouse on word of the break-in and were searching the railway station, the railway yards and nearby retreats for the suspects when they came across the wounded man.

Foster was treated and rushed to the hospital at Bracebridge, where a bullet was located in the abdomen. The lower bowels were perforated and his condition is serious.

In hospital, Foster stated he was seeking lodging when encountered by his assailant, and was shot without warning. He is 52 years of age.

Near the wounded man, police found a quantity of beer, apparently stolen from the warehouse, and other goods alleged to have been stolen from a local store some days ago.

Another man, whose name was given as Kenneth Bethune of North Bay, was found in the vicinity and placed under arrest, being lodged in Huntsville jail. He is facing a nominal charge of vagrancy.

ROME, BERLIN ASK HANDS OFF GROUP HANDLE SUB CASE

ROME, Sept. 9 (AP).—Italy declined an invitation to confer with 11 other powers on ways to stop Mediterranean piracy today by suggesting to Great Britain and France that the question be placed in the hands of the Spanish non-intervention committee. Germany acted in identical fashion.

The Italian reply was sent by Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano to the British and French Governments which have sponsored tomorrows Mediterranean parley in Switzerland. It said:

1. The Fascist Government at first was inclined to accept the invitation to the conference.

2. But Soviet accusations that Italian submarines had torpedoed and sunk two Soviet ships "introduced at the last moment a new and grave element into the situation."

3. "The Fascist Government hence has come to the conclusion that the arguments to be considered can be examined adequately by the non-intervention committee in London."

This 27-power committee, set up months ago in an attempt to keep foreign men and arms out of Spain, "has had experience also in technical and naval questions which renders it perfectly adopted to facing the problem indicated."

"It is evident the Fascist Government must postpone every decision of an affirmative sense until the incident created by the Soviet note shall have been satisfactorily settled," the communication added.

LOSS OF SCHACHT JOLT TO GERMANY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9. —(AP).— German business circles will sustain a hard jolt if it proves true Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Minister of Economics and president of the Reichsbank, has resigned.

Retirement of the "financial wizard," as he is known in his country, has been rumored so many times one would think all sensation must have been squeezed out of the event. However, diplomatic circles were inclined to believe latest reports he had tendered his resignation. He was said to have recently drafted a memorandum urging the Reich curtail the tempo of re-armament and public building because of the drain on raw materials.

Schacht is such a vital part of the economic structure of the Fatherland, however, his withdrawal from public life would be a matter of the deepest concern.

On two issues in particular Schacht is said to have made himself decidedly unpopular. He has warned the government to cease the expensive armaments race. He has dared to insist that Jews should not be molested in busin

Despite this, he has been Adolf Hitler's economic right hand since Der Fuehrer came into power. Hitler has stood back of his Minister many times when the economic expert was encountering strong opposition from colleagues. Indeed, Schacht has been one of the most powerful "under dictators" in Germany over a long period. Perhaps Hitler has admitted secretly what many have been saying—that without Schacht, the Nazi leader today would find himself facing economic ruin.

Dr. Schacht is 60 years old. He has all the steam of a young man. He is a fighter, and has often used the iron hand. He probably would not have lasted five minutes except for the fact his most violent enmies could not figure out any way of getting along without him.

New Arctic Post Built In Week Bleak Somerset Island

Three H.B. Men Stay And Nascopie Sails On After 13-Hour Delay By Snow

Aboard S.S. Nascopie, PRINCE REGENT INLET, Sept. 9—(CP, by wireless).—The Hudson Bay Company ship Nascopie, carrying the Government's Eastern Arctic patrol, cleared from Fort Ross on Bellot Strait last night, after being delayed 13 hours by a snowstorm.

Three Hudson's Bay Company officials were left in charge of Fort Ross, the post being constructed within the past week from materials landed from the Nascopie. An insulated house, heated by a coal-burning range, was built; a warehouse constructed for perishables and the men made as comfortable as possible.

Major D. H. McKeand, commander of the patrol, believes the construction of Fort Ross is "an outstanding achievement in Arctic administration." He is confident the post will provide good opportunities for scientific exploration. The post is on the southeast shore of Somerset Island which is separated from Boothia Peninsula, the northern tip of the Canadian mainland by Bellot Strait.

Pinned By Limb Tot Found Alive

Terrace, B.C., Sept. 9.

TWO-YEAR-OLD Ann Bisonette was back at her home here today after spending more than fifteen hours pinned under a tree branch on the bank of the Skeena River.

She had fallen down the river bank and a branch across her chest held her to the ground. She was found by two searchers who joined almost 1,000 other citizens in the hunt, after they heard faint cries.

MISSING ON LINER

QUEBEC, Sept. 9 (C.P.). — McLelland Henry, 26, of Lexington, Ky., a passenger in the liner Duchess of Richmond, was missing to-day when the ship docked here after crossing the Atlantic from Southampton and Cherbourg, steamship officials reported.

Henry was last seen by another passenger early on Sunday, when his absence from his stateroom was reported by a roommate. A search of the ship made later revealed no trace of the missing man.

T. P. Lancaster Accepts Nomination

Unanimous choice of Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association as their candidate in the forthcoming provincial elections, T. P. Lancaster, Havelock publisher, is seen before the "mike" as he accepts the nomination at a large gathering of Conservatives from city and county in the Legion Hall last night. He has represented Peterborough constituency in the provincial legislature for the past two terms.

Find Lost Toronto Dinghy And One Body Nearby

Believe 2 Others May Be In Craft At Foot Of 40-Foot Cliff Near Port Weller

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 9. (CP). —The dinghy in which three Toronto men have been missing since Saturday on Lake Ontario, was reported found this afternoon near Port Weller, with one body in it.

Airplanes, speedboats and tugs only yesterday abandoned a wide search for the boat in which Fred Phillips, William Moon and J. C. Heins, all of Toronto, set out across the lake Saturday.

The boat was found on the shore at the foot of North Vine street and the body was nearby. It was thought the bodies of two other missing men may be hidden in the boat, which lodged at the foot of a sheer 40-foot cliff, making it impossible for anyone to immediately examine the find.

Arrangements were made to charter a launch from Port Dalhousie and police will go to the scene.

The boat was noticed by Bernice Trobridge, 14, and Provincial police were notified.

Provincial Constables C. W. Wood and T. E. Pearson with coroner Dr. J. L. Poirier went to the location.

Farmers said the boat was not there this morning, although one man reported seeing something on the lake nearby.

The body found on the beach a few feet from the boat was that of a man clad in a blue shirt and dark trousers. The mast of the boat was down and the sail lashed to the boom. It was practically filled with water.

Search Given Up For Three Sailors

TORONTO, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Search for three Toronto men lost on Lake Ontario in a 16-foot dinghy was abandoned to-day. Searchers indicated it would not be resumed unless a definite clue turned up.

Fred Phillips, William McGavin and J. C. Heim, set out for a two-day sail to Niagara Falls Saturday. They have not been seen since.

Airplanes, speed boats and city-owned tugs combed the lake in a 24-hour search, crews from the life-saving service following the course the men were to have followed to the Niagara river.

Night schools for native are to be opened in South Africa.

In Plane Crash .

CLARENCE NORTHEY

Of Smith Township was seated in the forward cockpit of a plane that crashed near Belwyn, but although the cockpit folded up in concertina fashion as a result of the impact he was able to crawl from the wreckage without assistance. He sustained extensive facial injury, including a possible fracture of his nose. When the picture was taken Wednesday afternoon at his farm home near Belwyn, Mr. Northey was barely able to open his eyes, while his entire face was swollen and discoloured.

TO GIVE NASAL SPRAYS.

EDMONTON.—Closing of Edmonton's public schools for another full week to September 20 and treatment of public school children with a nasal spray preventative were ordered by the City Health Board today as further precautionary measures in the battle against the spread of infantile paralysis here.

Four local cases, all Edmonton school children, remained unchanged.

166 CANDIDATES ALREADY IN FIELD 100 MORE TO COME

TORONTO, Sept. 9.— (CP).— With official nomination day still 20 days away, a total of 166 candidates were in the lists to-day in the Ontario general election, scattered among the 90 constituencies that go to the polls Oct. 6.

Approximately 100 more candidates remain to be nominated, if the election line-up is to approximate that of the last campaign in 1934 when 251 candidates battled for election.

The Liberals, seeking return to power, under Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, have nominated 66 candidates, and the Conservatives under Hon. Earl Rowe have also nominated 65. Twenty-six Co-operative Commonwealth candidates are in the field.

Goebbels Warns Europe Lest Be Another Spain

Tells Democracies Spain World's Crossroads — Communism Never Be Tolerated

NUREMBERG, Sept. 9.—(AP). — Nazi Germany's propaganda minister, Paul Joseph Goebbels, declared before National Socialism's annual congress to-day a new Europe is being formed "for which we will fight to the last breath" against Communism.

Goebbels brought all his powers of invective into play in warning Europe and the democracies that "Spain is the world's crossroads."

"What happens to-day in Spain may repeat itself to-morrow in any country!" he said.

Then he shouted that the establishment of "a Communist power" in Western Europe "cannot be tolerated."

"Some leading American democratic personages," Goebbels added, "sympathize with the Spanish government.

"If it is not scoundrelly and despicable," he cried, "to travel with this terrible world danger then it is a case of gross stupidity to which one might apply the Gospel prayer: 'God, forgive them, for they know not what they do.'"

Bolshevism a Cancer.

The propaganda minister reached a crescendo of vituperation when he described Bolshevism as a horrible canker, "eating its way into the healthy flesh of nations."

"Our warmest sympathies are with General Franco," he said, but he added it was absurd for anyone to think that Germany was trying to Nazify Spain or seize Spanish territory through her support of the insurgent dictator.

Goebbels spared his listeners none of the bloody details of what he said went on in government Spain. He told a lurid story of the murder.

Tolls Being Levied On Hotel-Keepers Is Alleged By Rowe

Conservative Leader Addresses Large Rally In Canadian Legion Hall

A Royal Commission investigation into gallonage tolls he claims are being exacted from certain Ontario beverage room operators for the benefit of the Liberal campaign funds was demanded by the Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader, in an address to the Conservative convention in the Legion Hall last night.

Repeating a charge he made earlier this week, he declared: "I have every reason to believe tolls are being levied on hotel keepers in certain parts of the province on a gallonage basis. On the eve of the election I demand a Royal Commission investigation into these tolls being charged at the present time."

He said he would ask that the Royal Commission investigate the entire Ontario liquor control policy. "We have seen the most reckless control of liquor in this province in many years. Licenses have been granted taxi stands, lunch rooms and many places not intended for hotels."

Referring again to tolls, he declared, "I warn hotel keepers an investigation of where this money is going will be made. In fairness to the honest hotelkeepers who have paid for their licenses I say they need not pay a cent."

Many Shots

Delivered to a capacity Legion Hall audience which waited an hour for the leader's delayed arrival, Mr. Rowe's address contained shots directed at all sallents on the Hepburn front. He charged the premier with having initiated the separate school tax act as a ruse to gain the votes of separate school supporters, knowing that an about-face would be necessary.

"They must have known it would not work when they brought it in," he said. "Mr. Hepburn has some highly paid legal advisers yet it was a clumsily drafted piece of legislation. It appears it was clumsily drafted for a purpose." He said the Act was repealed after it had served its purpose for the Hepburn Government on the ground it was too clumsily drafted to work.

"Why shouldn't the province have a $9,000,000 surplus," the speaker demanded as he charged the government had cut down on many necessary social services to make possible the surplus. The government had cut down on agricultural grants, on education. Grants for free insulin had been reduced, grants to the Blind Institute had been cut $10,000 a year, the government had spent only $90,000 on hospitalization the year the surplus was announced.

Forgotten Man

In its eagerness to show a surplus at any cost, the Hepburn Government left the man on the back concession the completely forgotten man of 1937, Mr. Rowe asserted. Almost nothing has been done for the farmer by the Government, he said. While services to the taxpayer have been cut down, tax revenues have been increased for the purpose of the surplus, he declared.

With the election in the offing this year, the picture of expenditures on social services changed completely, he charged. He said the spending of more than $3,000,000 in hospitalization has been initiated this year as compared with the $90,000 last budget year.

"A mental hospital is being built in almost every riding where there is a cabinet minister left. There are not many cabinet ministers left, you know. At one time Mr. Hepburn

Pup That Bit Boy Wins A Reprieve

Victoria, Sept. 9.

A 10-months-old Boston bull terrier, sentenced to death for biting a boy dressed as a bear yesterday won a reprieve.

The little brown-and-white dog, sentenced to death last June after biting 9-year-old Arthur Watson, had his sentence commuted to "be held in a kennel at Duncan, B.C."

County Court Judge H. Shandley issued the reprieve yesterday following representation by counsel for Douglas and Paul Ward, schoolboy owners of the pup, that an appeal against the death sentence be adjourned sine die. Magistrate Henry V. Hall imposed the death sentence last June.

NAZIS ACROSS U.S. ORGANIZING ARMY IN RAPID FASHION

CHICAGO, Sept. 93.—(AP).—The Daily Times said in a copyright article to-day that "in uniforms strangely suggestive of those worn by Adolf Hitler's Nazi storm troops, a relatively small but growing army is preparing for the American counterpart of 'Der Tag' when it plans to seize control of the United States."

The newspaper said the article resulted from an "exhaustive investigation of American Nazis" made by three reporters and investigators, James J. Metcalfe, his brother and William A. Mueller. Mueller wrote the article.

The investigators, the newspaper said, "worked for many months both from within and outside the Amerikadeutscher Volksbund— German-American Bund—its its companion organization, the Deutscher Volksbund," travelling from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, to "learn International secrets."

"Under the name of Oberwinder," the article continued, "the Metcalfe brothers months ago built themselves up as Nazi sympathizers and were accepted as members of the organizations.

John Metcalfe established himself in the predominantly German Yorkville section of New York and later acted as a propagandist for the Amerikadeutscher Bund on a cross-country tour.

"A month later John Metcalfe became a storm trooper in New York. His brother, James, was accepted as a member of the alien army operated by the Deutscher Volksbund in Chicago.

"The Times investigators found the German brand of Fascism spreading throughout the nation. Leaders of the movement say they will seize control of the United States, but not until 'the Communists' revolution starts!'

"The organization is an integral part of the Hitler movement in Germany. Leaders are in frequent communication with Berlin. Every method of modern propaganda is used to win converts to the cause.

"Chief tenet of the German-American Bund is an intense hatred of Jews and all things Jewish. Other anti-Semitic organizations are lining up with the Bund in what leaders plan will be a general Fascist merger.

"The Amerika-Deutscher Volksbund now has 60-odd orstgrupper, or posts, scattered from coast to coast. Each group has a select organization of 'ordnungs dienst' commonly called O.D.'s. The avowed purpose of this uniformed force is to police Bund gatherings, but it is an exact replica of the Hitler storm troops."

OMEMEE MAN KILLED IN FALL

OMEMEE, Sept. 9 — Suffering a broken back when he fell from a roof on Wednesday evening, Samuel Mills, 72-year-old contractor and carpenter, died of his injuries an hour and a half later.

The funeral is to be held from the family residence here on Friday afternoon, with interment at Emily Cemetery.

An old-established resident of the community, Mr. Mills was held in wide respect and esteem. He leaves his wife and son, Cecil Mills. He lost another son who was killed on active service during the Great War.

In some manner Mr. Mills lost his footing while repairing a chimney on the roof of his son's residence on King Street. In falling he struck the adder and landed on the ground on his head and shoulders.

Britain Will Press Action To Assure Safety High Seas

British Navy Expected To Assume Work On Behalf Of Everyone Else

By George Hambleton
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Sept. 9 (CP Cable) — Foreign Secretary Eden and Admiral of the Fleet Lord Chatfield, First Sea Lord, fly to Paris this afternoon, enroute to Nyon. Tonight they dine with Premier Chautemps and have preliminary talks with the French government.

Despite the absence of Germany and Italy from the conference, the plan is to go ahead. It is felt here that there is a big job ahead which must be done if the high seas are to be made safe for merchant shipping.

But Nyon—that quiet little place on Lake Geneva—is likely again to pass from the limelight. Nyon was chosen in deference to Italian susceptibilities. With Italy away the talks are likely to move to Geneva.

Difficult Job.

Yet with the absence of Italy difficulties before the conference increase. British naval experts had devised a scheme which it was thought would end the menace. The essence of it was that all participating governments agreed to keep their submarines within strictly defined zones. Any submarines found outside these zones would be classed as piratical and could be destroyed. But effectiveness of the plans depends on general acceptance.

"The conference," the Daily Express predicts, "will decide to take strong action against pirate submarines. That is well known. The British navy will decide to take action on behalf of everybody else. It is the usual form of such conferences. This one with the Turks, Greeks and Albanians will be no change. Whoever meets the Greeks, the Greeks get the best of it."

MOUNTIES TURNING TOWARDS SCIENCE

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(CP).—The grand old days of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police when a scarlet-coated Mountie kept law and order in a few thousand square miles of territory with a six-shooter and a horse, are about over.

Most of the horses are gone and now the Mounties are investing $10,000 in scientific gadgets to help them catch their man. They are building a crime-detection laboratory, complete with microscopes, ballistic gauges and cameras and the time may come when Mounties will carry magnifying glasses instead of guns.

Assistant Commissioner S. T. Wood, when he was in Europe with the Coronation troop of Mounties, studied the scientific methods of Scotland Yard and the French Surete and the laboratory is being patterned after them.

MRS. M. A. BLAIR DIES

VANCOUVER, Sept. 9.—(CP). — Mrs. M. A. Blair, 99 years old and believed to be one of the first women to receive a Master of Arts degree in North America, died here Tuesday.

A native of Fairfield, N.J., Mrs. Blair came to Canada in 1868 to become preceptress of Albert College in Belleville, Ont. She had received her Master of Arts degree in 1861.

She was the widow of Rev. William Blair, whom she met in Belleville.

'LEWIS' HECKLERS FAIL TO DAMPEN HEPBURN ADDRESS

TIMMINS, Ont., Sept. 9 (C.P.).—Orderly progress towards solution of social problems and improved labor conditions is the policy of Ontario's Liberal Government. Premier Mitchell Hepburn told a Northern mining audience last night his Government's stand on problems facing the province.

The Premier, who speaks at Kirkland Lake and New Liskeard to-day, defied a group of interrupters and described them as "Lewis' men" who had appeared to disrupt the meeting. Before the miners he reiterated his opposition to John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Through the Industrial Standards Act and the Labor and Industry Board the Government was moving towards the elimination of all sweatshops in Ontario. This, ahe Premier said, was the way of progress. Nothing could be gained by disrupting industry and Canada's export trade.

U.S. Losing Trade.

Ontario industry could not operate if it could not quote competitive prices and provide steady deliveries to world markets. The United States was losing its export trade because of industrial instability. John L. Lewis was doing more harm to the laboring people of the United States than "the meanest employer in that country."

Mr. Hepburn said Northern Ontario was prosperous now because of the forestry and financial policies of the Liberal Government. There was hardly an employable man out of work in the North.

The Government reclaimed the timber limits granted to friends of former Conservative Governments and found men work by permitting export of pulpwood to the United States. At the same time the Government saw that pulp mills were established in Ontario so export would not continue indefinitely.

REFUSES TO ATTEND

BERLIN, Sept. 9 (CP-Havas) — Germany today delivered to the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain and France a note indicating unwillingness to attend the Mediterranean conference which those countries had called for tomorrow at Nyon, Switzerland.

The German reply, drawn up by Chancellor Hitler, said the Reich wished to prove its good will by suggesting that the London non-intervention committee, instead of the Nyon conference be asked to consider the Mediterranean problem.

London Chinese Houseman Beaten, Robbed In Car

Victim Has Eyes Battered, Teeth Knocked Out—8th Raid In Hamilton-Toronto Area

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 9—(CP)—Stopped by two men as he drove his automobile three miles west of here last night, Allan Chan, Chinese houseman for Dr. C. N. Abbott, London, was beaten and robbed of $2.50.

Left by the side of his car as the thugs fled, Chan, dazed, attempted to drive to the city for aid. His eyes swollen and blood streaming from his mouth where two teeth had been knocked out, he was unable to steer the car and it went in a ditch. A passing motorist came to his aid.

Police were unabel to say if the robbery was the work of bandits who have carried out eight raids on motorists in the Toronto and Hamilton districts in the last few weeks.

One of the men waved for him to stop and give him a light for a cigarette he displayed, Chan told police. The Chinese put up a fight before he was overpowered and told police he bit deeply into a finger of one of his attackers.

Janetville Beach Guard's Kindness Wins Hunting Coat From "The Kids"

Lindsay, Sept. 9.

CHILDREN have unique ways of expressing appreciation for kindnesses received from adults.

This was shown here today when twenty tots, ranging in age from 4 to 12, stormed the office of the Horn Brothers Woollen Company and demanded the "best hunting coat you have." Thinking it was all a practical joke, the clerk asked the kiddies to produce the money, whereupon one chubby little fellow unrolled a handkerchief, containing enough nickels and coppers to make up the required amount.

Investigation disclosed that the coat was to be a surprise present for Richard Bell, caretaker of the beach a Janetville, south of here. Mr. Bell has endeared himself to the children with all his kind acts throughout the summer, and the kiddies just wanted to show their thanks.

LINDSAY PREPARES FOR RUSHING WEEK

LINDSAY, Sept. 9.—Lindsay merchants are preparing for what will probably be the biggest week's business of the year.

Commencing next Tuesday, the town is expected to be filled with visitors from every corner of the Counties of Victoria and Haliburton for the remainder of the week. Tuesday, Liberals will gather to hear the Premier of Ontario, Hon. Mitchell Hepburn, who will speak in the Armories, and on Wednesday the same building will be filled with Conservatives, with Denton Massey, M.P., as the speaker.

Thursday and Friday and Saturday will attract large crowds, as the Lindsay Central Exhibition holds its sixty-first annual showing. Many improvements have been made this year at the Fair Grounds, and the prize list has been increased.

Waits Ten Months Husband To Awake

New York, Sept. 9.

MISS LILLIAN LORBER, Old-Age Pension Bureau investigator, reported yesterday that a routine call at an upper East Side apartment led to the discovery an elderly woman had been living with the body of her husband for more than ten months.

Miss Lorber, who called police when she saw what appeared to be a skeleton on a bed in the two-room apartment, said the woman explained she was waiting for her husband "to get up."

In the apartment was found a certificate showing the husband, Frank Cudas, died Oct. 26, 1936.

GIVES BIRTH TO CHILD

WATERTOWN, N.Y., Sept. 9. — (AP)—Mrs. Leona Elizabeth Roshia Backus, 12, married last January to Stanley S. Backus, 18, gave birth to a daughter Sunday at the State Institution.

Announcement was made by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roshia after their return from the institution, where the girl was committed last spring by Judge Harold F. Porter.

Wild Nipissing Liberal Meet Fails Name Candidate

Top Man Of 5 In Ring Lacks Sufficient Votes—Police Kept Busy On Patrol

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Sept. 9 —(CP)—Liberals of Nipissing riding failed to select a candidate for the Ontario elections in a stormy meeting last night and the convention was indefinitely adjourned. The crowd was so boisterous at times police marched through the throng to keep the meeting in hand.

It was believed here headquarters in Toronto would select a candidate for the riding, represented in the last Legislature by J. H. Marceau, Liberal, who won at a by-election following the death of Theo Legault, Liberal elected in the general elections in 1934.

Cyril P. Smith, North Bay druggist, led the field of five candidates for the nomination, but his total was not sufficient to carry the convention. He polled 152 votes and needed 170.

A Conservative candidate, Robert Rowe, is the only one nominated in the riding so far.

With the crowd of delegates booing, cheering and singing lusty French songs in turn, A. Michaud, president of the Nipissing Liberal Association, announced the convention was adjourned indefinitely.

Executive Decision.

Afterwards Mr. Michaud told the Canadian Press, the matter would be taken up with the Provincial Party Executive at Toronto.

Second to Smith on the first ballot was R. H. Bourassa, Sturgeon Falls, with 78 votes. Philip Lamothe, Mattawa, had 54 and Marceau 47. John McManus, North Bay, brought up the rear with five votes.

The second ballot, called at the last session starting at 9 p.m., was not completed, and amid the uproar Mr. Marceau announced his

HEALTH AUTHORITIES WARN WOMEN

AT LAST! A "NO-SCRUB, NO-BOIL" SOAP

That's Safe as Can Be for Colors, Hands . . .

● Millions of wash-weary women are finding relief this amazing way. For here's a "no-scrub" soap that's really safe! A soap that soaks out dirt in 15 minutes . . . yet banishes forever the fear of faded colors and rough, red hands!

OXYDOL was perfected by the makers of gentle Ivory soap, at the cost of $1,000,000. Combining speed and safety in an utterly new way, it does these 4 amazing things:

(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes, without scrubbing or boiling. Even grimy collar bands come snowy white with a few quick rubs. (2) Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. (3) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter, proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (4) Yet so safe that every washable color comes out sparkling, brilliant, fresh. And hands stay soft and lovely.

Even sheer cotton prints washed 100 consecutive times in OXYDOL suds, showed no perceptible sign of fading.

It's economical, too! Tests show that, cup for cup, one package will go ⅓ to ½ again as far as even the latest soap chips on the market. One package often gives twice the suds—does twice the work—lasts twice as long as less modern soaps.

Quit scrubbing your life away! Try this new safe "no-scrub" soap and end the drudgery of washday. Get OXYDOL today. Procter & Gamble.

LOWER TRADE BARS RECIPROCAL BASIS SEEN AID TO PEACE

VANCOUVER, Sept. 9 (CP)—International relations the major topic of discussion before delegates at the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce here today.

Major speakers on the third day of the convention were H. R. MacMillan, Vancouver; Dr. W. Black, Montreal, and E. H. Adams, Vancouver. Senator J. W. de B. Farris of Vancouver will address a luncheon meeting on "an interpretation of Canadian unity."

Problems of management and labor, social security, agriculture, railways, the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations, and other topics were debated by the convention yesterday. C. G. Pfeiffer, New York, told a luncheon gathering reduction of duties and other trade barriers on a reciprocal basis would be a step toward solution of excessive nationalistic reactions to war and postwar experience.

Asks Assistance.

Delegates were urged by W. Sanford Evans, Winnipeg economist, to assist the Royal Commission in its inquiry into taxation and Dominion-Provincial relations. Mr. Evans said the inquiry offered a great opportunity for development of national unity.

Mr. Evans suggested two ways in which Canadian business men might assist the inquiry: (1) By showing the commission they stand with the mass of their fellow-citizens in requiring that their plan shall be that of a nation; and (2) By showing that the central standpoint to be maintained in considering Canadian problems should be that of the citizen rather than that of the administrative bodies of Dominion, provinces and municipalities.

"From the standpoint of the citizen, the problem can be resolved into simple elements," Mr. Evans said. "It calls only for ordinary, long-tested business methods and common-sense.

"Provincial governments and some municipal councils are now pondering elaborate cases to present to the commission. No doubt the Dominion Government will make representations also. The points between these governments relate mainly to details of administration.

"But are these to be the only cases presented? Nothing could well come of that but a patchwork of compromise. I suggest that the approach to the problem must be from the standpoint of the citizen whose need it is to be the citizen of a nation."

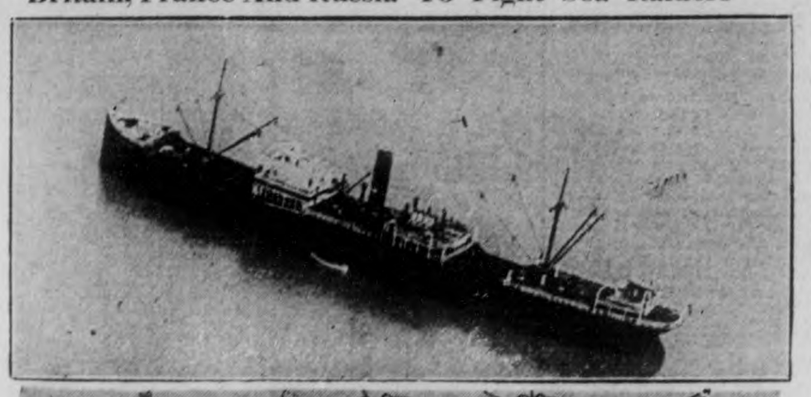
Britain, France And Russia To Fight Sea Raiders



Angered by repeated attacks upon their shipping by submarines and aeroplanes in the Mediterranean, but fearful that the Russian note openly accusing Italy of authorizing the attacks, may lead to open conflict, Britain and France are seeking united action to drive the mysterious 'pirate' vessels from the waters around embattled Spain. More than 20 ships of Russian, British and French registry have been attacked, mostly in the Mediterranean. One of the British victims was the African Trader from London, pictured at top, beached near La Rochelle, France, with a bad hole in her forward end. An insurgent Spanish bombing aeroplane was blamed in this instance. Map indicates where recent submarine raids have taken place; the dates and distances clearly show that one submarine credited to rebel General Franco could not have made all the attacks.

U.S. SHIP OWNERS WARNED OF SUBS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(UP)—The United States navy last night warned American shipowners that unidentified submarines, aircraft and surface vessels are attacking merchantmen in the Mediterranean Sea, shortly after Secretary of State Cordell Hull had discussed the situation with Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the Maritime Commission.

The warning was broadcast in the daily memorandum to mariners issued by the navy's Hydrographic Office. Earlier, Hull said at a press conference that this Government has made no plans to protect American shipping in the Mediterranean, but called attention to the serious conditions existing there and indicated that United States shipowners should operate with care.

In Three Arears

The circular listed three areas in which attacks have been made:

1. Western Mediterranean off the east coast of Spain in the vicinity of the Balearic Islands and off the coast of Algeria.
2. Central Mediterranean off the Island of Malta.
3. Eastern Mediterranean and the Aegean Sea.

While the State Department watched closely developments in Europe and in the Far East, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper said threats of war have not yet hampered America's internal and external business and industry.

Chief uneasiness, as reflected by the break in the stock market, is directed only at speculative business, he said.

"The accepted indices reveal great prosperity in trade, commerce and industry," Roper said at a press conference. "In the first eight months of this year industrial production increased 17 per cent. over that of last year and freight carloadings were up 13 per cent."

The future effect of the Sino-Japanese clash on American business will depend upon this country's neutrality policy, Roper said.

When Fear Steps In

War talk when it becomes severe gives the markets of the world the jitters. Fear is the reason why so many people want to sell off what they possess. They become obsessed with the idea that if they turn their holdings into cash at once they will have accomplished something which will protect them. So they begin offering their holdings for sale, and when a number of people do the same thing there are more offerings being made than the market can absorb. Right then it becomes decidedly a buyers' market, and the buyers say what they will pay rather than the seller being able to name the price.

Generally people have time afterward to think it over. There were a number of good mining stocks which went down several points in the "fear" market of Tuesday for instance, but if one were at any of the mining properties represented by these stocks it would be found that men were working away there the day after the scare just the same as they were when the scare arrived. The value of the property and of its output would not have diminished at all.

There were good industrial stocks which were caught up in the slide, and an inspection of the premises of these industries would reveal that the whistle blew in the morning after the scare just the same as it had on the morning before. Men were going about their business making goods; other men were busy securing orders for them, while others would be attending to the packing and delivery. Nothing had changed. When fear grips a people they generally do the wrong thing.

Wants To Think For Himself

Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew K. C., is ready to accept nomination as an Independent Conservative, and he wants that nomination in South Wellington. Wants it there because Guelph is his home city as it was of his father before him. It cannot be urged that Lieut.-Col. Drew is asking for an easy assignment or a political sure thing, as South Wellington gave the Liberals a substanstial majority at the general election and in a subsequent by-election, although prior to that the seat was Conservative.

Mr. Drew was formerly the organizer for the Conservative party in Ontario, but he resigned because he could not agree with the stand which Hon. Earl Rowe had taken toward the C. I. O. He was inclined to believe Premier Hepburn was right. The former organizer for the party makes it plain he has not ceased to be a Conservative, and he is ready to "support what he believes to be Conservative principles." When something comes to the front in his party which he does not believe is in accord with Conservative principle then we take it Mr Drew would refuse to give to it his support.

There is a degree of strength in the position he has taken and also in his method of enunciating it. Col. Drew fears there has been too much small debating in the Legislature, and too much politically-born strife between the Provinces and the Dominion. And he says so plainly. The lot of the political independent is not always a happy one, but it does seem the Colonel has said something which needed saying. Just this—a strong man cannot accept the position where his mind is going to be made up for him by the crack of the party whip.

He Missed The Real London

It was interesting to read in an exchange a letter written by a Canadian who had been spending a few days in Old London on the way home from the continent. He writes at some length about Paris and tells of Brussels and Amsterdam. In referring to London he says "It seems to be entirely modernized and not unlike any other of the larger cities. The subways give one splendid service, and the stores are up-to-date."

We fear this traveller has missed London. He refers to a sidetrip to Hampton Court, which "was pleasing indeed, being one of the places built by Henry VIII." Yes, he missed something there. Hampton Court was built by Cardinal Wolsey as a palace for himself, but his royal master Henry VIII took a fancy to the place, and Henry was a monach who usually got what he wanted, and that applied to Hampton Court.

Nor is London entirely modernized; if it were it would cease to be interesting. The Yeoman of the guard at the Tower of London wears the Tudor uniform; the band of his majesty's Life Guards the uniform of the Stuart days; the judges in the law courts wear the full-buttoned wigs and gowns of the late 17th century. The Tower of London is a grim fortress which has been in continuous use since William the Conqueror built it to overawe the citizens of London almost 900 years ago.

St. Paul's Cathedral the dome of which dominates the London skyline, has been called "the parish church of the British Empire." It is not modern. The original cathedral was destroyed in the great fire of London in 1666, and in its place Sir Christopher Wren designed the present building. Walking along High Holborn one comes to the gables and black and white timbers of a structure of the days of Queen Elizabeth. Nor is Buckingham Palace new or modern. Takes its name from a house built by the Duke of Buckingham in 1703, and purchased by King George III in 1762. It became the London residence of royalty in the reign of Queen Victoria. The Houses of Parliament are not new; they were rebuilt in 1840-50 after a fire which destroyed all the building except the crypt of St. Stephen's church and Westminister Hall. And Westminster Hall was originally built in 1097, and it was there King Charles I. was condemned to death.

If London were actually modern and stripped of its historic wealth it would be just another large place. Instead of that it is the most interesting city in the world.

Should Be No Delay

The Ontario Labor and Industry Board held its initial session in Toronto, and its business will be to make inquiries into wages and working conditions in textile factories. The calling of this Board was an outcome of the strike in this city and Cornwall, although the scope of the inquiry is to include other factories making goods of a kind similar to those manufactured in Peterbrough and Cornwall.

At the end of the report was this statement: "After the preliminary hearing the Board adjourned without setting a date for resumption." During the session the presiding official, after outlining the duties of the members, said; "This is a hard task and we must have your aid and assistance."

Certainly it is a hard task, and that is all the more reason why the work should be brought under way as quickly as possible. In fairness to the workers who returned to their places in the mills it should be done soon. They went back to work on the written understanding that the Labor and Industry board would analyze the situation and make its report, and on that report wage adjustments would be made retroactive to the time when the workers returned. The date for resumption should be named and it ought to be in the very near future.

Waited 12 Years

Robert Davies left his home in Wales in 1925 to make a start 'n Canada. When he left he was engaged to Miss Frances Perry. Things were not going too well for the Welshman in Canada, so he was not able to marry. For one thing he was living in this country when the well-known depression came and that of course did not help a man who was bent on getting married.

But correspondence was continued with no interruption for twelve years, and it must have been of the hopeful and helpful sort. Mr. Davies left Hamilton for Wales several weeks ago, and more recently Mr. and Mrs. Davies returned from Wales to Hamilton.

There is something to be said for people who have the sort of confidence and trust which weathers well twelve years of waiting. They are as a rule pretty sure of where they are going before they start, nor are they easily turned aside from the course which they have elected to follow. There is apt to be a deal of wholesome substance in all they do.

Fowl Supper On The Tenth

We have noticed where Examiner correspondents in three localities have recorded within recent days that plans are being made for the annual fowl supper. The dates are not nigh unto us yet, but it has been considered best to have a committee named to make arrangements.

On the Tenth Concession where the church stood at the corner of the Broken Front Road there were two ladies' organizations. One was the Mission Circle and the other the Willing Workers. A fair number were members of both, but when it came time for making plans for the annual fowl supper there was a fusion of forces, or as they say in the Labor world of today a united front. When it was announced on a Sunday that the committee for the annual fowl supper had been named that was a general alarm and it set the people to talking about as soon as they got home and the conversation generally turned on just which and what members of the poultry yard was going to be sacrificed on the high altar of the annual fowl supper.

On the Tenth Concession the folk were practical in the manner in which they approached such a subject, and they were practical in the manner with which they ultimately dealt with it. Grandfather would urge there was no sense or reason in sacrificing a pullet that was just getting handy in the matter of laying eggs. It wasn't well filled out yet and would not go far at a chicken supper. And he wasn't very much in favor of knocking off a hen a year and a-half old with a good red comb which showed symptoms of attending strictly to business. One might have suspected grandfather objected to the Biblical method of presenting the first fruits as an offering, but such a thing was never openly suggested.

It was generally agreed that the older members of the flock should furnish the recruits for the annual fowl supper. Grandfather argued that they had had their chance; they had seen something of life and its ways, and also that going up the road for the annual fowl supper at the church was rather a nice way for an old hen to end its days. It was about the same sensation as having a son taking up the collection or a daughter playing the organ or singing in the choir or teaching a class at Sunday School time. It gave one a good sound feeling of helpfulness.

So it was that quite a while before the annual fowl supper took place there had been decisions made regarding the hens which were going to participate. The decision might be altered if some of the older hens showed an interest in life. A spell of regularity on the nest or the production of a double-yolked egg might have meant a new lease of life for a hen, but of course there was no way of communicating such information to the hens, so the first decision and selection generally stood.

And on Lot 4 Concession Ten we knew the same thing was going on elsewhere. It might have sounded attractive to call it a chicken supper, but in the interests of truth and righteousness it was always referred to as the annual fowl supper. For that's what it was. The folk cleared the conscience by concluding the hens would be well boiled anyhow and in that way they would throw off the sinews of years and become as young things when prodded with the knife and fork. We're not certain how they run things in the district around here. It may be they sacrifice pullets and good hens with red combs and leave the older ones to die a natural death. We were just recalling how it used to be done on the Tenth Concession.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Toronto proposal to stage a campaign for the elimination of ragweed is a suggestion that is not to be sneezed at.

Premier Hepburn has promised the north better roads. There is nothing that improves the highways so quickly as an election.

Berlin is to have six nights of darkness while mimic air raids are staged. It is nothing new these days for the German people to be kept in the dark.

Former Premier Blum of France says that Europe is drifting into war. One thing is certain that if a conflict does eventuate no one can say that no warning was given.

North Dakota is talking about establishing a state lottery. The people of Alberta adopted much the same thing when they elected the Aberhart Government.

A Lorain, O., man has worked thirty-three years for the same employer and has only three weeks off in that time. It seems reasonable to suggest that he has earned the right to a steady job.

Wellington South may have a Communist candidate in the coming election. The chances are he will be more in the Red when his campaign bills come in.

At St. Thomas a train hit an automobile and the driver of the latter escaped unhurt. It may be necessary to warn other motorists that the odds against such a happy outcome are about 1000 to 1.

Premier King has notified the Alberta government that further argument over the disallowance of Alberta banking legislation is unnecessary and the majority of Canadians will agree with the Prime Minister.

A Massachusetts doctor has succeeded in converting carbon into "ice" with a temperature of 446 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. We are satisfied there was none of that kind of stuff around this section a week ago.

Election enumerators are busy tabulating the names of those eligible to vote at the coming provincial election. The next operation will be to endeavor to persuade those listed to get out and use their franchise in accordance with their promises.

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Alfalfa on her holidays, existed in delightful ways, and got a coat of tan; and pleasure was not hard to get, the first day up there she had met, a most delightful man.

¶ He told Alfalfa that her eyes, were like the stars within the skies, and not like other girls; he told her also that her teeth, were beautiful beyond belief, just like two rows of pearls.

¶ He told her that her hair was gold, a crown of beauty to behold, it turned Alfalfa's head; for none had called it gold before, in fact the lady in the store, had always called it red.

¶ He said the color on her face, no artist's hand could pen or trace, a sign of buoyant health; Alfalfa knew that was not so, and she's the one who ought to know, she'd put it on herself.

¶ He said she was a dainty miss, would bring some man great gobs of bliss, in fact she was divine; Alfalfa knew not what to do, she tried to tuck away her shoe, it is a number nine.

¶ Alfalfa's not the same today, as when she packed and went away, she snubs the boys in town; the man had told her summer lies, about her teeth, her cheeks and eyes—she swallowed it all down.

RETAIL jewelers have been talking shop at their annual convention in New York. At a previous convention a committee had been named to discuss instalment buying, and at once the idea met with stiff opposition from the old-time trade which believed that laying cash on the line was the only way to do business. The committee reported otherwise, and claimed that if a person could be brought to the purchase of a good article of value he would take it if he had time enough to pay for it. If he had to spend only the amount of cash he had at the time of purchase he would select something much cheaper, and the rest of his money would go to other dealers. So the retail jewelery trade in United States is going in for the instalment plan of selling. Credit jewelers have already found the trade profitable.

While the convention was on a number of Pinkerton detectives had been engaged to keep their eye on the exhibits. There were plenty of small articles lying around which were valued at $10,000.

This Doctor Is Now Out.

WHEN THE Hamburg-American liner Hansa arrived at New York she was allowed to proceed straight to her dock where she discharged 933 passengers. The ship's doctor has previously vouched by radio that all on board were in good health. Then the Health Department heard that 24 of the crew of 400 were ill and bacteriological tests showed the disease was typhoid fever. Warnings were at once sent to the scattered passengers. A few days later the line cancelled 325 return-trip reservations and sailed for Hamburg empty except for crew and patients. The doctor lost his job.

South Carolina is using cotton in the construction of roads, and the idea was tried out in the first place to increase the use of this material. A truck unrolls the fabric from a huge spool. Then a sprinkler applies liquid tar preparatory to covering the fabric with stone screenings. Highway engineers say that lining a road with cotton fabric increases its life by preventing cracks and erosion.

His Answers Are Present.

DURING his working days the late Thomas Edison wrote down a number of answers to questions which came up in his vast enterprises. A few days ago there was a problem in the battery division, one of the largest plants and it looked as though the place would have to shut down. Reason? Chemists had found nickel in the $40,000 stock of Swedish iron ore (used in making the batteries.) Officials had all but decided on the close-down when some one remembered that Mr. Edison had answered that same question years ago. Looking through a number of musty files they came upon the question: "If there is nickel in iron does it adversely affect the life of the cell?" The answer was there: "No harm," and that settled it.

It is reported from Washington that President Roosevelt did not want to lose the services of Edward McGrady, assistant Secretary of Labor. The president tried to see if it were possible for him to earn enough extra writing on Labor subjects to make up the difference between his official salary and the $25,000 yearly allowance from a private employer. McGrady took the new job. He used to be a pressman on one of the Boston newspapers.

Prefer To Eat On Floor.

WEALTH and luxury have not cured the Eskimo of his habit of sitting on the floor when he eats, although he can sit at a table and handle a knife and fork with neatness and familiarity. Even aboard such ships as the "North Star," $23,000 auxiliary schooner owned by Jim Wolki and Fred Saketok, the preferred diet is fish and seal meat, copious drafts of strong tea and coffee with lots of sugar. And the meal is usually taken on the floor.

For forty-one years Frederick Palmer, who came to Canada as a child believed his mother was dead. Finally he learned she was alive and he returned to London, England to see her. Palmer, his father dead, migrated from Middlesex to a Manitoba farm when he was eight. Shortly after he received word his mother was dead. Meanwhile in error he became to be known as Fred Smith. Palmer grew up and married in the name of Smith. Efforts to trace his family through that name proved futile. One day while at work driving his C. N. R. engine the name Palmer came to him. He traced his family and found his mother, 76, and also a sister.

Will Pay For These Posts.

INSIDE information from Washington says there are several leading Democrats who are anxious to have a change made in the foreign service. They want Bingham recalled from London and Dodd from Berlin, and these are choice posts. Why? Well the story goes that several Democrats who have contributed largely to the party funds in the past and who are ready to hand over some more, are anxious to go to London and Berlin.

Police in Chicago have something else to look after now and they have been making little headway. Apparently there is a wire-tapping service on telephones available for any person who cares to pay for it. Many of the politicians have found it necessary to run to the nearest drug store phone booth to carry on their conversations. They will not risk using the phone in the office.

THE ELECTIONS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Would you spare me a bit of your valuable space. In the very near future there will be an election, and then there will be a chance to elect a party who will be for the working man like the C. C. F. At least the people can give them a chance. They won't be any worse than the other two parties. When the Conservatives were in, they sent tanks and soldiers to Stratford during the furniture strike. Now we have the Liberals in; they wanted to bring the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to Oshawa, and they sent 17 Provincials to Brockville. [illegible] the Stetson Co. people were [illegible] strike. Rather than pay a fair wage they threatened to move the plant. Recently in our own city 23 provincials were sent in to help get these two mills going again. I know they are low wage mills as I used to work at one of them. Strange as it seems there was no trouble until the police arrived. In the Liberal party were two good men who were on the side of labor, Mr. Croll and Mr. Roebuck. They were put out when they didn't agree with Hepburn. Mr. Hepburn speaks of John L. Lewis, as a labor dictator, what else is Mr. Hepburn trying to be when he says the C. I. O. is going to stay out of Ontario? About C. I. O. violence—was that C. I. O. violence on Memorial Day in Chicago when workers were shot in the back by the police when they were having a parade? That kind of stuff won't stop workers from organizing. The workers in the States and Canada are in the same boat, so they have to be in one union.

Another point—when you go in to the office of any factory, you see a framed notice on the wall stating; this factory is a member of the Canadian Manufacturers Association. They have their organization, yet when the workers try to get their union going the men are fired or warned about joining. So you see the employer can organize yet the worker is denied the right to.

During the Liberal regime a Minimum Wage Act was passed, also the 8-hour-day was put through, and we have yet to see any of these acts in force. All the worker gets is promises and no action. About the C. I. O. I find the people who are against it are a class of workers who don't understand it or retired people who don't work in a factory. Strikes are always the last resort, when conferences fail and strikes generally occur when a Company refuses to negotiate at all.

This is the first time I have a vote and it's certainly going to a party that will help the worker. All the workers ask is a fair wage. Give them that and most of these labor troubles would cease.

Must Keep the Quints Up North.

Welfare of Children Is First Consideration; Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe Is Sound on That Point

(From the Kitchener Record.)

SOME months ago a Toronto civic official conceived the bright idea that if arrangements could be made to have the Dionne quintuplets live in Casa Loma for a few months of the year that princely "white elephant" could be turned into a paying proposition. Since then another way was found to make it a revenue producer for a time at least.

Anent the proposal to have the quints live part-time in Toronto, that silly suggestion was promptly given a dose of cold water when an emphatic reply emanated from quintuplet land to the effect that the quints are part and parcel of the north country and that they would remain there.

Now we read that the guardians of the five famous little ladies turned down another proposition for their charges. They refused an offer of a half-million dollars for the appearance of the quints at the New York World Fair to be held in 1939.

The fair directors included in their lucrative proposal an offer to construct exact reproductions of everything the five little sisters have at Callander—the Dafoe nursery, the grounds and everything else. This made the offer somewhat tempting, because it would give the famous five the same protection they now enjoy and at the same time visitors to the fair would be able to see them in the Callander setting, except for the surrounding country side.

Referring to the guardians' rejection of the offer, Dr. Dafoe let it be known once again that the welfare of the children comes first. And he added, "they belong to Northern Ontario."

Dr. Dafoe's adamant stand on keeping the quints where they are will be generally approved. As the Kingston Whig-Standard says in commenting on the New York proposition: "They (the quints) have thrived so far in the climate of the land in which they were born and to take them elsewhere might mean risks. And for a second thing, the Dionne quints are the magnet drawing thousands of tourists to this province."

The latter is no idle statement when it is considered that about 60 per cent. of the cars which wended their way to quintuplet land during July and August bore American licence plates.

What About the Next Hundred Years?

Achievements of Past Can Well Justify Bright Hopes For Events of the Next Century

(From the Chatham News.)

THE ACHIEVEMENTS of the past century are wonderful to contemplate.

Most of the older generation today can recall, with amusement now, the dearth of conveniences of their boyhood and girlhood days. A few can even remember when candlelight was the only available illumination.

Within the last century have been invented or discovered all the conveniences as we know them today. The ox-cart is a vivid enough memory, but it is gone; the farmer may recall the use of the cradle for garnering his grain, but it is now a mere curio, a museum piece. The flail was a common implement for threshing grain; today it is only a vague recollection.

The farmer's good wife used to sit at the spinning wheel by the hour making yarn from which the home-spun clothing was created.

Only in the remote places can any of these implements of a generation ago be found.

Today we speak across continents and oceans; we travel at lightning speed by train and by motor car; man has harnessed the elements and soars like a bird through the air; he has conquered natural laws and made vessels that swim beneath the surface of the water. Man has made machines that produce the human voice in speech and song. Many other things are due to the genius of men, and all within the last century, and many of them within the two last decades.

What of the next century of time? The mind of man might be staggered could he but faintly imagine the wonders of nature yet to be revealed. In a comparatively few years the air may be thronged with machines as the highways are today.

In another century disease may be entirely eradicated; every germ may have been discovered and conquered. The tides and ocean waves may furnish the power for industry, and the heat of summer stored for use when winter's blasts freeze the marrow of the bones.

There may be no measuring of human genius. The mind of man is curiously and wonderfully constructed and in the convolutions of his brain there are incubating new and wonderful ideals that will finally find expression in the things that will be of benefit to the human race.

During the next hundred years man may have found the means of effecting universal brotherhood; he may have solved problems that divide nations and be able to abolish their hates and fears and make them as one. During the past one hundred years there were invented amazing machinery to accomplish the death of enemy nations. During the next century there may be means discovered to maintain life and health and vigor beyond the wildest dreams of imagination now.

Judging by the magnitude of the accomplishments of the past century and from what has been discarded, there is nothing too great for the imagination to hope for during the hundred years that are to come. The world is a wonderful place, filled with a wonderful if a misunderstanding, jealous, cantankerous people. Nature holds yet many secrets but man is uncovering them steadily and surely; the whole may eventually be laid open as a book wherein all may read the things it is well for humankind to know.

FARM FOR CHILDREN.

(Niagara Falls Review)

A COMPLETELY electrified farm, guaranteed to electrify attending farmers, will be one of the features of the 1939 New World's Fair. Feed and water will be placed before the cattle by electrical devices and livestock will enter and leave the barn through electrically-operated doors.

The children of New York's slums may never get closer to a genuine farm than a rotograuve section. The Fair's farm will not be the farm of the average American or Canadian countryside with its five a.m. chores, its dim barn, chaff-strewn loft, hand-drawn milk and excursions in zero January nights to stables where Fiosie is giving birth to a calf. That farm at the fair is going to be as unlike a real farm as it can possibly be. It is going to be a farm imagined by agricultural experts, hoped for by the agrarian in his back concession parlor and viewed with quite understandable apprehensions by those people who put farm life on canvas or detail its quiet beauties in essay and novel.

WALKING THE LAKE.

(W. L. C. in Windsor Star)

LIEUTENANT LUCIAN POWELL'S mouth must have been caked with salt and he must have been anxious for a drink of fresh water after he finished an eight-hour swim in Great Salt Lake in Utah. His aeroplane engine gave out and he landed on the lake.

People do not really swim in Salt Lake. Instead they walk. We have been in the lake and you just walk into the water. When you get out of your depth you keep moving right along, walking as though you were climbing upstairs. The buoyancy of the salted fluid keeps you afloat without trouble. It is easier to walk because swimmers get their mouths filled with the water which is most unpleasant to taste.

There are similar lakes in Canada. One at Watrous in Saskatchewan is a great summer resort to which people go from all parts of the West. It is especially attractive to those who cannot swim because they can walk right into 30 and 40 feet of water without fear of sinking.

SOAP SALESMEN PEPPED UP TALK

Two young soap salesmen who gave their names as Roger Rowe, Barrie and John Dolan, Orillia were this morning each fined $10 and $3 costs on pleading guilty before Magistrate A. E. Gee to charges of unlawfully consuming liquor.

"I suppose you had to have some liquor to pep up your sales talk," the Cadi suggested.

"Yes, Your Worship. I guess so," Rowe admitted.

Dolan said he was sorry he was in the wrong and promised such a thing would not happen again.

According to police the pair were stopping cars at the intersection of Park and Lansdowne streets early Wednesday afternoon in an effort to dispose of their wares.

Acting on a complaint Constable Joseph Wheeler went to the scene and warned the pair as to their conduct. Subsequently on receiving a second complaint the officer returned with Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd A. McClure and took them into custody.

Appearing on bail Norman Manley, 44 George street was given a further adjournment on charges of reckless driving and failing to return to the scene of an accident, to which he has entered pleas of not guilty. It is alleged that Manley was driving a car owned by R. J. Byers of the same address on September 2 last, when he collided on the Keene road with a herd of cattle maiming three calves so severely they had to be destroyed. He was represented by Reginald Chandler.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Absence of heavy speculative demand in view of an easier European political situation reduced trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to a more than usual volume to-day. Wheat fluctuated nervously within a narrow range, and at the close was ⅛ cent lower to unchanged, October $1.29¾, November, $1.29a; December, $1.26¼a, and May $1.27 ¼ to ⅜.

Every rally induced by export and overseas orders found profit-takers and hedging sales forcing wheat below yesterday's close. Values moved ⅜ cent higher in early trading but dipped nearly a cent at the halfway mark.

Trading generally lacked the rush of the previous two sessions although export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at 400,000 bushels. Mill support was thin.

Peterborough Hotel Men Deny "Gallonage Tolls" Been Paid

Meeting Called In Lindsay Under Direction Of Hotelmen's Association

Proprietors of several Peterborough hotels were among the hotelmen of this district who attended the meeting in Lindsay last week at which Conservatives claim an appeal for campaign funds was made, it was learned today. Inquiries made among Peterborough beverage rooms this morning brought firm denials that any "gallonage tolls" have been paid to campaign funds from here.

The charge that gallonage tolls had been levied in certain Provincial centers on hotels was repeated by Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader, in his address in Peterborough last night. Proprietors queried this morning contended stoutly they had received no appeals for funds from either party, had made no contributions and had heard no threats of license cancellations.

The hotelmen's meeting which Peterborough hotelmen attended in Lindsay is reported by the Lindsay press to have been called by J. W. Connell, managing director of the Hotel's Association of Ontario. It is claimed Mr. Connell set forth a proposition that the hotelmen contribute on a gallonage basis to a "campaign fund." One hotelkeeper is alleged to have had the sum of $175 mentioned as his share while another is said to have been asked for $110.

Mr. Wellman of Lindsay, one of the hotel men attending, stated after the meeting: "As far as I am aware the Hotelmen's Association took it upon themselves to collect campaign funds to be divided equally between both the Conservative and Liberal parties." Mr. Wellman said he was not in favor of the proposition advanced by Mr. Connell, and saw no object in such a move. He stated the Hotelmen's Association had done considerable good work for hotelmen in the past, but that he could not subscribe to their views as regards campaign funds.

L. M. Frost, K.C., Conservative candidate for Victoria-Haliburton, made the following statement when interviewed concerning the "hotelmen's meeting:

"On Monday, August 30th, it was openly noised about the streets of the town that a meeting of beverage room licenses had been called for this town, covering Victoria, Haliburton and Peterborough Counties. Apparently a proposition was made that the hotelkeepers should contribute to campaign funds on a gallonage basis. The contribution had been worked out by Mr. J. W. Connell, who represented the Hotelkeepers' Association of Ontario, on a gallonage basis. The contribution of one man was $175 and another $110.

"In so far as I know, the Hotelmen had the good sense to turn the proposition down cold."

Mr. Frost was joined by J. A. McLaughlin, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, in denying that Conservative or Liberal party had approached hotelmen with any appeal for funds.

"In view of these facts," he said, "it is perfectly incomprehensible that some church authorities should take red Spain's side.

"All this might have happened with us except for Adolf Hitler.

"The churches ought to be everlastingly grateful to us. But, instead, they insist on trespassing on the domains of the State."

He reverted to his original theme: "The peoples of Europe can no longer afford to bury their heads like ostriches!

"They must make up now—any delay is sinful.

"The Valencia government is not a State; it is merely a Bolshevistic executive committee; a red section of Spain; not a State recognizable by law, but a portion torn away from the motherland and now being conquered by the lawful representative of the Spanish people."

LAKEFIELD

Mrs. Harvey and Miss Grace Yonge of Lakefield spent the past week at Stoney Lake, at Mrs. Harvey's cottage on Big Island.

Miss M. Sanderson and Miss Betty Thompson of Lakefield returned on Tuesday from an enjoyable motor trip to Montreal and Quebec, P.Q.

Delightful weather and beautiful surroundings combined to make the afternoon tea held on Tuesday, August 31, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Duff, Lakefield, a most enjoyable affair. Tea was served on the spacious lawn overlooking the Otonabee. Members of the executive of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Lakefield, who arranged the function, acted as hostesses. Mrs. J. M. Simpson poured tea. A home-cooking booth on the grounds attracted a number of patrons. Proceeds from the tea and sale were very gratifying.

DIEGEL LEADS CLASSY FIELD CANADIAN OPEN

ST. ANDREW'S GOLF CLUB, Toronto, Sept. 9 (C.P.). — Leo Diegel, veteran campaigner from Philmont, Pa., opened his challenge for a fifth Canadian open golf championship to-day with a rousing 67, three under par, on the first 18-hole round of the title struggle.

Dapper Leo missed a six-foot putt on the 18th green and still posted a score that appeared likely to withstand the firing of 17 or more of the best scorers in United States and Canadian golf.

Four times winner of the title, won last year by Lawson Little of San Francisco, Diegel blazed a course to the turn in 31, four under par, and had a stampeding gallery on his heels as he turned homeward with the course record of 65 at his mercy.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., set the record here a year ago, but it eluded Diegel when his first putt on the 18th curved past the cup by an inch. It was his only putting lapse.

Diegel finished a few minutes after the giant Little set out to defend the championship he won with a record-breaking 271 for 72 holes.

On the way to the turn, Diegel posted birdies at the second, fourth, fifth and eighth holes, and had five threes during his amazing scoring streak.

He was one over par on the 10th and evened matters with a birdie four on the long 12th. On the 190-yard 13th his tee shot landed in a bunker and he barely reached the green with an explosion shot. But he saved himself by dropping a 42-foot putt. Diegel missed his second on the 14th and was over par, then came home in even figures.

FEWER CASES OF PARALYSIS ARE REPORTED

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP).—As the number of infantile paralysis cases dwindled, medical authorities today expressed belief cooler weather helped curb the spread of the disease which struck both East and West early in June. Since its advent the epidemic has claimed 56 lives and afflicted more than 1,400 persons throughout Canada.

Ontario with more than 1,250 cases presents the most serious situation. Toronto district, where 23 persons died, and London area, where seven lives were taken, were in the centres attacked most severely by the germ.

Western Canada has recorded 93 cases and six deaths. More than 70 have been stricken in the East, where four have died. Turner Valley oil fields in the foothill country south of Calgary was another western point to take precautions when town fathers decided to close schools.

London yesterday reported two new cases. When a five-year-old boy was stricken at Merritton, the school he attended was closed and other schools also may be shut.

Two new cases were admitted to Hamilton General Hospital last night when it also was reported the condition of a Milton woman in an "iron lung" for nearly a week, was still unchanged. The woman was placed in the device when she became too weak to breath normally. The number of cases in the Cobourg district was raised to two when a Vernonville boy became ill and was given a serum injection.

Sea Saga Hero

Addley Baker, 25, swam 25 hours through a raging storm to bring word of the plight of his ship, the freighter Tarpon, to the coast guard at Mobile, Ala., who saved 11 of the crew from the sea after the vessel sank off Panama City, Fla.

Loss of Sleep
Leads to Nervous Breakdown

The worker goes to bed tired and exhausted.
If sleep is disturbed by irritated nerves,
He arises shaky, confused and unrefreshed.
His general health suffers, efficiency is lowered
And he becomes a neurasthenic,
Worried, nervous and jumps at every noise.
Brain workers especially are subject to nervous disorders
And must be rescued from this condition,
If they are to escape mental as well as bodily troubles.
The logical treatment is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food,
For this food treatment supplies the ingredients
From which red blood and nervous energy are created.
It cannot fail to be of benefit to you.

3018

This little wool "half" coat is going to town as well as to campus this fall. Its casualness makes it so entirely useful. You'll wear it over almost everything from tweed skirts to afternoon frocks. A slim stitched plait is released to give the back of this youthful top coat a swagger flare. The model may also be made three-quarter length. Corduroy with plaid wool lining and leather buttons is especially smart for school and college wear. Style No. 3016 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 54-inch material with 2¼ yards of 39-inch material.

Murphy—Devlin

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of the Immaculate Conception by the Rev. Father Walsh at eight-thirty on Monday morning, when Mary Loretta, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin of Otonabee, became the bride of Leo Edward Murphy, younger son of Mrs. Annie Murphy and the late John Murphy.

Given in marriage by her father, the young bride was charming in her lovely gown of ivory Duchess satin, with upper bodice of suede lace, close-fitting "fingertip" sleeves, and graceful skirt falling at the back into a long train. A Princess Marina coronet held her veil of embroidered silk net, which fell in a long train beyond the hem of her gown. Her gloves and shoes were of white kid and she carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses.

Miss Mary O'Connor of Detroit, as bridesmaid was becomingly gowned in a princess frock of pale pink silk net, caught with taffeta roses and knots of pale blue. She wore a picture hat of pale blue mohair, trimmed with a large pink bow, long blue lace mittens, blue slippers, and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses.

The groom was attended by his cousin, Jack Keating, Jr. The ushers were Gerald Devlin and Ernest Francis. The wedding music was played by Miss McCabe and Miss Phyllis Cowle sang during the Nuptial Mass.

Following the ceremony a reception attended by fifty guests, was held at the home of the bride, Mrs. Devlin, mother of the bride, was gowned in black crepe and velvet, with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Murphy mother of the groom, assisting also in receiving, was gowned in black crepe, with black hat and accessories. Her corsage was of Premier roses.

The happy couple left later for Montreal and Ottawa, the bride travelling in a dark green wool suit, close-fitting black hat, and black suede accessories. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Murphy will reside in Peterborough.

The groom's gift to the bride was an aeropack, to the bridesmaid an amethyst Rosary, to the best man, a signet ring and to the ushers, tie holders.

Shower For Miss Marie Collins

In honor of Miss Marie Collins, a bride-elect of next week, a delightful miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. William Dolan of Hunter Street on Wednesday evening.

Pink streamers and white bells were charming decorations in the rooms, with lovely color notes added by a silver basket and vases of gladioli, sweet peas and cosmos. The many attractive gifts for the guest of honor were presented to her from a beautifully decorated basket.

Assisting the hostess to serve the delicious refreshments were the Misses Irene Logan, Georgina McMahon, Norma and Helen Dolan. During the evening, Miss Margaret McMahon entertained delightfully with piano selections.

Queen Alexander Home and School Association

The Queen Alexandra Home and School Association held their opening fall meeting with a good attendance on Tuesday night. The president, Mrs. L. M. Richardson, was in the chair.

Two members brought accounts of the Coronation. Mrs. G. Cridland read a most interesting and enthusiastic account of Coronation day's proceedings; Mrs. A. O. Phillips gave a bright resume of her trip to England this summer with highlights of the trip from the time of embarking at Quebec until her return to that city. Mrs. Phillips told many little incidents of great interest in connection with London and the great procession on Coronation Day. She described also visits to other parts of England and well-known people met there. Both speakers had pictures and mementos to show.

J. E. R. Munro spoke briefly of changes in the school, and explained some of the changes in the school curriculum this term. He introduced to the association, E. Frost, a new member of Queen Alexandra staff.

Mrs. V. R. Currie read three short papers on every-day problems with small children, of special interest just at this time. Miss Doreen Wallis entertained with a piano solo and Miss Joy Walker was heard in two vocal solos accompanied by Mrs. Perks.

Entrance diplomas will be presented Tuesday night, September 21.

Just Between Us Women

A Daily Chat With Examiner Neighbors, Conducted by Roberta.

"A MAN must serve his time to every trade,
Save censure, critics all are ready made.
Take hackney'd jokes from Miller, got by rote,
With just enough of learning to misquote;
A mind well skill'd to find or forge a fault,
A turn for punning—call it Attic salt—
.....Fear not to lie—'will seem a lucky hit;
Shrink not from blasphemy—'twill pass for wit;
Care not for feeling, pass your proper jest—
And stand a critic, hated yet caress'd."

—Lord Byron.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dear Friends:

How we all hate criticism. Not long ago, a person told me some of the things she had been doing. She didn't feel comfortable in her mind about these things, and asked my opinion. She said "Now, Roberta, tell me the truth. I can stand it, good or bad."

I felt loath to make any comment, as it did not matter to me vitally what she did or did not do. But when she urged, I was frank in as pleasant a manner as I could, gently showing how certain acts must be paid for, and the paying not pleasant.

But—I found as many another has done before me, she did not want criticism, what she wanted was for me to agree with her, because for every comment I made, she had an excuse. So smilingly I just sat and listened and said nothing, until she talked herself out and went home.

It is so easy to be a critic, to find fault with another's habits, or action or morals. But when it comes to ourselves, we want none of this criticism at all, at all. We think to ourselves, "Oh, I have my faults, but they are not so bad as so-and-so's." Maybe they are and maybe they're not, but how we hate to hear of them.

In psychology, I find I can do more real good stressing a person's good points, and touching lightly on their bad ones, just enough to let them know what to be on their guard against, but encouraging them by the knowledge of how much good there is in them.

A person feels inferior, low in their mind, discouraged and losing vim and pep, by criticism. Touching lightly on the worst side of them, praising up the best side, does more good and has better results than any other way.

"He that is without sin let him cast the first stone," does not only apply to morals. Be sure you can do better work, before you criticize someone else's work, and even then go canny (speak gently). Go easy on the other fellow, if you want them to go easy on you.

As Robbie Burns tells us:

"Oh, wad some power the giftie gie us.
To see ourselves as others see us,
It would from many a blunder free us,
And foolish notion."

If we could see ourselves clearly many a word of criticism would never be spoken, for we would be too busy correcting our own faults.

If you feel free to criticize another's habits, or dress, or work, or looks, or anything about him, look at yourself for a while, see your own lack, and you'll never utter a word. Try doing another person's work, and maybe you will fall down farther than he has done.

I once heard a man criticize severely the way a preacher stumbled in his sermon, yet that same man could not tell a simple story without getting all twisted up. With elections coming on, we shall soon be hearing all kinds of criticism, whether it has a bearing on things or not. Reminds you of the Pharisee who stood and told God all about how good he was and how bad the other fellow was.

Tell a child how bad he is all the time, and he WILL be bad, and don't forget we all are just children, grown-up, so have a little mercy.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Mantels Are Decorative

Says Mrs. Edna H. Kern, New York interior decorator: Mantels for real fireplaces or to make fake ones are an addition to any room, and can be had for almost any price. A fireplace points up and centers a room as nothing else can. Georgian mantels with their simple beauty of line are appropriate for almost any style of room.

If the room is wide enough it is very attractive to build a fake or rebuild over a real fireplace, a mantle piece that reaches to the ceiling, protruding a foot or so from the actual wall to leave recesses on either side of the fireplace into which bookcases can be built.

Exercise Daily For a Trim Figure

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

I have noticed that women who begin a systematic exercising routine often neglect their exercises after the first furious spurt of ambition has worn off. And I'm inclined to think that it's all because they find the various movements that they practice monotonous and boring.

Of course, any girl who wants to reduce, or to keep her figure slender and shapely, must do some exercising, but I will admit that that usually daily dozen isn't very inspiring. I'm certain that if the forms of exercising women adopted were more enjoyable, they'd stick to them longer.

The woman who needs daily exercise is not only the fat or the thin woman, but the normal one as well. Every woman needs a certain amount of exercise to keep her body slim and supple, to keep her circulation flowing zestfully through her veins and her whole self youthful and lovely.

Fat and thin women, of course, often need some systematic and specialized exercises in order to mold their bodies along harmonious lines. But in addition, they, as well as all women of normal build, should indulge in pleasurable forms of exercise.

Exercise Enjoyable Now

This is certainly the season for enjoyable forms of exercise. For summer and early fall mean tennis, golf, horseback riding, hiking, swimming—and two old sports that are new again for women of all ages—bicycling and roller skating. Such sports generally give their participants a great deal of pleasure, and, in addition, they exercise the body most effectively.

Tennis playing and swimming both afford general exercise, for they bring into play the muscles of the entire body. Golfing and hiking are generally less inclusive, as they have the greatest effect on the waist, thighs and legs. While horseback riding, roller skating and bicycling benefit mostly the hips, buttocks and legs, and harden the muscles of the back and waist.

Choose, of course, the sport that does the most for your own particular figure. But do indulge in some pleasurable form of exercise while the weather is pleasant, for you'll not only derive a good deal of pleasure from it, but will also reap the benefits of increased shapeliness and youthful loveliness.

Household Run Split Schedule

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (CP). — You wives who fret about the dinner spoiling if your husband is late, give ear to the words of Lady Wood, wife of Sir Henry Wood, famous conductor and probably the greatest stickler for punctuality in Britain.

"To live with Sir Henry you have to be an automaton," she said, "everything is timed and tabulated to the split second, not only for the day but for the whole week.

"Everything has to be planned ahead in writing, so that if you ask me I can tell you exactly what we shall be eating at any particular second of any of next week's meals.

"He lives by watches, and he simply cannot resist a beautiful watch in a shop-window, provided it is a good time-keeper. And if you miss him for a few moments he's probably at the telephone with watch out getting the correct time."

The matter arose when it was noticed that Sir Henry, conducting each "Prom" concert for the British Broadcasting Corporation, appears on the platform at precisely two minutes after eight, instead of eight.

But who works out all these elaborate time schedules and sees that they are kept? Who does all the figuring and tabulating?

"Oh, I do," says Lady Wood modestly.

Big Families Show Courage

TONBRIDGE, England, Sept. 9—(CP)—Two mothers here have had 46 children between them, one 24 and the other 22, with 21 grandchildren. The families were mentioned by the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. S. N. Galbraith, in a report to the Southwest Kent Health Area offices.

Mrs. Emily Lucas, Baltic Road, has had 14 children by her first husband and 10 by her second. Three died in infancy. Of the 21 surviving, 14 were boys and seven girls, three of the boys being killed in France.

There were three pairs of twins. Eight have been married and there are 19 grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. James Goldsmith of Hadlow Road have had 23 children, of whom 12 are living, nine boys and three girls. Five are married and there are eight grandchildren.

Dr. Galbraith referred to the "great courage" of the two mothers in bringing so many children into the world. While there is such need for populating the vast areas of the Empire "no one should dare to point the finger of scorn at people who have such large families," he said. "To such people should be extended the helping hand of good will."

At the same time, he added, families of two to six were probably best and six should certainly be the limit. He criticized the "empty cot," and said there were too many suburban houses without a child.

PEACH MARMALADE.

20 large peaches
4 oranges
1 lemon
4 lbs. sugar
4 oz. blanched almonds
4 oz. candied or maraschino cherries.

Peel and slice peaches, add juice and grated rind of oranges and lemon, cover with the sugar, and let stand overnight. Cook slowly until thick, stirring often. Add almonds after first 15 minutes' cooking, and cherries just before taking from the heat. Pour at once into sterilized glasses.

166 CANDIDATES ALREADY IN FIELD 100 MORE TO COME

Independent Liberals, one Independent Conservative, one Independent, one United Farmer, two Liberal-Progressive, one Communist and one Labor candidate.

One constituency, Fort William, already has four candidates, and in 13 others three-cornered fights are assured.

Premier Hepburn has been renominated in Elgin, where he will have a straight fight with N. R. Martin, Conservative, unless there is a late entry. In the last election Premier Hepburn polled 11,200 votes to 9,150 for Dr. H. J. Davis, the sitting Conservative member.

Mr. Rowe, forsaking the Federal field, has been given the Conservative nomination in Simcoe Centre, where he opposes Hon. J. Simpson, Minister of Education in the Hepburn cabinet. In the last election Simpson had a majority of 3,622 in a straight fight with J. F. Craig, Conservative.

Rowe Elected First in '22.

Mr. Rowe was elected to the Ontario Legislature in 1923, but in 1925 he was elected to the House of Commons at Ottawa from Dufferin-Simcoe, and re-elected in every subsequent Federal election, including the last in 1935.

Sixty-three of the 90 members of the last House have already been nominated for re-election. Two are dead. Liberals have nominated 46 past members, Conservatives 11, Liberal-Progressives two, and the three others are Independents, United Farmer, and C.C.F.

So far, Liberals have nominated new candidates in place of several Liberals who won at the last election. One of these, J. E. Crawford, is now running as an Independent-Liberal in Fort William, with Harry Murphy carrying the official party endorsation.

The other Liberal past-memebrs who have been replaced by new candidates by the party are John Rowlandson, Cochrane South; W. J. Bragg, Durham; L. P. Wigle, Essex South; R. S. Colter, Haldimand-Norfolk; Dr. A. D. Roberts, Sault Ste. Marie; and Nicholas Asmussen, Waterloo North. W. N. Price, last Conservative member for Toronto Parkdale, is replaced by Fred McBrien as Conservative candidate this time.

Load Of Furniture Burned In Transit

(Examiner Correspondence)

APSLEY, Sept. 9—On Monday afternoon a truck load of furniture belonging to Mr. Henry Edwards of Bancroft for Huntsville was passing a road construction gang, when a spark from the engine lit in the load. Unnoticed by Mr. Edwards the fire had made such headway when seen that it could not be extinguished. A spark or embers from the burning furniture started a bush fire which the road gang were able to subdue held only one portfolio less than Mussolini. Now it is just touch and go whether he holds more portfolios than all the rest of his cabinet."

"I think Premier Hepburn has been reckless," he declared. "I think he is the most reckless premier this province has ever had."

Discussing the three mandates Premier Hepburn is asking from the people of Ontario, Mr. Rowe characterized them as absurdities.

"Mr. Hepburn is asking a mandate to preserve law and order from the working man whom he refuses to trust and he will use it against that working man. Why does he require a mandate? The maintenance of law and order is only ordinary policing."

He ridiculed the premier's request for a mandate to collect unpaid succession duties. "I have never heard before of a government asking for a mandate to collect succession taxes. To collect back duties is only the common obligation of the government."

He said Premier Hepburn's estimates of back duties he intends to collect have varied widely. He started out by mentioning the figure $20,000,000 in the Hastings by-election, later changed it to $70,000,000 and more recently modified it to $50,000,000, he said. The sum will actually be no more than $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 when dependable figures are made available, he predicted.

Will Collect $60,000

The Ferguson Government collected a larger sum in back duties from one estate than Hepburn has collected all together, Mr. Rowe asserted. "I am not telling the names of the heirs. That is not the Conservative way — trailing names in the dust."

He promised that if he is put into office on October 6 he will collect $60,000 in succession duties owing from one of Premier Hepburn's "friends and staunch supporters."

"The first time in British history have we seen a government take from the private individual the right to sue another individual," the speaker said, stating that Premier Hepburn is seeking a mandate from the people to ignore the courts of the province. By legislation now in force, a man struck by a Hydro repair truck can not sue the Hydro for damages, he said. "It is the first time we have seen British justice challenged."

The Hepburn C.I.O. stand was branded as "a fiasco and a bluff" by the Conservative leader. "The individual right to free association is just as sacred to one who sits at the bottom of the plant as to one who sits at the top."

He said the premier has done a remarkable about-face on the labor question by admitting several days ago that he has no power to drive a labor organizer out of Ontario. "I told him that seven weeks ago," Mr Rowe declared.

Charging the Hepburn Government wasted $190,000 of the taxpayers' money on summoning special forces to battle peaceful Oshawa strikers, paying $20,000 for clothing alone for the "Hepburn Hussars," the speaker said: "The premier never even visited Oshawa to see how orderly the strike was. Men have a right to organize and to strike. Neither I nor Mr. Hepburn can stop them."

He referred to the special police who were disbanded after the Oshawa strike when he said: "Ask Mr. Hepburn if they are not on a lesser payroll until they are no longer needed on October 6."

Premier Hepburn's present labor stand that he intends to enforce law and order is one of no significance as that is the duty of any premier, Mr. Rowe said.

"He has promised that if John L. Lewis comes into Ontario and breaks the law he'll arrest him. I'll double it. If John L. Lewis, after October 6, breaks law and order in Ontario or Mr. Hepburn breaks law and order I'll put them both in jail."

State Witness

Roger Norton (above), alleged accomplice of La Verne Moore, alias John Montague, when the latter robbed a roadhouse near Elizabethtown, New York, seven years ago (according to authorities), is pictured as he was taken from a hotel at Cleveland by police. Norton, a truck driver, is described by District-Attorney McDonald of Essex County, N.Y., as the "only witness we need" in the case against the Hollywood golfer.

The Examiner BULLETIN BOARD

An old age pension bureau investigator in New York has discovered in an East Side apartment an elderly woman who has been living with the body of her husband for more than ten months.

The Hepburn Government will start paying the one-mill subsidy to every city, town, village and township in Ontario on September 15.

In Huron-Bruce Henry T. Thomson of Wingham will enter the contest as an Independent Liberal, running on a straight temperance ticket.

London, Ont., reports that, contrary to earlier surveys the latest crop reports for Western Ontario anticipate a partial failure of the sugar beet crop.

Killed by Blast

One man was killed and another seriously injured in an explosion at the Martin Bird Mine, five miles outside of Kirkland Lake.

The Dominion Government will establish two new weather bureaus in British Columbia in the near future.

Alderman Sam Lunenfeld of Galt has handed in his resignation from the city council, declaring that he has been insulted by Mayor R. K. Servias.

Buffalo Coastguards, seeking three men missing since their cruiser broke up in a storm off Erie, Pa., report the recovery of a body near the scene of the accident.

Few Allowed Out

Only 39 London children under 16 years of age will be permitted by regulation to remain home from school when classes are resumed this month. This number is the smallest in years.

No announcement was made by Premier King following a cabinet meeting yesterday. It is reported that the war crisis was discussed.

Sir Hubert Wilkins has landed his plane at Aklavik after a long search of the Arctic for the lost Russian fliers.

The British Cabinet has decided to include the Dominions Secretary, Malcolm MacDonald, among the British delegates to the League of Nations session.

Three Million Jobless

The American Federation of Labor reports that there were close to three million workers unemployed in the United States in August, with little change from July.

Reports from Toronto say that Conservative headquarters have practically decided not to enter a candidate in South Wellington, where Hon. Col. George Drew will run as an independent Conservative.

A man is justified in striking the child of another man, under certain circumstances, Magistrate H. A. Burbidge of Hamilton ruled, in dismissing a charge against James Lowe of having assaulted a 10-year-old boy.

Dr. H. M. Yelland Is Re-Elected

COBOURG, Ont., Sept. 9. (CP)—District Medical Association comprising the counties of Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland, Durham, Prince Edward, Hastings and Haliburton, held their annual meeting here yesterday.

Following the business meeting the doctors were addressed on infantile paralysis by Dr. W. W. Barclough of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

The following officers for the new term were elected: Counsellor, Dr. H. M. Yelland, Peterborough, vice-Counsellors, Dr. R. Allison of Picton and Dr. F. A. Logan, Lindsay.

PERCY LANCASTER IS THE CHOICE OF TORY PARTY

municipalities which own Hydro a representation of their own in the Hydro system. I cannot understand why Mr. Hepburn refuses to do that. The people who own Hydro are refused a representation in its management.

"Speaking as an individual, I say to you I shall strive to correct the terrible abuses in the beverage room situation throughout the Province. If necessary, I'll institute such a move myself."

Cancel Licenses

"I would be in favor of cancelling the licenses of hundreds of hotels which are keeping open saloons under the guise of beverage rooms."

Mr. Lancaster declared himself in opposition to any plan of abandoning necessary social services for the sake of "rolling up a huge surplus." He said he would urge that "abuses of Liberal workers throughout the Province" in the matter of patronage be cleaned up.

"I don't care if a man is a Liberal or a Conservative, a Catholic or a Protestant, if he needs a job and he is the best man for it, he will get it."

The Conservative victory' here at the last provincial election was demonstration of what can be done in the face of tremendous odds, Mr. Lancaster declared. The majority was only 34, but it was as good as 3,400, he said.

Change of Heart.

A sweeping change of heart has made itself felt through the province since the last election, he continued.

"The change of heart is indicated in the new slogan, 'Hepburn must go.'" Mr. Lancaster said.

"Good-bye," cried a member of the audience.

"The prospects of winning on October 6 are, in my opinion, marvelous. I believe a majority of 1,000 can be run up here."

Mr. Lancaster denied that he had favored either the city or county during the past three years. He declared he has acted vigorously whenever the interests of either were concerned.

"Just recently I helped in large measure to defeat a private bill sponsored by one of your prominent citizens which was largely contrary to the interests of your industries and your citizens," he said.

Nominees Decline.

Declining his nomination, Herbert Bradburn said he felt Mr. Lancaster deserved a further term of office to continue work he has been doing.

Mr. Leason promised to take off his coat and go to work to defeat Premier Hepburn on October 6. He declined his nomination.

Mr. Strickland urged unanimous support for Mr. Lancaster. He declared the member had been laboring during the past three years under the handicap of being on the Opposition benches. Mr. Strickland moved that Mr. Lancaster's nomination be unanimous, seconded by Mr. Leason.

Applause indicated the will of the gathering.

Mr. Fraser was elected president of the Liberal-Conservative Association by acclamation on the nomination by J. F. Strickland, K.C., and W. H. Bradburn.

Ernest Reid was chosen first vice-president when his name, with that of J. R. Corkery, K.C., was put to a vote. Mrs. J. F. Strickland was chosen second vice-president by acclamation and Dr. H. G. Carleton, of Norwood, was acclaimed third vice-president when E. J. Leason, of Havelock, withdrew his name. An acclamation was accorded Mrs. J. H. Cridland as fourth vice-president.

Senator Fallis.

Unanimous choices were Herbert Bradburn as secretary of the Association and Douglas Lawrie as treasurer.

Senator Iva Campbell Fallis had a prominent part in leadership of the meeting, presiding during election of Association officers.

"One of the peculiar characteristics of the Premier is the amazing consistency of his inconsistencies," Senator Fallis said. She said he had about-faced on the school question. On his C.I.O. he had about-faced, declaring first he would not tolerate the entry of C.I.O. organizers into the province and later conceding he had no power to exclude law-abiding labor organizers.

Such an about-face is responsible for the fact Conservatives have only four weeks to prepare for their present campaign, Senator Fallis declared. When Premier Hepburn repeated several times his promise that 60 days' notice of an election, Conservatives began to give it credence, she said. They found it to be another Hepburn consistent inconsistency, she declared.

Cards Go Against Revenge Player

BIARRITZ, France, Sept. 9—(AP)—Senora Peresha Cortina Solzetra of Argentine arose from the Biarritz top flight baccarat table to-day with most of "revenue player" Amleto Battisti's money in her purse.

"Cards fell against me," said Battisti, the Uruguayan. He emerged from the lengthy session with only cake and coffee money.

He estimated losses between 5,000,000 and 8,000,000 francs ($185,000 to $282,000) and admitted his plan to win back the $1,000,000 he lost at the big table in 1929 had gone haywire.

Haa Become Popular Dish

HAMILTON—Since Hamilton began its starling purge it has been found blackbird pie is a popular dish. "We have a standing order for more of the birds than we can shoot," said Fred Ferris, city street commissioner. About a dozen starlings are used to make a pie.

Crow Knows How To Get Fed

HAROLD H. CARR IS NOMINATED NORTHUMBERLAND

WARKWORTH, Ont., Sept. 9—(CP)—Voters in Ontario could easily tell by the size of their pocketbooks that Conservative Leader Earl Rowe was wrong when he contended the Hepburn administration had heaped additional taxes upon them, Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Agriculture Minister, said yesterday in an address to the convention of Northumberland County Liberal Association here.

Harold N. Carr, of Campbellford, last Legislature member, was chosen Liberal candidate.

Mr. Marshall said the Conservative administration had taxed municipalities for old age pensions, mothers' allowances and other social services, whereas the Hepburn government had taken away this expense from the municipalities and in addition $27,250,000 had been handed back to the people, a direct proof that Mr. Rowe was wrong, he said.

It had not been necessary to add more taxes because the Hepburn Government had collected $28,000,000 from wealthy persons who had not paid the province succession dues.

SUBSIDY BE PAID BY SEPTEMBER 15

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—Carrying out the promise made at the last session of the Legislature, the Hepburn Government on September 15 will start paying the one-mill subsidy to every city, town, village and township in Ontario. It will involve a gift from the Provincial Treasury of $3,000,000 to the municipalities and will make Ontario the first Province in the Dominion to take such a step.

It was learned at Queen's Park yesterday that notices will be sent out immediately to all municipalities, informing them that as soon as they make the necessary requisition, the one mill in the dollar rebate on all rateable property will be made.

The condition of Provincial finances was never more buoyant, it is stated. The outright return of $3,000,000 to the municipalities will, in practically every case, be handed back to the taxpayers as expressly desired by Premier Hepburn.

Delegate Appointed C.W.L. Convention

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Sept. 9.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Hastings Branch of the Catholic Women's League held in the parish hall on Tuesday evening, Mrs. T. A. Walsh was appointed delegate to accompany the president, Mrs. J. A. MacDonald, to the C.W.L. convention held in Downeyville on September 22. Mrs. Galvin, the secretary, gave an interesting account of the national convention held in Kingston in June, which she had attended. The larger part of the meeting was spent in planning a drive for membership.

HARNESS RACING FEATURES AT C.N.E.

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (C.P.). — Canadian transportation and commercial travellers were honored to-day at the 59th Canadian National Exhibition. Harness racing, professional diving exhibitions, and motorboat racing featured the athletic events.

A notch up in the 225-meter motorboat class, Miss Quebec III., driven by Jack McInnis of Bergerville, Que., won the first heat yesterday. Several of the 18 starters were turned over in rough water and one of the sleek speedsters sank in 40 feet of water.

Agriculturists were in the limelight yesterday as judging of live stock continued. Mrs. Ruth Carpenter, Rochester, N.Y., took first in the class for saddle horses over 15.2 hands with her chestnut gelding Kentucky Lane.

Fast stepping gelding from the stable of John Brigham, Kenwood, Ont., Dazzle Direct won the major part of the $3,500 prize for three-year-olds at the harness race meet. In the final heat of the big money race Dazzle Direct and Rosalin collided and both horses continued without their drivers.

Morris McDonald, Strathroy, driving Dazzle Direct, suffered shoulder and facial injuries when one of the horses and cart passed over his body.

36 BLOOD DONORS GIVE THEIR BLOOD TO MAKE SERUM

Thirty-six men and women all recovered cases, came from various parts of the city and district this morning to give blood donations for the making of infantile paralysis serum, in the campaign being waged against the epidemic by the Ontario Department of Health.

The majority of the blood donors, who all attended at the offices of the local department of health, previously gave blood a couple of weeks ago and it was stated by Dr. G. Murray Fraser, medical officer of health that some of them were planning to go to Lindsay during the day to give further blood donations there.

Dr. H. Frank of the Ontario Department of Health who tapped the blood of each of the donors through the "median basilic" vein in the left forearm was assisted by Miss Edith G. Young, instructor of nurses at Nichols Hospital, while some of the student nurses from the hospital were present to watch the successive operations. They were later required to write essays on what they had observed, as a part of their training instruction.

A blood donor from Bobcaygeon badly crippled as a result of infantile paralysis had to be assisted up the stairs by two police officers. Due to his corpulence and his deformity he was unable to pass through the doorway into the offices and the blood donation was secured from him on the landing at the head of the stairway. He got downstairs unassisted, but his car was driven up onto the sidewalk so that he might step right into it from the doorway.

L. M. FROST HOLDS TWO MEETINGS EMILY TOWNSHIP

OMEMEE, Sept. 9.—"I consider taxation is altogether too high. Despite the fact that more money has been drawn in since 1934, there has been no relief in the taxation problem." This was the statement made by Mr. Leslie M. Frost, Liberal-Conservative candidate for Victoria and Haliburton riding at meetings held in Bethel and in 14th of Emily last night.

The speaker of the evening was introduced in Bethel by Mr. Sam Carew and in Emily by Mr. W. J. Patrick. Both meetings were well attended a fact at which the candidate expressed his pleasure.

Mr. Frost dealt briefly with the liquor question, the separate school question and the Hydro. The real matter of his address stressed the problem of taxation which so greatly affects the people of this township.

In reference to the problem of taxation and the overlapping of taxes in the matter of municipal taxation, he said, "Despite the fact that the amount of taxes raised direct by the present Hepburn government from the people of the municipality is vastly more than it was in 1934, the result has brought no relief to the taxpayers of these rural areas in the county.

Mr. Frost pointed out that although on one hand the government had taken off certain charges and had given a subsidy of one mill on the tax rate; on the other hand they had changed the method of contribution for secondary school tax and had given the northern municipalities charges in connection with fire ranging, with the result this year, the tax rates were higher in Ops, Verulam, Emily, Somerville and Eldon.

He also stated numerous other cases where additional charges were being made on the municipalities which were being directly reflected into the tax rate.

NAZIS NOT CURBING DEMOCRACY RAPS

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 9. —(AP).—On the eve of a visit to the Nazi Party Congress by representatives of the world's three leading democracies, officials denied to-day attacks on that form of government would be shushed to spare the embarrassment.

Democracy already has been linked with Bolshevism in a principal address. Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi ideological leader and recipient of one of Germany's new "Nobel" prizes, called Bolshevism the "illegitimate child" of democracy and said democracy was doomed.

The forthcoming visit by representatives of Great Britain, the United States and France constituted the first acceptance of invitations to the party rally by the larger democratic countries.

Andre Francois-Poncet and Sir Neville Henderson, the French and British ambassadors, and Prentiss Gilbert, United States' charge d'affaires, were scheduled to leave Berlin for Nuremberg to-night.

Sir Neville, whom the Nazis consider the friendliest British ambassador since Chancellor Hitler came to power, took the leader in accepting this year's bid. The United States' government authorized Gilbert's visit over the objection of Ambassador William E. Dodd.

SELWYN

Mrs. Kenneth Sweeting spent the week-end and holiday in Peterborough with her mother, Mrs. Bullock.

Owing to the epidemic of infantile paralysis in the surrounding districts, the Sunday school picnic which was to have been held on Labor Day at Wm. Elliott's Lodge was postponed indefinitely. This postponement was made by order of the Board of Health.

Mrs. Joe Vansickle and daughter Mildred of Toronto spent the week-end at the home of Fred Branch.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bell motored to Toronto on Monday where she will spend a week of holidaying and attending the C.N.E.

Scholarship Is Awarded Peter Demos, P.C.I. Student

Three Years' Tuition And $300 Is Given By Queen's University

Award of a three-year scholarship to Queen's University with an additional $300 in cash has been made by the university to Peter Demos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Demos, 209 George street, on the basis of his record at the Collegiate here during the past five years. The scholarship is one of nine extended to outstanding students in each of the nine provinces of the Dominion each year.

Demos graduated from the Collegiate in June this year. Throughout the five years, he stood at the head of his class and obtained no mark lower than 79 per cent. In Middle and Upper School, he obtained 26 first groups and one second group mark in taking 27 courses.

He was an able member of the rugby team and active in cadet work as quartermaster with the rank of cadet major. A proficient marksman, he won three Dominion Marksman medals and three Dominion of Canada Rifle Association medals.

Demos will enter Queen's with the commencement of the Fall term, enrolling for the chemical engineering course.

Injunction Granted Halt Tory Rally

TORONTO, Sept. 9. — (C.P.), — Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier to-day granted an injunction, effective to date of trial which has not been set, preventing a convention being held September 9 by the Ottawa South Conservative Association to select a candidate in the Ontario general elections.

The injunction was sought by Thomas J. O'Neill, Ottawa, naming several defendants and further seeking to prevent any person voting at such a convention unless he has been a member of the association for at least 30 days.

H. P. Hill, K.C., Ottawa, representing the defendants said there was nothing in the injunction to prevent a big gathering, for while the defendants could not hold a convention, "any other body of men can."

ADDRESSED KIWANIANS.

A trip to Ireland, particularly to Dublin and Belfast and adjacent country was enjoyed by members of the Lindsay Kiwanis Club on Tuesday, the speaker being Rev. Mr. Young of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough.

PRESBTERY MEETING

The Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church is scheduled to meet at 7.30 p.m. on Friday to make arrangements for the induction of the Rev. E. W. Young in St. Andrew's Church that same evening.

INDUCTION SERVICES

The Rev. J. W. Gordon formerly of St. Andrew's United Church, Peterborough is being inducted this evening in St. Paul's United Church, Port Hope. The Rev. E. W. Young who now occupies Mr. Gordon's former charge will take part in the induction services.

TO ADDRESS KIWANIS

"Cylinder Wear in Automobile Engines," a subject of interest to all automobile drivers and particularly to owners, is announced as the topic of an address to be given by C. E. Lewis of the Canadian General Electric Company as guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting on Friday.

AMONG GOLF LEADERS

Two local golf pros, Ben Norris of Kawartha and Bill Fairweather of the Peterborough clubs were among the leaders today in the first 18-hole round for the Canadian open title played at the famous St. Andrew's course in Toronto. The former posted a 39-34 for 73 while the latter did 38-42 for 80. Vic Corbett of the Port Hope club covered the course in 42-40—82.

SUSPECT RUSTLING IN DUMMER

A suspected case of cattle rustling is reported from the Miller-Weir-Davidson Ranch on the 6th Line of Dummer Township near White Lake and is being investigated by Provincial Constable David Silvester. While there is a possibility that four yearling steers missing from the herd at the ranch, may have wandered away and become lost in the bush, it was learned police entertain the suspicion the four head of cattle was stolen.

CANADA WARNED ABOUT DEMOCRACY

VICTORIA, Sept. 9. — (CP) — "Never since democracy became a form of government has it been so seriously challenged as it is at this moment," Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Federal Conservative party, told a Conservative meeting here last night.

"In Europe you have forms of dictatorship and absolutism," he continued.

"In the Far East you have war and all its horros which is a threat against the peace of the world.

"In Spain the civil war has reached a stage where it is inimicable to the continued security of many nations.

"Is it not time that we Canadians were taking serious thought to insure the safety of democratic institutions?

"For mind you, the evidences of absolutism are not lacking Canada.

"In our own western county there has been set up a theory at which you on this side of the Rockies may laugh, but which must in the light of recent events be taken seriously. Yet this experiment in Alberta is conducted in the name of democracy as the will of the people."

GRIT CANDIDATE PLANS CAMPAIGN

Alex L. Elliott, Liberal candidate in Peterborough constituency, will start his electioneering campaign in real earnest at the big rally in the Armouries on Monday evening next, which is to be addressed by the Honorable Mitchell F. Hepburn.

Anticipating an overflow meeting, notwithstanding that the Armouries is one of the largest available halls the campaign committee is installing a public address system with loud-speakers inside and outside the building. The band of Prince of Wales' Rangers is to be in attendance.

Dr. D. W. Munro of Warsaw will occupy the chair, while speakers will include the Honorable Mr. Hepburn, the candidate, and others.

On the evening of the day following, Mr. Elliott, the candidate, will address a rally in Galway Parish Hall at Swamp Lake in the northern section of the county. There he will have the support of other speakers including Dr. E. M. Crough and Warden Roy Brown.

The True Blue Hall at Buckhorn will be the scene of another campaign meeting on Wednesday evening of next week. Speakers there will be Warden Roy Brown, T. J. Carley, K.C., and the candidate.

C.C.F. CONVENTION NEXT WEDNESDAY

The constituency council of the Peterborough C.C.F. with representatives from all parts of the riding and from farmers and labor organizations met Wednesday night in the C.C.Y.M. committee room on Charlotte street and unanimously decided to contest the Peterborough riding in the coming provincial election. The candidate will be chosen at an open convention to be held next Wednesday night to which farmer and labor organizations will be invited. The place of meeting will be announced later.

The largest sum of money yet raised for a C.C.F. campaign here was collected and officers of the organization declare that the campaign will be the most effective the Co-operative Commonwealth forces have been able to stage in this riding, this being made possible by the increase in finances and support.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN LYNCH

The death of Mrs. John Lynch, 201 Romaine street, occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning. In her 66th year, she had been in failing health during recent months but her passing was unexpectedly sudden.

She was born in Ireland, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sheridan. She was brought to Canada by her parents when a child and came to this city 30 years ago from Havelock. She was a member of the Sacred Heart Church.

Surviving are her husband, three sons, John, Joseph and Vincent, all of Peterborough; two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Drumm and Mrs. Theresa Herlihey of Peterborough; and three brothers, Joseph Sheridan of Cochrane, James Sheridan of Toronto and Bernard Sheridan of North Bay.

The funeral announcement is to be made later.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, September 10.

Events and developments of powerful effect on the life, its progress and prosperity, are forecast from the paramount influence of the major planets, both by lunar direction and mutual aspect. Enlarged opportunities for expansion and productivity, increased values and finances and enhanced power and popularity combine to make this a day of success.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of great and powerful influences and activities that may be marshalled to achieve a decisive advance upon the goal of very high ambitions. Definite initiative and energy, co-operation of powerful interests and increased capital and possessions, unite to promote personal power, prestige and popularity, as well as provoke rivalry, enmity and competition.

A child born on this day may be excellently endowed with all the talents and factors that go to make high goals in progress, prosperity, popularity and power, as well as personal gratifications. But these gifts also evoke bitter rivalries, competition and enmities, both open and secret, public and private.

LEE'S SISTER ASKS FOR INFORMATION ABOUT BROTHER

Postmarked from Colorado Springs and directed to "The Chief of Police, Centre Dummer," a letter was recently received by Provincial Constable David Silvester for whom it was intended.

It was from an only sister of Eugene Lee, a colored man who was slain on the Saltern property in Dummer Township five years ago this Fall, and in connection with whose murder his colored companion Franklin Jackson was subsequently hanged at the county gaol.

Unaware of her brother's tragic fate, the sister wrote to "The Chief of Police at Centre Dummer" asking for information as to the present whereabouts of Eugene Lee whom she had not heard from since he left the United States with his companion Jackson to locate in Dummer township.

She acknowledged with thanks a letter which Constable Silvester sent together with a detailed account of her brother's death and circumstances connected with it.

The officer recalled that when he first came on detachment in this district, he received a letter from a woman in Scotland relative to a tragedy he investigated in this country, despite the fact the letter was simply addressed to "David Silvester, policeman, Canada."

This morning he found another letter on his desk similarly misdirected. It was addressed to "Mr. Seclestial, Police Station, Peterbough," and had a Norwood postmark.

BLIND PENSIONS IN FORCE AT ONCE

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—(CP).—Extension of old age pensions payments to needy blind persons in Ontario will become applicable at once, Finance Minister Dunning announced here yesterday. He said Ontario had signed an agreement with the Dominion, to give effect to the legislation of last session of the Dominion Parliament, which broadened the old age pension scheme to embrace the blind, at the age of 40.

The Dominion pays 75 per cent of the pension and the province the remainder. The rate is $20 a month.

Because of greater handicaps the amount a blind pensioner may earn without having his pension reduced is $240 a year if single and $400 if married. Old age pensioners, who have their sight, are allowed to earn only $125 a year regardless of whether they are married or single.

HYDRO CONTRACT TERMS DISCUSSED AT COUNCIL MEET

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9.—The terms of the proposed contract between the Water and Light Commission and the Hydro were discussed at the regular meeting of the Water and Light Commission on Wednesday evening. It was revealed that the Hydro was to purchase power from the local commission for a term of five years rather than three years, which the original copy of the plan suggested. The contract which came into effect on the 1st of September will enrich the commission by $8,000.00 annually.

Chairman J. O. Benor, commenting on the contract, stated that it was the culmination of six years of effort on the part of the Commission.

"After this long time we have finally succeeded," said the chairman, "and I would like to take this opportunity to express my thanks to the manager (P. C. Denyes) and to H. N. Carr for their efforts in obtaining this contract for the town of Campbellford."

Mr. Benor then made a motion instructing the secretary to write Mr. Carr thanking him for his endeavors in the town's behalf. The motion was seconded by Mayor Long and carried.

In order to arrive at an accurate figure regarding expenditures and revenues, it was suggested that the Commission should each year be supplied with a copy of the auditor's report.

Service Charge Reduced.

The matter of revising the contract with both Seymour East and Seymour West consumers was discussed and it was decided that the service charge for the English Line consumers should be reduced from $1.50 to $1, beginning with the October account. The matter of revising both contracts was left over till the matter can be gone into more thoroughly by the Commission.

Commissioner C. H. Davidson suggested to the Board that the 96 hydrants located in the town be given a fresh coat of paint. On the suggestion of P. C. Denyes that there was considerable work to be done in connection with the placing of street lights on Bridge Street, where the underground cables had been placed due to the removal of the Bell Telephone Company's poles, it was decided that the matter could be left in abeyance till spring.

Six reports from the Department of Health regarding the town's water supply, placed each test in Class A. The reports are made as to the result of tests covering six different districts in the town over a period of the last six weeks.

The financial statement indicated that the total collections for the year 1937 up to the end of August for light and power only were $17,488.55. Collections by the water-works department for the same period totalled $3,419.06, bringing the net total to $20,907.61 for the year 1937. The total arrears up to the end of August, 1937, were reported at $2,483.36. Following the passing of the pay-sheet the Board adjourned.

Huskies Ruin Best Laid Plans For Fresh Eggs During Winter

Hens Equipped With "Duffle Dickies" But Only Feathers Remain

CHESTERFIELD, N. W. T., Sept. 9.—(CP)— An experiment with "duffle dickies" that was ruined by the appetites of huskie dogs probably has doomed Chesterfield to continue an eggless desolation in winter.

It's easy enough to have "ham and" at this northern Hudson Bay post in summer when the eggs can be shipped in reasonably fresh. But in winter there isn't an egg to be had.

With characteristic resourcefulness Royal Canadian Mounted Police stationed here sought to remedy the situation by keeping hens. The "duffle dickies" were their idea to protect the 12 Plymouth Rocks they brought from the south from the sub-arctic winter.

"Duffle dickies" are a sort of sweater made of warm cloth which was pulled over the hen's head so that most of their bodies were covered and only their heads, tails and feet were exposed.

After much patience the flock was all equipped with the "duffle dickies" and the Mounties had pleasant visions of eggs for every breakfast during the long winter.

No Hens Left After Raid.

But two night later two huskie dogs broke into the hen house. In the morning all that remained of a noble experiment were a few feathers and several badly-torn "duffle dickies." No Plymouth Rocks will be brought in from the south this year.

Apart from eggs, Chesterfield's residents miss fresh tomatoes most. Corn on the cobb is something they just dream about.

But there is plenty of almost everything to eat, including a great deal of fresh fish. Nearly every family has a net set off shore and runs it twice a day after each tide. They get a type of salmon that is excellent.

During the winter caribou is plentiful and can be bought from the Eskimos. The natives bring in the deer meat and the residents trade tea, flour or an order on the Hudson's Bay store. No money is ever exchanged.

But the backbone of the man's diet here is canned meat, bacon and ham. They are able to get some vegetables in summer and a supply of potatoes.

In the summer it is necessary to carry water a quarter of a mile from a lake which freezes five feet deep during the winter. Unable to cut through this for a water supply, the residents wait until it is 16 inches thick and then harvest it. It is kept outside the houses and when it is required the housewife brings in a chunk and melts it on the stove with coal shipped in during the summer.

Area Of Trouble

Great Britain, angered at the attack on the British destroyer Havock and the sinking of the British freighter, Woodford, off the Spanish coast, has accepted a plan for a conference at Geneva between Mediterranean powers and has also decided to increase the number of British fighting craft in the trouble area. The attacks on the British boats occurred approximately 75 miles northeast of Valencia and within twenty-four hours of each other. Italy has been formally charged by the Loyalist government in Spain with "piratical ventures" in the western Mediterranean.

Glimpses Of War On Two Fronts

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9—(AP).—Some 70 foreigners—mostly missionaries—arrived here safely today after a harrowing trip by land and sea from Mokanahan, in the interior of Chekiang Province.

Mokanahan is only 90 miles due southwest of Shanghai, but the refugees were forced to travel almost 250 miles. The last 60 miles of their journey from Ningpo aboard a Chinese steamship took three days as they played hide and seek with blockading Japanese warships in the China sea.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9—(AP).—Lee An-Tung, millionaire Chinese merchant and financier, associated with the powerful Mitsubishi Industrial Dynasty in Japan, was arrested by Chinese police to-day and charged with being a spy for the Japanese. British police at first interfered, charging Lee was kidnapped by the Chinese from within the international settlement. After a conference, however, they handed Lee over to Chinese military authorities.

PEIPING, Sept. 9—(AP).—Full division of Chinese to-day pressed their threat to the Japanese right flank in the hills west of Peiping, effectively slowing up the long-expected Japanese advance to the south. Japanese military commanders said the Chinese were strongly entrenched on the mountain tops.

It was learned reliably more than 1,000 Japanese soldiers were brought into hospitals here as a result of the Chinese flanking manoeuvre.

The Japanese army was strung out along a 200-mile front from Tientsin, near the sea, to northern Shansi province.

NANKING, Sept. 9.— (AP).—The Chinese Government announced to-day 61 Japanese warplanes were shot down and 11 damaged in three Central China provinces in the 17 days from Aug. 14 to 31. The National Aeronautical Affairs Commission said 29 planes were heavy bombers, 24 light bombers, five pursuit and three seaplanes.

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Sept. 9.—(AP).— The bedraggled defenders of Gijon, in the Spanish northwest, were reported to have whirled about today, after 13 days of retreat before the advancing insurgents and to have inflicted a disastrous defeat on their pursuers.

Five hundred of General Franco's advance guard were slain or wounded in a fierce clash on the Biscayan coast road about four miles west of Llanes and about 45 miles east of Gijon, according to advices from Gijon, the seaport objective of the insurgents.

War Leaves Trail Of Destruction In Two Countries

Over two widely separated fronts—Shanghai's great international waterfront and the quiet sleepy cities of Spain—war is raging and these graphic pictures from both areas give point to the statement that war, official or undeclared, is still Hell. At LEFT is the scattered debris left after the greatest aerial bombardment that Shanghai has ever experienced had lifted revealing scenes of unbelievable destruction in this city of 3,500,000 souls and the torn bodies of slain civilians; At RIGHT is a view down a corridor of the main hospital of Santander, Spain after insurgent bombers had roared over in their last raid and Gen. Franco's troops had infested the city. Below is pictured the return of a Japanese seaplane to its floating base after a raid over China's cities. Its bomb racks empty and with flaming villages in its wake it is hauled aboard one of Nippon's aircraft carriers to await the signal for another "pacifying" mission.

BANCROFT

The last dance of the season was held at Lockhart's Pavilion, Paudash Lake on Monday. A good crowd was in attendance dancing to the music of the Troubadors.

Miss Edith Joynt has returned after spending two weeks with relatives at Douglas.

Five young girls of this district are leaving next week to attend Normal and High School at Peterborough. They are the Misses Edith Metcalfe and Noreen McAllister of Bancroft, Miss Leona Fitzgerald of Greenview, Miss Annie Gunter of Prince's Lake and Miss Dorothy Moore of Detlor.

Mrs. William George is able to be up again after being confined to her room with a heart disease for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Maxwell spent Labor Day in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wannamaker of Bannockburn spent Monday at the home of Mrs. E. Hagerman.

Mr. Philip Green met with a serious accident on Saturday, while working on the road east of Bancroft. He was struck on the jaw by the lever of a dump truck.

At a meeting of the Library Board on Tuesday Mrs. B. Jobb was appointed president to fill the office vacated by Mrs. W. J. McCaw.

On Thursday last during an electrical storm at Highland Grove, Mr. Wm. Neal lost by fire a large barn containing the season's crops and all of his machinery except one wagon.

After a lengthy illness, there passed away at his home two miles south of Bancroft on Saturday, a lifelong resident of this district in the person of Mr. Patrick Kavanagh. Deceased who was 66 years of age, leaves to mourn his loss a loving wife and one sister, Mrs. B. Milne of Maynooth.

Mr. Chad Stoughton left on Monday to take up work at Capreol.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Munro spent Sunday afternoon and evening on a motor trip to Eganville.

Miss Alexa Kemp, Reg.N., of Toronto is spending her vacation with Miss Gladys Kennedy.

A lovely picnic was held at Emmanuel Church, Greenview on Saturday. Features of the afternoon were foot races and two ball games. In the first game Fort Stewart were victorious over Bancroft boys with a large score. The game was rather one-sided, perhaps because Bancroft team was composed mostly of school boys while Fort Stewart had a team of experienced players. In the second game, Boulter girls were beaten by Bancroft with a score of 17-13. In spite of the high scores some very good batting and plays were executed. A lovely bean supper was served by the ladies in the evening.

Talks to the People — J. H. Burnham

British labour is warned by its president to keep clear of governments. All who work for pay are labour. All who live on their money got that money from labour that earned it. Therefore labour comprises the whole state and it is impossible to put any one division of labor (wage earners) in control of the rest. As the A. F. of L. properly says: "All must work together for the general good." The C.I.O. seeks to make a separate body of wage-earners and to put them in control of the rest and to use force to do it. The C.I.O. does not include any but effectives. Casual labour is ignored by it. The humble go to the wall and stay there. His labour must be paid and well paid. The farmer may have what's left. The C.I.O. is now a new party in U.S.A. and has legal right to enter Canada.

U.S. CONSULATE IS UNDER FIRE CHINESE BOMBS

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9 (AP)—Three one-pounder shells crashed in front of the United States consulate-general today, seriously injuring three Chinese civilians and one British Sikh policeman.

The "pom-pom" shells were fired from Chinese guns north of the international settlement border, apparently at four low-flying Japanese bombers.

Chinese struck a new blow at the Japanese navy by blockading the upper reaches of the Yangtze River with a barrier just below Silver Island, some 30 miles east of Nanking.

The barricade of obsolete steamers and Chinese junks loaded with sand and concrete effectively blocked the Japanese fleet from spreading its activities up the river from Shanghai. It meant any considerable advance of the Japanese would place their land forces beyond the protecting range of their warships' guns.

Chinese troops held their main lines on all fronts in the face of incessant and sustained attacks from the combined Jap army, navy and air force. Japanese were attacking in force against Kiangwan, the strategic "back door" to Shanghai, six miles north of the city and midway to Woosung. A Japanese spokesman said that the far eastern racecourse, however, had not fallen to their hands.

Japs Hold Lines

At Lotien, on the western flank of the Japanese front, a Chinese counter-offensive failed to dislodge the Japanese from their positions. Japanese efforts to link Lotien with Paoshan, to the east of the banks of the Yangtze just above its junction with the Whangpoo, were admittedly unsuccessful, however. The Chinese were still holding Yuephu, midway between the two towns.

A Chinese army spokesman said one lone battalion of the 98th Division, General Chiang Kai-Shek's own, had held Paoshan against repeated Japanese attacks for a week.

Yesterday they were wiped out to the last man when Japanese engineers blew in the walls of the ancient town, burying part of the unit now known as "China's Lost Battalion."

WHAT A WRECK CONSTIPATION MAKES

Constipation can dull your whole life. Headaches, poor complexions—tired, lifeless days are often the results. Also, many serious diseases.

Get rid of common constipation now with a ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN brings you the two things your system needs to act naturally: "bulk" and vitamin B to help tone the intestines.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs more than twice its weight in water—forms a soft mass, and gently clears the intestines of wastes. It acts naturally.

Pills and drugs seldom cure constipation. You just keep on increasing the dose and switching from one laxative to another.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day, three times daily if needed. Serve as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in recipes. Sold by all grocers—made and guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

HALL'S BRIDGE W.I. GUESTS AT APSLEY

(Examiner Correspondence)

APSLEY, Sept. 9.—On Thursday afternoon the W.I. met for their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Wellington Leau. They had as their guests the members of the Halls Bridge Branch. About 25 Halls Bridge members made the journey to Apsley over the far-famed Oregon Trail.

Among the items of business was appointing Local Leaders for the Home-Making Club. Mrs. N. E. James was appointed Leader and Mrs. R. Tucker assistant. Our Branch has secured the Orange Hall to hold our meetings and short course in and it will be cleaned and prepared by the members at an early date.

The Halls Bridge Branch gave the following program:

Quartette, Mesdames, Harris, Shearer, Sage and Dunford.

Reading—Mrs. E. Blewett; Guitar Selection—Vera Harris; Reading—Mrs. Bruce Hall

This brought the meeting which had been held in the living room, to a close and the members adjourned to the shaded lawn where it was much cooler and Miss Finnimore, Red Cross nurse gave a demonstration "How to change bed linen with a patient in the bed" she also gave some ways of using ordinary household articles in the sick room. This was very instructive and much enjoyed by all. A contest "What our Grandmothers didn't have," was won by Mrs. H. A. Shearer of Halls Bridge. The "Home" Branch served lunch consisting of sandwich cake, tea and ice cream.

The members all feel that it was a very enjoyable and profitable afternoon and are looking forward to more such meetings in the future.

The Liberal Association held a well attended meeting at the home of Warden Brown on Saturday night. Mr. Alex Elliott, Liberal candidate was present.

Farm workers of Sweden are deserting the fields to work in the booming lumber camps.

LINDSAY TO VOTE ON SEWAGE PLANT

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY, Sept. 9.—Lindsay citizens will likely be called upon at the municipal elections to vote on the question of the installation of a $30,000 sewage disposal plant. A firm of consulting engineers presented plans at a meeting of the council on Tuesday night.

Alderman Butler, on behalf of local coal dealers, is fathering a by-law, patterned after a by-law existing in Peterborough regulating the sale of coke, coal and wood in the municipality. The by-law did not get very far in the council as it contained several discrepancies. Mayor Logan pointed out that the by-law required all wood to be measured, but said nothing about coal. "Why should I take a dealer's word for coal weight?" the Mayor said, "when his wood must be measured at the town scales?"

"Toll Gate" Is Denied

Local hotelkeepers as well as leaders in the Conservative and Liberal ranks deny the knowledge of a liquor "toll gate" in Lindsay. A representative of the Hotelmen's Association visited Lindsay a few days ago, with reference to the collection of campaign funds among the local hotel proprietors to be divided equally between the two political parties. The suggestion was frowned upon and nothing came of it.

Mayor Logan is authority for the information that an air service inspector will visit Lindsay shortly to view local conditions with the idea of establishing an airport here.

Another case of infantile paralysis was reported by Dr. Gleeson, medical health officer, on Wednesday. None of the local cases are of a serious nature.

It was incorrectly recorded in Lindsay news items of September 8 that C. Downey of Reaboro was fined for reckless driving when his truck crashed into a threshing engine south of Lindsay on Friday night. Mr. Downey was owner of the truck, but C. Deyell, the driver, was charged with the offence.

This week saw the arrival of quite a large contingent of tourists from Ohio and Pennsylvania. They came over for a fish and the majority of them went to the Highlands of Haliburton.

ROSENEATH HOLDS RALLY DAY SERVICE

(Examiner Correspondence)

ROSENEATH, Sept. 9.—Mr. Welton of Baltimore, president of Alnwick and Haldimand Sunday School Association, delivered a special address on Sunday morning in the United Church, when the annual rally day service of the Sunday School was observed.

Mr. Welton's subject was "Building Christian Churches," and the points brought out and stressed were: the building of churches is not completed when the manual labor is completed, but goes on from Sunday to Sunday and from week to week; little groups are revolutionizing the world through the teachings of Sunday school teachers; the Sunday school teacher is a greater influence in the life of the youth, than the High School teacher—the former teaches how to make a life, and the latter how to make a living; the Sunday school needs the adults more than the adults need the Sunday school; let the Sunday school principals be the principals of your life, and in conclusion the speaker said: "If discouragements come, just carry on, for the work is so worthwhile."

Other numbers on the rally program were contributed by Miss Gwendolyn Varcoe and Ray Bradshaw, who read the Scripture lessons, the primary classes sang "Praise Him," and Mrs. A. Nill, with the assistance of Mrs. Flex McMillan, organist, and the choir, dramatized the story, "How Brian Learned to Sing Praises." The service was under the direction of the pastor, Rev. L. W. Scott.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy McMillan and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McMillan, of Detroit, were weekend and holiday visitors with their brother, Milton McMillan and Mrs. McMillan.

Edward Turner, of Pittsburgh, visited his mother, Mrs. Lily Turner, and brother, George Turner, for a few days during the past week.

Bill Roth of Hamilton, former teller on the local staff of the Royal Bank branch, visited over the week-end and holiday with friends in the village and community.

Mr. Gilleland of Toronto is supplying manager in the Royal Bank branch while Manager J. H. Hallett is on holiday.

REALIZES AMBITION

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Police Custodian Arnold E. Allerton has quit smashing gambling machines and moonshine liquor kegs in order to smash sin from the pulpit.

He completed a mail-order course for the ministry and realized his "life's ambition" when he received a license to preach in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Tourists left more money in the Irish Free State this year than in any recent 12 months.

Heinz

You won't want to wait for mealtime

• Once you taste tomato juice as Heinz makes it, you'll find yourself sipping a frosty glassful several times a day. And why not? Every drop is so good for you. Pedigreed tomatoes pressed fresh from the vine. Pure. Only a pinch of salt added for seasoning. Enjoy this sparkling, red beverage often.

HEINZ TOMATO JUICE

Homemade soup without homework

• Compare Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup for quality and flavour with the very best soup you ever made at home and you'll want Heinz chefs to make all of your soups from then on. You'll sense at once that unforgettable home-made taste.

Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup begins with a rich puree of pedigreed, vine-ripened tomatoes — big, red, juicy — coaxed by expert growers to the peak of flavour. Added are fragrant spices searched out in the Orient by Heinz buyers, and real cream, almost butter thick. With these top-quality ingredients, Heinz chefs, cooking in small batches, give you the soup that has made so many women stop making soup at home. And Heinz Soups are all ready to serve. No additions needed. No work. Simply heat and serve.

Ponies Choke 9th Frame Rally To Defeat Oshawa Gang 7 To 6

Biggest Kingston Crowd Of Season Sees Thrilling Battle

KINGSTON, Sept. 9.—They just don't make 'em any closer than the Kingston-Oshawa game at the fair grounds Wednesday evening, when Ponies tossed out a 7-6 win over Oshawa in the first game of the C.O.B.L. finals, before the season's biggest crowd. The most thrilling ninth inning of the year was a climax to the hectic battle. The visitors had the bases choked, two were out and the count on Doc Rowden was run right out to three and two. The game ended a moment later when Rowden's low liner was picked off by Bob Elliott to end the hectic fray.

But it wasn't only the ninth frame that had all the thrills. The whole game was a red hot battle, with both teams doing some hard hitting and smart fielding even though Ponies kicked in with four errors, Oshawa had a four run lead as early as the fourth frame and had it up to 6-1 when the last of the sixth opened. And maybe that gas none didn't go to town. They battered Turner to the showers and maltreated Jake Biddle to score 6 runs in the inning and take the lead. Their seventh inning tally provided the winner. Oshawa came back with one in the 8th before they staged that thriller in the ninth.

Tony Ields 9 Hits

Tony Paczkowski went the route for Ponies, yielding nine hits all of them coming after the 3rd inning. He had more cures than Sally Rand and showed that same courage under fire he displayed all season. Turner, who started for Oshawa, got by with the aid of tight fielding until the 6th, when he blew higher than Picard's kite. Biddle, the much over-worked hurler was dragged in from the bull pen and was greeated by Johnny Goodfellow's crashing 3-bagger. After that he gave up another run and finished strong in the 8th, but the damage was done.

"Moose" Matthews paced the clubbers with two singles, a double and a walk, while Hal Buck tossed in a single and triple. Elliott, Compeau and Jubenville each had two singles.

The fielding gem was contributed by Vin McQuaide, who galloped a couple of miles after Foley's fly in the fourth.

Number 81

Betting on holes or scores isn't as necessary as some golfers would have you believe. Recently a friend of mine started to play a dollar Nassau with his opponent.

This arrangement of betting on the outcome of the first nine, the second nine and the 18 is quite common and my friend could easily afford to lose the $3 involved. But he soon found that the bet was costly in other ways. He couldn't play anything like his regular game so he considered the bet lost, paid his opponent and went on to improve his play.

This is only one case where betting has spoiled the game for some players. It has ruined the games of many others who haven't the courage to refuse a wager. Some golfers claim that a bet is necessary to make them play well. I doubt if this is true, even in a few rare cases. The main object in golf is to show the best possible control over your mind and body, not an influence over your opponent's mental and physical processes.

I don't believe that one has to make a bet in order to show that he has the self-control necessary to play good golf. And a player should never bet if it is in any way going to handicap his play.

SPORTS DAY by DAY

Dizzing Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

PETERBOROUGH Collegiate footballers have already begun workouts in preparation for the coming campaign, light drills at Riverside Park having been started under the direction of Coach Bamforth. The garnet and gray gridders who have dished up a lot of clever football in the past promises to come to bat this year with another fast squad. It is to be hoped that out of the material at hand a capable kicker will emerge. The lack of a punter who could consistently get distance when needed has been one of the chief weaknesses of recent Collegiate teams and no one recognizes that fact more readily than Coach Bamforth. We imagine he is carefully looking over this year's crop of recruits in the hope of developing the much-needed hoofer he has been hankering for. Incidentally there are reports that P.C.I. may have a junior squad this year to give the younger players a chance to come along.

* * * * * *

ONE reason why kicking has become more or less of a lost art around these parts would seem to be the popularity of the forward pass. Years ago when a gang of kids found themselves in possesion of a rugby ball they amused themselves kicking the oval around and in that way kicking talent was located and developed. Today on the corner lots and everywhere else the youngsters assemble the favorite pastime is tossing and receiving forward passes. Every kid seems to have the ambition to see how far he can throw a football.

THE Louis-Farr fight pictures which, incidentally, will be on view for the benefit of local folk at the end of this week are having a sort of boomerang effect. Wherever they have been shown so far there have been a good many people who feel that Louis got none the worst of the decision in last week's battle. As a matter of fact the Associated Press records the fact that after carefully looking over the film version a number of Texas sports editors have unanimously decided that Louis earned nothing better than a draw against the British Empire champion.

* * * * *

THE race in the National League continues to prove the most interesting feature of the baseball picture at the present moment. The Cubs who managed to gain a half game on the leading Giants the day before yesterday when the New Yorkers were idle held their gain yesterday by shutting out St. Louis with the great Diz Dean on the rubber 4 to 0 while the Giants were winning over the are-they-still-in-the-league Brooklyn Dodgers, by 9 to 7. The doings in the American loop were marked by a ninth inning rally by the New York Yanks that saw them hammer eight runs over the plate. The score was 6 to 1 against the power houses when they cut loose in the final canto to win out 9 to 6. There is more high explosive scattered along that Yank batting order than exists in the European situation at the present moment.

"THE classy Peterborough team will be heavy favorites to win the title," is what George Campbell, Oshawa sports writer said in his column yesterday. And then he went out with his lacrosse stick and helped Oshawa's 222 team wallop the Auburns 17 to 5 last night in the first game of the group playoffs. The one-sided score represents the biggest sporting upset of the season. A Peterborough loss by a goal or two would not have been unexpected because the breaks left the Auburns without Don Crowe, Ned Vitarelli, Pete King and Buster Whitton for the important battle and you can't lose a quartette like that withou feeling it. But no one looked for the Oshawa team to run wild with a barrage of goals to leave the Petes hopelessly out of the picture. The 222 outfit was "hot" from start to finish and when they cut loose in the second period with a seven-goal attack the Petes were more surprised than was Joe Louis when he found Tommy Farr carrying the fight to him in the fifteenth round of last week's championship fight.

* * * * * *

THE Auburns, however, are not out by any means. Games count in this series and they are grimly confident that when the final whistle blows here Friday night the teams will be on an even footing. The local crowd will have at least some of last night's absentees in uniform and they predict a much different sort of game. They know what they are up against and they are going into this second battle determined to show that their early season wins over Oshawa were not flukes. It should be by long odds the most exciting lacrosse argument of the season and indications are that the accommodation at the local lacrosse stadium will not be enough to take care of all the fans who will want to see the struggle.

KINGSTON PONIES got the jump on Oshawa GM-men in the first game of the Central Ontario Ontario League playoffs at Kingston last evening outscoring the Ontario champs 7 to 6 in a beetle battle in which Tony Paczkowski went the route for the winners and Turner and Biddle did the mound duties for Oshawa. It must have been a thriller. At one stage Oshawa had set up a 5 to 0 lead but all at once Kingston out loose with a characteristic Pony attack that drove Turner to the showers, brought Lefty Biddle to the hilltop and gave the Daley gang six runs before the uprising was subdued. That was the break of the game but there came near being another in the ninth when Oshawa filled the bases with two out only to have old Doc Rowden line into Elliott's hands for the third out. That was close enough to give the biggest Kingston crowd of the season heart failure.

* * * * * *

TODAY the teams were due to meet again in the second game, this time at Oshawa. The edge so far as pitching goes, now rests with the Ponies who have both Jamieson and Williams to shoot in against the Motors in today's fixture while Oshawa will either have to send Turner right back again or run the risk of overworking Jake Biddle whose arm is far from right. After his dismal showing against the Petes, Doz Ogden is not likely to get a chance particularly as Oshawa must grab today's game to have much of a look in for the pennant.

* * * * * *

THE rugby news from Oshawa is not very encouraging. According to the Oshawa scribe the prospects for a team in the Motor City this season are decidedly dull. Don Cutler, Rocky Gulliman, Tom Pollitt and several other stalwart members of former Blue Devil teams have announced their intention of retiring from the grid wars. Monk Colmer, Oshawa's backfield ace who suffered a broken leg last season is also finished with the game so that it looks like no team in Oshawa this year. "Financially," writes the scribe, "the Oshawa team is in sound shape and there appears to be enough equipment around to outfit a team but players are scarce and an intermediate rugby schedule cannot be completed unless a club has at least two dozen stalwarts to start the season for the grid game takes a heavier toll in injuries that keep players out of a game or so than any other sport."

* * * * * *

THE Oshawa man predicts that there will be two three-team groups with Peterborough Orfuns, Lindsay Rotary and Cobourg Red Raiders in one while the Eastern section will have Belleville Checks, the Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers and a team in Kingston from the combined forces of the Royal Canadian Signal Section and the Royal Canadian Artillery.

* * * * * *

CHECK and Double Check: Big Ernie Smith who used to twirl for Belleville in the Central loop was the pitcher for Cannifton when that intermediate B outfit was defeated by Napanee....Goodfellow, Kingston infielder, greeted Biddle's entry into last night's game with a triple. That must have been one of the season's biggest surprises ....Members of the Auburn lacrosse team who played in Oshawa last night were still looking slightly shell-shocked today....Jerry Creighton is available for the P.C.I. football squad this season ...Peterborough ball club has had a successful season from a financial standpoint and finish out of the red....And just a final tip. Get down to the lacrosse bowl early if you want to be sure to see tomorrow night's redhot battle with Oshawa 222.

ELGIN ADVANCES TO FINAL ROUND HASTINGS LOOP

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 9.—Elgin advanced to the finals in the local softball league when they eliminated the Outlaws last night (Wednesday). Led by Jack Richardson, who had four hits in four times up, Elgin defeated the Outlaws 11 to 6 in a six-innings game. Elgin got away to a good start when they scored five runs in the first innings on three singles, doubles by E. Preston and G. Richardson, and triples by Fleming and R. Richardson. They scored another in the second or a single and J. Prestons double. Three more Elgin boys crossed the plate in the third on three hits and an error, and they added another in the fourth on two hits and an error. They scored their final run in the sixth on a single and Fleming's triple. Stickles sent a long homer to deep left field in the fourth to score the Outlaws' first run. They scored five in the fifth on three singles, home runs by I. Bonds and McKee, and one error to complete the scoring.

Fleming's hard-running catch of "Dit" Clapper's liner in front of the left field scoreboard in the fourth was the highlight of the fielding. Jack Richardson also turned in a nice performance on the mound for Elgin as he allowed but six hits, struck out two and walked none. McKee, the Outlaw pitcher, was hammered for 17 hits, while striking out one and walking one. The teams:

Outlaws—Radford, c, cf; Stickles, 3b; I. Bonds, c; McKee, p; Clapper, 1b; McCoy, lf; Scriver, cf, rf; Puffer, ss; G. Bonds, 2b; Lemoire, rf.

Elgin—J. Preston, c; J. Richardson, p; Scott, 1b; E. Preston, 2b; G. Richardson, 3b; R. Richardson, ss; Fleming, lf; Stinson, cf; and Grady, rf.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
Outlaws ..... 0 0 0 1 5 0—	6	6	2
Elgin ..... 5 1 3 1 0 1 —11	17	4

Umpires—Wellman, plate; Hogan and Crate, bases.

A grudge battle is slated for Friday night at 6 p.m., when the Tanners and Outlaws, who have been eliminated from the play-offs, will play an exhibition softball game at the park.

The "Uncle David" Trophy, donated by Frank Gilbert, and now held by Elgin, will be defended by that team when they begin a 3 out of 5 series on Monday night with the Clerks. This will wind up the softball schedule for this year.

BOOM FOOTBALL CROWD EXPECTED

CHICAGO, Sept. 9—(AP).—Boom times are flirting with football in the United States Mid-West with the prospect that attendance will reach 2,500,000 in the Western Conference alone, a boost of 50,000 over a year ago.

It looks like the biggest, most enthusiastic year since 1929, said John L. Griffith, Commissioner of Athletics for the "Big 20" to-day. The Minnesota-Notre Dame game, to be played at Minneapolis six weeks hence, is already a complete sell-out, for a capacity crowd of 63,000. Every ticket was sold within nine days after the sale opened.

Notre Dame expects to play before 500,000 spectators for its nine-game schedule.

Canoe Racing Becoming Popular Throughout European Countries

LONDON, Sept. 9—(CP).—Canada will have to look to her laurels as a leading exponent of canoe racing, as the sport is gaining increasing popularity in Europe.

Forty-two canoes took part in this summer's first meeting of the British Canoe Union. In Germany there are 600 clubs, with a membership of 1,750,000.

France too, has its enthusiasts. Louis Vasseur, 25-year-old Paris student, crossed the English Channel in a 12-foot canvas canoe in 11 hours. He started from Wimereaux and landed at Dover.

The sport first caught on in England in 1933. In that year the Camping Club of Great Britain and Ireland formed a canoe section known as the British Canoe Association, with a membership of 120. A year later this number had doubled and in 1925 the club membership stood at 400. Last year there were nearly 600 members enrolled. Then, when other clubs began to organize in various parts of the country, the union was formed.

AUDIENCE ENJOYS FIRST DONKEY BALL AT NORWOOD RINK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Sept. 9. — The Norwood Arena was packed to the doors last night (Wednesday) when donkey baseball was introduced to Norwood. Teams were from Hastings, Norwood and Havelock. The proceeds went to Don Clarke, youthful Norwood boy who had three fingers severed last week in the box factory.

Havelock defeated Hastings in the first game, and were the victors by a 2 to 1 score. Havelock were defeated by Norwood by the same score to give Norwood all the honors of the evening.

In the first game Bill Wellman, first Hastings batter, got a hit, mounted his donkey, and went as far as third before being tagged out. McKee, after singling, was bucked off, but made second after taking to all directions. Neis Scriver was out when he was bucked twice, this being one of the rules of the game. Jack Butterworth made the third out when he was also bucked twice. McMullen, first up for Havelock, was bucked twice for the first out. Harnden, after a few bucks and jumps, managed to circle the bases for the first run of the game. Kenedy was thrown twice for the second out. Murray was also bucked twice for the third out. Hastings went out three in a row in the second inning when Turner was thrown twice.

Hagerman scored the winning run for Havelock when he circled the bases after 15 minutes of pushing and pulling with his donkey.

Second Game.

To open the second game Rae, the first batter for Norwood was thrown out at first. Parker was thrown twice for the second out and Lobb was tagged near first. Havelock went out in order when McMullen, Harnden and S. McCutcheon were all bucked in succession. Norwood scored both their runs in the second when Girven and Hamin crossed the plate.

Havelock got one back as Kennedy scored, but they were retired before they could get the donkeys around again. The two games provided many laughs for the large crowd, and one donkey named Satan refused to be rode.

The teams:

Norwood — Rae, Parker, Girven, Craighead, Baker, Lobb, Hamlin, Gell, Innes, Baskin.

Havelock — McMullen, Harnden, S. McCutcheon, Kennedy, Rogers, Murray, Peters, J. Hagerman, and R. McCutcheon.

Hastings — Wellman, McKee, N. Scriver, Butterworth, Turner, Crate, Grady, G. Richardson, Stevenson, R. Scriver, Radford, Brinklow, and Fleming.

PRO GAME REGAINS FAME.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP). — Thanks to the New York Giants' 14-7 victory over the Eastern All-Star College eleven last night at the Polo grounds, professional football to-day had regained some of the prestige lost in recent encounters with other star studded college outfits.

The Giants, making it two in a row over the Collegians in a game played for the benefit of a newspaper fresh air fund, won by a comfortable margin.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

IF BILL JEFFRIES had defeated Tom McDonald in last night's schedule game, he would not only have won the decision but would also have captured the group honors for Group 3. But Bill didn't win, and now we believe that the group is all mixed up, and owing to so many defaults, due to the lack of interest on the part of some skips, it will take some time before the whole thing is figured out.

AND SPEAKING of defaults, the records show a lot more than for some seasons past. What is the reason?—too much bowling, are the competitions too fast, or is the opposition too good? Maybe it is too many outside tournaments. Our guess, ladies and gentlemen, is that our bowlers have gone tournament mad. They can't see their way clear to come up and support their own club by playing the games scheduled but they will jump in their cars and drive anywhere from 30 to 100 miles to play and get home in the early hours of the morning and like it. Our argument is this, that so many defaults does not do our club any good, and it will make it harder for the next year's committees, and besides it is not playing fair with the board of directors, the different committees who work all year around for the benefit of the game, and it is not fair to the members of your own rink.

ON FRIDAY night we will hold another mixed tournament under the same conditions as other Fridays. On Monday next, we will hold our last twilight doubles for men. This time there will be no restrictions, pick whom you like for a partner. The games will commence at 7 p.m., and will be conducted along the same lines as all other twilight tournaments. Fee, $1

AUBURNS RETURN TO TOP STRENGTH FOR SECOND GAME

The Auburns, carrying Peterborough's lacrosse hopes, ran into an inspired Oshawa team in the Motor City last night, and when the smoke had lifted from the first game of the group playoffs, it was seen that the 222 outfit were in front by the lopsided score of 17 to 5. That the result was a surprise goes without saying despite the fact that the Petes were forced to send a weakened lineup into action last night, with Pete King, Buster Whitton, Don Crowe, and Ned Vitarelli all missing. Oshawa, playing their best lacrosse of the season, turned on the heat from the start and the Auburn gang simply could not hang on.

Fortunately, however, it is games and not goals that count in this particular playoff and the Peterborough outfit with some of its missing stars in uniform, has a royal chance of evening the series by taking the second game, which will be played here Friday night. Oshawa's unexpected showing has aroused intense interest in the series, and there will be a capacity crowd in attendance when the two teams back into each other tomorrow night. With the Petes facing elimination it should be the season's classic.

De Laval Needs One Victory For Title

The third game of the Southend Softball League finals for the league championship and Warne Cup will be played Thursday at 5.45 p.m. on the Branton grounds.

De Laval need but one victory to cop the title, having two victories already. They turned back Keene in the second game on the latter's diamond by a 7-1 count. The teams were in the sixth innings when Keene, behind by a 2-1 count, began to stall for darkness and the De Laval outfit tried speeding things up striking out. After several warnings by Umpire Ashmore, the game was finally awarded to De Laval; the teams being in the seventh innings at the time.

To-night's tussle will see the Keene outfit battling to stay in the running and with bitter rivalry apparent between these teams, a good tussle is looked for.

PETERBOROUGH GOLF CLUB.

A tombstone competition was held on Tuesday afternoon in connection with the C.L.G.U. field day. Mrs. R. G. Manlece carried off the spoon for playing steady golf to place her tombstone just off the tenth green.

A large number of matches were played, making the players' scores void for medal play, and as there were not enough scores handed in, no spoon was given for the net score.

Oshawa Scores Surprise Win By Defeating Auburns 17-5; Locals Lack Offensive Power

Petes Without Services Of King, Whitton And Don Crowe

OSHAWA, Ont., Sept. 9.—Oshawa U.A.W.A. Local 222 lacrosse team pulled off a surprise victory last night (Wednesday) when they displayed their best form of the season to defeat Peterborough "Auburns" 17-5 in the first game of the finals for the group championship.

Playing without the services of "Pete" King, "Buster" Whitton, Don Crowe, ace scorers of their team, the "Auburns" were decidedly lacking in offensive strength, and the sturdy defence put up by the Oshawa rearguard made goal-scoring even tougher for the other Peterborough forwards.

Players Ejected.

Rowan Chute, coach and defence star of the Peterborough team, and "Shine" Bovin, ace scorer for the homesters, were both put out of the game with a match penalty, after only three minutes of play, when they started to fight at the penalty box after being sent off for exchanging slashes. Peterboroughs defensive play was weakened and Oshawa's attacking strength also, the teams breaking about even on the elimination.

Oshawa opened with a blistering attack, scored the first two goals and were never headed. The score was 4-1 at the end of the first quarter, and the local 222 snipers missed chances galore either by scant inches or by hitting the goal posts.

In the second period the Unionists ran wild, scoring seven goals without a single answer from Peterborough and that put the game on Easy Street for the homesters.

Petes Improve

In the last half of the game, Oshawa slowed down their attack and the Peterborough team made an improved showing but their 3-3 effort in the final quarter was their only real bid at supplying adequate opposition.

Oshawa passed the ball like champions last night, accurate passes taken and given on the run which enabled the plays to be pulled off with a speed that left the Peterborough rearguard flatfooted.

Cook headed the Oshawa scorers with five goals and his snapping was a treat to watch, always beating Creighton once he got in close. Barron, Daniels, Sandes, and Leroy were others who starred up front for Oshawa, while every member of the rearguard turned in a strong game, with the veteran Kelly DeGray being outstanding with his generalship and clever passing.

"Mickey" Magee was the hardest worker in a Peterborough uniform, while Ira Dundas, Miller, E. Creighton, Dallin, Anderson and Sloane all worked hard for the Auburns. "Red" Creighton turned in a good game in the nets but he was given no chance on most of the goals which were scored.

The teams:

Petes—Goal, R. Celghton; defense, Miller and Chute; over, Dundas; centre, Magee; forwards, Dallin and Loucks; alternates, E. Creighton, G. Creighton, Cadd, Anderson, Pammett and Sloane.

Oshawa 222—Goal, Clark; defense, DeGray and Sanders; rover, Daniels; centre, Leroy; fowards, Coope and Bovin; alternates, Barron, Oke, Cook, Whyte, Armour, Campbell and Armitage.

Referee — Bruce Leighton, Toronto.

FRANK GENOVESE RETAINS CROWN

TORONTO, Sept. 9. — (C.P.). — They dusted of fa place to-day for Gordon Wallace in the halls reserved for boxers who have tried and failed.

For Gordon, the Vancouver belter, failed last night in his second try to regain the Canadian welterweight title from Frankie Genovese, the dark-skinned Toronto Italian who has fought Wallace four times within a year and beaten him thrice.

There probably won't be a fifth meeting, for the champion won easily in ten rounds. Genovese won eight or nine rounds was never in trouble and had the challenger hanging on to survive brief intervals of two-fisted slugging to the head.

The third man in the ring was Arthur Donovan of New York. The final bell hardly had finished ringing when Donovan lifted his hand without bothering to look at his scorecard.

As fights go it was a dull affair, marred by clutching. Only at widely-separated intervals, and then for only a few seconds at a time, did they open up and slug toe-to-toe. Wallace couldn't afford to in the late rounds, and Genovese couldn't solve the challenger's style long enough at any time to throw a knockout punch.

With Wallace out of championship consideration, Sammy Luftspring took his place as No. 1 challenger by knocking out Eddie Carroll of Ottawa in 25 seconds of the fourth round.

Year's Retirement Suggested For Cardinals' Dizzy Dean

Burly Grimes Named New Manager For The Brooklyn Dodgers

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (CP). — St. Louis Cardinals looked very much today as if they were sharpening up a knife for the purpose of cutting off their collective nose to spite their equally collective face.

If they were really serious about suggesting a year's retirement for Dizzy Dean, and were not just talking to throw a scare into baseball's No. 1 blower-offer, it would seem they'd be doing themselves more harm than good by shelving the greatest pitching arm in the game for that length of time, despite his eccentricities.

Grimes To Pilot Dodgers.

The row started by Branch Rickey with the retirement suggestion, and followed up by Dean's plea for permission to trade himself, took the stage away from anything in the big time today. Playing second fiddle to the Rickey-Dean brasses were such other developments as the re-appointment of "Bolling Bolly" Grimes as chief umpire baiter and manager of Brooklyn Dodgers; the continuation of the Giants' 2½-game lead in the National League race; the widening of the Yankees' American League edge to 12 full games, and the rise of Pittsburg to third place in the National League and Cleveland to fourth in the American.

Dean certainly didn't look ready for a wheelchair yesterday as he pitched a five-hitter against the Cubs. Although he lost, 4-0, largely because of the clouting of Gabby Hartnett, a five-hitter isn't exactly getting your ears pinned back.

The Giants had their hands full before pulling out a 9-7 decision over the Dodgers.

Yanks Get Two.

The Yanks pulled two games out of the fire against the Red Sox. They took the opener, 3-2, with a run in the ninth, and then, with Gehrig's 33rd homer as the payoff wallop, scored eight runs in the final frame to win the second game, 9-6.

The Tigers managed only an even break with the Indians, taking the nightcap, 10-5, on Hank Greenberg's two homers, after dropping the curtain raiser, 6-1. The Pirates pounded the Reds 7-6 in 10 frames and 8-2 in nine.

Four well-pitched games found the Phillies splitting with the Bees and the Athletics doing the same with the Senators. The Phils won 6-3 and lost 1-0. The A's won 2-0 and then went down 1-0. The White Sox socked the Browns, 10-1.

Napanee Mic-Macs Tie In Playoffs

NAPANEE, Sept. 9. — Napanee Mic-Macs defeated Havelock 6-3 here last night to tie up their Intermediate C O.A.S.A. playoff round. The game was a replay ordered by the subcommittee after a Napanee protest was considered when Havelock won the first game here.

Henderson had the Havelock hitters baffled last night, but loose Napanee fielding helped the visitors to a three-run lead in the early innings. After the fifth not a Havelock runner went beyond first. Stinson homered to open the Napanee scoring. Brunton struck out eight men in the first four innings, but then weakened badly.

TORONTO BELTS PLAYOFF HOPES OF THE BISONS

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP).—Syracuse Chiefs are employing a little psychology and a big bat in an effort to further their chances in the impending International League playoffs.

While the Chiefs havent mathematically clinched their playoff berth yet—they are but one game away from doing that—they're looking forward to meeting either the champion Newark Bears or second-place Montreal Royals in the first round of the post-season series for the Governor's Cup.

Trailing 9-7 going into the last frame, last night, the Chiefs exploded an eight-run bombashell to lick the Bruins 15-9. The Chiefs blasted 20 assorted hits off two Newark hurlers with Eddie Joost pacing the attack with four hits and four runs driven in.

Orioles Keep Pace.

The Orioles were also in a slugging mood. They kept their slim lead in the percentage column over the Chiefs by belting Rollie Stiles and Leo Mangum for 18 hits to defeat the Jersey City Giants, 11-3.

Toronto Leafs gave Buffalo Bisons' fast playoff hopes a terrific sock by edging them out 4-2.

Montreal Royals clinched their second-place position and at the same time eliminated Rochester from playoff contention with a -73 protested victory over the Red Wings. After an argument on a ground rule in the third inning in which Royals scored five runs, Manager Ray Blades said he was playing the game under protest. Lefty Marvin Duke chalked up his 21st win of the season as he limited the Wings to six hits.

NORWOOD QUARTET WINS ON GREENS

WARKWORTH, Sept. 9.—Twenty-two rinks competed in a very successful men's doubles bowling tournament, staged by the Warkworth Bowling Club on Wednesday afternoon, the greens being used to capacity. Three, twelve end games were played and the scoring was on the 10, 9, 8 system. Teams were present from Havelock, Campbellford, Hastings, Norwood, Peterborough, Madoc, Stirling and from the home club. Prizes were won by the following, each receiving duplicate awards:

First, a set of Woollex blankets went to the rink of Dr. Carlton and W. Bitten of Norwood. Second, R. Downey and E. Routley of Peterborough received silver casseroles. Third prize, stainless carving sets, were won by the rink of A. Myers and J. Archer of Campbellford. O. Phillips and W. Mowatt of the home club, came in for fourth, electric toasters. The fifth prize winners, W. Wiggins and L. Glover of Campbellford, each received sweater coats.

The tournament started off at 1.30 p.m. in the heat of the afternoon and the final ends were played shortly after midnight. Members of the Warkworth ladies' club served tea to the men in the club house adjoining the greens about six o'clock.

The list of other players taking part were as follows: Warkworth, B. Buchanan and A. Fulton, J. J. Dingman and Dr. Cooper, A. Smale and Dr. Armstrong, M. Smith and P. S. Ewing, C. Churchly and J. Donahue, Dr. Allen and R. Finch, Madoc: H. Keller, V. Jack; Havelock, J. Moore, E. Pirie, R. Williams, J. Anderson, R. Anderson, L. Hagerman; Campbellford, ... Brown, J. Linton; Hastings, Dr. Campbell, F. Runnels, J. Fleming, F. Pantling; J. Doherty, H. Farman; Norwood, D. Cutcliffe, E. Slater; Stirling, W. Whitty, T. Solmes, R. Bastedo, J. O'Donnell.

CHAPTER 29

Make no more until I see you stop arriving Paris Thursday at 6 stop Am self appointed business manager with a lot of good and bad ideas stop Congratulations stop Love do not stop.—Mark.

Mark's wire arrived at the shop the morning after Mari telegraphed him at Nice.

She felt curiously elated. It was so exactly like Mark, so casual, so devil-may-care, and yet interested.

Had Mari been analytical, she would have realized that Mark was a symbol, a symbol for the friends she should have had. In her moment of triumph she needed someone to tell her what a bright girl she was. Had she been in America, she would have had countless friends who would have rejoiced with her; people who understood her. In Paris she had few friends and most of them were Europeans, unlike her in temperament.

Her anticipation made her feel reckless, gay. Anetka had been right—she should have a party.

She reread Mark's wire, paying little attention to his note that he had appointed himself her business manager.

"Monkey business manager," she said to Letitia Higgins.

Nevertheless, she took his advice not to make any moves until he arrived. The committee from the bank was to meet with her the following morning. She had Letitia put them off until the following week.

Then she declared a holiday. She would greet Mark with a party. Letitia was handed a list of 10 of Maris friends who were to be invited for cocktails. Then she put on her coat and the little fur toque that made her look 18 and went forth on the best part of a party—collecting the necessary means.

She bought flowers prodigiously to fill the little sitting room adjoining her bedroom in the modest pension, her only living extravagance. She ordered hors d'oeurves from the restaurant two doors away. Nothing would do but the wine merchant must load the champagne, and lemons, and the bucket of ice into her taxicab.

She'd show Mark Sutherland that she was a woman of the world who knew how to celebrate in a manner befitting her new position of importance.

Her last act, after a lace cover had been borrowed for the marble-topped table, and the flowers distributed in a manner that she thought worthy of a debut, was to send a private car for Anetka who was still an invalid.

At 10 minutes to 6—10 minutes before her first guest arrived—she slipped a clinging house gown, a lovely thing of chiffon in the same shade as her own burnished hair, over that smooth cap and surveyed herself in the mirror.

Experimentally she held her hand out and practiced in a cool, clipped little voice: "Why, Mark. How nice of you to come to celebrate with me." Then, with just the right laughing, unimportant note, "My dear, Anetka has just told me how sorry you were for me when I first came to Paris. And what a beautiful, kind thing you wanted to do. It was sweet of you and I thank you. Of course, you should have known that I really didn't need it. But it does my heart good to know that you were really so impersonally kind."

She repeated the speech a time or two and was satisfied. She simply couldn't mention it to Mark; she couldn't let time go on with his feeling patronizing about her. And now she had found exactly the right way to pass it off as something casual and kind. The kind part was important. She must not let Mark ever get the idea that she had believed he might have had any other motive.

She glided into the sitting room, enjoying the full play of the dramatic note that she felt to be important to the occasion. The anchovy toast looked too tempting; she took one, another, and hastily arranged the plate like a little girl stealing a coodie from her own party.

The Ted Greers arrived, then the Humbert twins; Anetka, twittering unsertainly on shaky legs; Cecily Grant and her French husband. There was laughter and bubbling wine in slender glasses.

Mark arrived at nearly 8 and Mari stole a hasty glance in her mirror, determined to impress him.

He greeted her with a kiss on her hand and a slap on her back that nearly ruined her dignity.

When she recovered, she said, "Mark Sutherland, you're incorrigibly American and I like it. Are you proud of me?"

"Mary, my child, I bow at the feet of accomplishment. But I am not surprised. That doesn't mean, however, that I'm pleased."

"Not pleased. Oh, Mark."

"I should prefer to find you casting your curly locks on my stalwart shoulder with a plea for help."

"Oh, that reminds me," she said a little later when her party had begun to thin out and she sat beside Mark on her ancient sofa, "Anetka told me..." (It wasn't as easy to say with Mark's amused eyes on her) "about...about the check."

"What check?"

"Oh, come, Mark, don't be modest. I think it was a grand thing for you to do. I didn't suspect you had fine, deep motives."

"Oh, that. The motive was deep but it wasn't fine."

Mari felt disappointed, disconcerted. She twirled her glass, wishing that Mark would just once respond as she wanted him to.

His hand closed over hers. "I'm not going to spoil your fun, honey. If you want to think me a great, noble creature, go ahead. But don't ever tell me that you feel like a sister to me."

"Small chance of that. I pick my brothers carefully."

"That's the Yankee spirit. Now tell me what's going on. Your wire merely said that you'd been offered capital to start out in a big way."

They were on safer ground and, telling him all about it even to the last minute detail, Mari forgot her momentary pique.

When she had quite finished, Mark assumed a thoughtful pose. At last he said, "I wasn't joking about offering you advice. If this thing isn't done in the biggest way possible, the boys made to put up a worth-while sum and take the responsibility, it would be better to drop the whole thing. I happen to have some representatives in Paris who have been dealing with these Frenchmen for a long while. I think they'd better look the layout over."

"Oh, Mark," she said gratefully, "that's exactly what I need. I don't doubt my own ability and I do trust people but I've felt that I needed..."

"Me?" he asked brightly.

"It seems that way," she answered solemnly.

"Good. Then tomorrow I'll get old Leland around here with his shock troops and we'll meet up with your banking friends. And after that I have other plans."

She glanced at him suspiciously, instantly on guard.

"Big plans," he smiled and spread his arms far apart. "Plans for putting Mari Barat over as a personality. I'll be the first dollar-a-year man to create a new personality."

"You'd better break the news at once. I'm getting ready now to refuse, Mark."

"You have a suspicious nature and you'll pay for it, my girl, by waiting until tomorrow. I have work to do now, so I'll leave you to your friends."

Three Are Missing On Lake Ontario

TORONTO, Sept. 9. — (C.P.). — Three aeroplanes took off from Toronto to-day in a search for three Toronto men missing since Saturday, when they left here in a 16-foot dinghy to cross Lake Ontario to Niagara.

The missing men, Fred Phillips, 24; William McGavin, 23, and J. C. Heim, were to have returned to Toronto Monday. Nothing has been heard of them.

Messages were broadcast to all lake ships carrying wireless equipment to be on the lookout for the dinghy. Phillips, owner of the boat, is an experienced sailor. The tiller appeared loose when the boat left, and it is thought they may have dropped it.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE ROBIN.

"Bizz! Bizz! whispered the Bob Cat to the Fox one day as Bad Chap with the silly tail, no larger than half a lollypop, stopped at the den of the Fuzzy Wolf. "Bizz Bizz!"

"What is it?" asked the Fox. "Don't come bothering me unless you have something for me to eat. I was asleep and I don't feel so hungry when I sleep. But you awakened me."

"I awakened you to tell you how we can get something to eat," mewed the Bob Cat.

"How?" asked the Fox.

"By going to Uncle Wiggily's camping tent," said the Bob Cat.

"Ho! Ho! Don't make me laugh!" snarled the Fox. "Else I might bite you. I'm cross today."

"So I see," purred the Bob Cat. "But if you will come with me we shall both soon have something to eat and you will feel fine."

"Don't tell me you have a new way to catch that rabbit!" snapped the Fox.

A Plan

"That's just what I'm telling you," said the Bob Cat.

"Go away before I bite you!" snapped the Fox. "Time after time we have tried to catch Uncle Wiggily, but we never have."

"We are going to this time," said the Bob Cat.

"How?" the Fox wanted to know.

"By going to his tent. He is sitting out in front all alone. No one is there. We can easily get him, for he is fast asleep."

"Well, in that case, maybe we can," admitted the Fox. "But where are all his friends?"

"They have gone away, on a picnic I guess," said the Bob Cat. "Anyhow, Uncle Wiggily is all alone asleep in front of his camping tent and we can easily catch him."

"All right, we'll have a try," agreed the Fox.

So the two Bad Chaps started sneaking through the woods to catch the rabbit gentleman.

It was true Uncle Wiggily was all alone, asleep in front of his tent. His wife, Nurse Jane and the rabbits, pigs and other animals had gone on a picnic. They wanted Mr. Longears to go.

"Thank you, no, I'll stay home," he said. "I think an adventure might come to me here and I wouldn't want to miss it."

Well, an adventure came, all right.

Wants a Bath

All of a sudden as Uncle Wiggily was sleeping, he heard a voice that seemed to call: "Wake up! Wake up!"

"Ha! What's the matter?" asked Mr. Longears opening his eyes.

"The matter is there is no water in my bath," said a Robin bird perched on the edge of an empty basin. "I want a bath."

"Oh, excuse me," said Uncle Wiggily. "Nurse Jane told me to fill the bird bath but I forgot. I'll get water right away."

When Mr. Longears had filled the bird bath the robin, instead of jumping and splashing itself, hopped around the edge of the basin first one way and then another way.

"Why don't you go in and take a bath?" asked the rabbit.

"I must be careful," sang the robin. "When I a mopleashing in the water I can't see or hear very well. Danger might come suddenly. So I am being careful and looking around."

"There is no danger here," said Mr. Longears.

"I am not so sure of that," whispered the robin. "I think I hear some one coming. Listen!"

And if the gas stove will make a fire from lollypop sticks to boil the ice cubes for the radio, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's shower bath.

LINDSAY GRADUATE SPEAKS ON HEALTH

(Examiner Correspondence)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Sept. 9. — The subject of "Health," one in which members of Women's Institutes everywhere are vitally interested, was the title of a splendid paper given at the regular meeting of the Mount Pleasant Women's Institute by Miss Ruth Tully, one of the year's graduates of Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Tully and was fairly well attended. Mrs. Garnet Shield presided, and in the absence of the secretary, Miss Mildred Jones acted in that position.

The roll call was to be answered with an exchange of plants, bulbs, flower and vegetable seeds.

Miss Dorothy Morden, a bride-elect of this month and a valued member of the society, was unable to be present to receive her gift from the Institute members. The gift was a pretty bed lamp and in Miss Morden's absence it was shown to the members who might not otherwise have a chance to see it.

Mrs. Alex Tully and Miss Pearla Handley will compose the program committee for the October meeting, with Mrs. M. Handley and Mrs. Henry Lowes providing the lunch. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Handley.

Miss Tully.

In giving her address, Miss Tully said in part: "Health is not merely the absence of disease, or sufficient energy and life force to resist disease; but that abundant margin of mental and physical vigor which permits us to live up to our highest level of happiness, efficiency and service.

Every civilized nation to-day is developing health programs for the conservation of this great national resource. International programs are being conducted in recognition of the fact that the health of any one nation is greatly influenced by the health and health laws of other nations, particularly in regard to infectious diseases and the sale of habit-forming drugs. These programs cover every aspect of personal, family and community life, affecting health and disease. As a result much has been accomplished during the last half-century in both the conservation of life and the prevention of disease.

In the past, the most influential factors have been the use of vaccines, sera and sanitation, cleanliness, insuring a pure water, milk and food supply and with the control of all factors which tend to develop or cause the spread of disease. To-day, particular emphasis is placed on the universal practice of personal hygiene. Habits of personal cleanliness are among the first requisites of hygienic living. These include the daily care of the skin, hands, hair, mouth, eyes, nose and clothing. Ideals of personal cleanliness also include internal cleanliness. They include also mental hygiene, habits of clean, wholesome thoughts, for the mind, too, needs attention to grooming and the elimination of mental breaking down such as increasing fear, worry, prejudice, selfishness and other habits of thinking which interfere with the proper rest of the mind and relaxation.

Diet, too, plays an important part in the prevention of disease and a knowledge of the constituents of food and balanced meals, is essential. Not to be forgotten in the prevention of disease are exercise, rest and sleep. Exercise of both mind and body are as essential as food and oxygen as it stimulates the heart and circulation, the lungs, tones up the muscles of the body, improves the appetite, stimulates the brain through improved circulation and by the increased number of messages received through the eyes, ears, touch and muscular activity.

Additional factors in the prevention of disease are our health law in the methods of pasteurization, T.B. tested herds, pure water and sewage disposal. Also, vaccines and sera, so useful in the prevention of and controlling of infectious diseases as scarlet fever, diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough.

At this particular time, with infantile paralysis so prevalent, it must be remembered that much depends on early diagnosis and the administration of serum before any paralysis occurs.

But in perfecting our methods of physical health, let us not forget the mental health question. Statistics show that the number of patients in mental hospitals in Canada equals the total number of patients in all the other hospitals. Forty per cent of mental illness comes from disease or injury to the brain, while the remaining sixty per cent. is caused by bad mental habits.

Therefore, let us not forget how closely allied mental and physical sickness are, and the fact that our mental outlook is a great factor in maintaining the standards of health and in the prevention if disease.

Mrs. Tom Graham also delighted her hearers with two appropriate readings.

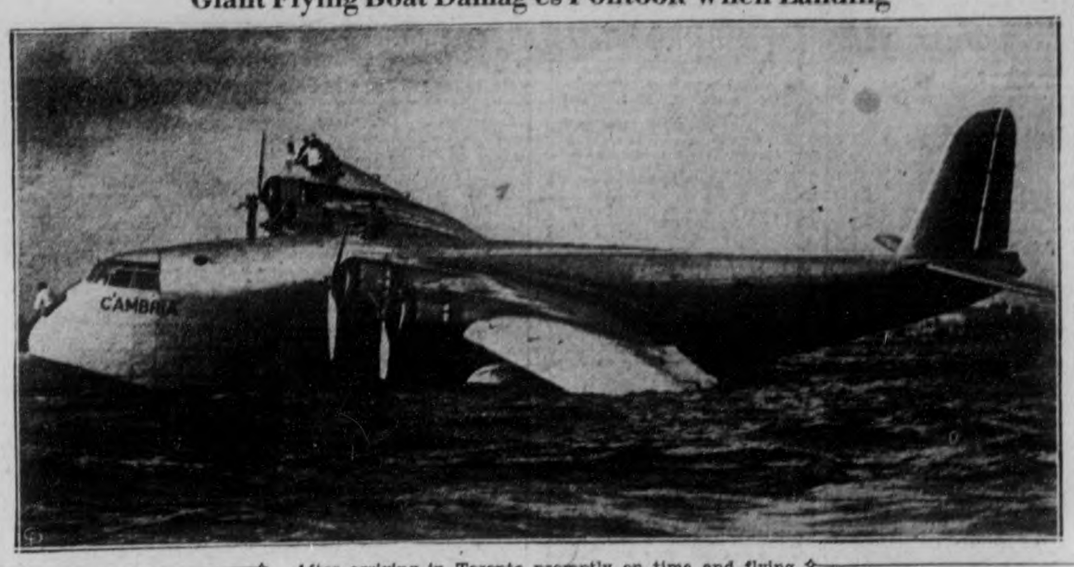
At the conclusion of the meeting, tea was served by the hostess.

FATALLY INJURED

TIMMINS, Ont., Sept. 9—(CP)—Believed struck Monday by a heavy skip on the 1,200 foot level of the Paymaster Mine, Joseph Rohrich, 42, of South Porcupine died of injuries in hospital yesterday.

Little was known about details of the accident. When admitted to hospital Rohrich showed severe bruises about the head and chest.

Giant Flying Boat Damag es Pontoon When Landing



After arriving in Toronto promptly on time and flying over the city for a half hour, the giant Imperial Airways' flying boat, Cambria, came to grief when it landed on Toronto's lake front and damaged a wing pontoon. The huge flying boat, which has made three flights across the Atlantic without mishap, was so badly damaged that repairs would take three or four days, according to air officials. Following the crash it was announced the western tour of the big ship would be postponed.

HAVELOCK SEEKING ITS HYDRO BONDS

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Sept. 9.—The regular September meeting of the Havelock Council was held in the council chambers with all members present and Reeve Ernest Seeney presiding. Several communications were read and ordered filed on motion of Councillors Squire and McBurney.

On motion of Councillors Squire and Wilde, the clerk was instructed to write County Engineer Chalmers requesting that something be done at once to relieve the dust situation on George and Quebec street, while they are being prepared for paving.

The clerk was also instructed, on motion of Councillors Squire and McBurney ,to advertise the hotel for sale with some real estate firm immediately after September 14.

On motion of Councillors Squire and McBurney, the clerk was instructed to try and locate the holders of some of the Hydro debentures and ascertain the amount wanted ,if willing to sell.

By-law No. 443 was passed adopting the 1937 assessment roll with necessary changes and to be used for the 1938 taxes. The tax bills will be ready early in 1938, and the taxes may be paid in three installments.

The following accounts were passed and ordered paid on motion of Councillors Squire and Wilde:

W. J. Aikens, salary, phone and postage, $55.20; Thos. Forsythe, renoving brush, $2.50; Hubbel Hardware Co., account to date, $173.79; Cecil Toms, trip to Whitby, indigent, $12; H. B. COE HILL

H. N. Gilroy returned home on Friday from Toronto.

Mrs. Jim Peters returned home on Saturday after spending a few weeks with her daughter in Hamilton.

Mrs. Archie Whitmore spent Friday in Peterborough.

Mr. Horton and two other friends from Hamilton spent the Labor Day week-end on a fishing trip here.

Miss Maude Adams of Trenton, who is camping here, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Johnson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Drumm of King's Crossing, two miles southeast of here, spent Friday and Saturday with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Reid.

Murray Belton and George Urbach spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Hoarde and family of Gilroy's School House district.

Mrs. Tommy Jackson, Sr., who took a turn for the worst the other day, is reported better again.

Jack Anderson spent Sunday with his son Earnest, who lives in Faraday.

Mrs. Herbert LeHigh and sister-in-law Fern, also Miss Elda Giles of Coe Hill, had a narrow escape on Thursday night when their car right back wheel ran over the edge of a culvert between J. C. Jones' home and the C.N.R. Station.

Albert Young is again able to be up and around after suffering a sunstroke over a week ago.

The heat wave has been broken throughout this district as a severe thunderstorm chilled the air on Friday night and it has turned bitter cold.

Rev. and Mrs. David Gault held their regular meeting in Glen Alda United Church, which they hold every two weeks.

Rev. Reeding of Bannockburn, the Anglican minister, spent part of Sunday here.

There will be a special service this coming Sunday at Turriff, held by the Gospel Tabernacle, with three services for the day. There will be no Sunday School in the Gospel Tabernacle on Sunday, September 12.

William Greenwell, Roy Egmundsen, Tom Heddley, and George Prince, all of Hamilton, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Urbach and family, and the fish are biting good.

OTONABEE NAMES TAX COLLECTOR

KEENE, Sept. 8.—The Otonabee Council met on Monday, with all the members present. A bylaw to levy and collect rates in the Township of Otonabee and in the school sections received its several readings and was passed. Reeve Anderson was appointed to attend the adjourned tax sale, with authority to buy in any property.

Samuel Comrie was again appointed tax collector for 1937 at a salary of $250.

Members of the council were to meet on Wednesday at the hill just north of No. 7 highway on the 10th Line to see about cutting it down as the highway wants part for fill.

FREER EXCHANGE OF CLERGY URGED

HALIFAX, Sept. 8 — (CP). — A resolution advocating increased exchanging of ministers between dioceses, "and especially between East and West," was passed Wednesday in Lower House of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada.

Lower House sessions, officially concluded yesterday, were re-opened to consider the motion sponsored by H. C. Farthing of Calgary and seconded by Rev. R. K. Naylor of Montreal.

"In order that the power of our clergy may be fully available for the church, and as a measure of justice to them, this Lower House is of the opinion that there should be a much freer interchange of clergy among the various dioceses and provinces and especially between East and West, and most respectfully requests the House of Bishops, with, if their Lordships desire, the assistance of the Executive Council, to consider methods by which this desirable object may be attained," said the resolution.

"The sectionalism and provincialism that is prevalent will smash confederation within 5 years unless decisive steps are taken," said Mr. Farthing as he introduced the motion.

Referring to the emigration of clergy from missionary dioceses to England, he said it was logical a man in failing health or declining years in a missionary diocese should look for less strenuous work, and failure to find it in the more heavily populated areas of Canada led inevitably to the desire to go to England where there was always a welcome.

"These men are not worn out by any means, and would still be able to render great service in smaller parishes," Mr. Farthing said.

Mrs. James Turnbull, of Monaghan road.

Mr. Preston Bailey, of Toronto, spent the week-end holiday the guest of his aunts, Miss E. Preston and Mrs. Carscadden.

Mr. Dick Wilson, of Sarnia, is the guest of his cousin, Mr. Jack Clark, Front street.

Mrs. Carscadden, Miss E. Preston and Mr. P. Bailey spent Tuesday with friends at Peterborough.

Duke Hunting Geese In Hungary

CASTLE BORSODIVANKA, Hungary, Sept. 9 — (AP). — Cheering peasants in gay holiday attire and gala flags at whitewashed cottage doorways welcomed the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to-day to a 10-day hunting party at this mossy 17th century castle.

The Duke and Duchess are to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bedaux, who have leased ancient Borsodivanka from Hungarian Count Pronay.

The 18-room castle, off the beaten track 82 miles from Budapest, will be occupied only by the hosts and the Duke and Duchess. Some fifty other guests are staying at Count Graefl's castle near Ketutkoz three miles from Borsodivanka.

Hunting for wild geese and pheasants will start tomorrow.

FLEETWOOD W. A. RE-OPENS MEETINGS

FLEETWOOD, Sept. 9. — (Examiner Correspondence).—On Wednesday afternoon the members and friends of the Fleetwood Women's Association met at the home of Mrs. T. E. Shea for their reopening meeting of the fall. The president, Mrs. Clare Staples, was in the chair and led in the conduction of opening exercises and later in business discussions.

The ladies have planned to make a travelling apron to be passed to members and friends of the society for the purpose of enclosing a donation in a completely sewed-on patch. The patches will be removed and contributions counted at the close of the year's work.

Birthday boxes are another proposed means of raising funds to be used by the W.A. Each lady is expected to place the number of years of her age in currency in her box on her birthday. All boxes will be presented for opening at the conclusion of the yearly concluding meeting. Mrs. Archie Staples invited the W.A. ladies t oneet at her home for the October gathering.

Following business and a brief devotional period the committee in charge of refreshments served luncheon and a jolly sociable time was spent over the teacups.

RUSSIA READY FOR ACTION AGAINST PIRATE SUBS

CHIEF ADMITS HE SHOT MAN BY ACCIDENT

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—Chief of Police Carson said today Kenneth Bethune, 26, of North Bay told him it was a bullet from his revolver that wounded Dalton Foster, found by police in serious condition near the railway station yesterday.

The chief said Bethune, held on a vagrancy charge, said his revolver went off accidentally as he and Foster were about to board a train. Police were searching for men who broke into a local warehouse when they came upon Foster. Bethune was picked up nearby.

Foster, shot through the stomach, was in serious condition and attending doctors said his chances for recovery were slim.

ARTILLERY DUEL RAGING SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Sept. 10 (AP)—Foreign troops, guarding the northern boundary of the international settlement, were endangered today as Japanese land and warship batteries began a bombardment of Chinese positions.

Shrapnel sprayed the international settlement, causing a considerable number of civilian casualties.

Shanghai's riverfront bund was quickly ordered cleared of all pedestrians and the crowded areas fringing on the famous thoroughfare were soon desolated as the artillery duel progressed.

The detonations from the Japanese warships and the Chinese land batteries in Pootung rocked Shanghai like an earthquake.

One Japanese hospital ship was struck by several Chinese shells. There was an undetermined number of casualties. An anti-aircraft shell of unknown origin fell midway between the American consulate and the American Club.

Saved By A Warehouse

The base of a Japanese nine-inch shell ploughed into the heart of the barricades. It had first crashed through a neighboring Chinese warehouse. Had this not broken its momentum many of the guards undoubtedly would have been killed or wounded.

Thirteen Chinese were wounded and a guard narrowly missed death when seven three-inch Japanese shells crashed into the sector.

Japanese army authorities expressed regret.

The Japanese destroyers stationed off the international settlement bombarded Chinese positions in Pootung, the ruined industrial area across the Whangpoo. Northeast of the settlement the heaviest Japanese artillery yet to go into action around Shanghai joined in the shelling.

The Chinese batteries, deep within Pootung, replied and shells churned the waters of the turgid Whangpoo and crashed into the Japanese-occupied Yangtzepoo section of the international settlement.

Chinese projectiles were striking increasingly nearer the Japanese consulate. Great geysers were thrown up in the river as the shells splashed around the cruiser Idzumo, the Japanese flagship, and Japanese hospital ships.

30 Transports Land Troops

The Japanese bombardment was believed to be covering action for the landing of reinforcements for Japan's army of 60,000.

Japanese troops were sent ashore from 30 Japanese transports in the Yangtze off Woosung, the beachhead established by the Japanese 12 miles north of Shanghai where the Whangpoo flows into the estuary.

Powerful tractors snaked 42 pieces of heavy field artillery into the Yangtzepoo sector—within the international settlement—today. Until now six-inch guns have been the heaviest land artillery used by the Japanese. The Chinese have had nothing larger than three-inch pieces.

Engagements were being fought on all sectors of the sway-backed front today from Lotient, to the northwest, along the shores of the Yangtze to Woosung south to Shanghai proper.

Liquor Board Head Says Place Named One Oldest Hotels

Licensed 40 Years — Owner Says He Spent $6,000 Remodelling Last Spring

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 10.—(CP)—Charges made by Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, in a speech at Cobourg where he said the Imperial cafe here was licensed for beer and wine unlawfully, were denied to-day by Simon Meretsky, owner of the building, and Edmund G. Odette, Ontario Liquor Control Board Commissioner.

Questioned by telephone in his Toronto office Mr. Odette said: "It is not a cafe. It is one of the oldest hotels in the city. It has been a licensed hotel for as long as I can remember—at least 40 years."

Meretsky said he had spent $6,000 last spring to remodel the building and though the license still stands in the name of Meretsky, application has been made for a transfer to King Lee, a Chinese, who has rented the property. Lee has managed the hotel for the last two years, said Meretsky.

FIGHTS RIVER, BUSH SAVE TWO GIRLS

TIMMINS, Ont., Sept. 10 (C.P.).—Story of a swim against the currents of Mattagami River and a trek through dense bush at night to get help for two girls lost for 12 hours was told to-day by Homer Goulet of Timmins.

Goulet and another man and Cecile and Grace Lang of Timmins went for a fishing trip yesterday to Wendigo Rapids, 10 miles up the river. As night approached Goulet and the girls separated from the other man, and became lost in the bush.

The trio wandered for three hours when, Goulet said, he decided to get to the other shore of the river where there was more chance of obtaining assistance from settlers. He made the shore after a struggle against currents, formed by the nearby rapids. He wandered for another hour before spying lights of a farm house. A call to police headquarters here sent Constable Strickland of the Provincial Police and Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman Bob Warner on the search for the girls.

The girls were found after a short search of the vicinity.

3 Sons Ordered To Support Father

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP).—The Ontario Legislature amended a passage in the Bible four years ago, remarked Magistrate H. A. Burbidge in family court here today during hearing of a charge against three sons of failing to support their 66-year-old father, as called for in a court order.

"In the year 33 A.D." said the magistrate, "St. Paul admonished the people 'cleave to thy wife,' and it went down through the ages until four years ago when the Ontario government changed it. In other words, the Legislature changed the Bible. But, however, even better than that law was Moses' 'nonor thy father and thy mother.' This law has not been changed."

The case against the three was adjourned two weeks. The magistrate said the men would have to support their father even if he were committed to a home.

The magistrate referred to the passage of divorce legislation in Ontario. Previously, Ontario divorce applicants had to go to the Senate in Ottawa.

Thieves Take Collar Off Watchdog

Joliet, Ill., Sept 10.

MRS. ROSE SMITH said to the desk sergeant at police headquarters yesterday: "Somebody stole my dog's leather collar. My dog is a watchdog and how can I keep him tied up without a collar?"

"Why wasn't your watch dog watching the collar so it wouldn't be stolen?" pressed the Sergeant.

"He was watching," Mrs. Smith replied. "Shep had the collar on and the burglars took it off. They also stole two valuable rings."

HALTED BY POLICE MONTREAL DRIVER SHOT DEAD IN CAR

MONTREAL, Sept. 10 (CP).—Released on bail when arraigned less than 12 hours previously on a theft charge, Charles Goudreau, 29, was killed today when he failed to heed a police warning to stop a car he was driving.

Goudreau was killed by a shot fired by Detective-Sergeant Mendoza Beland, one of a group of police waiting for the automobile to come along Notre Dame Street. The car was loaded with bags of coal.

Three warning shots fired by Beland had no effect. The car had not gone far, however, before it stopped and two unidentified occupants fled into a vacant lot.

The police car passed in front to cut off further flight of the automobile. It was then Beland fired a fourth shot that crashed through the windshield and struck Goudreau.

GREAT HOSPITAL EXPERT RALLY '39

OTTAWA, Sept. 10 (CP).—Its own convention over for two years, the Canadian Hospital Council today looked toward 1939 and the greatest meeting of hospital experts this country has ever known.

The council yesterday passed resolutions to welcome to Canada in 1939 the International Hospital Association and the American Hospital Association which will hold their conventions as guests of the Canadian body at Toronto.

Before adjourning, the Council passed resolutions urging close study of all forms of health insurance and pledging co-operation in efforts of the Canadian Medical Association and the trustees of the King George V. Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund in their effort to reduce the cancer scourge through a program of education, lay and medical, and through research.

It heard A. J. Swanson of Toronto Western Hospital ask for fair wages among lower-paid help at hospitals.

BASS GET TANGLED

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind., Sept. 10 (AP).—Sherman Stroble exhibited the fish to prove this one:

A large-mouth bass tried to swallow a small-mouth bass. The small-mouth stuck in the big mouth's throat. Their gills tangled. The small-mouth couldn't back out, and the big-mouth couldn't get the small-mouth down.

Then along came Stroble and flipped the helpless fish to the bank of Muskelon Lake.

ITALIANS BLAME REDS FOR PIRACY BY SUBMARINES

MILAN, Italy, Sept. 20 (AP).—Premier Mussolini's newspaper accused Russia today of putting piracy into the Mediterranean.

Il Popolo d'Italia, in an apparently inspired article, charged that a "Hispano-Russian" submarine fired a torpedo at the British destroyer, Havock September 1, off Eastern Spain.

That was the incident which brought the question of repeated pirate attacks on neutral Mediterranean shipping to a head. At the time there were broad hints in Great Britain that an Italian submarine was suspected as the Havock's attacker.

Il Popolo also blamed Russia for Spanish government aerial attacks on the Italian cruiser Barletta and the German pocket battleship Deutschland in May. These incidents led up to Germany's shelling of Spanish Almeria.

After those attacks, said the newspaper, Italy sought to obtain international solidarity to stop "these brigantine aggressions," but "no initiative was taken by the French or English."

Essex Approves Cat Birth Control

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—An elaborate program of birth control for cats in the Windsor areas has been approved by the Essex county Humane Society and is being put into effect at once, it was announced today. Stressing the need for some check on the growing population of alley felines, J. D. Elder, managing director of the society, said that although a total of 385 cats were destroyed last month there are still far too many homeless cats in the city.

The plan provides that in future, only neuter cats will be adopted out by the society, and a charge of $1 will be made for each neuter cat given out.

But to further the rescue work, the board will allow 75 cents, as a trade-in allowance, on any alley cat brought in to be exchanged for a neuter cat.

SCHOOLS STAY CLOSED

CHATHAM, Ont., Sept. 10 (C.P.).—A conference between the Chatham Board of Education and Board of Health to-day resulted in a decision to close schools of the city until September 20 as the second case of infantile paralysis was discovered. The new patient lives just outside the city limits and did not attend a local school.

The Health Board has decided that Sunday Schools shall be closed and that children under 16 will not be permitted to attend ball games or places of entertainment.

Poland is pushing its program for industrial self-sufficiency.

Unable To Run Car On $7 A Month

Goderich, Sept. 10.

LESLIE PETERSON, 20-year-old farm hand from the Manitoulin, is now convinced it is impossible to keep up payments on an auto, buy gasoline and oil, on $7 a month. Like numerous other youths, he tried it, and when he failed in the attempt, took to stealing.

Police have a truckload of gasoline drums, oil cans and all manner of accessories, which Peterson pleaded guilty to stealing in numerous places in Huron County.

Remanded to jail for one week for sentence, he is unable to tell police from whom he stole the radiator caps, reflectors, gasoline tank caps, mud flaps and what not. He just took them at random.

ASSESSMENT FIGHT LOOMS IN WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP).—Possibility of a court action between Windsor Board of Education and the city's Separate School Board was indicated yesterday.

Board of Education is ready to challenge the proposed assessment division of 19 corporations, it was announced after a trustees' meeting. It is hoped to settle the differences out of court.

Forty-six of 200 corporations in Windsor have filed notice asking for division of their taxes between public and separate schools. The 46 corporations have a large total assessment and if their request should be granted, the result will be a large shift in assessment from public to separate schools.

Officials of the Board of Education have examined the requests, and are satisfied a fair division has been made in all but 10 of them.

Repeal of the separate school amendment to the assessment act will mean a loss of millions of dollars in assessments to Windsor separate schools next year.

Swedish Respirator For Chicago Youth

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (AP). — A jacket type respirator, believed the only one of its kind in the United States, offered new hope today to Frederick B. Snite, Jr., 26-year-old infantile paralysis victim, in an "iron lung" for more than a year.

Snite was stricken in Peiping and came home last June after a 12,000-mile trip in the artificial lung. His wealthy father said the new respirator was imported from Sweden after negotiations with the Swedish Government which holds a monopoly on its manufacture.

As a result of the current outbreak of infantile paralysis in Chicago, Mayor Edward Kelly has ordered the health department to make a survey of available respirators.

A Japanese sword manufacturing plant will be built in Manchuria.

NOTED CANADIAN ACE MEETS DEATH ENGLISH AIR RACE

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, Sept. 10 (CP cable).—Wing-Commander Percy Sherren, M.C., a Canadian officer with a distinguished service record in the Royal Air Force, was killed today along with his pilot when the speed plane he had entered in the King's Cup race crashed over Scarborough Castle.

Caught in treacherous air currents 400 feet above the sea, the machine rolled badly, failed to level up, and dropped. It crashed into a hill.

Sherren, 44 years old, was thrown out of the cockpit and rolled over the edge of a cliff into the sea. His pilot, wing-commander E. G. Hilton, was pinned in the wreckage.

Sherren was educated at Charlottetown, P.E.I., and joined the 62nd Regiment of the Saint John Fusiliers in 1914. He served with the Second Division of the Canadian Expeditionary Force in France and was seconded to the Royal Flying Corps in 1916.

Bomb Raid Wins

For distinguished leadership in a bomb raid over the enemy lines in 1916 he was awarded the Military Cross with bar. He was granted a permanent commission in the Royal Air Force in 1919, when he resigned from the Canadian Expeditionary Force. At the same time he was gazetted as a major in the reserve of officers of the Canadian militia.

For flying services in the northwest frontier province of India between 1921 and 1924 he was warded the General Service Medal with clasp and prior to his retirement in June of last year was stationed at the R.A.F. depot at Uxbrige and the Home Aircraft depot at Henlow.

The Canadian's monoplane was among the last of 27 entrants to leave Hatfield in the 1,443-mile, two-day race around England and Ireland.

As the plane was rounding the registration point over Scarborough Castle, Royal Aero Club observers saw the plane roll wildly in air currents over the huge cliffs on the Yorkshire coast. The pilot was unable to straighten out the machine and it began to fall at a terrific speed and crashed into a grassy hill atop the cliffs.

Farmer Found Guilty Stealing Own Cattle

Goderich, Sept. 10.

IT IS possoible for a man to steal his own property, Magistrate Makins ruled yesterday, when he convicted Dan Pitblado, farmer, of taking twenty head of his own cattle from Walter Lumsden's barn, after Lumsden had found them in his pasture and impounded them.

"I find you guilty. Your action was high-handed and the law will not tolerate it," said the Bench, remanding Pitbaldo until Oct. 7, "to see how your cattle behave." Bail of $500 was arranged.

BRITISH UNIONS SUPPORT ARMING FEAR NAZIS, ITALY

NORWICH, Norfolk, Sept. 10.—(CP Cable.)— The Trades Union Congress, by an overwhelming majority, to-day voted support for re-armament after its general secretary, Sir Walter Citrine, had warned defence measures could not "await the advent of a Labor government."

"I cannot conceive of Germany and Italy arming as rapidly as they have done, without some definite purpose to threaten the world's peace," Sir Walter said.

"I want this country to be in a position to face this challenge in combination with other peace-loving States. As much as I distrust the British government, I distrust the intentions of Mussolini and Hitler a great deal more."

The Trade Unionists voted 3,544,000 to 224,000, by card poll, to endorse the report on defence and foreign policy of the National Council of Labor, which includes representatives of the Labor party as well as of unions. Cheers greeted announcement of the result.

The Opposition was led by Aneurin Bevan, Member of Parliament for a South Wales constituency. Speakers variously urged policies ranging from isolation to severe punishment of "Fascist invaders" by democratic countries.

The report adopted said the League of Nations was rendered ineffective for the time being as an instrument for preventing war or promoting peaceful International relations and commanded little confidence 'owing to lack of British leadership."

It went on to say that the United Kingdom should be alert against any new interpretation of its duties which would tend to give Germany a free hand to make war in Eastern of Central Europe.

War Can Be Averted.

The National Council of Labor was convinced the report said, that war could be averted, the rams race stopped, and the League of Nations strengthened provided a British government soon comes to power basing its policies on the declarations of the British labor movement, which would:

1. Make a powerful appeal to Fascist States to agree to abandonment of the arms race and acceptance of a disarmament treaty;

Union Congress to-day adopted the

2.—Pending agreement, be strongly equipped to defend the United Kingdom, play a full part in collective security, and resist intimidation by the Fascist power designed to frustrate fulfillment of Britain's obligations;

3.—Refuse to accept the doctrine of war as inevitable, continuing to exert the utmost effort to obtain respect for international law.

Sir Walter Cirtine, secretary-general of the Congress, moving adoption of the report declared, "A NYON, Switzerland, Sept. 10 (C. P.-Havas). — The nine-power "anti-piracy" conference, acting as a technical committee, to-night abandoned the project for giving merchant ships in the Mediterranean naval convoys, but retained in principle the British plan to divide the inland sea into two zones for surveillance.

The waters west of Malta would be guarded by the French and the British Fleets, while those east of Malta would be patrolled by the fleets of the other Powers represented at the conference.

RUSSIA TO ACT

GENEVA, Sept. 10 (AP)—Foreign Commissar Litvinoff warned the nine-nation Mediterranean conference to-day that Russia "must and will take its own measures" against submarine pirates.

This was interpreted as a threat of reprisals against Italy.

In an impassioned address not long after the nine powers met to adopt a collective means of stopping attacks on neutral vessels, Litvinoff said:

"The Soviet government cannot allow anyone to destroy its state property!"

He linked these words with a thinly-veiled accusation of Italy as a "pirate government."

Everyone, he said, knew the country he was referring to.

Then Litvinoff brought into the open his warning that Russia will act, alone if necessary, to stop the pirate submarines.

She has accused Italy directly of sinking two of her ships.

The Soviet foreign commissar did say Russia was ready to take part in collective measures against the pirates; that she was confident the measures would be "effective and immediate."

But he served notice: "The Soviet union cannot remain inactive in the hope that its legitimate rights may, perhaps, be defended by other states or by an international organization!"

Regret Absence

After he had spoken, British Foreign Secretary Eden rose to express regret that Italy and Germany were not represented at the conference.

But, he added, this should not stop the conference in its "duty."

Then the conference went into closed session.

Litvinoff started off this way:

"Such a disgraceful phenomenon as piracy on the high seas—organ-

Third Body Found After Plane Crash

POINT PELEE, Ont., Sept. 10—(CP)—Body of Jerry Tessens, 30, one of three Detroit fliers sought after a biplane crashed into Lake Erie off this Point Monday, was found to-day washed up on shore five miles east of here. Body of Harry Corley, 38, owner of the plane, and Pilot Munroe, 36, were discovered in 35 feet of water yesterday.

Body of Tessens was noticed lying on a beach by four Wheatley fishermen form their small boat.

Dragging for the plane and its occupants had continued since the machine suffered engine trouble on a flight from Detroit to Cleveland and pancaked on the lake one mile off this Point.

The plane was recovered Wednesday. Point Pelee is 40 miles south-east of Windsor.

RESIGNATIONS ASKED

QUEBEC, Sept. 10 (C.P.). — Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education and Deputy-Minister of Education for Quebec, said to-day he had asked seven members of the province's Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Education for their resignations.

Dr. Percival declined to give reasons for the government's move, saying: "All that I will say is that I sent the letters and that I was acting under authority."

HAVE MORE CHILDREN

NUREMBERG, Sept. 10 (A.P.) — Bachelor Adolf Hitler commanded a cheering throng of Nazi women to-day to "be yourselves and have more children."

The Chancellor said in his annual speech to the Nazi women's organization that "children are the highest ambition of man and wife." The object of the Nazi movement, he explained, is the future generation.

Bookkeepers Have Great Time Canoeing New York-Nome

Buffalo Hunts, White Whales And Other Adventures Sufficient To Fill Book

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(CP)—A pair of bronzed ex-bookkeepers were back in Manhattan to-day, 18 months after they forsook their ledgers to travel the waterways of Canada and the United States on the first recorded canoe trip from New York to Nome, Alaska.

The 25-year-old adventurers, Sheldon Taylor and Geoffrey Pope, said they had the time of their lives.

The two canoeists, who brought home a two-months-old malemute puppy named Simla, plan to write a book about their adventures on the 7,165-mile voyage.

They said they never would forget the time near Fort Smith, N. W.T., when, during a wild buffalo hunt, a wounded bull charged Taylor and was killed by the canoeist when he fired while lying almost under the animal's hooves.

Another time the boys' canoe got caught in a stampede of white whales in Bering sea. They said they suffered numerous duckings before the voyage was completed Aug. 11 at Nome.

Sheep of Australia yielded 3,146,000 bales of wool this year.

Astor Is Not Fussy On Size Of Game

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR III, 25-year-old multimillionaire of Newport, R.I., told reporters here today he was en route by rail to Prince Rupert, B.C., to do a bit of shooting. Informed he was unlikely to get big game hunting there, he said: "That's all right—anything will do, from squirrels up." He was accompanied by his wife and a party of friends.

ACCIDENT HOURS

FOUNTAIN INN, S.C., Sept. 10.—(AP).—In 48 accident-studded hours in the life of B. L. Holland, this happened:

His prize dog escaped from his yard, attacking a neighbor's chickens and was shot. A wagon hauling sand to Holland's yard broke down. A substituted truck caught fire and new parts were installed. A driver backed the truck into a parked automobile. Someone tossed a stone through the windshield of Holland's automobile and one of his two pigs broke a leg.

Machinist's Tools Are Valuable But Of Little Use On A Fishing Trip

Two hundred dollars' worth of machinists' tools are of little value on a fishing trip, particularly if they happen to be sitting in a steel box that is supposed to contain a full set of tackle.

Reg. Perks, Canadian General Electric employee, and keen angler, took his tackle box, fishing pole and hopeful visions of at least two muskies with him and drove forty miles north to his favorite lake. Then he rented a canoe, safely deposited the luggage in the bottom and paddled two miles to the spot where the big ones lurk.

He put his steel pole together, then opened the tackle box, only to find that in mistake he had picked up his brother's tool box containing a complete set of machinist's tools and was without fishing bait of any kind.

His girl friend suggested it would be nicer to pick water lilies and the pair returned home late in the day with plenty of lovely lilies but no fish.

Drug To Make Armies Faint Developed By Chemists

Idea Is To Make War Less Barbarous—1 Grain Enough For Million Men

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 10 (AP). — Making warfare less barbarous with acetyl choline, a drug capable of causing instant fainting of enemy soldiers, was suggested as a possibility at the American Chemical Society here today.

Acetyl choline is one of the most active chemicals known. The most minute quantity, when injected into the blood stream, causes a remarkable lowering of blood pressure. Fainting is the result. Recovery is rapid. Where used in combat acetyl choline would stop virtually all deaths, serious wounds and most of the pain.

Yet it would be an effective weapon, for it appears possible to use it so that enemies would drop inert, unconscious and open to capture in large number.

The circumstances under which it might be used for a more humane type of war were explained in an interview today by Dr. R. R. Renshaw, of New York University, who with D. Green and M. Ziff, reported to the medical section of new findings on its action in the muscles.

One grain of this chemical is enough to definitely drop the blood

Tricks Get Horse Original Owner

Yorkton, Sask., Sept. 10.

CHARLIE McDOUGALL'S horse was back home today after an absence of seven years. When William Bodraynk claimed he bought it from a Doukhobor near here, McDougall satisfied Royal Canadian Mounted Police it was the animal stolen from his farm by having the horse do tricks for him.

Last Minute News Flashes

ROME.—A Fascist official, advised to-night of Soviet Commissar Litvinoff's veiled threat of Russian Sea reprisals against further "Italian" submarines attacks, said:

"That would be an agression with which we would know how to deal."

MONTREAL. — Shooting of Charles Goudreau, 25-year-old former prisoner out on bail, was "justifiable homicide," a coroner's jury decided to-day in exonerating Sergeant Detective Mendoza Beland. Beland shot and killed Goureau when he refused to stop an automobile he was driving filled with stolen coal.

CARTAGENA, Spain. — Spanish government gunners to-day believed they had sunk an unidentified submarine off the coast near this government-held Mediterranean port.

Shore batteries opened fire when the submarine appeared. Later a large amount of oil was seen floating on the surface.

GIBRALTAR—H.M.S. Havock was reported to-night to be escorting the 1,435-ton British steamship Gibel Zerjon from Gibraltar to Valencia to guard her from Mediterranean pirate submarines. The destroyer Havock herself was the target of a pirate torpedo September 1.

London And Paris Agree Upon Plan To Ease Situation

Russia Prepares To Attack Italy Both At Nyon And Geneva

GENEVA, Sept. 10 (AP).—Great Britain and France were reported today to have reached agreement on a new formula to end the situation growing out of piratical attacks on Mediterranean shipping.

Foreign secretary Eden and French foreign minister Yvon Delbos were said to have agreed on a plan to woo the stay-at-home Italians and Germans to eventual co-operation with the nine powers meeting today in a little Swiss village near Geneva.

A little hall normally used for theatrical presentations in Nyon, 16 miles from Geneva, was the setting for the gathering.

While the representatives of Great Britain, France, Russia, Greece, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Egypt, Rumania and Bulgaria trooped to Nyon, two important League of Nations meetings were called here.

These gatherings were clouded by warfare on two sides of the earth—in Spain and China.

Protests Before League

Besides the 98th session of the league council, the committee on the reform of the league gathered to consider steps to strengthen the league covenant, weakened with the collapse of international sanctions against Italy's Ethiopian conquest.

The council, with Italian, German and Japanese representatives absent, already had before it the Spanish Republican government's charge of Italian intervention and China prepared to ask league action against Japan.

Russian sources said Maxim Litvinoff Soviet foreign commissar, would attack Italy both at the Nyon gathering and at the league sessions.

The delegates to the "anti-piracy" conference at Nyon, promoted by Great Britain and France, expressed hope Italian and German adherence to any pact they should reach might be obtained later in the 27-nation Spanish non-intervention committee at London.

Italy and Germany, yesterday, in rejecting the Anglo-French invitation to Nyon, held out the possibility of continued collaboration with other powers in Spanish matters through the London group. In fact, Berlin and Rome suggested that was the proper place for "anti-piracy" negotiations—not Nyon.

Anglo-French co-operation was strengthened by the choice of Italy and Germany to stay at home. Paris and London were said to have agreed upon a plan to use a nine-power international fleet to police the Mediterranean and sink any submarine marauders.

THREE CARS CRASH TWEED DISTRICT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Sept. 10.—A car driven by Mrs. Emile Grant of Flinton was badly damaged on the highway one mile north of Kaladar when she was forced into the ditch by a truck. The car struck a pile of rocks and the fenders and running board were badly crumpled. It appears that Mrs. Grant was proceeding over a hill when a truck, driven by Joseph Parks of Eldorado allegedly crowded her over to the guard rail. The posts were broken and the car ended in the rocks. Parks was charged by Constable Clair Hayes, who investigated the accident, with reckless driving and he will appear at Flinton on October 1st. Mrs. Grant sustained a fractured ankle, three broken ribs and lacerations of the face. Dr. M. B. George attended her.

A car driven by Roy Segal, Brunswick Avenue, Toronto, was forced into the ditch at Thomasburg, by a car driven by D. H. Blatchford of Toronto. Segal's car was damaged to the extent of $150, and he suffered cuts and lacerations about the face, arms and legs. Charges will be preferred against Blatchford by Constable Clair Hayes.

Glen Moir, traveller for Brown Bros. Paper Company, narrowly escaped serious injury and possible death when the car which he was driving was badly wrecked near Kaladar on Tuesday afternoon. Moir escaped with a few scratches, although the car was wrecked beyond repair. The driver was alone at the time.

FLOOD CONTROL COST $130,000

PORT HOPE, Sept. 10. — Engaged to make a report on flood conditions in Port Hope, E. M. Proctor of the firm James, Proctor & Redfern, Limited, of Toronto, filed all data and plans at a special meeting of Council. An interview will be arranged with the Provincial Government with a view of obtaining financial assistance.

The report revealed that there are many contributory factors to the heavy floods which annually hit the town, such as obstructions in the stream bed, bridges on highways, dams, buildings encroaching on the natural stream bed and insufficient outlet into the lake.

The total cost of remedial measures would be $130,000 and the report estimated the net cost to the town would be $50,000.

THREE-MAN BOARD TO HANDLE LIQUOR IS ROWE PROPOSAL

PORT HOPE, Ont., Sept. 10. — (CP).—New liquor legislation is promised Ontario if the Conservative party attains power at the Oct. 6 elections. Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader, said in an address yesterday he would form a three-man liquor board which would be independent and as free as possible from politics.

Mr. Rowe who said his party's aim was temperance and sobriety spoke at Cobourg and Port Hope and today he addresses an Alliston meeting. Premier Hepburn's liquor and labor policies were chief targets in his speeches yesterday.

He criticized what he described as the government's "liquor out of control policy' 'and told a Cobourg audience this resulted in "a rampant bootlegging industry" in Ontario. The government supplanted a three-man liquor commission by one man "more or less tied up with the liquor interests."

"In fact he was more or less a sales agent for the beer and wine interests of the province," he added. E. C. Odette, liquor commissioner, had said he would make money for the province and now the desire for revenue was paramount.

"Bootlegging Rampant"

"We have seen the most rampant bootlegging industry this province has ever known. There are those who will say it is even worse than in O.T.A. days and I am not so sure but what it is."

Beer licenses were indiscriminately distributed and he recalled the premier's challenge to name cafe's receiving authority to sell beer.

"All right, I name two. One is Taylor's Cafe and it is still called Taylor's Cafe on Talbot street in St. Thomas. I'll name another—a license given to a Chinese cafe, still called Imperial Cafe on Sandwich street in Windsor. The license was given in the name of Mr. Meritsky."

W. H. Ireland, president of the Ontario Conservative Association, told the Cobourg listeners that after Mr. Rowe's selection as Conservative leader the premier "called him in to form a coalition."

"Not a coalition to save Ontario but a coalition to save Mitch from defeat which he will get October 6," said Mr. Ireland. The Conservative leader did not "sell Ontario out."

HOGS AND CALVES GAIN DURING WEEK CATTLE EASE OFF

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (CP). — A heavy run of cattle slowed up trading and sent prices down 25 to 50 cents on some grades of killers and about 25 cents on stores on the Toronto livestock market this week, the Dominion Livestock Bureau reports. A record holdover of 6,200 head on Tuesday was reduced to about 2,500 by Thursday's close. Calves gained 50 cents to $10 at the opening but closed a little lower. Hogs held a gain of 25 to 50 cents, while lambs were off 25 to 50 cents.

The cattle supply of about 10,000 head for sale included 6,800 from the West, mostly stores, with some common to medium butcher cattle included. Carryover from the preceding week was 1,100 cattle.

Trading on killers was very dull from the opening with no great inquiry for any grade. Closing prices on common to medium steers and heifers were down 25 to 50 cents for the week. Cows, bulls and fed calves were also 25 to 50 cents lower.

The top for weighty steers was $9.50 with most sales from $8.50 to $9.25. Good butcher steers and heifers closed at $7 to $7.25, with the bulk of sales between $4.50 and $6.50. Western heifers sold up to $6.50 for tops. Some common Western cattle sold as boners for as low as $2.75.

Fed Calves $8-$11.

Butcher cows ranged from $3 to $4.25 with a few going at $4.50. Canners and cutters were sold from $2 to $2.75. Bologna bulls brought $3 to $3.50, with good butchers going at $4 to $4.25 and a few tops reaching $4.50. Fed calves sold from $11 downwards to $8.

Stocker trade was fairly active but the supply was too heavy and prices slipped about 25 cents in the effort to effect a clearance by Thursday. Common to medium stockers brought $3 to $4.50 with picked lots ranging up to $5.50. A few loads of good 800 to 950 pound feeders sold from $5.75 to $6.50. Milkers and springers were generally steady at $65 to $70 for tops.

Calf receipts of about 3,600 head included 1,500 from the west. Veal calf prices opened 50 cents to $1 higher at $9.50 to $10 for choice, but closed weaker with none over $9.50. Common lights brought $5.50 to $7. Good western calves were sold at $6 to $7 for heavies with

ALDERVILLE YOUTH IS GIVEN LECTURE

COBOURG, Sept. 10.—(CP). — Charged with occasioning bodily injury to 4-year-old Arnold Hager, Alderville Indian boy, John Gordon, Toronto, pleaded not guilty and was given suspended sentence on Thursday upon payment of costs.

According to Crown evidence, which corroborated Gordon's story, the defendant pointed a gun at the boy Aug. 15 not knowing it was loaded. The gun went off and the bullet tore through the boy's back, puncturing his bladder, emerged from his abdomen, passed through the boy's hand and into the knee of 75-year-old George Beaver, who was standing nearby. The boy has now recovered.

Defense counsel said Gordon had paid all expenses. After lecturing Gordon on the folly of pointing a gun at anyone, Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell placed him on suspended sentence.

'OLD RING' BE BACK IF TORIES WIN OUT HEPBURN WARNS

NEW LISKEARD, Ont., Sept. 10.—(CP).—Return of the "old ring" was threatened if Conservatives were returned to power in the Oct. 6 elections and again took charge of the liquor laws, Premier Hepburn declared in a political address last night. He spoke at Kirkland Lake and New Liskeard and to-day journeys to Sudbury.

In his Kirkland Lake address he said he was sincere in proposing re-organization of the Liquor Control Board. He criticized Conservative Leader Earl Rowe for refusing to accept his suggestion for a Board headed by a Supreme Court Judge with the assistance of a Liberal member, selected by the Premier, and a Conservative member named by the Opposition leader.

"Mr. Rowe wasn't big enough to accept a proposition of that kind and it indicates to me that the old ring which made millions out of liquor are making their demands on Mr. Rowe and are ready to step into the picture again if Rowe is returned to power."

The Premier also told the northerners of his stand against John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Oragnization. Lewis has indicated he would run for the United States' Presidency, the Premier said. Canada as a British Dominion would be in "a fine position" with a President across the border a labor dictator controlling Canadian mines and industries.

"I can't stop a man from joining any union, but if Lewis and his henchmen come in here I can make them obey our laws. I am going to make Ontario a safe place for our children to live in, and we have no place here for Lewis and his lawlessness."

Besides his attack on Lewis, the Premier in his New Liskeard address declared political leaders should not have a blind adhesion to any economic theory. He declared Mr. Rowe was making the mistake of clinging blindly to an unsound economic theory.

Mr. Rowe opposed the Canada-United States trade treaty. He wished to open Ontario House in London, a needless duplication of Fed-

STAGEHANDS HALT MONTREAL PLAY

MONTREAL, Sept. 10 (CP) — Cancellation of a presentation of the play "Tovarich" left today the possibility at least five more legitimate play productions scheduled for a Montreal theatre might fare in like manner.

Booked for Sept. 20, the play "Tovarich" was cancelled last night because of the fight by the International Stagehands' Union to regain control of labor in four motion picture houses here.

Washington headquarters of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, advised the play's producer his supervisory road crew of three stagehands would not work the play here because the company operating the theatre where it was to be shown was "unfair to the international union."

P. J. Ryan, business agent of the Montreal local of the I.A.T.S.E., said last night international stagehands here also had refused to give assurance they would handle the Tovarich production until 16 operators, in the four theatres in question, were taken back. The operators were replaced Sept. 1 by members of the all-Canadian Congress of Labor on a contract expiration.

NORWOOD LADIES RESUME SESSIONS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Sept. 10. — The members of the Evening Auxiliary resumed their meetings following the holiday season, at the home of Mrs. Renaud, Queen Street, on Wednesday evening with a good attendance. Music and a reading by Mrs. Renaud opened the meeting. A plan which was adopted for the raising of moneys is to be conducted by Miss Lila Kirk, Mrs. J. McConnell, Miss B. Borland, Miss Maise Buck, and Miss P. Weir.

Following the business part of the meeting Mrs. Weir was in charge. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Reta Pakenham, followed by the topic given by Miss P. Weir, Mrs. J. McConnell and Miss Borland also read chapters from the study book. The meeting was closed by singing of a hymn and repeating the Mizpah benediction.

THIRD SUSPECT HELD

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP).—John Todd, 42, Windsor, third suspect in a robbery here August 28, was arrested by Provincial Police last night. Todd was charged with the robbery of Leonard Roach, Windsor.

Two other men, Robert Switzer, 46, and Lawrence McCarthy, 55, of Windsor, previously arrested, were remanded a week yesterday on charges of robbing Roach and Adolph St. Amour, 1, Windsor. They pleaded not guilty.

St. Amour said he was robbed of $62 and a gold watch, while Roach charged he was robbed of $10.

SCHOOL OPENINGS BEING POSTPONED IN MANY SECTIONS

TORONTO, Sept. 10 — (C.P.). — Schools in New Brunswick remained closed to-day as the Maritime Province joined other parts of the Dominion in combatting the spread of infantile paralysis. Opening of the schools was postponed a week yesterday on the recommendation of health authorities.

New Brunswick's case list has reached 32 with most patients suffering only a mild type of the disease. No alarm was felt but closing of the schools decided on as a precautionary measure.

Third victim of the disease in Nova Scotia was a 38-year-old man who died Wednesday at Halifax. In Montreal 42 persons were under treatment, 16 of them from outside the city.

One death occurred to bring the toll in the Toronto district to 24. In the entire province more than 1,200 were stricken since the disease first struck in June, with the death toll at 44.

Other centres extending the school holiday because of the disease include Edmonton in the west and London, most seriously affected in Western Ontario. Both cities yesterday decided on September 20 as the day for school classes to resume.

With more than 90 cases in the West, where eight have died and 75 in Quebec and the Maritimes with four deaths, it is estimated some 1,400 persons suffered throughout Canada. A 17-year-old Barrie youth and a five-year-old Toronto girl died yesterday, to raise the Dominion's death list to 58.

DID YOU CAUSE THIS?

As a motorist and a citizen of Ontario, answer this question: How would you like to face the rest of your life knowing that you were responsible—through carelessness—for an accident like this? Would you ever want to drive a car again?

If you do drive, get this clearly in your mind! Should you break an Ontario traffic law and cause death or injury, you may not be allowed to drive a car again! We are determined to end the needless slaughter of our people. Cutting in, passing on hills and curves, crowding, racing and other breaches of the traffic laws, will get you into trouble—make no mistake about that!

Reckless driving must stop—now!

WE WANT YOUR HELP!

When you see a motorist driving in a manner dangerous to the public, take his number, make a careful note of the actual time and place, and when you reach your destination write to the Motor Vehicles Branch, Department of Highways, Toronto, giving full details. We do not invite reports of minor infringements of the traffic laws; you are requested to use sound judgment. We will deal adequately with offenders!

Calgary Rally Demands Aberhart Resign.

Resolution Charges Premier "Handed Over Control To Maj. Douglas In England"

CALGARY, Sept. 10. — (CP). —A resolution demanding immediate resignation of Premier William Aberhart and his Social Credit Government was adopted by voice vote last night at a meeting of citizens sponsored by the People's League of Alberta, a non-partisan association.

Mayor Andrew Davison, chairman of the meeting, announced from the platform that the gate count showed 8,311 persons present from Calgary and nearby points.

The gathering adopted a second resolution that urged the Federal authorities, including Gladstone Murray, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, to stop the Sunday political addresses of Premier Aberhart.

In demanding the resignation of Mr. Aberhart, the resolution declared:

"He has now in effect abdicated his office of Premier and has handed over the control of the affairs of the province to one Major C. H. Douglas, founder of Social Credit, residing in Fig Tree Court in London, England."

The resolution charged the Premier had "failed to fulfill promises made to the electorate, defied the constitution of Canada, restricted the power of the courts and capitalized distress in Alberta.

Boy Cyclist 16 Killed, Collision

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 10—(CP)—His skull fractured and injuries to his jaw and arm, 16-year-old William Bruce died in hospital to-day. Last night he was thrown from his bicycle when it collided with a car.

Shortly after the youth died, George E. Dowell, named as driver of the car, appeared in court and was released on $1,000 bail to appear again September 24 charged with reckless driving.

Dowell was not asked to plead to the charge. When it was read to him, Chief Down told Magistrate Menzies that the Bruce boy had died.

During a recent storm South Africa had the greatest congestion of railway traffic in 30 years.

Mrs. A. J. Campbell, World Peace secretary, presented a fine paper on this subject.

Mrs. K. Harvie, Temperance secretary, read an enlightening article presenting to-day's news on the temperance question.

Mrs. R. Crego read an article entitled The Golden Age, and Mrs. S. Turner, in a short reading, brought out many ideas on how the young people may oppose the drink traffic.

Miss Lois Tallling, who attended the School for Leaders, brought to the gathering may impressions received at the school as the Young People's Group studied and discussed the problems peculiar to their age.

Miss Marie Mouncey played a piano solo and Mrs. Delbert Brisbin sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

During the devotional period, Mrs. A. Halstead read the devotional letter, "Jesus and Our Ideals," and Mrs. Andrew Brown and Mrs. A. Nill read Scripture lessons. Short gleanings from the School for Leaders were interwoven into the Devotional period by the president.

During a short business session, Mrs. R. Crego, treasurer, reported $81 forwarded to Presbyterial treasurer, and $14 on hand, plus approximately $5 in the expense fund.

It was decided to hold a co-operative bazaar with the W.A. on December 4.

Mrs. K. Harvie will be the hostess for the October meeting and Mrs. L. W. Scott will introduce the new study book.

St. James W.A.

Miss Jessie Johnson was hostess on Wednesday afternoon when the regular meeting of St. James' Church Woman's Auxiliary was held in her home. Mrs. Ernest Timlin, president, presided.

Much routine business was transacted, the quilt blocks were distributed among the members for embroidering; and on motion, it was decided to pay the affiliation fees before the annual deanery meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. R. B. Nichol, reported receipts of $15 from the autograph quilt blocks, Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite reported $3.45 from travelling suitcase sales, and Mrs. Earl Braithwaite handed in $1.60 from the Little Helpers' Fund.

The annual egg donations was received, each member donating two dozen eggs or equivalent.

Mrs. C. Braithwaite will assume charge of the suitcase until the October meeting.

Mrs. James Webb presented the 4th chapter of the Study Book, dealing with methods of working and the machinery in use on farms and in the mines in Africa. Reference was made also to the dangers to which the foreign missionary is exposed.

Miss Luella Timlin sang songs, playing her own guitar accompaniment; Mrs. Earl Braithwaite read, "Mother's Work; Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite read, "The Road to Success; Mrs. James L. Timlin read, "What the W.A. Means to Its Members"; and Mrs. Frank Brown read a letter from Fort McPherson in the Arctic. There was also the usual contest, won by Mrs. R. McCracken and Mrs. J. T. Drope.

Mrs. J. H. Hallett will be hostess for the October meeting. Mrs. Frank Brown will have charge of the Study Book, and Mrs. James S. Brown and Mrs. Earl Braithwaite are a program committee.

After the closing exercises the hostess served refreshments.

Personals

Mrs. James McGuire and small daughter Barbara, and Mrs. H. Foley have returned home to Liskeard following a visit here with Mrs. Foley's daughter and Mrs. McGuire's sister, Mrs. Earl Braithwaite.

Labor Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Radley were: Mr. and Mrs. John Wiley, sons Gordon and Harold Wiley of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Lyal Radley, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Milo Henry of Tonawanda, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lockhart, children Ronald and Delores, and Mrs. Charles Lynch and Miss Mary Godfrey of Hastings, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pacey on Friday. Mrs. John Wiley of Peterborough was also a recent guest of her cousin, Mrs. Pacey.

H. H. Lapp of Toronto was a weekend and holiday visitor with his mother, Mrs. Annie Lapp, and brother, Clark Lapp.

FIRE BREAKS BOUNDS

GERALDTON, Ont., Sept. 10 (C.P.) — As damage from last night's fire was estimated nat $1,200, fire fighters played three lines of hose on the eastern section of Geraldton's fire guard, but asserted the smouldering waste held little danger.

Worst loss was suffered by Li Helper, whose home and practically all contents were destroyed. He said he was looking to the Forestry Branch of the Ontario Government to recompense him for his loss, claiming it was due to the carelessness of either its officials or the contractor who recently cut the fire guard.

Cuban Dictator Celebrates Anniversary

BIG ATTENDANCE AT W.M.S. MEETING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Sept. 10.—The September meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's church was held on Wednesday at 3 p.m. at the home of Miss Pearl Burnham, Main street, with a large attendance and Mrs. Weston Faills in the chair, as convenor of Group E, in charge of the program.

The call to worship, "The Unchanging Christ", was given by the leader, Mrs. J. McKnight reading the lesson, and Mrs. Sisco offering prayer. Mrs. Hilliard Lang read the devotional leaflet, and the president took charge for the business period.

Announcement was made that the October meeting, with Miss Mary Widdis' group in charge, will be at the home of Mrs. J. L. Byam, Bank street, and after discussion it was decided to have an outside speaker for this gathering, Mrs. Sisco to arrange for same. The envelopes for the fall thankoffering were given out, and donations for the sale of clothing, etc., to be sent to the West in October were asked to be left at the parsonage as soon as possible.

The new study book, "A New Church faces a New World," by Rev. Dr. J. H. Arnup, was taken up by the hostess, and the first chapter, which covers the beginnings of settlement, and Presbyterianism and Methodism, in the Maritime Provinces, Upper Canada, Manitoba, and British Columbia, was given in synoptic form.

Following the benediction by the leader, a social hour was enjoyed, the group in charge serving homemade candy. The vote of thanks to the hostess and the groups responsible for the program was sponsored by Miss Estella Hetherington, and Mrs. (Rev.) A. L. Sisco, and endorsed with a hearty handclap.

MAY DEFER SYNOD UNTIL YEAR 1941

HALIFAX, Sept. 10 (CP).—Delegates to the 14th General Synod of the Church of England in Canada were on their way home yesterday after attending sessions during the last 10 days. A lengthy agenda of important church problems was finished yesterday.

Report of the Anglican representatives to the National Committee for Evangelization of Canadian Life, comprised of several denominations, was received by delegates and approval of the movement was reaffirmed.

The House of Bishops announced in a message the next General Synod would be deferred until 1941 if the Lambeth Conference was called for the preceding year. (The General Synod is triennial normally).

The Synod was invited to recommend to the Executive Council the next session be held in Vancouver and another invitation was received from Niagara Falls. Rt. Rev. D. T. Owen, Primate of all Canada, declared both suggestions and any others would be considered by the Executive Council before any decision was reached.

Main Features.

Outstanding actions taken by delegates to the 14th annual sessions were cited by Most Rev. J. A. Richardson, Archbishop of Fredericton, and included:

Adopted the report of the Committee on Revision of the Hymn book;

Adopted a resolution relating to the secularist philosophies and urging legislation permitting local authorities to give religious education in Public and High Schools,

Adopted a resolution dealing with effects of unemployment and other causes and called upon all Christian people to a deeper sense of stewardship;

Instructed the committee on the revision of the prayer book to inquire as to the mind of the church regarding revision and to report thereon;

And requested the Executive Council to consider the question of interchange of clergy between dioceses.

DRESSMAKERS STRIKE

MONTREAL, Sept. 10—(CP).—About 500 workers in pleating, stitching and embroidering sections of Montreal dressmaking plants today went out on strike from 24 shops. The walkout was called by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and affected member firms of the Pleating and Embroidery Manufacturers' Association.

SHORTAGE OF SERVANTS

Turks And Greeks Join Britain, France In Plan To War On Subs

Paris, Sept. 10.

FRENCH foreign officials said tonight they had received assurances Great Britain and two other powers are willing to co-operate with France in a Mediterranean naval patrol under orders to "sink submarine attackers."

The foreign office hastily drafted plans for the naval patrol which is expected tomorrow's Mediterranean "piracy conference" to adopt.

Refusal of Germany and Italy to take part in the conference to be held in Switzerland, prompted formulation of the plan.

Under the proposal an international fleet composed of British, French, Turkish and Greek vessels would sink any submarine or warship attacking neutral merchantmen.

British officials were known to be in agreement with the plan. Greek and Turkish assurance that their warships would cooperate was received today.

Chemical May End Mine Blasts Nips Explosion In Bud

Negative Calalysts Developed So Far However Poison Men As Well As Explosive

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Writer.)

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—A "negative catalyst," a chemical to end mine explosions by poisoning the explosion before it can start was seen as a future possibility today at the American Chemical Society.

Two of these explosion poisoners are known it was explained by Bernard Lewis, of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, at Pittsburgh, but they cannot be used because they would also poison men. The pair are a form of iodine known as an organic iodide, and a bromide, which is unlike the well known medicine.

"Whether mine and other explosions can be effectively inhibited by some such means as the addition of small amounts of substances acting as negative catalysts remains to be answered in the future," said Dr. Lewis.

Lead in Gas An Example

The most popular "negative catalyst" is the lead in gasoline, it slows down the explosion so that the engine will not knock.

The mechanism by which the air of an entire mine may be immunized to explosions was explained by Dr. Lewis. Mine explosions are not directly due to methane or fire-damp, but to chemical reactions that go on in these gases and the air.

An explosion comes when the methane forms formaldehydes and peroxides, which join with other particles to form highly explosive chains of particles.

Sometimes one of these particles may result in formation of 1,000,000 explosive chains during a fraction of a second. That is where the "poison" or negative catalyst, comes in. Experiments at Pittsburgh have shown that a small amount of an inhibiting chemical in the mine air will choke the first of these particles, so that it expires without giving off its million-legged spawn.

Martha Raye's Mate Fights Divorce Move

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10 (AP)—A man, whom Hamilton (Buddy) Westmore said his mother-in-law often called her "boy friend," was blamed today for the collapse of his brief marital adventure with Martha Raye, wide-mouted screen comedienne.

In an answer to Miss Raye's divorce suit, Westmore, a makeup artist, charged Pete Baumann "broke into the honeymoon apartment brandishing a revolver and threatening to kill Miss Raye and Westmore for getting married and interfering with his plans."

Westmore said in the complaint Baumann insisted upon being present at business and social conferences between Miss Raye, her mother and her husband.

Westmore denied all the acts of cruelty charged to him by Miss Raye and claimed he had endeavored to have his wife save her money rather than help her spend it. He asked that she be refused a divorce.

JEWELRY ROBBERY

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—Jewelry valued at $1,500 was stolen last night from the L. H. Cross Jewelry Store, a panel was ripped off a back door, two bolts drawn and the door unlocked as the thieves entered the place. The job apparently was done by experts, Mr. Cross said as they took practically everything of value.

Farmers Who Fail

Hon. Duncan Marshall discussed an interesting question at a luncheon at Toronto Exhibition. His belief is that most farmers who have failed did not belong in agriculture, and some of those who had failed in farming might have been successful in some other line of business. As a cure he suggested greater care in the selection of those who were going to stay on the land and be the farmers of the future. We take it that Mr. Marshall believes if a young man remains on the land although he does not like farming he will not be a successful farmer. And in that there is probably sufficient truth to be accepted as a fact.

But there have been good farmers who have failed. We can think of several who would rather farm than do anything else. They started to secure farms and implements and stock in the days when prices were good. They went in debt at good-sized interest charges believing they could work their way out and eventually have their premises free of encumberance. Then they found themselves facing into years when prices of farm produce were low; so low that the farm income was not sufficient to meet the fixed charges. And yet those people were good farmers; they were working harder than any man has a right to work, but they could not succeed. In some cases of which we have personal knowledge the holders of mortgages on these properties cut down the interest rate to four per cent. in order to encourage the man on the property to stay there. That helped a little but it was not sufficient. They were facing the almost impossible task of trying to carry a heavy financial load with too small an income. To use an old but expressive phrase, it was too much like trying to plow a furrow in sand. Those farmers did not want to fail; they did not want to quit; they desired nothing more than to be able to farm and work their way out of debt, but they could not do it. Mr. Marshall's contention is interesting but there are cases where it cannot be applied.

Mr. T. P. Lancaster

T. P. Lancaster, publisher of the Havelock Standard, and representative since 1929 of Peterborough riding and then of Peterborough county, had no trouble in securing the Conservative nomination for the 1937 contest. The nominating convention did not seriously consider any other name; Mr. Lancaster was wanted. There was also commendable frankness on the part of Mr. Lancaster. He wanted the nomination and made no effort to make it appear otherwise.

Mr. Lancaster in his speech of acceptance gave a reasonable and comprehensive review of the situation as he saw it. He dealt with such problems as roads and reforestration and gave to them a local rather than a general background, and that of course is the proper outlook for a member in his own riding.

Throughout his address there was nothing to which a listener with political belief of any kind could take exception or find cause for personal grievance on the ground of abuse. Mr. Lancaster has always conducted his campaigns that way and he could not if he wished depart from that method.

Taking Everything Out

F. C. Brown of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, made a suggestion of the worthwhile sort when he was extending the greetings of his association to members of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, now in session at the coast city. Just this—he believed the sale of the Dominion's raw materials for export should be stopped. He referred particularly to timber limits and ore deposits. One of Mr. Brown's statements was:

> "Today we have the unwholesome spectacle of foreign capital, using foreign labor, assembling Canadian raw materials for export in foreign ships."

The reference is to the habit of sending timber out as logs and ore as raw material to be treated elsewhere. Mr. Brown said he was thinking of the young people of today and those who will follow after the present generation. If we kept on dismantling our country we would indeed be leaving a poor heritage for them.

And that of course is something about which we think little and do less. We hesitate to plant a new tree apparently because in our time we fear we will not be able to make use of the young thing or sit beneath its shade. And yet the generation following will probably need that tree and will be better served for having come into possession of it.

We do not need to go as far as Vancouver to hear a gentleman speak on that subject. We can watch from our office window almost any day of the week and see great trucks of good wood coming from the northern part of the country. In years before they took away many of the trees for logs and this district was then noted for its timber wealth. We are following the same policy now although the wood is the greater output today. But we are not putting in more trees in place of those which we have been continually taking out. We want to get all we can, but we are not at all active in putting something back. The generations yet to come may have just cause to look at the situation in years hence and decide we had been extremely selfish.

Should Never Have Been Said

There has been trouble in the Galt City Council, and it started when a resolution was offered to Council expressing confidence in the citizen members of the welfare board and declaring a desire that they should continue in office. The resolution followed a meeting of the welfare board at which Mayor Serviss had referred to Ald. Lunenfeld as a "bloody Jew" in a debate over the discharge of the welfare officer.

In making reply Ald. Lunenfeld, who headed the poll at the civic election, said when he entered Council he did so expecting that he would be subjected to a certain amount of abuse, but he had never anticipated that the abuse would come by reason of his race. He declared he had appreciated the work of Council, and had felt he was making some progress at understanding the business of his city. Ald. Lunenfeld following the meeting at which the attack was delivered by the Mayor forwarded his resignation as a member of Council.

The remark of the chief magistrate of Galt falls readily into the class of things which had much better never been uttered. A great many Jewish folk have discovered early in life that there is much with which they have to contend, and they know they will have to face hardships and attack on account of their race. The existence of even a reasonable amount of toleration and charity should prevent outbreaks such as were made in Galt. It is evidence of the lack of coherent thought and also significant of the absence of sound argument when one is driven back to the point where he uses the words of "bloody jew." We can quite well understand why Ald Lunenfeld would wish to resign under such circumstances. It would be his one effective way of administering a just rebuke.

Securing Campaign Funds

Hon. Earl Rowe when speaking in Peterborough made the claim that he had every reason to believe tolls were being levied on hotel keepers in certain parts of the province on a gallonage basis. So Mr. Rowe is convinced money is being raised that way for political purposes, and he asks that there be a Royal Commission to investigate and report upon the whole situation.

The charge of course is as vehemently denied by the Liberals as it is stated by the Conservatives in the first place. There have not been many campaigns in Ontario where the question of receiving money from the liquor interests has not been raised. Whether money goes to Liberals or Conservatives for election purposes no person seems to know because the method of collecting campaign funds is very much a veiled thing in this country. Members of political parties do not relish the idea of financing their own party affairs. Most of them never put up a dollar of their own funds for the legitimate expenses of an election. The finance committee is appointed for that purpose, and what it does is not made public. That is why the field is always wide open for charges that this party or that party is securing money from the liquor interests or some other interests.

There are not many people who have the same amount of confidence in the efficacy of Royal Commissions that Mr. Rowe professes to entertain at the moment. The province and the Dominion have both had much experience with Royal Commissions named for the purpose of investigating many things, and the results have not been sufficient to justify the amount of money which has been spent in that way. At the moment we cannot readily recall the names of those who have been sent to prison for wrong-doing or made to disgorge by reason of the findings of commissions. In the present instance the election will be over in less than four weeks, and in that time a commission could not be set up and sift sufficient evidence to come to a definite or worthy conclusion. Mr. Rowe would be hitting harder at the seat of the trouble if he were to advocate a change in the present slip-shod methods of securing campaign funds.

Canada Badly Shaken

We wish the Chinese and Japanese would cease for the moment. We devoutly yearn for silence from Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini, and at the same time may the guns in Spain cease firing. We are disturbed here in Canada. Yes, much disturbed.

At the moment this young nation of ours is rocking to and fro. It is shaking as it has not been shaken before. The reason is that it has been officially stated there is no authentic copy of the British North America Act in existence in Canada.

Premier Aberhart of Alberta made that claim, and Dr. J. F. Kennedy, Acting Dominion Archivist, agrees. The original is not in this country; there is no authentic copy of it here! So where are we?

For a long time back we have been talking about the British North America Act. It seems that every person who has ever made a great speech has talked about the B. N. A. When a province threatened to grow too frisky it was greeted with the challenge from Ottawa that the B. N. A. would not allow any such thing to take place. We used to read about it in school and came to regard it as the marriage license of the provinces as they became joined together to form the Dominion of Canada. We had the belief and firm impression that there would be copies of the thing here and there and posted in many places so that he who runs may read.

And today we have found out the original is not in this country at all and worse luck—there is not even an authentic copy of the British North America Act in the Dominion of Canada! So the Dominion Archivist is going to send to London for a certified copy. Until it arrives we will not be satisfied. If a politician arises to say he views this, that or something else with alarm we will not be able to place our hand upon anything which will give to us the required degree of assurance. It will be worse than passing through the pickling season with all the recipes missing. Hence we ask the rest of the world to cease from turmoil until this humble nation gets its house in order and has within its boundaries a certified copy of its birthright. We have been at a bit of a loss for some time in trying to account for all the strange events and upheavals in our own land, but now the thing is becoming plain and simple so we can adequately comprehend it. We've lost our book of rules!

NOTE AND COMMENT

Between Lewis and Liquor this threatens to become an L of an election.

It is expected that at least 250 candidates will be in the field for the ninety seats in the Ontario Legislature. Some of the boys must be merely running for exercise.

While the provincial campaign has nearly a month to run one thing is already quite apparent. There will be no lack of candidates when the lists are finally filled.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is advocating uniform traffic regulations throughout Canada. The suggestion is so sensible that it should not have been necessary to make it.

Conservative candidate in Stormont wants government supervision of labor unions. That is a policy not likely to cause much cheering among labor leaders anywhere.

Rural mail-carriers have again taken an official stand against the contract system. Apparently everybody is always opposed to the plan, except the government that happens to be in power.

Listening to the rival leaders Ontario electors cannot make up their minds whether it is John L. Lewis or George McCullagh who is the main issue in the present campaign.

The C. N. E. safety clinic has decided that woman motorists are slower in emergency reaction. Just how that applies to back seat driving we have no means of knowing.

Lindsay is to have two big political meetings and a fall fair all in one week. That should produce the most excitment recorded there since the night all the Chinese establishments were raided by a mob.

The head of Canada's broadcasting corporation says that too much lazy music is broadcast. There must be a lot of folk who would rather listen to a good dance band than to the politicians swing it these September nights.

It is announced from Sudbury that the Government liquor vendor there has resigned to assume management of the Liberal election campaign. That must be what is meant by taking liquor control out of politics.

SPEED

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When Cousin Jake starts out to drive, he likes to roar at sixty-five, there's tension in his jaw; and if no traffic man is near, then Jake will have no cause to fear, because he broke the law.

¶ Five hundred miles was on one trip, he went it at an awful clip, just why I do not know; as I was riding as his guest, of course I thought perhaps 'twas best, that I should let him go.

¶ We whizzed on past some stately tree, that I would love to stop and see, but Jake trod on the gas; when he saw cars ahead of him, then Jake would double up his chin, till every one he'd pass.

¶ A peaceful hamlet looked just right, it was indeed a soothing sight, where life was quiet and sweet; but Jake just blew a warning sign, and hunched a section on his spine, and whizzed along the street.

¶ We passed a pleasant hot dog stand, the thing appealed to me as grand, that was at half-past three; I would have liked to pause and eat, and stand a while upon my feet, or sip a cup of tea.

¶ My pink sedan won't run that way, nor spoil for me a pleasant day, I know it's old and slow; it always seems quite glad to stop, when I come to some pleasant spot—that's how I like to go.

WHEN he was catching Canada geese to tag this year Jack Miner caught a pair of geese which had been tagged by him in the spring of 1924 when the birds were on their way north to their nesting quarters. Assuming this pair would raise five young ones through having his sanctuary to go to each year, it would mean that seven returned south and all would go north to nest in the spring of 1925. Can you figure out, remembering that the original mother and father goose have been going north since 1924, or for 13 years how many that one pair and their descendants are responsible for today?

At the age of 72 a walk across Canada does not seem an impossible hike to Col. F. Harris of Bidborough, Kent, who says he is planning to walk from Montreal to Vancouver—more than 2,500 miles—to meet his brother Edward whom he has not seen for 50 years. The Colonel's mind was made up after he read in a Canadian newspaper that Edward had marked his 70th birthday by walking 34 miles. The veteran soldier tramped 35 miles to London to mark his own 70th birthday.

The cry S-O-S-leave our shirts—may be heard in Germany ere long. The average German man's shirt is 37.4 inches long in front and 39.4 inches behind. Will it make much difference if a shirt is cut two inches shorter both ways? A small matter but since the fleich's shirt production is 80,000,000 a year, a saving of four inches of material on each shirt would mean 120,000,000 inches or 3,333,333 yards or 1,894 miles. So why not try it they say.

Finds It Does Not Pay.

IN HAMILTON James Oddie found it was expensive to tinker with the liquor laws of the province. Mr. Oddie owns a 1937 car, but it is more correct to say he used to own it, because it has been taken away from him. This way—seven bottles of liquor and four cases of beer were found in this new 1937 car, and the owner had been using a fictitious liquor permit. Purchases since April 22 had amounted to $550 and that was considered top heavy. In addition to the confiscation of the car court decided on a fine of $300, and if the cash is not forthcoming there will be six months to spend in jail.

✧ ✧ ✧

Here is another bit of something which might well start an argument in any circle where there is mixed company. There has been an automobile safe driving clinic at the Toronto Exhibition, and the results are said to prove that women are not as good drivers as men. For this reason: "Women drivers average about seven one-hundredths of a second slower than men in responding to an emergency brake signal." The point is not being argued here. Simply the presentation of the official verdict is given. And there were hundreds of people who tried the test.

Election Row Goes To Court.

HOLDING an election is simple enough when compared with the trouble in West and South Ottawa ridings. An injunction has been granted at Osgoode Hall restraining the executive of the Conservative Association there from holding a convention to nominate a candidate. The injunction also restrains any one from voting at a convention unless he has been a member of the Association for thirty days. It is explained that another group of persons can hold the convention. So there is some trouble in the camp with an election in the offing.

Julius Balmot, 16, of Cleviand, invented a new type of airplane wing which he wanted to show to the Secretary of War. He sneaked into an army plane to fly to Washington, but bumped into another machine, doing $15,000 in damage.

The Rev. William West, of Puerto Rico, was scheduled to give a lecture in Atlantic City entitled "Your Mind." Secret Service operative detained him in jail on suspicion of being the author of letters threatening the Democratic Party unless he was "taken care of." One of the letters claimed responsibility for the election of Roosevelt through mental concentration.

I Am a Free Man But He Is Dead

Motorist Who Killed a Pedestrian Cannot Forget Tragic Occurrence

(From Scribner's Magazine.)

IN THE Records of the courts and insurance companies, it was pretty much the same old story. While driving home early one evening, I rounded a familiar curve and faced a pair of glaring headlights. On the right of the road, a millworker was on his way to work on the night shift. He became confused and jumped the wrong way. The impact threw me a little forward in my seat. The millworker's body slid flat on the pavement for perhaps fifty feet, rolled over, jerked, and lay still. The dinner pail he carried under his arm rattled along the pavement for another twenty feet—then all was quiet. When we got to him, we saw there would be no hurry about taking him to the hospital. He was dead.

During the long court ordeal afterward, it was established beyond all doubt that the accident was unavoidable. I am a free man; free to lie in bed on Sunday mornings, stretching and yawning; free to eat when I am hungry and drink deep when I am thirsty; free to feel the wind and sun on my face, to know the four seasons, to love.

✧ ✧ ✧

But I cannot forget that because of me a man will never see the white sparks from molten steel again, or smell the hot metal in the molds, or feel the satisfying tug of his muscles against a heavy crane, or peer out of a factory window into a moonlit night, or open his dinner pail with the keen appetite of a laboring man. Because of me a mother will never again hear a familiar footfall when work is done, and she will have things to explain to her babies that will break her heart.

I know all this is not my fault—a court of law has told me so—but I cannot stop thinking how different things would have been if I had started just half a minute sooner or later, or if I had been going just a little slower or faster, or if, in that split second, my skill had been just a little greater or my brakes a little better, or if I had thought in advance of all the possible circumstances that might have been waiting for me around that curve.

It has been two years since it happened, yet these thoughts go round and round in my mind continually. Nothing can make me forget that I am still walking this earth, and that because of me another man is not. I cannot forget that a combination of factors—factors that could so easily have been just a little different—happened to work out with lethal precision, and I killed a man.

Forgotten Mines in Eastern Counties

Many Properties Were Once Busy Centres; They Are Now Idle and Quite Abandoned

(From the Brockville Recorder and Times.)

REMEMBERING the number of mining properties once in active operation in the northern sections of Leeds and Frontenac counties, furnishing employment for a considerable number of men and providing trade for the communities nearest to them, it cannot be regarded with other than regret that nearly all of them are today idle and abandoned with only holes in the ground, dumps alongside them, a few decrepit buildings and the memories of the surrounding inhabitants to mark their existence.

The history of the mineral properties in the area in question (and also that of the large establishment immediately in rear of Brockville depending upon deposits of iron pyrite) is not without interest.

Over 125 years ago some energetic pioneers found iron near Delta and conceived the idea, which they were able to carry into effect, of establishing a primitive smelter at Lyndhurst, then Furnace Falls, where the first ironware made in the province was manufactured. Deposits of lead, iron and mica were later found in the Newboro-Westport section and in course of time all of them were worked considerable quantities of ore being produced and shipped to market.

More recently, feldspar was found and worked near Thirty Island Lake, not far from Godfrey, and a large mine was in successful operation for a number of years, a spur line of the Kingston and Pembroke Railway being built for shipping purposes. Today, however, it is merely a great hole in the ground, half-filled with water, and the roadbed of the tramway running to the shore of the lake has been converted into a road serving an attractive summer area.

On the outskirts of Newboro there are two other pits, once scenes of busy activity, that are today two holes filled with water. From the so-called "Yankee" mine, on the mainland, and from another mine on a nearby island operated by that fine man, John Chaffey, bargeload after bargeload of iron ore was shipped via the Rideau canal to Kingston and thence to the United States market.

These mines bade fair to operate almost indefinitely, but when larger and better deposits of iron ore were discovered in Minnesota, their day came to an end. The iron ore from Newboro lake was difficult to smelt in comparison with the Minnesota product, the business languished and then closed, the miners dropping their tools at the bottom of the pit where they are said to remain to this day.

Hope sprang anew in Bedford township a few years ago when a company was formed to work deposits of lead ore which had been known to exist for over a century and which had attracted the interest of United States miners shortly after the completion of the Rideau canal. Machinery was installed, work resumed, but the property has now been closed once more.

Similarly sporadic work has been done on deposits of mica in the same neighborhood, with some tonnage also being produced. A year or two ago a few individuals gained profit from picking over the dumps at mica mines, but even this business seems to have ceased and over the mines where all was once activity and employment a great silence today lingers.

Will these mineral deposits ever come back? It is doubtful. Larger and more accessible deposits seem to have control of the existing market.
